NORTH SIDE STARTS FIRST SCHOOL YEAR

Thirty-seven Teachers From Central

FIVE TEACHERS NEW TO CITY

Splendid Array of Experience and Talent.

North Side High is opening its first school year with a staff of forty-two teachers, thirty-seven of whom were transferred from Central High. The other teachers are entirely new to Fort Wayne high schools.

Among these new teachers are: Mabel Greenwalt, English; Gertrude Zook, Art; E. L. Pennington, mathematics; Clifford B. Risk, Biology and Botany; and Myrie Ivy, History and Swimming.

Miss Greenwalt, formerly a teacher at Harrison Hill school, Fort Wayne, received her A. B. degree from Indiana State Normal school, Eastern division where she was an assistant teacher for three summers. She has also attended the University of Chicago.

Gertrude Zook, one of the new art teachers, was formerly an assistant to Miss Hall, who is the supervisor of the Fort Wayne public schools. She taught art in a number of Fort Wayne grade schools prior to accepting a position at North Side high. Miss Zook attended Columbia University from which she received her B. S. and M. A. degrees. She also attended Indiana University and a number of other schools, specializing in fine arts.

Mr. Pennington, a new mathematics teacher, is a graduate of Earlham College, from which he received an A. B. degree. He also attended Indiana University this summer, and taught at Spiceland, Indiana, before coming to North Side.

Mr. Risk is a 1923 graduate from Hanover College where he earned an A. B. degree. He is also doing graduate work at Indiana University from which he hopes to receive an A. M. degree. He specialized in biology. He taught two years in Versailles, Indiana, and three years at Forest Park school.

The person that some of the students are very much interested in is Mr. Ivy, the new swimming instructor. For four years he was a swimming instructor at Kansas Western University, and also did life guard work at a lake.

He received the degree of B. S. from the University of Kansas and specialized in history at the Kansas State Teachers' College. He is now helping out in the history department at North Side for this semester.

Subscription Goal Is Set At One Hundred Per Cent For Northerner

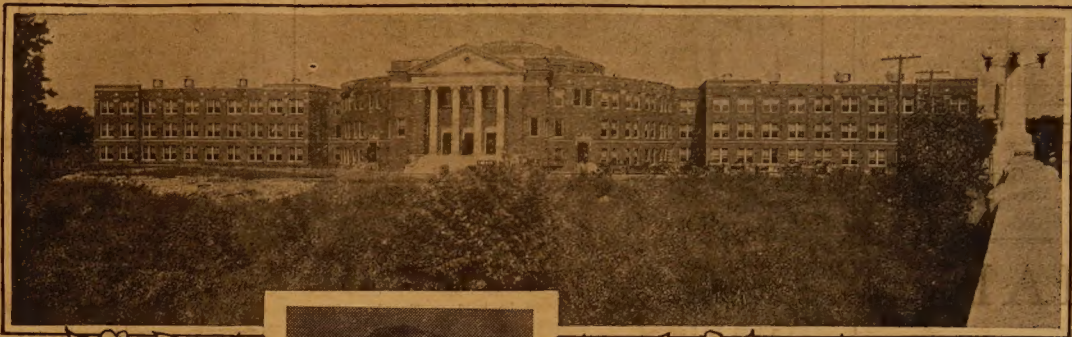

Donald Elder and George Coombs, North Side Students, Are First Subscription Managers.

One hundred per cent subscription list is the goal set for the Northerner, North Side's weekly publication, by Don Elder and George Coombs, subscription managers for the publication.

Plans have been made by the managers to give each student and faculty member a copy of the first edition during the Home Room periods this morning. At the same time subscriptions for seventy-five cents a semester will be taken for the publication, which will appear every Wednesday morning, Elder said.

In a meeting of the representatives for the Home Rooms, Elder stated that the publication was to be a real school publication for the benefit of everyone connected with the school, and urged that every student and Admit Students To All Colleges Accepting Certificates.

The course of studies offered in the three Fort Wayne High Schools, if properly chosen and carefully pursued will prepare students for nearly all colleges accepting certificates as entrance requirements. A half dozen or so eastern colleges make admission more uncertain by requiring entrance examinations. The high schools endeavor as far as possible to prepare students for entrance to any college, but the needs are so varied that this is almost impossible. For that reason Mr. Northrop advises students to select their college early in their high school career and take those studies required there.

There are three other courses besides the College Preparatory, the General, Commercial and Vocational. The first of these is intended primarily for those students whose training will end with high school, but will admit the pupil to most colleges if two years of language is elected.

The Commercial Course trains the future stenographers, bookkeepers and office business executives by teaching them commercial arithmetic, office practice, bookkeeping shorthand and typing.

The vocational course, offered chiefly at Central High School, comprises shop work in printing, automobile repairing, wood work and practical electricity.

Under the rules of the State Board of Education sixteen units or thirty-two credits are required for graduation: three in English; three in history and government; one in science; one in mathematics, and the remainder in electives. One major (three year course) or two minors (two year courses) must be taken as electives. Pupils should consult Mr. Northrop when they make their elections in order to make sure that they are complying with rules.

Close Relationship With High School Girls Makes Miss Reynard Ideal Dean

Scope of Activities and Varied Interests Give Dean Sympathetic Viewpoint.

When she was a school-girl at Union City, Dean Reynard was a common, ordinary person. She threw snowballs, ran, and perhaps even passed notes when the teacher wasn't watching. But she always had one paramount motive: To bring happiness to others. When she was graduated from Indiana University, she became a member of the Freshman English Department there. During the war, with the object of being helpful and bringing happiness to others, she served with the Red Cross at various camp hospitals. Here she was connected with the Home Service Department, and also did recreational work. After the war she did recreational work in the paper mills at Neenah, Wis. She also conducted a community center there. For three summers she conducted a girls camp at Chain of Lakes, Wis. Later she taught at Union City, and was Dean of girls at Winchester.

To be helpful and bring happiness to others is still her aim in life. At

EYSTER APPOINTED SCHOOL TREASURER

His Job—Take Money and Give Advice.

Elvin S. Eyster has been appointed school treasurer by Mr. Northrop. Mr. Eyster was formerly a member of the Commercial department at Central and is head of the Commercial department here.

The financial system this year will be under an associated treasury. The treasurers of each school organization will keep the books for that organization as usual, but the money will be handed over to Mr. Eyster, who, in turn, will give a receipt for that amount. Mr. Eyster is also financial advisor for the school. Any organization wishing to do anything that will need finances, must first consult him. He will see that their financial affairs are in condition, before giving his consent. If an organization wishes to withdraw money, they must present an order signed by their treasurer. Mr. Eyster is under a bond, paid from the school.

JUNIOR, SENIOR ELECTIONS HELD

Melvin Koenig and Harold Korn Are Elected Presidents.

Two classes have already completed their organizations and are ready to make their initial bows into the affairs that are waiting for them.

Melvin Koenig was chosen to pilot the destiny of the Senior class. Koenig entered North Side from Central, where he was prominent in football and basketball. Assisting him are Mary Erwin, vice-president; Frank Nicklas, secretary-treasurer.

Harold Korn, also an ex-Centralite, was elected president of the Junior class. Korn was a member of Central Boosters' Club and took an active part in dramatics.

Other officers for the three year people are Maxine Salzer, vice-president; Carl Jacobs, secretary-treasurer.

present she is treasurer of the State Scholarship Committee of Kappa Kappa Kappa. This organization has eleven girls in various Indiana Colleges. Miss Reynard says, "My greatest thrill is signing the checks for these girls." Last year she was a member of the English department at Central. Although only there a short time, she became well known for her cheerful disposition, and her ability to see the viewpoint of the students. From constant association with the younger generation she has come to be able to see their problems from their standpoint.

PROGRAM INCLUDES HOME ROOM PERIOD

Special Program Arranged for Assembly Days

The regular eight period class day with a Home Room period has been inaugurated at North Side High School for this year. Following is a schedule of classes:

Home Room—8:20 to 8:30; 1—8:35 to 9:20; 2—9:25 to 10:10; 3—10:15 to 11:00; 4—11:05 to 11:50; 5—11:55 to 12:40; 6—12:45 to 1:30; 7—1:35 to 2:20; 8—2:25 to 3:10.

On days when there is an auditorium or pep session the following program will be followed:

Warning bell, 8:15; home room, 8:20-8:25; 1—8:30-9:10; 2—9:15-9:55; assembly, 10:00-10:30; 3—10:35-11:15; 4—11:20-12:00; 5—12:05-12:50; 6—12:55-1:35; 7—1:40-2:20; 8—2:25-3:05.

Bohemian Glass Blowers Entertains H. S. Students

Mr. and Mrs. Howell, Bohemian glass blowers, gave a very delightful program to almost the entire student body Thursday morning at 10:15 o'clock in the North Side auditorium. They travel over the United States and give entertainments to schools exclusively. As he talked, Mr. Howell blew hot glass into different shapes, the first being a very graceful crane. He explained that the art of glass blowing was almost a lost one, because the blowers got such a small incentive in return for their labor. This trade, it seems, is handed down from generation to generation. It has been in the Howell family for five or six hundred years. Mr. Howell himself began studying the trade when he was fifteen. He first learned to blow a perfect bubble, an arduous task. Later he learned to make animals and exquisite vases. At the close of their program Mr. and Mrs. Howell gave glass pens of lovely shades to the students attending.

Central Catholic Opens Season With Concordia

Central Catholic and Concordia open their football season when the two teams meet this Saturday at the Lincoln Life field.

Officials for the game will be Williams, referee; Stahl, umpire; Meyers, head linesman.

N. H. S. DOORS OPENED ON LABOR DAY

Auditorium Chief Object of Interest

EQUIPMENT UNUSUALLY COMPLETE AND MODERN

Unique Circular Plan Arouses Much Comment.

The doors of North Side High School were informally opened to the public Labor Day with approximately 10,000 persons inspecting the building. To those who completed their education some years ago the equipment and facilities were somewhat of a surprise. They all unanimously agreed that Charles Weatherhogg, the architect, and Max Irmischer, the contractor, had given Fort Wayne an ultra modern and very unique building.

It seemed that the auditorium was the chief object of interest. Its 1500 dome covered circular seats are arranged in such a manner that the stage is visible from any angle. The balcony swings with a graceful curve encircling the entire auditorium, an added touch of beauty.

By the casual remarks made by those who visited the gymnasium, it may be concluded that its very modern facilities were not over looked. "There is no reason why students should not be well developed physically with such advantages as the gym affords," one visitor was overheard to say. Another feature that attracted a great deal of attention was the swimming pool. Perhaps it was because it brought back reminiscences of younger days.

On the second floor a large well lit and arranged room serves as library. Its coziness is inviting even to students.

Exclamations could be heard from the men as they passed through the rooms when the various trades were taught, such as bench work, wood turning, forging and pattern making.

Battle Ship Lincoln, the best of its kind, well distributed drinking fountains, sanitary black boards and desks fastened to the floor are among the many other features of North Side high school.

All the ladies were interested in the domestic science rooms. The equipment of this department excels that of many homes. Four-burner gas stoves and ovens accompany each table. Cabinets, special tables, and all other necessities in the preparation of a meal are found in the culinary department. A five-room apartment was especially built for girls who desired more knowledge along house keeping and home training lines. A peep in the serving rooms disclose electric sewing machines, tables and long mirrors, and everything else that assists one in sewing.

The business department is fitted out with every type of material used in the leading commercial colleges.

TWO CARTOONISTS ENTER NORTH HIGH

Phillip Dodane and Harold Cox Have Had Much Experience.

Two cartoonists who have already gained prominence in the city have enrolled in North Side High for the coming year, and are planning to do illustrating for the school publications this year. They are Phillip Dodane and Harold Cox.

Phillip Dodane entered from Central Catholic where he had experience in cartooning. Recently he has been employed by the Bonisb Advertising Agency in the city.

Harold Cox is a Freshman and was entered from the Forest Park School. Although he is only a freshman he is already classed as professional in his work. At present he has a weekly cartoon in the News-Sentinel called "Vodville." Besides this he has had miscellaneous drawings appear in the Journal-Gazette of Fort Wayne and in the Los Angeles Times. Besides newspaper feature work, Harold has given nearly one hundred chalk talks before different organizations. Included in this list are the General Electric, Lions Club, Dudio Manufacturing Co., and First National Bank.

M. H. Northrop At Central Eleven Years

Head of Commercial Department At Central.

PROMINENT IN FOOTBALL AND BASEBALL

Outstanding Fort Wayne Booster At All Times.

Milton H. Northrop, former head of the Commercial Department of Central High School for eleven years, has begun his work as principal of the North Side High School.

Backed by years experience in other schools that have proved successful, Mr. Northrop comes to North Side well qualified in educational work as well as being an outstanding executive. He completed his high school course at Reading, Mich., where he was a prominent member of activities, especially of football and baseball. While working for his commercial training at Albion, Michigan, College, he taught in the school of business of that college. Later he entered the University of Michigan and received an A. B. degree with history and economics as majors. Although claiming the Maize and Blue school as his Alma Mater, Mr. Northrop has attended Colorado and Indiana Universities and has taken graduate work at Chicago University. Before going to Central, Mr. Northrop was connected with the Kendallville, Indiana High School.

Principal Northrop is a member of the One Hundred Per Cent Club and is Worshipful Master of Sol. D. Bayless Lodge, No. 359, F. and A. M., besides being a prominent and outstanding booster for Fort Wayne.

Mr. Northrop is a member of the Plymouth Congregational church.

DANCER HEADS MEDICAL DEPT.

Assisted By Staff of Seven Physicians.

Dr. Charles R. Dancer, who has been re-appointed as chief of the medical staff of all the city schools, will have charge of the medical examinations at North High this year.

Only members of the football squad have received physical examinations. At the present time Dr. Dancer is doing routine "sick call" in Dean Reynard's office.

A corps of seven doctors is helping him through the city. Following is a list of them and the schools which they have under their charge:

Dr. B. F. Weaver—Central, Jefferson and Washington Schools.

Dr. A. L. Kane—South Side and Harrison Hill Schools.

Dr. E. L. Cartwright—South Wayne, Miner, Justin N. Study and Rolling Mill Schools.

Dr. Prentiss—Hamilton, Hanna, James H. Smart and Oxford Schools.

Dr. N. N. Rocky—Rudisill, Forest Park, Grasmere Heights, Riverside and Lakeside Schools.

Dr. Stanley McKee—Clay, Har-mar and Adams.

Dr. Harry Solon—Nebraska, Bloomington and Franklin Schools.

Koenig, Probable Redskin Captain For Game With Froebel

Froebel Team Is Rated As One of the Best, If Not the Best Team in State.

Melvin Koenig, '28, will probably captain the North Side Redskins when they encounter the strong upstate Froebel of Gary crew at Gary on Saturday, Coach Bills stated. Although no official lineup has been announced, the fellows who played in the Reading, Michigan, game will no doubt have berths on Bills' lineup Saturday, however, the playing position of some of the fellows may be changed, the coach said. The officials for the game have not yet been announced.

Froebel is one of the best if not the best team in the state.

If a decision would have been drawn last year, it would probably have rested between Mishawaka and Emerson of Gary. Emerson won over Froebel, 13-6 in last year's game. Froebel won over Plymouth this season, 20-0.

EDITORIAL

Courtesy is a sign of culture; lack of it is a sign of ignorance.

A football season ticket for five games cost the same as two picture shows—get your ticket, join the gang and see us at the game.

Drinking fountains were not placed in the corridors for Wrigley's, Beechnut or any other brand of chewing gum.

The Boosters Club is already showing some good work; but it's going to mean real work to make the real Boosters Club—no slackers.

The Northerner is the official North High weekly publication. Support on the part of the students only means a bigger and better publication. Let's work for one hundred per cent subscription list and start the publication of North Side off with a bang!

GET STARTED RIGHT

The opening of Fort Wayne's new high school, North Side, means establishing a new institution with all the traditions, customs and precedents that are essential in any well established organization.

What North Side does in the first few weeks will go down in the history of the school as the pioneer trail of traditions and custom. Blaze the trail right.

The start of any race has much to do with the finish. To act as a harmonious group every one must be willing to be charitable with the ideas and the work of other individuals. It's up to every person connected with the school to be sure of the true motives of an individual or group of individuals before offering adverse criticism.

THANKS FORT WAYNE

That's about all that can be said by any North Sider at the present time. It is useless to say that every person connected with the school is proud of it, and is grateful for the privilege of being in such a modern and splendidly equipped building. Fort Wayne has done its part in giving the school the equipment. It's up to the North Siders to do their part in every way to show their appreciation. Let's be worthy of the trust Fort Wayne had in us when she gave us our school.

The city is back of us. Let's all be back of Fort Wayne, and be boosters in every way.

So far we have done nothing, and the long routine of doing something really worth while may seem tiresome. There's no glory in winning without a struggle; but victory after hard work is meritorious. "Lindy" didn't cross the Atlantic until he had perfected every minute detail of his plans; and, like Lindy, it's up to us to work to accomplish some greater goal.

MR. NORTHPROP

From the time the first faculty list for North Side High School was announced, the appointment of Milton H. Northrop as principal of the new high school has been received with approval by his fellow workers, townsmen and students. It takes a real man to be as popular as he is and at the same time command the respect of the entire student body—but there's not one North Sider that doesn't feel the sincerity and the interest of Mr. Northrop in every activity relative to the welfare of the school and students.

He is a far-sighted and broad minded person with fair and unbiased opinions of his own. Just being human is a characteristic that every one admires—and that's "Dad" Northrop, as he is called by his admirers. He's not ashamed of the fact that he likes to loaf once in awhile at the lake, or that he likes to see the Tigers play in Detroit, or that he reads detective stories as a diversion from regular routine work. Perhaps his detective stories have been a training—only to make him a better diplomat. But whatever may be said Milton H. Northrop has a one hundred per cent backing of North Side.

ROLE OF YELL LEADER STILL OPEN

No one has been officially appointed to the role of yell leader at North Side although several aspirants have applied and tried out for this honored and important position.

Those desirous of the coveted honor are Norman Richards, Paul Pritchard, Ward Hall, John Robinson and Ralph Ehrman.

Several freshmen have had the courage to apply for the position, but they cannot be considered until later in the season, Miss Storr, advisor, said. Each of the applicants had one trial at last Saturday's game. Norman Richards is the only one of the applicants who has had previous experience in cheer leading.

SOCIETY AND FEATURES

Whether we like it or not fall is here!
And with it comes school!

September not only brings a ray of vivid colors, but it sends a call for the European traveler, the camper, and brings people home from their good old fishing trips.

From the small child of five who is planning on going to kindergarten, to the young man or woman who is planning to go away to college, or even to the laborer or the capitalist, September has a meaning all of its own.

The high school girl's attention turns to her fall wardrobe and whether or not she looks well in blue, or tan, or if she should have a fur or cloth coat. As to the very sturdy young man of high school age he will be wondering if he will make that football team and be a hero.

Yes, fall is here, and as the vacationer is coming home there is a general exodus of other persons.

The Misses Frances Cook and Esther Lowery have returned from Chicago where they spent some time registered at the Stollus Hotel.

Miss Cromer has returned to her home after spending the summer in Europe.

Miss Judy Wilson entertained with a very delightful dinner party at her home on Northwood Blvd. Those present at this charming affair were the Misses Mary Frances Goodrich, Mary and Betty Granger, Ruth Miles, Frances Cook, Jeanette Popp, Mary Margaret Vesey, Esther Lowery, Madeline Cromwell, Luella Rogge, Wilda

Bowser, Dorothy Underwood, Harriet Huster, Diana Cox, Helen Dessauer, Mary Jane McMillan, Betty Van Arnam, Frances and Kathryn Bosh, Virginia Holden, Mary Weaver, Virginia Blosser, Hazel Menefee, Betty Rahe, Virginia Seemeyer, Dorothy Smith, Marjorie Ney and Mary Ellen Hill.

"Ted" Hagerman and Charles Hengstler have left for Lafayette, Ind., where they will enter Purdue University.

The Misses Charlotte Stier, Virginia Traxler and Freda Withers have gone to Bloomington where they have entered Indiana University.

Miss Garnett Carpenter spent two weeks visiting friends and relatives at New Port, Covington, Ky. and Mammoth Cave.

Miss Mary Stiner has returned from visiting friends near Grand Rapids, Mich.

Miss Rosalia Pollak who was last year's editor and chief of the Caldron, has moved to Chicago. This fall she will enter Chicago University.

Two New Librarians to Dispense Books at North Side High School

Miss McCloud to Have Charge of All Fort Wayne High Schools—Many New Books.

Under the supervision of Miss Erdean McCloud, who is head of all the libraries of the public high schools in the city, two new librarians are in charge of the library at North Side.

Miss Pearl Coulter is at the charging desk. Her home is in Wampum, Pa. She received her library training at Hiram College from which she was graduated in 1924. She then taught school in Elwood, Pa., for a few years.

Miss Alice McKeehan, assistant librarian, is a graduate of Central High School and of Indiana University. She taught French at Lombard College for three years and was in charge of the library there.

North Side's Library is located on the second floor in the third wing. It has many spacious shelves, with about 1,500 books, among which are general reference texts and collateral readings for all four years of high school English. There are also 70 bound magazines including the American Forum, Independent, Literary Digest, Mentor and Popular Mechanics. Alphabetically filed are nearly 2,000 pictures, 500 pamphlets and a complete collection of college catalogues.

The library will seat 84 students, and is lighted by windows on the north, south and east.

Miss Martha Harris, who was valedictorian of the Class of '27 at Central, will leave soon for Chicago, Ill., where she will enter her freshmen year at Chicago University.

Of interest to their North Side friends is the pledging of a number of girls who attended Central and are now at Indiana University. Miss Charlotte Stier was pledged to Kappa Alpha Theta, Miss Margaret Jane Hoffman, Kappa Kappa Gamma; Miss Mary Cooper, Pi Beta Phi; Miss Florence Stirling, Delta Gamma, and Miss Virginia Traxler Alpha Omicron Pi.

Miss Mary Martha Snook of West Jefferson st. will leave soon for Oxford, O., where she will attend Western College for women.

Paul Haberly, who has been spending the summer at Clear Lake, has returned to his home on Forest Park Blvd.

Virginia Trier has been pledged to the Alpha Chi Omega sorority at De Pauw University, while Anne Hayden has been pledged to Kappa Kappa Gamma at the same school.

Miss Marjorie Reeves recently entertained a few of her friends at a dinner party of beautiful appointments. Those who attended this lovely affair were the Misses Mary Hughes, Hildegard Seibel, Betty Mayer, Margaret Smenner, Hazel Warning, Greta Astrom, Louise Fredericks, Mary and Marthina Brothers, Nell Gunn, Kathaleen Grier, Isabella Wilkenson, Marjorie Horstmeier, Betty Hoffman, Mary Helen Putman, Marjorie and Janet Egly, Elinor Williams, Mary Martha Snook, Betty Hutchens, Florence Kendricks, Mary Hillis Miles and the hostess.

Miss Marjorie Suter has again resumed her dramatic instructions at North Side and Central after spending the entire summer observing instructions of the Stuart-Walker Stock Company of Cincinnati.

Miss Alice McKeehan, one of North Side's new librarians, spent the week-end at Dune's State Park on Lake Michigan.

Miss Greenwald, another one of our new teachers, spent a delightful three weeks' vacation at Fisher Lake and two weeks in Chicago.

Bill Schieman has spent much of the summer at the cottage of Jack Kitch at Wawasee.

Mr. Mathews, the music instructor, spent a part of the summer vacation with his parents at Lexington, Ky. He also attended the summer course at the University of Wisconsin.

Other North Side teachers attending the summer course at the University of Wisconsin were Miss Aumann and Mr. Hewitt.

Eyster-Diffendorfer

The marriage of Miss Artista B. Diffendorfer of Zanesville, Ind., and Elvin S. Eyster of Edon, O., took place June 25 in the Plymouth Congregational Church, with the Rev Arthur J. Folsom officiating.

Mrs. Eyster who is a member of Pi Zeta was graduated with a B. S. degree from the Indiana State Normal, Muncie, and has taught music and art in the public schools for several years. She has just completed her work in the Forest Park School of this city.

Mr. Eyster is an Indiana University graduate and has been in the commercial department of public schools in Fort Wayne for the last four years.

WALTHER LEAGUE
CONCERTS PLANNED

Program Five Musical Programs
One Dramatic, One Lecture.

Of interest to the high school faculty and many of the students is the fact that the 1927-28 Walther League concert-lecture course will open on October 10, 1927. This year's course will consist of five musical programs, one dramatic number and one lecture.

The dates for the programs are as follows:

- October 10, 1927—The Steindel Trio.
- October 24, 1927—John Drinkwater's play, "Abraham Lincoln."
- November 4, 1927—Fiechtl's Tyrolean Yodelers.
- November 18, 1927—Arthur Kraft, tenor.
- December—Dr. William Mather Lewis, lecturer.
- January 17, 1928—Alma Peterson, prima donna soprano.
- February 11, 1928—The Garay Sisters.

Why and How

"A clock stopped!"
After all the rooms I went through to learn why they worked, and how, the engineer told me that!

I didn't think that could be true because the clocks were newly made by the Standard Time Company at Springfield, Mass., and run by electricity.

Of what does that remind you?—The same here!

This potential power is generated in the Fan Room—a room below the gym—and stored in batteries there.

Mr. Northrop has the master clock in his office and checks it with his watch every day to be sure the clock is correct.

An electric current passes through the master clock and to each of 77 secondary clocks. Every minute the main clock makes contact and allows the electricity to pass. This current actuates magnets in every time-piece and moves the minute-hand ahead one space.

But the master clock has more to do than that! It regulates our long-winded liberty bells—and, seemingly longer winded go-to-work bells.

A punched tape runs through the clock. When the perforation reaches a certain point the bells ring for a half minute.

"And, dear pupils," so says our time system, "don't delay on your way to or from the office!"

If for any reason anyone is sent to the office, that person receives a slip which is punched at the exact minute one enters the sanctuary. The exact minute one leaves is punched, too.

So, you see, if you are so unlucky as to be punched out just before the hand clicks over and then if you lose yourself on the way back to your class room, you might not feel like blessing the man who invented that system.

And did you ever wonder how our telephone system works?

Suppose that Mr. Northrop desired to deliver urgent information to all the teachers at once. The operator simply would throw a main switch to connect every phone in the building with that of the office. Perhaps the result would cause quite a rush of busy bodies, but Mr. Northrop would not have to stir—unless it was a fire alarm.

But the office can deliver secrets, too. Each phone can be connected directly and without an unwanted listener. A switchboard is used to control this, of course.

Now the above was considering a call put from the office to the class rooms. If a teacher wanted to call the office—for any reason whatsoever—it is more easily possible, for by taking the receiver off the hook the bell in that place rings.

RICHARD STELLHORN,
PAUL SEILER DIE

Stellhorn, Varsity Football Player, at N. H. S.

Funeral services for Richard Blair Stellhorn were held at 2 o'clock Wednesday afternoon at the home of his parents, 2222 N. Anthony Blvd., and at 2:30 o'clock at the Trinity English Lutheran Church with Rev. Paul Kraus officiating.

The boy was very active in school events at Central in his freshman year and was slated for the varsity football team at North Side.

A guard of boy scouts accompanied the body from the church to the cemetery and a second guard escorted the body from the cemetery gate to the grave in Lindenwood.

Richard aided his father in saving the lives of two women August 1, at Lake James. His knowledge of artificial respiration kept the exhausted women alive until medical aid could be obtained.

Surviving are the boy's parents. The students of North Side High School knew and loved Richard and revere his memory.

Paul Seiler, aged 15, son of Mr. and Mrs. August Seiler of Randall Drive, died at 12:30 o'clock, Sunday afternoon, September 18, at Lutheran Hospital. The boy was a freshman in North Side High School. The students of this school wish to offer sympathy to his family in their bereavement.

Congratulations:

To all those who have labored to produce Fort Wayne's wonderful new high school. And congratulations to those who are now to receive the benefits of it.

Lorena Fann Chosen
Editor of Northerner

Lorena Fann, '28, has been appointed editor-in-chief of the North Side Northerner, by Mercedes Janet Hurst, faculty advisor of the publication. Miss Fann has taken her office and has supervised the initial edition of the paper.

"The policy of the paper will be conservative," Miss Fann stated, "and we hope that we can soon build up a strong staff out of the new material that has reported for duty." During her years at Central High School, Miss Fann worked on the weekly publication "The Spotlight" in the capacity of reporter, feature writer and copy editor.

Assistants and co-workers with the editor-in-chief on the new publication include:

News editor, Lella Smith; copy editor, Margaret Umbach; woman's editor, Frances Cook; sports editor, George Kowalozky; feature editor, Phillip Dodane.

Business and advertising manager, Nina Lewis; assistant, Frank Nicholas; subscription manager, Don Elder; assistant, George McCombs.

Nearly 40 candidates have reported for work on the paper Miss Hurst stated, and from this number reporters and assistants in every line of work will be elected.

Good Luck!

Good luck to you, staff of The North Side Northerner, during the year that this issue inaugurates.

Your duties are not easy, as we of the daily newspapers know. And your rewards—apparently—are nothing more than the satisfaction of knowing that your job has been well done.

Apparently, say we, for actually, you are building yourselves rewards greater than you know. You are building for yourselves habits of industry, stick-to-it-iveness and achievement. You are unconsciously, by your efforts, beating for yourselves a path—rough, rambling and uncertain as yet—but a path that will, with a sureness in proportion to those efforts, carry you to the smoother highway of eventual success.

New North Side High School Constructed in Most Modern Way

North Side High School Building To Take Care of Large Enrollment of Students.

When a new high school building was being planned for the city of Fort Wayne, the most modern equipment and plans were the paramount factors with the school board.

On the board at that time were: James E. Ford, president; William C. Goshen, secretary; Estella L. Peters, treasurer; Nellie Ellingham, Herman Peterson; Dr. L. Park Drayer and William H. Reed; Louis C. Ward was the city superintendent of schools and

I. J. Collier, Jr., was superintendent of buildings and grounds.

The plans of the architect, Charles R. Hogg, were adopted in the summer of 1925 and the general contract for the building was given soon to Max Irmscher and Sons, construction work; Anton Haberstock, plumbing and heating; and Dix-Kelly company, electric wiring and fixtures.

Immediately after the contracts were let the ground was broken and the work on the new building was begun. Now complete, modern and beautiful the building has been opened and classes have begun.

The plans for the three floor building are unique and striking, the central part of the building being circular, with wings leading out from it, and arranged so the wings may be enlarged without interference with the symmetrical appearance of the building.

Classrooms and laboratories are located on all three floors. On the first floor are regular class rooms and laboratories besides the girls' gymnasium, journalism office, and swimming pool. The swimming pool, which is sixty feet by twenty-five feet is provided with a balcony that will seat five thousand persons. The girls' gymnasium is fifty by one hundred feet and is fitted with a most complete apparatus.

More than 1,600 persons can be seated in the large auditorium which is on the second floor and which is one of the main features of the building. The stage is quite large and can accommodate very large productions. A huge, circular dome canopies the entire room.

Principal M. H. Northrop's office is at the left of the main entrance to the building and is provided with facilities that make for time saving and efficiency. Opposite the principal's office is the one of Miss Florence Reynard, dean of girls at North Side high school. Attractive with its tile floor, and gay with its printed chintz and clever designs, this office is one of the most beautiful in the building. Besides the reception hall, Dean Reynard has a private office, a hospital room, and a conference room.

The boys' gymnasium on the second floor will seat 3,500 persons, and besides this main room, there are two exercise rooms. Adjoined by a short corridor to the gymnasium is the large library.

The third floor of the building is given over mostly to classrooms, with the exception of the large cafeteria, with accommodations for four hundred fifty; and a study hall that will take care of two hundred seventy-five students.

With the opening of the football season, North Siders will realize another dream. Each man on the team has the undivided support of the students and faculty as long as he faces the game squarely—Florence Reynard, Dean of Girls.

BOOSTER'S CLUB IS ORGANIZED

"No slackers in North High Boosters Club" is the slogan adopted by Miss Julia Storr, faculty advisor of the organization, since more than eighty aspirants for membership have signed up with her.

Although the group is having meetings and carrying out the work ordinarily done by such an organization, no Boosters Club will be formed this semester, according to plans worked out by the advisor. The group has already helped in selling football season tickets and was much in evidence at the North Side-Reading game on Saturday. Points will be given to members of the organization for work they do, and membership in the Boosters Club will be determined the second semester by the number of points each individual worker has received.

There is much work to be accomplished by the organization this semester and for that reason various committees have been appointed to specialize in various activities.

Following is a list of temporary officers elected by the committees which they represent:

General—Ward Hall, Mary Erwin, John Robinson and Clue Ferguson.

Selling—Harold Korn, Louise Shreve, Imogene Brooks and Frank Nicklos.

First School Bell Calls Tourist, Camper, Fisherman, Home From Lakes and Hills

Everyone Searching for Rooms—Plan Quite Systematic When Understood.

Perhaps one of the school year's greatest tragedies was enacted on the first day of school, the chief actors being the combined immigration of faculty, students and freshmen (who really belong in a class by themselves).

Visas were needed by everyone, and conducted tours of the size of Thos. Cook and son, were made throughout the building. But true to the conducted type, a few groups wandered astray (under pretense of demonstrating the new telephone system. S. O. S. calls were hurriedly wired to the office for bearings, however, it was not necessary to send out any rescue groups, according to statements made at headquarters.

It was indeed encouraging to see the blue print plan in the main corridor of the building—the only difficulty with it was that no one could find it, after he had once started around in circles. But Miss Storr with her efficient corps of workers, was able soon to direct all student over the building, using Mr. Northrop's plan of numbering the rooms.

The first number of the room, explains the floor number, the second number tells the wing number, and the third number identifies the room in the wing. In his number plan Mr. Northrop explained that wing one was the central part of the building; wing two was the section extending toward the athletic field and wing three was the section extending toward State St.

Faculty Picnic Held At Foster Park

The combined faculty of North Side, South Side and Central held their annual picnic at Foster Park, last Wednesday, September 21.

The object of the fest was to get together. Mr. Ward, superintendent of the public schools, introduced all of the new teachers.

After the lunch, which was served at 4:30, the new teachers of each school were required to perform a freak stunt.

Mr. Mosher, Mr. Pring and Miss DeVilbiss were on the committee from North Side.

John DeLong Appointed Faculty Manager of Athletics

John DeLong has been appointed faculty manager of the Athletic Association by M. H. Northrop, principal of North Side.

Mr. DeLong is a graduate of Indiana University and has taught history for four years in Central High School. He is now in the history department at North Side.

This appointment was made by Mr. Northrop because of the established regulations of the I. H. S. A. A. is that all high school athletics be under the direct management and control of the high school principal. The principal is the recognized authority on questions of management and supervision. Among the duties of Mr. DeLong will be to get officials for all the games, issue tickets, take care of visiting teams, and order suits for the players.

Redskins Lose First Game To Fast Reading Michigan Eleven

Bill's Men Show Indomitable Spirit In Face of Prospective Defeat. Stronger Team is Seen for Future.

A fumbled pass over the goal line gave the Redskins a taste of bitter defeat at the hands of Reading, Michigan, who took home a 12-4 victory. Coach Mark Bills inexperienced eleven was a pleasant surprise to those who doubted and the team lived quite up to the anticipations of others.

Reading displayed a smooth running attack which kept North Side on the defensive for the first quarter, but they could not score and North Side's Redskins held them without a point.

However, soon after the start of the second period the backfield of the Maroon and Gold opened the attack by carrying the ball to North Side's 3-yard line. Here North Side gathered its forces together and held the Michigan boys for two downs only to have McClellan plunge over on the fourth. Netcher failed to kick goal.

Near the close of the third quarter the desperate Redskins steadied and begin their offensive aided by a long end run by Penrod and carried the ball to Reading's 10-yard line but three line backs failed to work and on the fourth down, a pass was heaved to Koenig who was well over Reading's goal and unmolested. He gathered in the pigskin, but failed to hold it and so the chance for a tie was gone. On the next play when the ball had been taken to the 20-yard line, Rutledge, speedy Reading back, broke through right tackle and raced eighty yards for another touchdown for the visiting eleven. Netcher again failed at the extra point.

Two long passes, Marshall to Koenig, carried the ball back to Reading territory and North Side worked until Scott sneaked through for the Red and White's first score.

A pass for the extra point was knocked down. Koenig had developed into an excellent end under Coach Bills' tutelage and his play on the defense was exceptional. McVey at center, Freimuth, and Pierce at tackles and Slater and Fulkerson at guards proved exceptionally good for North Side at times.

Reading has, in Rutledge and Stanfield, two of the fastest backs any high school could desire. Both choose their openings well and were aided by a nice interference.

The attendance at the game was good and North Side's band and cheer leaders proved it a school of spirit well on its way to a promising athletic season despite the hard-luck of defeat at the opening fray. The lineup:

North Side	Reading, Mich.
Koenig LE	H. Cellars
Freimuth LT	K. Frager
Slater LG	C. Mcett
McVey C	R. Braman
Fulkerson RG	S. Lowers
Pierce, Miskell RT	M. Slevers

Marshall Q	M. Standfield
Monnot RH	K. Netcher
Penrod LH	L. Rutledge
Liatt FB	M. McClellan
North Side	0 0 0 6
Reading, Michigan	6 6 0 0

South Side Wins Football Game From Peru

The South Side high school's Kelly Klads opened their football season Saturday by defeating the Peru eleven in a one-sided score of 21-0. Peru presented such a weak offense and defense that Coach Welborn's men had the game "on ice" early in the start after which the second string men were given a chance to show their worth.

Coach Welborn's entire squad looked exceptionally good for their first game of the season.

Griddle Cakes

Regardless of Saturday's score of 12-6 for Reading, Michigan, every North Side is mighty proud of the team. With only two veterans or previously trained men in the lineup, the squad put up a clean, hard game and the clever passing and end runs will be trimmed up a little with a little more practice. Yea, Redskins! Let's go!

"I'm not so much interested in winning all of our games as I am in having every boy in every play for a hard, clean game."—M. H. Northrop, principal of North Side, said in an interview to a student reporter last evening.

Yea, Redskins! Fight!

DEDICATED TO THE NORTH SIDE HIGH SCHOOL

When the Schoolmaster built his own School in Fort Wayne...

The first school in Fort Wayne was opened on May 29, 1820, twenty-six years after the erection of the fort by General Anthony Wayne.

This first school house, built by the schoolmaster himself, was a tiny, one-room log hut. A stone fireplace at one end of the room furnished warmth in the winter. Large logs hewn in half and fitted with pegs of wood formed the rude benches for the handful of students that attended the first classes. Lucky was the youth who boasted a book of his own from which to study. On dreary days, school was dismissed, for the two tiny windows covered with oil paper furnished little enough light at times when the sun shone brightly--let alone on dark days--and candles were precious.

Contrast this dismal little scene with the conveniences our modern schools offer. Rooms that are healthful and comfortable--teachers, competent in the training of alert minds and a range of studies that deal with every business and profession, make the North Side High School a milestone in the progress of education. Little wonder that the students and all Fort Wayne is proud of its new North Side High.

The First National Bank is proud of the North Side too, for just as the North Side is a symbol of learning, this Bank represents the commercial and financial soundness of our city. To the spirit of the pioneers, who perhaps once stood on the spot where this fine school now stands, and to the students of North Side who will one day look back with pride and happiness to the days they spent within its walls, this advertisement is dedicated.

HIGH SCHOOL JOURNALISTS TO CONVENE

Distinguished Speakers Are Listed On Program.

FUN RIOT PROMISED AT BIG BANQUET

Dr. Rainer, Now President of Franklin College, To Give Welcome Address.

While Indiana teachers are convening at either Indianapolis or Fort Wayne, embryo journalists from Indiana high schools and faculty advisors will be having their annual meeting at Franklin College, Franklin, Indiana. The two-convention days, Friday and Saturday, October 21 and 22, in the southeastern Hoosier city will be filled with interesting lectures and meetings, according to reports made by officials of the organization. The sectional meeting plan will be used, and every phase of newspaper and yearbook work will be presented by competent journalists and instructors. Dr. Homer P. Rainey, now president of Franklin College, will represent the college in a welcome address; Otis Wooley, mayor of Franklin, will represent the city of Franklin; and Senator Arthur R. Robinson will issue official greetings from the state and national administration. The Indiana Masonic Home boys' band will play. Miss Madeline Cromwell, '28 of Central high school, president of the high school association, and Miss Ella Sengenberger of Indianapolis, president of the journalism teachers association will make responses.

Besides the regular business sessions, plenty of fun has been promised to the high school journalists. The annual banquet is promised to be "a fun fest and nothing more." The only serious parts of the program will be the presentation of the trophies.

Among other features of the entertainment program is the football game scheduled between Indiana State Normal school and Franklin on Goodell field. The game marks the end of the two days' festivities.

The Franklin Rotary and Kiwanis clubs will be hosts to both the students and faculty's meetings.

NO YEAR BOOK HAS YET BEEN UNDERTAKEN

Advertising to Have No Place In High School Annuals.

SENIOR MEETING IS TO DECIDE QUESTION

One Hundred Per Cent Subscription Will Be Necessary.

"No advertising in high school annuals," was the decision reached by Miss Rowena Harvey of South Side, Miss Leah Austin of Central, and Miss Mercedes Janet Hurst of North Side, faculty advisors of publications, at a recent meeting. The step was taken as a matter of fairness to advertisers in the city who help support the school publications.

North Side High will have to wait an annual enough to support it, Miss Hurst stated; and that means that we have almost one hundred per cent subscription list.

So far no definite plans or outlines have been made for North Side's year book, in fact no names have even been considered for the publication.

Melvin Koenig, recently elected president of the Senior Class, stated that there would be a meeting of the '28 members soon to take some stand on the year book question. After that meeting staff members will no doubt be announced and work will be begun.

Dramatics Started In N. H. S. Practice Begun On "Neighbors"

Classes Being Held on Tuesdays and Thursdays; "Neighbors" to Be Presented Last Week in October.

North Side dramatics has started. Miss Suter has casted for the play "Neighbors" and practice has begun. The play will probably be presented during the last week in October.

Have you signed up for a dramatics class yet? Classes are held on Tuesdays and Thursdays, the fourth, fifth, seventh and eighth periods. All students who attend classes regularly are prospective members of the Student Players' Club. The club here will

Teachers Meet At North Side High

Nearly seventy-five women faculty members of Central, South Side and North Side High School attended a dinner meeting held at the North Side high school cafeteria last evening.

Immediately after the dinner plans were made for an organization of the three schools for the coming school year.

Later in the evening the visiting teachers were taken through the new building, and then the meeting was turned into a swimming party.

TEACHERS TO CONVENE OCT. 20th, 21st, 22nd

Program to Be Held in Fort Wayne

PROMINENT SPEAKERS ARE SCHEDULED

Vacation for Students Is Seen as One Result.

Students in the grade schools, high schools, and colleges of Indiana will soon enjoy a vacation as a result of the seventy-fourth meeting of the Indiana State Teachers' Association, October 20, 21 and 22 for which plans are rapidly being completed. In years previous to this the only meeting place for the Association was Indianapolis. However, this year an additional program is being planned to be given in Fort Wayne. This affords teachers in and near Fort Wayne an opportunity to attend meetings of equal importance with those in Indianapolis without going to the capital city.

Members of the Association, whether they attend the Fort Wayne, or Indianapolis meetings, may be assured that the programs now formulated are of excellent quality, and are the results of the efforts of the executive committee of the Association.

The following speakers are among those scheduled to deliver addresses at the Indianapolis convention:

Superintendent C. W. Washburn, who is well versed in the field of individual instruction.

Mr. Glenn Frank, president of the University of Wisconsin, whose address is more than worthy of note.

Mr. Will Durant, author of "The Story of Philosophy." This book, because of its interesting discussions and because it is easily read and understood by the general public, has attracted world wide attention.

Lewis A. Wilson, New York State Director of Vocational Education, Dean Thomas A. Briggs, Columbia University, President Uel Lambkin, of the Missouri State Teachers' College, Judge Hoffman of the Juvenile court of Cincinnati, and Miss Charl O. Williams, Washington, D. C., a former president of the National Education Association.

Of interest to the members of the Association is the fact that the opening feature of the program Thursday evening, October 20th will be selections by the all state high school orchestra and chorus, an organization which has received an unusual reception at the convention last October.

Among the speakers listed for the meetings in Fort Wayne are: F. D. Boynton, superintendent of Ithaca public schools, Ithaca, New York; Mr. William McAndrew, former superintendent of Chicago public schools, Chicago, Illinois; Francis G. Blair, state superintendent.

Senior Meeting

There will be a meeting of all senior girls in the auditorium at 3:15 Wednesday. All seniors not excused by Miss Reynard are to attend. There will be a cabinet meeting of Junior-Senior Girl Reserves Wednesday at 3:40 in Room 334.

be called the North Side Student Players' Club while that of Central will remain the Central Student Players' Club.

It is to be hoped that more boys will become interested in dramatics as boys are always in demand. All boys and girls who desire parts in the senior play should grasp the opportunity of the training of these classes," Miss Suter said.

Miss Florence Reynard, dean of girls at North Side High, has almost completed the first interviews with the girls enrolled in school. Miss Reynard wants to know each girl personally, and she takes a keen interest in the activities and the work of all of them—thus winning the confidence of all the students.

R. P. Chambers of N. H. S. Is Elected President of N. E. Ind. Officials Association

Purpose of Club to Foster School Spirit and Assist Member Schools of Fort Wayne and Vicinity.

R. P. Chambers, prominent member of the Science department of North Side High, and assistant coach, has been elected secretary-treasurer of the newly organized North Eastern Indiana Officials Association. Other officers elected were Walter Geller, of the Danuser Hardware Company, president; and Ward Gilbert, of South Side, vice-president. The purpose of the club is to establish a better interpretation of rules, to create a better spirit among the schools and to be of any service needed by any of the schools represented in the organization. Meetings will be held every Monday night during football season and every other Monday night during basketball season, officials for the group said.

So far there are only three other organizations of its kind in the state, one at Gary, one at Indianapolis, and one at Bloomington. Membership in the local group will be made up of athletic officials and principals of schools within a radius of fifty or seventy-five miles of Fort Wayne, which are not in the Indianapolis or Gary district. Schools represented at the first meeting included North Side, Central and South Side, all of Fort Wayne, Decatur, Auburn, Columbia City, Bluffton, Wabash and New Haven.

Charter members of the organization and the sports in which they are qualified are: George Yarnelle, football and basketball; Jesse Reno, football and basketball; George Rekers, football; C. Young, football, baseball, basketball and track; H. Curtiss, basketball, baseball and track; Lee Myers, football; W. Schooley, track and basketball; Ward Gilbert, football, basketball, baseball and track; Al Suter, basketball and baseball; R. Tyndal, football; E. ## Miss Flora Wilber In Charge of Department of Tests and Measurements

Purpose of Department Is to Compile Statistics Showing Progress in Schools.

Not distinctly allied to merely high school work, but related to the entire school curriculum is the department of which Miss Flora Wilber has charge—the department of tests and measurements. Miss Wilber has her office in Rooms 310 and 339, and here or at some public school at any time during the day she and her assistants, Miss Margaret Ann Keegan and Mrs. Mary Lorber, can be found compiling statistics. Statistics may seem long and tedious, but when Miss Wilber and her staff have completed the work, not only the progress of different pupils and classes can be seen but the progress of Fort Wayne city schools can be compared with the progress of other city schools, giving similar tests. Quite recently Miss Wilber stated in an interview the tests made in our schools last year in grammar were compared to the grammar tests in other schools, and Fort Wayne's average was well above that of the eight other schools.

So far this year all 1B pupils in the grade schools have been tested for classification; in all the other schools tests have been made in arithmetic from 4B through 8B, and in reading from 3B through 8A. At the end of each semester similar tests are given to show progress.

Besides getting all this data, Miss Wilber supervises the special rooms, which are for children who will profit by individual attention. The following grade schools have special rooms: Forest Park, Hamilton, Hanna, Har-mar, Harrison Hill, McCulloch, Minor, Nebraska, Rolling Mill and James H. Smart.

Miss Wilber, who has been in her present position for the past five years, has earned her A. B. and A. M. degrees from Columbia University. She was an instructor in the Michigan State Normal College, and has had charge of both the Normal school at Moline, Illinois and the Normal school which was in Fort Wayne.

Miss Keegan is a 1925 graduate of the University of Michigan and Mrs. Lorber was an Indiana University student. Margaret Holmes and Lucile Ladig are clerks in Miss Wilber's office.

N. S. Parent Teachers Association Organized

Plans will be discussed and arrangements made for a Parent Teachers organization for North Side High School at a meeting called by Principal M. H. Northrop for Wednesday, October 12 at 3:15, in the auditorium.

It is very important that all the faculty members attend as well as the patrons of the school in order to make the organization beneficial and make it fulfill its purpose, Mr. Northrop said. There is a great field of work to be done, he stated, to bring about a closer relationship between parents and teachers, which will mean co-operation in every line of work.

Mr. Northrop will act as temporary chairman for the meeting.

SUBSCRIPTION GOAL IS NOT NEAR THE TOP

Students To Be Given Second Chance Today.

PAPER SERIOUSLY NEEDS SUPPORT

Different Teachers and Students Express Opinions On Subscriptions.

North Side's subscription list for the Northerner isn't nearly 100%, Don Elder, subscription manager of the publication has announced. Students will be given another chance to subscribe for the school paper on Wednesday morning during home room periods, Elder said. Payment for the publication can be made anytime in Room 110.

That the high school paper should be supported by the students of North Side has been voiced by different members of the student body as well as by faculty members. Here's what some of them say:

Coach Mark Bills: "A school paper is like athletic teams in that a better paper and better teams come only with added support and interest from the students."

M. G. Kimes: Head of history department: "It's not so much a matter of patriotism as it is in keeping alert on what is happening at North Side."

Harold Cox, '31: "It will be mighty interesting to keep a file of the Northerner. It will mean more five years from now, when it brings back memories of North Side school days."

Nine Lewis, '29: "It means boosting North Side talent, activities and interests to subscribe for the Northerner. Every student should take it."

William Borgman, '31: "It's our own paper, and if we don't subscribe for it, it's not going to go across. Besides needing the paper it's a matter of pride to make the Northerner go over big."

Miss Cromer, head of English department: "One of the best ways to determine the value of a thing is to try to think how we could get along without. Apply this test to the school paper. Would you like to be without a paper as we were a short time at the beginning of the semester? Imagine the situation. We would each be going about our own affairs without any real knowledge of or interest in anything else. We would have little co-operation and no real school spirit. The school paper is a great unifying element in the school. A successful paper usually means a successful school. Let's support 'The Northerner'."

Student Meeting

There will be a meeting of all students interested in forming a Mathematics club on Thursday, October 6 at 3:15 in the Music Room. There will be an election of officers.

Equipment In Boys' Gymnasium Vies With Ringling Bros.

More Than Four Hundred Dollars Spent to Procure Modern Facilities.

Judging from the amount and kind of equipment that has been set up in the boys' gymnasium North Side High almost could be turned into a training school for acrobats.

More than four hundred dollars have been spent to give the boys who are signed up in the regular gym classes the most modern facilities. If all the apparatus should be started in action at once the result might be as tantalizing as a Ringling Brothers circus with its numerous rings. There are spring boards and mats, horizontal bars and weights, and enough stunt apparatus to satisfy the most professional bound acrobat.

Besides this equipment Coach Mark Bills has stated that he has sufficient equipment for two intra-mural teams which will play the preliminary contests for both football and basketball games.

PUBLIC SPEAKING STARTED

First Extemporaneous Contest is Scheduled For Oct. 12.

KOERBER PRESENTS SILVER LOVING CUP

Small Replica For Student Winning Three Contests—Interest Shown.

Public speaking will make its debut into the regular routine of activities next Wednesday, October 12, when an extemporaneous contest will be held at a special auditorium session at 9:30 under the supervision of Miss Mary Cromer, head of the English department at North Side, and also director of public speaking.

Backing Miss Cromer and our speakers is Mr. Robert Koerber, of the Koerber Jewelry company, who has offered a silver trophy to the school for extemporaneous speeches.

Mr. Koerber's gift is greatly appreciated by all North Siders. It is Mr. Koerber's desire to advance student accomplishment in extemporaneous speaking by the presentation of this silver trophy. The cup will be owned by the school and will remain in prominent display at North Side. The winner of this contest and following extemporaneous contests will be entitled to have his name engraved on the trophy. A very hard battle with much competition and good natured rivalry is assured. "To the victor belong the spoils." This famous slogan is representative of the contest for if the winner shall win three contests while in school he or she, as the case may be, will receive from Mr. Koerber a smaller cup, an exact replica of the large trophy.

As to the rules of the contest: Any student of North Side High School is eligible. Applicants for this highly coveted honor should consult Miss Cromer in room 329 concerning the contest.

Miss Cromer will have a meeting today at the close of school in room 329 with all those desiring to enter the contest. At that time several subjects will be given out. The speakers will then have one week in which to prepare on all of the subjects. Then next Wednesday morning, October 12, the speakers will draw their subjects. Each of the speakers will then have an hour in which to prepare his particular subject. Everyone will receive the same opportunity to win. This offers a remarkable advantage to one who wishes to become proficient in public speaking. Remember this: Anyone interested is eligible. If you are at all interested come to Miss Cromer's room at 329 at the close of school today. The contest occurs on Wednesday morning, October 12 at 9:30. A small admission of five cents will be charged.

Booster Club Pep Session Successful

Miss Storr, who is the Booster Club advisor, stated that the Booster Club's pep session which was held in the boys' gym last Friday was very successful. Of course, a lot of things will have to be changed after the new Booster Club will have had more experience.

There will be another pep session or perhaps an assembly some time this week, before the Auburn game.

Up to the present time there have been sold three hundred and forty-five football season tickets. This was done largely by members of the Booster Club under the direction of Mr. Eyster.

The decision about the yell leaders remains the same as stated in the article of last week's Northerner.

JOINING CLUBS

Clubs and various organizations are getting started in North Side, and now is the time for students to take an active part in any organizations in which they are interested. These groups are formed for the purpose of boosting our school, and of forming a closer relationship among persons having mutual interests. Participation in activities means more acquaintances and perhaps more friends. Yet it is not necessary to belong to any group or to center your mind on any one activity to get the real school spirit. Some students do not care for organizations of any kind. That is merely a part of their make up, and calls for no unjust criticism. Too many persons "join" everything that comes along, merely for the joy of seeing their names published with the official charter member list. Then after the names have appeared in print, and the picture of the group has been taken for the annual, many of the "joiners" drift away from the organization without having done one particle of good to the organization. If any club or activity is worthy of membership, it's worth the support of every member all the time.

FRIENDSHIP

Ten years from now the declension of a noun, the case of a verb or the value of X may not stand out in the minds of the North Side alumni one third as much as the friendships made during high school days.

"Friendship is a rare book of which there is but one copy." A real friend is one who will sacrifice with no thought of material gain; one who will stand by you through thick and thin. Of course, the person who is forever borrowing a book and forgets to return it is not considered; neither is the continual slacker or knocker considered.

People cannot be true friends unless there is a simplicity between them that allows no sham, sincerity that needs no explanation and a comradeship that weathers every storm.

Emerson said to be a friend of anyone else, you had to first be a friend to yourself. Apply the same principles to that friendship, and see if you meet the tests.

BOOSTING NORTH SIDE

A bit of encouragement is always appreciated, and North Side High School certainly has received a grand "send-off" from the merchants and business men of Fort Wayne.

The announcement that Mr. Robert Koerber has offered a trophy for an extemporaneous speaking contest, means that the public speaking department is started off immediately with a coveted goal blazing the trail for every aspirant.

After seeing the first edition of the Northerner, no one could say that the merchants and business men of the city are not back of the Redskin school. These people are back of us—let's show them our appreciation and boost them. Read over the advertisements, not just this week but every week, and see just who is watching your activities and who is boosting your school.

Epidemic of red shoes hits North Side; students forced to purchase smoked glasses.

Red shoes, sweaters, caps, belts, gloves—including cheeks and lips. Yen, Redskins! That's the old school spirit even if it does impair the eyesight of the neighborhood.

"The success of any school publication must depend primarily upon the support given it by the group for which it is intended—The Student Body," is the view point given to a student reporter by Mr. Mosher, history instructor.

The world is a looking glass and gives back to every man the reflection of his own face. Frown at it, and it in turn will look sourly upon you; laugh at it and with it, and it is a jolly, kind companion.

Live and think. Let us endeavor to live that when we come to die even the undertaker will be sorry.

When you define liberty you limit it, and when you limit it you destroy it.

It may make a different to all eternity whether we do right or wrong today.

There are whole worlds of fact, waiting to be discovered by inference.

The victory of success is half won when one gains the habit of work.

The greater the obstacle the more glory in overcoming it.

Friendship is the highest degree of perfection in society.

Behavior is the theory of manners, practically, applied.

Every man is a volume, if you know how to read him.

Co-operation and not competition, is the life of trade.

The nation that has the schools, has the future.

Patience is bitter, but its fruit is sweet.

Laws are not made for the good.

Blessed are the joymakers.

Today is yesterday's pupil.

Life is but a thought.

Cracks On the Board Walk

Hello, everybody. How are you? That's fine. The most remarkable thing about Margaret Titus' Ford is the fact that it runs.

Don't you think the most homelike thing about North Side is Mrs. Clark's gentle voice in the Study Hall?

North Side school song: "My kingdom and half my daughter's hand for a pencil sharpener."

Aren't those little "Exit" signs cute over the study hall doors? How about a couple over the windows?

Mr. Mathews didn't realize his telephone would really ring. They're cute affairs aren't they?

Don't these Freshmen wearing knickers get you all mixed up?

If Central's fountains were showers, North Side's are monsoons.

Boys! Don't you just love the length most of the girls' hair is right now?

The session room lights, nuff said, personally I extend my sympathy to the first person to break one; Mrs. Clark will laugh on their grave. Everybody subscribed for the Northerner? That's good.

And won't we ever get used to these telephone bells? They say that down in the Domestic Science rooms, when the telephone rang, one of the teachers lined the students up for a fire drill.

I'll see you later.

I was walking down the hall the other day, or rather around the hall, when I heard a terrible racket in back of me. It sounded exactly as though a spurred western hero, burdened with all his mother's tinware were approaching without a horse. As the clatter became more deafening I stood behind a projection to wait for the commotion to pass as I wasn't at all sure what it would be. I peeked furtively out and saw something red bearing down upon me and a few seconds later—there was George.

George Kowalczyk, you know. Close upon his heels charged Charles Pierce, his famous 10x12 helping (?) him navigate as rapidly as those Seven League boots somebody's uncle used to sport.

They are lacquered a dago red and are studded with regulation Famous-Players-Lasky hob nails, toeplates, horse-shoes, etc.

Securing interview, I learned that Friday is "Labor Day" at North Side. "Us labor men," George assured me, "must wear clothes to signify our purpose." They are red coal-barges, a battle worn blue shirt, an old hat and abbreviated sweat socks, these clothes that comprise their costume.

George suggests that Mrs. Clark require all boys to acquire a pair of these scows which eliminate tardiness to classes as they enable the wearer to skate mud-scows which eliminate tardiness to classes as they enable the wearer to skate to rooms in real style and speed. Whoa, Tillie!

Well, well, some of us just can't find ourselves. Now take Sam Reiter, for instance—the other day Mrs. Clark told him to stay in the detention room after school. The ninth period came and went, but Sam didn't appear. The next day Sam (meek and humble as only Sam could appear) approached Mrs. Clark and said, "Well, Mrs. Clark, I went down to 228 and no one was there and the door was locked. Well, well, Sam.

WHY SWIM?

If you're slim as a slat, or your rim is all fat;

If your chest is in doubt, or your vest bulges out,

Just you swim with a vim; try a dash, let 'er splash!

Spring a trick with a kick! Get some form—you're the norm—

No poor fish with a wish but a whale of a male.

When you're blue with the cold, almost through getting old.

An' your heart pounds your back while your arteries crack—

Just you fool round the pool; be a kid like you did!

An' you'll gloat as you float, on the joy n'old boy,

Can distill from the thrill of our new Swimmin' Pool.

(How's this for poetry contributed from the swimming department?)

Redskins Snowed Under By Froebel; N. H. S. Gain Two First Downs Only

Sammy and Dominic Pollizoto, Froebel Stars, Are Chief Factors in North Side High School Waterloo.

Forced to play a defensive game throughout the entire battle, North Side lost its second game of the season to Froebel of Gary by the score of 99 to 0. Although showing improvement over their first game, the best the Redmen could do against the strong Gary eleven was to gain two first downs.

Kicking off to Slater, Froebel downs the North Sider in his tracks. The Redskins punted on the second down. From then on it was Froebel, for little Sammy Pollizoto grabbed the ball on the next play and raced down for a touchdown. Sammy and his brother Dominic were the greatest factors in North Side's defeat. On the second play of the following kick-off Douglas ran 49 yards for his team's second touchdown. S. Pollizoto took the ball on the next kick off and didn't stop until he was between the goal posts. Douglas again ran 40 yards for a touchdown, boosting the score to 24-0. Gary was playing the brand of football that every team dreams of playing. Odell broke loose for another six-pointer quickly followed by another by Sam Pollizoto. It was on the next kickoff that the Redmen spurted and made a first down largely through the forward pass caught by Koenig. Koenig had been selected to captain his teammates through this game. Odell and S. Pollizoto each ran 35 yards for two more touchdowns which put more dismay into the hearts of the Redskins. Slipping from the North Side player's fingers as if they were eels, the Gary team could not be stopped and they were hitting championship stride. North Side again spurted after Marshall ran the kickoff back 25 yards but 15 yards were lost on a bad pass from center. D. Pollizoto took the ball on the punt and ran for a marker. The second team was sent in by Froebel which resulted in two more touchdowns by Duckats and Hoffman, respectively. After Day ran the score up six more points the half ended, the score being 69-0.

North Side began to threaten when they registered their second first down on a pass and then, after punting, threw the steel city men for a ten yard loss on the first play. However, the second team went in and Exum plunged over for another touchdown, quickly followed by another by his teammates. The first team went in which resulted in two more touchdowns. The work of Marshall was holding the Red and White from more touchdowns. After allowing the Redskins fought hard to score and advanced the ball to the 18-yard line, Froebel to score another touchdown, but luck looked the other way and the game ended, 99-0.

Having the strongest team in its history, Friebe showed that it is a real contender for state honors to be feared by all other teams. This entire lineup is made up of veterans. The whole team worked together exceptionally well.

Rain will not stop the party at all, according to reports coming from the persons in charge of the party, for there is plenty of room in the cafeteria for parties.

Coach Mark Bills, mentor of North Side Redskins and director of all physical education at North Side High School, was graduated from DePauw University in 1923. At that school, Bills was a letter man and participated in three major sports, football, basketball and baseball. He has also attended Illinois and Michigan University. Before coming to North Side Bills was at Central High School and Noblesville, Indiana High School.

Although outplaying the victors during the first half, South Side lost their second start of the season to Lindbloom of Chicago by the score of 31-0 at Chicago. During the initial half the Kelly Klads were fighting hard and were threatening the home team's goal posts, but the half ended 0-0. In the second half Rugis broke loose and stayed loose until he had scored three touchdowns. South Side didn't seem to be able to break up the rivals' hidden ball play, which resulted in defeat.

GIRLS' GYM CLASSES ARE FULL OF PEP

Classes Organized Into "Red" and "White" Teams.

(By Esther Nobles) Pep! Northside has plenty of it. There are two hundred and fifty girls taking pep in Miss Schween's gym classes. The enthusiastic classes occur Tuesday (1 and 2) (8); Wednesday (3-4) (7-8); Thursday (5-6) (8). The new idea of periods has been arranged so as to give the girls plenty of time for showers after classes.

There is much enthusiasm about the new teams "The Reds" and "The Whites." In roll call the girls who have the even numbers are "The Reds" and those with odd numbers are "The Whites." Every girl taking physical education is either a Red or White and the classes are combined by these groups and it will be true that "Once a red or white, always a red or white." A captain is to be chosen for each group and in the classes a lieutenant or leader for each team. Individuals will work for team points. "Come on Reds—Let's go Whites" is the call heard throughout the gymnasium.

And have you seen the girls' gym? Gee! What a swell place! The sunshine we get comes in high places. Truly it is a grand place and off the gym in a little hole in the wall is your parking place, girls. Things are not yet as they will be, but take a look two weeks from now and we're sure you'll try it out. You'll like it as much as Miss Schween does. She likes company. She wants you.

Your rooting at the Auburn-North Side game may me another touchdown. Be sure to be there.

North Side High's Chances Against Auburn Eleven Seem Good To Fans

Marshall To Captain Squad For Next Game—Complete Line-Up Not Announced—Change is Expected.

Regardless of the glaring defeat the North Side Redskins took from the strong Froebel crew of Gary, there is a chance of winning Saturday's game with Auburn on the North Side High athletic field at 2:15, according to North Side football fans and enthusiasts.

Steve Marshall, '29, only veteran player on the Bills crew, playing halfback, will captain the squad for the fray. The remainder of the lineup has not been announced by Coach Mark Bills, but it will be changed from the way the lineup has been running.

The Red and Black, of Auburn, coached by "Zeke" Young, have won this year from the Decatur team by a score of 6-2, but lost to the Columbia City players to the tune of 13-0.

GIRLS' SWIMMING CLASSES STARTED

One Hundred and Seventy-five Students Report.

Splash! Splash. Not our drinking fountains, but merely the girls swimming classes learning to propel themselves through the water. Friday was the day when the fun started. To prove the popularity of swimming, 177 students have been assigned to swimming classes, and many now are waiting to be assigned.

The pool, 60x25 feet, is equipped with the finest facilities possible. The filtration system assures clear and pure water. A motor has been installed to keep the water constantly circulating. Lockers and showers are handy for the use of the students. One of the features is the gas dryer for the suits. The suits are first put through a wringer, then placed in the dryer. After school each student must come and check her suit out, and place it in her locker.

The suits are the regulation gray tank suits. Although they are not as becoming as the woolen suits, they will be best suited for the type of work for which the students will use them.

Mr. Ivy, the boys' swimming instructor, and Miss Schween, the girls' swimming instructor will always be at the pool when there are classes.

SWIMMING CLASSES ARE NOW GOING

Life Saving is Feature of Course At North Side.

"Not only a swimmer but also a life saver" is the motto which has been adopted by Hyrie Ivy, director of swimming at North Side High School. Classes began last Thursday, when Coach Ivy gave a few exercises to members enrolled in the classes.

The classes of life saving have been divided into two groups; boys up to eighteen years of age are in the junior group and those who are more than eighteen may try out for the senior life saving.

About twenty members will be enrolled in the regular class, and during the class different strokes and diving will be taught, Mr. Ivy stated. Later according to the coach, swimming teams will be organized and all boys will be eligible to try out for it.

Central's swimming class has already begun work in the pool, but South Side has not yet reported.

TICKET SALE IS VERY GOOD

According to Mr. DeLong, who is in charge of ticket sales, North Side's season football tickets found an unusually ready market, both with students and with the Fort Wayne public. In addition to that, the sale of single admission tickets to the opening home game was very gratifying to one interested in the sort of take-off North Side's Ship of Sports makes.

The open season for all forms of club and social life is at hand. The general hum of energy that we usually associate with fall keeps up insistent demands. Now that we are all settled, students start out into their campus activities, new positions open to the ambitious ones who love to work as they drift.

Many new clubs have been started in our new school, and each has been attended well. For those who have pep we have the Boosters' Club, and its aim is to keep the school spirit aglow. The Student Players Club is organized for those who are interested in dramatics and will furnish entertainment for the students at various times. The clubs that are connected with the Y. W. C. A. and the Y. M. C. A. have not been organized as yet, but plans are under way for them. The same is true for the club that will be organized for girls with vim, a girls' athletic association. A mathematics club will be formed for those who find the science that treats of the measuring, relations and properties of quantities and magnitudes interesting.

Thus, we find we have a club for nearly every type of student. And soon their messages will be obtainable for those who are eager for their knowledge.

Miss Virginia Blosser, of West Washington Boulevard, entertained at her home with a very charming buffet luncheon party for a number of her most intimate friends, who were the Misses Frances Cook, Esther Lowery, Madeline Cromwell, Mary and Betty Granger, Ruth Miles Jeanette Popp, Mary Margaret Vesey, Judy Wilson, Luella Rogge, Wilda Bowser, Hazel Menefee, Harriett Heister, Helen Desauer, Mary Jane McMillan, Betty Van Arnam, Kathryn Bash, Virginia Holden, Mary Weaver, Betty Rahe, Virginia Sumeyer, Dorothy Smith, Mary Ellen Hill, Marjorie Ney, Phyllis Limes, Charlotte Lather, Nancy Porter, Betty Rose, Evelyn Moore and the hostess.

The purpose of the club will be to establish better co-operation and understanding between the staff of the publications of the three schools. It was decided that the club would hold its meetings once in every six weeks period. North Side will hold the first meeting although no definite arrangements have been made.

SIX SPEAKERS ENTER FINAL DISCUSSION

Ten Try Out in Preliminary Exercises.

WINNERS NAME ON KOERBER CUP

Replica of Large Cup to Be Given to Best Speaker.

Ten students have tried out for places in North Side's first public speaking contest which will occur this morning at nine-thirty.

A meeting was held last Wednesday in Room 328, by Miss Cromer to determine the number of speakers, explain the rules and assign the subjects for the extemporaneous speaking contests. Because of the large number of candidates it was decided that an elimination contest would be inevitable. The final number of speakers was to be limited to six since the contest cannot last over one hour.

Four subjects were assigned to the speakers: Big Business, Prohibition Enforcement, Crime Prevention and Aviation Progress. Having prepared on these four subjects the speakers met on Monday evening at seven o'clock and all were given one hour to prepare on Prohibition Enforcement. Judges decided the six, most capable of taking part in the finals this morning, by the ability displayed at the first contest. They were Philip Bowen, John McMeen, Margaret Smenner, Paul Somers, Herbert Viennet and Ralph Walcott.

Those who take part in this morning's extemporaneous contest, are contending for the honor of having their names engraved on a large, beautiful, silver cup, presented to the school by Mr. Robert Koerber, Sr. His gift made the contest possible and his offer of a smaller replica to the individual winning three contests while in school makes the competition very keen.

Those who entered this contest deserve credit not only for the time and effort which must be spent in preparing for such a contest of wits, but also for their appreciation of our school and their desire to support its activities by their talents. They need and will receive the wholehearted support of the student body. Nothing is more discouraging to the man fighting his way through on the field than to see empty stands on a silent throng. It is equally true that our speakers need an enthusiastic audience.

Remember that all students are urged to come to the auditorium this morning at nine-thirty fully determined to back North Side fellow students. The subjects are well chosen. They are of national interest with some excellent arguments on both sides are assured. Five cents admission will be charged. The money will be used to create a debating fund.

TEEL LEADS BAND FOR MATHEWS

Serious Illness of Father Calls Music Director Out of Town.

North Side High School had a new band director for Saturday's game with Auburn, when Stanley Teel, Central's director of music, took charge of the North Side band. That's fine spirit and every Northsider appreciated Mr. Teel's services. Paul Mathews, regular North Side music director, had been called out of the city on account of the serious illness of his father.

Miss Alice McKeehan, Librarian At North Side High School

Graduate of Central and of Indiana University; Miss Coulter Is Assistant Librarian.

Miss Alice McKeehan, who is librarian at North Side High School, is a graduate of Central High School, this city. After graduation here Miss McKeehan went to Indiana university and was graduated from that school in 1924. After completing her work at the university she has been connected with Lombard college, where she taught French and also had charge of the library.

"It's a great pleasure to work in such a modern and well-equipped library," Miss McKeehan said, "and I think the students of North Side have a splendid attitude for work and play alike. So far I have found them very courteous and thoughtful."

That North Side-Central High Football Game

All North Siders, including faculty, students and fans, are looking forward to Saturday's game with Central. One enthusiast has even suggested that prior to the crack of the pistol, both Central and North Side fans sit on the fence and sing "Hail, Hail the Gang's All Here."

Our principal, M. H. Northrop, expressed his viewpoint when he said: "Good friends before the game; Better friends after the game; May the best team win."

WARD GIVES TALK TO THE NORTHSIDERS

Dwells On Advantages of Modern and Sanitary Building.

FOUR GREAT LESSONS ARE TO BE LEARNED

To Learn To Mingle With Others Is Greatest Lesson, According to Mr. Ward.

"To make the world a better place for having been in it," was the main thought in an address given by L. C. Ward, superintendent of city schools, before the students and faculty members of North Side High School last Wednesday morning in the high school auditorium. The feeling that one is of service and is doing something worth while is a great compensation and service, makes for citizenship, Mr. Ward said.

Introduced by Principal M. H. Northrop, the speaker began his address by showing North Side pupils the advantages they enjoy by being permitted to attend a school in which not only every room is sanitary, but which, in all respects, is better than the state requires and ranks among the best schools in the United States.

In order to deserve this great gift and repay the school board and the city of Fort Wayne for their sacrifices there are four things students should get out of their high school education, said the speaker.

The first lesson to learn is to use your brains. The object of a high school training is not so much to teach pupils facts as to teach them where to go to find the facts they want. Boys and girls should learn to think for themselves.

WOMEN TEACHERS FORM ORGANIZATION

Mary Cromer, North Side Teacher Elected President.

The women teachers of the South Side, Central and North Side High Schools met Tuesday, October 4, at North Side High School to form an organization.

The guests were shown through the building by the North Side teachers. After that a delightful banquet was served in the cafeteria. The tables were decorated in flowers and candles of the three school colors—green and white, blue and white, and crimson and white.

After dinner the organization was formed. Miss Mary Cromer, of North Side, was elected president; Miss Marian Ingham, of Central, vice-president, and Miss Mary Paxton, of South Side, secretary-treasurer. One representative is to be chosen from each high school and these representatives with the officers will constitute the executive committee. The main purpose of this organization is purely social. It is planning to hold two meetings a year.

Miss Coulter, who is Miss McKeehan's assistant, comes from Wampum, Pennsylvania. She took her library training at Hiram college, from which she was graduated in 1924. She then taught in Elwood, Pennsylvania.

That the two librarians are quite patriotic can be seen by their appreciation of the beautiful new American flag which has just been placed in the reading room. Their loyalty to North Side is evident since they have the Red and White banner in a most conspicuous place.

Miss Erdean McCloud, who has charge of eight branch libraries, supervised the North Side school library.

Miss Erdean McCloud who supervises the work of branch libraries in the city, among them the new North Side High School library.

Lectures On Library Arrangement Given To Freshmen As Part of English

List of Questions Are Given Which Each One Has to Fill Out and Return to Library.

Maybe it's because the library is so light, large and airy that it is so popular. Maybe it's because of Miss McCloud, or perhaps it's just because everyone is just naturally fond of books, pictures and magazines and a thousand other interesting things that one finds in a library. Then a whisper of doubt comes. Maybe the popularity is caused by the consuming desire of some faculty member in science, English, history or any other department to make the students work.

Some students seem to think that an assignment for collateral or outside reading is a bug-bear. Others, again, regard such work as a stumbling block. To prove that such things are not exclusively the hallucination of the students we will cite a collateral faculty stumbling step.

For instance, the first stairway next to the publication office has a step which Miss McCloud claims as her own to trip over.

So you see she has an hallucination, too. And she's over eight branch libraries! She instructs not only the student body, but some of the faculty as well when it comes to looking for books. Of course, in direct charge of the library at North Side are the librarians, Miss McKeehan and Miss Coulter.

All students are given library instructions when they enter as Freshmen. This work is given in a lecture form. This year the lectures were given by Miss McKeehan and Miss Coulter and were classed as a part of the English work. At the time of the lecture, a special library instruction sheet was given to each Freshman who was asked to fill out

NEW SYSTEM HAS BEEN INAUGURATED

Books Can Be Obtained With Little Trouble.

No traffic congestion in our halls is the motto for North Side. A new system has been inaugurated which eliminates all confusion and elbow pushing. The responsibility of buying books rests entirely with the students.

The teacher of each class collects the money from the students and fills out an order blank. One of the students is given the money and order blank and sent to the book room where he is promptly waited upon.

Three clerks are busy here. One clerk checks over the order blank to make corrections if necessary. The student then passes on to the next clerk who is the cashier and who calls out the number of books needed and makes the change. The teacher in charge gets the books wanted, and thus the student has purchased books for approximately twenty students.

In this system of book selling, or as it may be called a "cafeteria" style, approximately sixty students are supplied with books in a minute. It avoids the rushes in the halls and takes less time to supply the students with books. It is hoped that in future years the idea may be better carried out, in that we will have sufficient books to supply every one at the beginning of the semester.

parts of the sheet and return it to the library.

The list used this year was compiled by Miss McKeehan and contained the following questions:

1. How many books are there in the library written by Theodore Roosevelt? How many written about him?

2. Find the books on the shelves, having the following numbers and give the name of the author of each: 177.1 D66, and a series of other numbers.

3. Go to the "Fiction Shelf" and find "Red Rock" by Thomas Nelson Page, and "Sard Harker" by John Mansfield. In what year were these books published.

4. Go to the biography shelf and copy the title of the book written by each of the following:

Edward Bok.
Alice Freeman Palmer.
Booker T. Washington.

TEACHERS PLAN FOR CONVENTION

Majority of Teachers Choose Indianapolis for Meeting Place.

The teachers of Fort Wayne may choose either the State Teachers' Association at Indianapolis or the North-eastern Indiana Teachers' Association at Fort Wayne as their meeting place on October 20, 21 and 22, when students will enjoy a two-day vacation.

Students of North Side High School, interested as they are in the progress of their alma mater, will be no less interested in the meeting places chosen by their faculty members for the convention.

The following is a list of the teachers going to stay in Fort Wayne: Miss Alexander, Mr. Bills, Miss M. Beyerlein, Miss G. ## Louis Williams, Lecturer, To Be At North Side High

Louis Williams, science entertainer, will give a lecture on science with demonstrations in the high school auditorium on Monday morning, October 17, at 10 o'clock. A general admission of ten cents will be made.

Having 'twenty-seven years' experience, Mr. Williams comes with a fine recommendation, both as a lecturer and an entertainer.

SILVER CUP IS GIVEN TO NORTHSIDERS

Trophy Given on Ground of Value of Player to Team

GRADES ARE ALSO TO BE CONSIDERED

Paul C. Guild, Local Realtor, and Graduate of DePauw, Donates Prize.

That Fort Wayne business men are back of North Side high school and are giving her loyal support is conclusive since another large silver trophy has been given to the Redskin school. This time the donor is Paul C. Guild, local realtor and booster of the North men. Unlike the Koerber cup, which is awarded for extemporaneous speaking contests the Guild Trophy is the goal for the athlete.

The cup will remain in the high school and at the close of each sport season the name of some athlete participating in that sport will be engraved on the trophy.

Features considered in selecting the athlete whose name will appear on the trophy are: The value of the player to the team, taking into consideration attitude, conduct and playing ability. The athlete must also do creditable class room work. The cup is for the four major sports—football, basketball, baseball and track.

"I am glad to see that such an active interest is being taken in North Side by the business men and patrons of the school. I am sure the awards that have already been presented to the school will serve as great incentives to the students," Mr. Northrop, principal of North Side, said.

Mr. Guild is a graduate of DePauw University where he was prominent in all activities of the school, especially in athletics.

Red and White Teams Will Soon Elect Officers

Thursday the night! All Red and White girls are to meet in the girls' gymnasium for election of captains. Every girl who is taking swimming or gymnasium MUST BE THERE! The roll will be taken and the names of those absent will be checked. After the election important announcements will be made. The election is important because no athletics can be started until the teams are organized. The Kick Ball team will be started next week. All girls who are interested, report at the gym. Announcements will be posted later.

Cleveland Symphony Orchestra, Tito Schipa and Louis Graveurs Are Among Attractions Booked for Fort Wayne.

Four stellar music attractions will be brought to Fort Wayne this winter through the efforts of the Morning Musical of which Mrs. W. H. W. Feltier is president. The series will open with the Cleveland Symphony orchestra, with Nicolai Sokoloff conducting, on November 15. The latest attraction added to the series was the San Carlo Opera company which will appear sometime in November. ## NORTHERNER TO BE OFFICIAL CON. PAPER

Large Supplement To Be Added To Regular Paper.

SALE WILL START AT SHRINE TEMPLE

Supplement Will Be Given Over To News of Convention Scheduled for Oct. 21, 22, 23.

The Northerner will be published as an official paper for the North-eastern Teachers Association which will be held October 21, 22, 23 in Fort Wayne, according to a statement made by M. H. Northrop, principal of North Side high school. The paper will be made up of next week's regular issue and a supplement which will be given over entirely to news of the association and of North Side high, Mr. Northrop said.

Work on the paper has already been started in both the advertising and news departments.

In the paper a complete schedule of all the meetings for the three days will be given, all the committees will be named, and all meeting places will be listed besides side lights and special articles on the speakers and exhibits. County Superintendent D. O. McComb is working in conjunction with the embryo journalists of North Side, who have undertaken the project as a part of their laboratory work.

Regular staff members, including Lorena Fann, editor-in-chief, John McMeen, managing editor, Nina Lewis, advertising manager and Don Elder, circulation manager, will direct the staff. The paper will go on sale just before the opening general session Thursday morning, at the Shrine Temple. A large corps of workers have offered their services in the circulation department and have been delegated to help Elder, it was stated.

Juniors in Charge of Next Pep Session Stunt

The Junior class will have charge of the special stunt at pep session on Friday. Miss Storr, faculty advisor for the Boosters' Club, has announced. Each class will have a chance to arrange some stunt for the pep sessions, Miss Storr said. Last week one of the main features of the program was the Vitaphone stunt of the North Side-Auburn game.

COMMUNITY FUND IS NEARING GOAL

North Side High Teachers Are 100 Per Cent.

"Be a Good Neighbor" is the slogan chosen by the campaigners in the Community Chest Drive which is now being carried on in this city. The goal for the drive has been set at $192,030, a sum which will soon be realized. The generosity of the Fort Wayne people was evident the first day of the drive when more than $25,000, or approximately one-fifth of the quota, was reached.

Teachers because of their profession are more than interested in the drive. The faculty of North Side have reached the top with 100 percent. Teachers over the city have pledged their help by giving donations to this fund.

Even pupils in the grade schools have been interested in the Community Chest. During the past week, posters were distributed among the children in the first six grades of all Fort Wayne schools. These posters were colored by the pupils and returned to the teachers, who, in turn, sent them to those chosen as judges. Prizes are to be awarded for the pictures which are chosen the best.

Other features of the group are Tito Schipa, one of the most outstanding tenors of today who will appear December 1 and Louis Graveurs, noted baritone, who will come in January. All the attractions are to be given in the Shrine auditorium. Tickets can be purchased at Mrs. Feltier's studio at 202 West Berry.

RULES AND REGULATIONS

The "do's" and "don'ts" of North Side High School are few—but the few rules and regulations which have been made, were not the result of whims, but were formulated for the benefit and the protection of the rights of the majority. Practically everyone in North Side is obeying the few rules we have.

Certainly no students can have been in North Side a month and not know four of the most common regulations.

1. No loitering in halls and at the entrance of the building.
2. No one is to remain in the building after school.
3. No whistling or shouting in the halls.
4. Students are to go directly to Study Hall when entering the building during a lunch period.

It is nothing less than unfair for any student to think he does not have to abide by rules that were made for the entire school; besides, it's most discourteous and disrespectful to Principal Northrop, who has seen the need of such regulations.

SATURDAY'S GAME

Hello Central!

Sorry we can't yell for you this week—but just rest assured that if we weren't yelling for the Redskins of North Side, we'd be right on the side lines with our Blue and White banners flying. As the sports writer says, "It's more like a home-coming." Just like when we used to play football against the kid next door—we'd fight the best we could to lick each other, then after the game was over, brush off the loose dirt, before going in the kitchen to get the usual slice of bread and butter, then both reappear to talk over the points of the game.

"Dad" Northrop expressed the feeling of North Side when he said:

"Good friends before the game,
Better friends after the game,
May the best team win."

SUPT. WARD'S ADDRESS

Students in North Side High School were given a real treat on Wednesday, when Superintendent Ward talked to the student body and faculty members of North Side High School. Mr. Ward's ideas of being of service and of going more than half way to accomplish something worth while were most timely, inasmuch as most students are just now entering the various activities. That Mr. Ward practices what he preaches has been demonstrated by the fact that during his administration as city superintendent he has built two new high school buildings and seven new grade schools besides numerous additions and improvements to other schools. Of the 15,000 students now enrolled in the Fort Wayne public schools, 9,000 are in rooms that have been built during Mr. Ward's administration.

NORTH SIDE TROPHIES

So much has been given to North Side. First the city gave the splendidly equipped building and now individual business men are giving their support. Last week the Koerber cup made its appearance and this week the Paul C. Guild trophy was given over to high school officials. With such support, it behooves every Northerner to "get down and dig" to prove that we are worthy of the confidence and that we can give real service value as well as be boosters.

Monday Morning Blues of a Football Player.

Nothing to do but practice,
Nothing to kick but a ball
And if there isn't one around
There's nothing to kick at all.

Nothing to wear but a helmet
Nothing to win but a game
And when you play the hardest
There's nothing to gain but fame.

Nothing to do but study
Nothing to read but a book
And then when you want to see around
There's nothing to take but a look.

Nothing to write but writing
Nothing to drive but Fords
And then again when you want to talk
There's nothing to say but words.

Nothing to chew but gum,
Nothing to muss but hair,
And when you get it all slicked down
There's nothing to look but fair.

Nothing to do on Monday
But wish that Friday were near;
Nothing to do, nothing to say
Nothing to be, but here.

—Philip Dodane—

Hello, everybody! Back again. Some team. Um...boy.

Yes, students may use the information desk, too.

One poor suffering student asked Miss Cromer where the Study Hall was and she told him to go down to the first floor, walk around three times and then go home and call the doctor.

Oh, for a couple of good jokes! That reminds me, maybe you all didn't hear the one our imminent librarian Erdean McCloud told—here goes: A Chinaman wanted to name his son after Lindbergh so he called him, "One Long Hop."

I noticed one thing that North Side brought from Central and that is cases (and I don't mean candy cases either), old ones, and some new ones, too.

This column is open to the public. We would welcome your attempt at poetry, free verse, blank verse, or what have you?

The Auburn team was a little playful, wasn't it? I suppose that was tag they were playing, whack a fellow then run.

Esther Cromwell—"I learned to dance when I was nine years old."

George Kaid—"S'funny what you can forget in so short a time, isn't it?"

As I said before any original poems or contributions of any sort will be welcome to this column.

How about some colors Saturday, Central will have some?

Everybody out Saturday.

Paid your 75c?

Exchanges

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 4 (A.P.).—More than 3,000 Boy Scouts, from virtually every troop in the city, have aided in tornado relief work.

Throughout the storm area Scouts could be seen directing traffic, helping keep out the crowds of curious, salvaging property from the ruins, and acting as messengers for the Red Cross, National Guard and other forces at work in the field.

One of the greatest tasks the Scouts undertook was to help deliver the 135,000 telegrams which poured into the city all day Friday, overwhelming the regular telegraph messengers.—Christian Science Monitor.

(Chief of the Fort Wayne Fire Department.)

"Fire prevention week activities in Fort Wayne from October 9 to 15 will play a big part in the national fire prevention campaign. Every organization in Fort Wayne has pledged support and co-operation, every individual will have a part in this event.

"The nation's yearly loss of 15,000 lives and $570,000,000 in property are frightful facts! Those who have suffered loss of dear ones or the ruin of their homes or business by fire have a story to tell that can never be forgotten. It makes every citizen of Fort Wayne resolve to work for a better fire record from now on.—News-Sentinel.

Good English.

In a certain high school of Pittsburgh, every teacher in every subject carefully observed the spoken English of the students for a period of one week. The boys and girls were, of course, unaware that they were under observation. Each grammatically incorrect sentence or expression heard in the classroom or without was written upon a slip of paper. The slips, collected at the end of the week, filled a large clothes basket.

It might prove interesting and worth while to try the same experiment at Wayne. It would be worth while if only to show what mistakes are the more prevalent. But what should we do about these errors? English teachers, rules of grammar, drills on correct usage in English classes can and do tell us what is wrong and why it is wrong, what is right and why it is right; but this knowledge, unless applied to all the talking we do, will avail little. Consciousness of outspoken English, or every word and sentence we utter, is the only way to improve. The old maxim, "Think before you speak," is apt. A word once spoken cannot be unsaid. Let us then be careful that our every utterance is as correct as we can make it. Let us, whenever we have occasion to speak, whether at school or at home, in English class or algebra class, to teacher or schoolmate, consciously watch our English. There are more expressive words than slang, for English possesses a richer and more varied vocabulary than any other language. The correct is always more polished and beautiful than the incorrect. Why repeat and "practice" words and expressions grammatically wrong or so slangy they are of no use to us in a short time?

There is nothing which marks a person so irretrievably as his use of his mother tongue. We don't allow ourselves to become stooped; we consider it slovenly not to walk erectly. We pride ourselves on the neatness of dress and the grooming of our person. But how often an otherwise good impression is spoiled by a single utterance! A famous writer once said he never wished to see a lady he considered very beautiful eat a meal. One easily grasps his point. What a disappointment it might have been for him to hear her talk!—Wayne Township News.

Carl Lehman Exhibits Model of Airplane.

Carl Lehman, a junior in the high school, constructed a large flying model of a Fokker monoplane, which was placed on exhibit in the hall this week. It is an exact replica of the one in which Commander Byrd flew to the coast of France. The plane represented many hours of hard, tedious work as it takes skill and patience to build a flying model on so large a scale.—The Spotlight.

See you at the Central game.

Everybody out Saturday.

Hi-Y and Torch Club

Meet At Potawatami

Delegates from the Hi-Y and Torch clubs of North Side, Central and South Side, left for Camp Potawatami Saturday after the football game with Auburn. At this meeting they made plans for the coming year's work.

The meeting Saturday was opened with a talk by O. M. Brunson of the Y. M. C. A., who tried to impress upon them the full significance of their meeting. Following this address was a discussion on the problems that confront high school boys. The points mentioned in this discussion were organized in such a manner that they might be used as the backbone of the clubs' programs for this year. The program was closed by a talk by Mr. Snell.

The Sunday services were led by Stanley Hamilton. Mr. Castor gave an address, after which was another general discussion in regard to which of these problems could best be handled by Hi-Y clubs.

Conference was closed early Sunday afternoon by another address by Mr. Snell on "Carrying On," in which he emphasized the importance of putting our thoughts into action and not merely thinking about our problems.

ANNUAL DISCUSSED BY SENIOR CLASS

Design for Pins and Rings to Be Chosen Soon.

What kind of an annual will North Side have? This was one of the main questions discussed at the senior meeting which was held last Friday. Miss Hurst suggested several new ideas for the annual. The one that was most favored by the seniors was to have it more informal. It will mean a lot of hard work for the seniors who have charge of putting the annual out, since there are only sixty members of the class.

Frank Nicklas, chairman of the social committee discussed with the class different plans for a social gathering which will be held in the near future.

Mary Erwin, of the Ring and Pin committee, told the class about the new North Side pins and rings. Miss Sinclair, of the art department, drew the plans for them. These plans were taken to a jeweler, who will have four different models ready soon.

The class will then vote for which model they like best. The pins and rings will be furnished about the first of December.

THE WRIGHT PLAYERS

"Cradle Snatchers," this week's exciting attraction at the Majestic Theatre, is a riotously funny farce comedy, woven about a trio of wives who resent the neglect of their middle-aged husbands. They decide that they, as well as the lesser halves of their establishments, have a right to get a kick out of life. If their husbands prefer to leave them and go on supposed hunting trips, then theirs is the right to hire excitement. The way in which they do this and the complications that ensue are said to make a highly amusing evening's entertainment.

"If a husband can have a flapper—what about the wife?" This question has troubled many 1927 homes, and the play offers a humorous solution of the problem.

Boosters Club Hold Pep Meeting For North Side-Auburn High Game

Will Hold Rouser Meeting for North Side-Central Battle of Brothers—Big Turn-Out Is Expected for Saturday's Game.

The senior members on the pep session committee of the Boosters Club put on the pep meeting for the North Side-Auburn game last Friday. The speakers and pantomime seemed to be a big success. It may be observed that our ship, which was launched by Miss Schwehn some time ago, is weathering a storm, but we're sure it will come out safely. The junior members of the committee will have charge of the pep meeting which will be held some time this week for the coming North Side-Central game. No roof repairs have been seen, but they'll be needed after the next pep meeting, as it is promised to be a roof-raising pep session. "Everybody out Saturday!" is the call from the Boosters.

The following are songs and yells turned in so far. Anybody with a suggestion for a song or yell is urged to see Miss Storr. Miss Hurst and Miss Schwehn composed the words for our school song—

Oh, dear old North Side,
Oh, dear old North Side,
The pride of every student here,
We'll always love you,
And memories of you
We'll always cherish and hold dear,
And to the ideals that you will teach us,
And for the good that we can do,
Ever faithful and true
We'll be to you,
Our dear old North Side High.

The following words were composed by Mr. DeLong:
"Singing, shouting, yelling Hi! Hi!
Hi! Hi!
The happiest days of our school life

Are the days at our North High."
(Repeat.)

Yells.
Welcome! Welcome!
The Redmen say welcome!

Beat 'em, Redskins, beat 'em!
Beat 'em, Redskins, beat 'em!
Beat 'em fair and beat 'em square!
But beat 'em, Redskins, beat 'em ! !

Zia! Boom! Bah!
North Side Redskins,
Rah ! ! Rah ! ! ! Rah ! ! ! !

Come on, fellows, Pep ! ! !
Come on, fellows, Pep ! ! !
Some have it once a day,
With their breakfast on a tray,
But we have it every way;
Come on, fellows—pep ! ! ! !

Paint 'em red—paint 'em white,
Put your colors in the light ! ! !
Y - E - A ! ! North Side, Fight ! !

Additional Football Members Are Added

Since the official list of football players was given for the Boosters' club program for Friday, several new people have reported for practice. They are J. Christie, D. Habecker, H. Stewart, Hatch, Brown, Beer and Miner.

Wade McCoy, '27, of Central, now a varsity yell leader at Indiana university, was chosen among four out of twenty-four yell leaders. Of the four he was chosen as one of the two best yell leaders in Indiana university. He went last Saturday to Chicago to lead the yells of Indiana university.

That's our story and we're glad we thought of it.

Marshall Will Captain Redskin Team In Battle With Central High Eleven

Excitement Runs High at North Side As Old Team Mates Prepare For Battle With Central High.

Red, white and blue—and a pistol for fireworks!

But it won't be a Fourth of July celebration when Coach Mark Bills' Redskins meet that Tiger Blue and White team of Coach Murray Mendenhall's at the South Side stadium for a gridiron scrap on Saturday afternoon. With the goal posts at one end of the field bedecked in blue and white, with crimson and white waving at the other end of the field, the North Side and Central teams will line up. Amid waving of pennants and cheers and shouts and wild huzzas the once united football squads will fight to carry the pigskin across the goal line.

Like a real homecoming, everyone will be out—even the horns and drums of North Side's music director, Paul Mathews, will be blaring and beating away to drown out the sounds of the musical aggregation of Stanley Teel, of Central. Then there's Boosters and more Boosters—with no sign of a Blue or Red ribbon—tied to the pop bottles and "Henrys". How can one tell? But why bring that up!

Not even mentioning the close alliance between principals, we jump to coaches who hand in hand used to carry the water bucket and towel and first aid kit. The situation makes us feel "off sides," on the fourth with three to go.

Steve Marshall, '29, ex-Central athlete, playing halfback, will no doubt be captain for Bills' men and call the signals for the Redskins. David Bash, regular captain for the "uptowners," will direct the plays of Mendenhall's squad.

REDSKINS DEFEATED BY AUBURN ELEVEN

Auburn Scores In Each Period of Game Against Redskins.

Displaying a powerful offense and a defense that held North Side warriors in check throughout the entire game, Auburn broke through the Red and White defense for twenty-six points and an overwhelming victory over the Redskins last Saturday at the stadium. Straight football was employed by Auburn, mingling end runs with off-tackle smashes to gain through the North Side line.

A North Side fumble early in the game donated Auburn its first six points. From that time on Auburn continued to score in each quarter. Stebing, fleet Auburn halfback, proved to be the Redmen's biggest threat, his end runs giving Auburn big gains. For North Side, Steve Marshall, showed the best football ability, shining equally well on both offense and defense.

In the first quarter North Side threatened to score, a pass from Marshall to Monnot, placing the ball on Auburn's 20-yard line. However, Auburn's defense tightened and the Redskins lost the ball on downs. A large crowd turned out to witness the game.

SOCIETY AND FEATURES

We are reminded now that the football season is upon us again, with only a distinct collegiate thrill for the crowds far away from the side lines.

Just at a glance of the masses all one sees is a turmoil of colors, flashy reds, greens, yellows, blues and a thousand and one more mixtures that look like a painter's palette.

Coming closer one is able to see nifty sweaters, tunics, and the chic sport dress. As for the hats, they are nothing but a droop here and a wrinkle there, to say nothing of infinitesimal alterations in crews and brims.

As for sizes, height, length and dimensions of other apparel, there is a chance for infinite variety in the mere juggling of figures on the scale.

All details of intimate apparel, colors, styles of footwear, beads (their size, length and color), ornaments of every kind, are served to taste on the season's menu.

The Misses Helen Harper, Dorothy Meyers, and Audrey Dalton spent the week-end with Miss Carole Kelley, of Waynedale.

Miss Marjorie Schreck entertained with a lovely party at her home recently. During the evening dancing was enjoyed, after which dainty refreshments were served to the guests, who were the Misses Phyllis Lines, Jeannette Popp, Charlotte Latker, Dorothy McComb, Marjory Stewart, Mary Margaret Vesey, Mary Jane Scott, Helen Marshall, and the hostess, and the Messrs. John Fawcett, Arthur Richard, Norman Richard, Robert Kaade, William Borely, Byron Beber, Edwin Hipleins, and Maynard Shiffer.

Miss Mary Weaver entertained with a lovely dinner party of charming appointments at her home Saturday evening. Those who attended this delightful affair were the Misses Kathryn Bash, Virginia Blosser, Betty Carlson, Frances Cook, Madeline Cromwell, Helen Dessauer, Betty and Mary Granger, Virginia Holden, Esther Lowery, Mary Jane McMillen, Hazel Menefee, Ruth Miles, Jeannette Popp, Betty Ray, Luella Rogge, Virginia Seemeyer, Betty Van Arnam, Mary Margaret Vesey, Judy Wilson, Harriette Hlester, Mary Ellen Heit, Charlotte Latker, Nancy Porter, Phyllis Lines and the hostess.

Miss Margaret Phipps and Miss Ignota Winter, 1927 graduates from Central, have left for Muncie, where they will enter the state normal school.

The Misses Alice and Helen Fairweather recently entertained with a wicker bake. Later in the evening bridge and dancing were enjoyed. Those who enjoyed this lovely affair were the Misses Mary and Marjorie Stewart, and the hostesses, and the Messrs. Bob and Richard Smith, Harry McCreary, and Richard Salder.

Bob and Richard Smith had their week-end guest, Richard Salder, of Huntertown.

Miss Mary Stewart entertained recently at her home. Bridge and dancing were features of the evening. Those present were the Misses Alice and Helen Fairweather and the hostess, and the Messrs. Robert and Richard Smith, Harry McCreary, and Richard Salder.

Miss Dorothy McComb entertained recently with a wicker bake. Those present were the Misses Marjorie Stewart, Charlotte Latker, Helen Harper, Phyllis Lines, and the hostess, and the Messrs. John Fawcett, Edwin Hipleins, and Walter McComb. Ted Hagerman and "Charlie" Hengstler, who are students at Purdue University, will arrive Friday to spend the week-end in the city.

The Misses Frances Cook and Esther Lowery are leaving Friday for Indiana University where they will attend the Minneapolis-Indiana football game and homecoming for Indiana. While there Miss Cook will be the guest of the Kappa Alpha Theta house and Miss Lowery the guest at the Alpha Omicron Pi house.

Paul Mensing, Doc Wilkins, Robert Fleming, Ed Kelly and Kenneth Rupp have returned from Lafayette where they were the week-end guests of "Charlie" Hengstler and "Ted" Hagerman, who are students at Purdue University.

MATH. AND SCIENCE CLUB OFFICERS NAMED

Ferguson, Wood, Nicklas and Hewitt Are Elected.

MR. RISK GIVES AN INTERESTING TALK

Discusses Didactic and Scientific Methods of Study—Much Interest Shown.

Last Thursday an important meeting of the Math and Science Club was held. An election of officers took place in which Clue Ferguson was chosen president, Sadie May Wood, vice-president, Frank Nicklas, secretary and Mr. Hewitt, treasurer.

Mr. Risk gave a very interesting talk on "The Scientific Method of Learning." He stated that there are two distinct methods of learning, the didactic, by which is meant something which is told, rather than learned by first hand observation and the scientific method. This latter method, he explained, is not one which can be relied on entirely. It must be combined with the didactic method. It is the method we use when we experiment in the laboratory or study directly the thing about which we wish to learn.

The scientific method is not important for the number of facts which you learn by its use, indeed, the didactic method is much better for learning a great number of facts, but by using the second method you are required to rely on yourself, to make your own observations, raise your own questions and draw your own conclusions. It keeps one from being a mere follower of others thoughts, and it requires the individual to use other powers than memory alone. It requires one to draw the information from the thing itself, Mr. Risk said.

Mr. Risk pointed out that, like all other valuable things this method of study and thought is not easily gained. It will call for the best attention and effort which an individual can give. At first it may be hard but one can learn to use it if he is willing to make the effort and only by such efforts are strong minds developed, and when you have learned the method it will serve you when you must solve the most important problems in life.

Knowledge changes as new facts are found but the scientific method does not change. Wisdom tells us how to recognize facts, how to understand and act in accordance with them. Indeed, wisdom is just this method called by another name. We call it by this name because it is through the study of science that it has been developed. But it does not apply only to science, but to all the affairs of the world.

The scientific method is not new. The speaker illustrated this by showing that the great men of history had used it. In the time of Socrates books with such ideas as his were not allowed to be published. William Harvey upset all the ideas of the book of his period by his discovery of the circulation of the blood. Charles Darwin spent the greater portion of his life gathering facts on evolution before he drew his conclusions. And so on, names of the outstanding men who have made use of this method, could be mentioned.

Mr. Risk concluded by saying that this method is more valuable to man than all his achievements for it is the method by which all the best of these achievements and discoveries were accomplished.

After the meeting games were enjoyed and delicious refreshments were served.

The next meeting will be held on the first Thursday of next month.

JOINT HI-Y CLUB ORGANIZATION

Stanley Hamilton Talks On "A Look Ahead."

The first meeting of the Hi-Y this semester was held Thursday evening, October 6, at 6 o'clock. Thirty-seven boys from the three local high schools attended. Six of them were from North Side, twelve from Central, and nineteen from South Side. Merton Kimes, faculty adviser from North Side, attended and expressed his pleasure with the club. Mr. Croninger and Mr. Dilts, from Central, and also Mr. Davidson, of South Side, were present.

Don Porter, of Central, acted as chairman. Mr. Croninger then spoke on "What Hi-Y Means to Me." Mr. Croninger stated that in Hi-Y the students speak with freedom and give their true opinion while in the classroom they are apt to be influenced by the teacher's power of grading.

Donald Newell and Ralph Burry, of South Side, gave their views on Hi-Y work.

Stanley Hamilton made a talk on "A Look Ahead." He said that the Hi-Y was not an exclusive group but an inclusive group, and the barriers of membership were self-imposed.

The club meets on Thursday evening at 6 o'clock at the Y. M. C. A. for supper and discussion. Sophomore, Junior and Senior boys are eligible to membership. Their attendance is solicited with a view of building character in high school students. Those attending from North Side were Franklin Ivin, Robert Brosius, Charles Weyrick, Raymond Loughan, Robert Hines, and John McMeen.

Another aim of high school students should be to develop their bodies. Investigations show that about one-third of the people enrolled in high schools are physically unfit to do their work. When these students leave high school they are also unfit to carry their share of life's duties and are direct liabilities to their communities. The school board has done much to better this condition. Physical examinations of students are started in the lowest grades and continued all through their school lives. Classes in physical education, instructed by well qualified teachers, are offered to the pupils.

The third thing to learn in high schools is how to make proper use of one's spare time. "When I was a boy," said Mr. Ward, "men worked twelve hours a day or from sunrise to sunset." A little later only ten hours a day were given over to labor, and now we have the "eight-hour day." Mr. Ward prophesied that the day would soon come when people would work only six hours a day. This may be a good thing and it may be a bad thing, depending on the use people make of the extra time, they will have for their own use, he said. It is the object of the schools to help pupils to choose the right ways to spend their leisure time. For this reason Booster, Literary clubs, Mathematics and Science clubs and others like them are formed, school papers edited, and other outside activities carried on. Mr. Ward urged everyone to take part in at least one of these extra activities.

Finally what students learn in high school will influence their lives after they leave school. In a high school all types and classes of people must mingle. "The high school is the melting pot of democracy." Here one should learn to associate with everyone and not look down on any because of their religion, race, or rank.

Mr. Ward used the story of the Good Samaritan to illustrate three different paths that can be followed in life. He said that the robbers represented one class of people, those who intend to get what they want, honestly if possible, but get it. One who takes this view of life will be justly hated by his fellow men and will finally come to hate himself.

The two men who passed on the other side of the road were shown, to represent those who have as their life's motto "play the game square and on a 50-50 basis." They think only of themselves and do nothing to help the world. As soon as they pass out of life they will be forgotten.

A third type is represented by the Samaritan. That sort of a person goes about doing good and will be remembered through the ages.

In conclusion Mr. Ward urged everyone to look at life from this last viewpoint and try to make the world a better place because he has lived in it.

Once a week.

Wednesday mornings.

7. Copy the first sentence of the magazine article on Prohibition written by Jerome Green in 1926.

8. Find a short biography in the Americana of Gerald Stanley Lee. In what year was he born?

How many illustrations accompany the article on the Snake bird in the Encyclopedia Britannica?

9. Does the book entitled "Heroes of the Army in America" contain any information about Joseph E. Johnston?

10. Arrange the following in the order in which you would find them in the catalogue:

Smith, James

What is the population of Mexico? How many ships passed through the Panama canal in 1926?

12. Give the names of six magazines, of which the library has both bound volumes and current numbers.

Freshmen rarely realize the importance of a good foundation. But their self-importance is a standing as well as an outstanding joke. It's time all freshmen just like babies (since the seventeenth amendment) might be president sometime!

Those who regard this as a serious possibility take public speaking and for the forsaken aspirants the following lists of questions is made.

1. How many magazine articles on President Coolidge are there in the library?

2. How many books have we in this library on Public Speaking? Give author and title of each. How many books are there on oratory?

The Friendship club will have as their guests Mr. and Mrs. Northrop, Miss Reynard and Mr. Kimes, besides the members who wish to attend. Miss Huffman, the faculty adviser will also be present.

GLENN FRANK, WILL DURANT ON PROGRAM

Frank, President of University at 39, Took A. B. Degree at 25.

WILL DURANT, MODERN TEACHER OF PHILOSOPHY

Prominent and Enthusiastic Teacher at Columbia University Heads Program.

That the teachers who attend the State Teachers' Association held at Indianapolis will be greatly benefited by their few days spent at the association is evident by the number of good features that have been slated on the program for the three days.

With a schedule so complete that it covers every field of work or activity in the public schools of the state, every teacher and school official can find departmental work that will be of special benefit to her. Then there are general sessions and special speakers, who stand out as exponents of achievement in education. Among the list of notables who will be present at the convention are Glenn Frank, president of the University of Wisconsin; Will Durant, who has become more popular than ever since his book "The Story of Philosophy" has been published; Dr. Thomas H. Briggs, Professor of Education at Teachers College, Columbia University; Dr. C. W. Washburne, who for eight years has been superintendent of Winnetka, Illinois; Uel W. Larkin, who is the head of the Missouri State Teachers College of Maryville, Missouri; Dr. Edwin Dilles Starbuck, a Hoosier who has been in charge of the Iowa Research Station in Character Education since 1923. He is the author of "Psychology of Religion" and "Moral Education in Public Schools"; Lewis A. Wilson represents vocational education on the association program; Walter A. Jessup, president of the University of Iowa; Chauncey Samuel Boucher, Dean of the University of Chicago, and Judge Charles W. Hoffman, judge of the Juvenile and Domestic Relations Courts of Cincinnati, O., are other outstanding speakers for the Indianapolis meeting.

Of the two first speakers, Glenn Frank and Will Durant, the following has been said:

Glenn Frank, the son of a county school teacher in Missouri, is now president of the University of Wisconsin.

The child of sketchy education, of lonely reading, the young man who was twenty-five before he could find time and the money to get an A. B. degree, is translating into action the most exciting idea in university education in our time. Where Elliot of Harvard with his Elective System left off Frank has gone on. He has established at Wisconsin a college within a college.

Only an amazing speed of assimilation could have squeezed into tight space all his expansive accomplishment.

He learned to speak in public as a child; he had entranced audiences all over the Middle West before he was of age—he has delivered hundreds of lectures, read thousands of books; done masses of research in commercial and economic fields; worked with Ex-President Taft for international peace—was Editor in Chief of the Century Magazine—is now President of a mighty university.

And he is only thirty-nine years old.

Will Durant first became prominent for his work when teaching at Columbia University. Men and women who studied under him there still tell of the exhilarating influence of his enthusiasm and his scholarship; they had never suspected that philosophy could be so intelligible, so absorbing, and so fruitfully related to the actual problems of life.

It happened that among the many lectures which Dr. Durant was asked to give outside the university was one on "Spinoza," at the great community center, Labor Temple, maintained by the Presbyterian Church at Fourteenth Street and Second Avenue, New York. This address led to the formation of two classes under Dr. Durant, which met at Labor Temple every week for 40 weeks in the year, with an approximate attendance of 1,000 per week for eight years. These two classes have now a combined attendance of 1,600 every week. Out of these courses came Labor Temple School—an institution which has won such a place for itself in the educational life of the metropolis that its annual dinners have become the in-

BOWEN TAKES FIRST PLACE IN CONTEST

Name of Winner To Be Engraved On Koeber Cup.

SOMERS IS SECOND AND McMEEN TAKES THIRD

Subjects Are Big Business, Crime Prevention, and Commercial Aviation.

Philip Bowen won first place in North Side's first extemporaneous speaking contest held last Wednesday morning, October 17, at 9:30. His name will be engraved on the Koeber cup, presented to the school by Mr. Robert Koeber, Sr., in order to stimulate interest in extemporaneous speaking. Paul Somers won second place and John McMeen third. The other speakers were Margaret Smenner, Herbert Vigran, and Robert Walsh.

Mr. Northrop, principal of North Side, presided as chairman. Mr. Robert Koeber, Jr., presented the Koeber cup on behalf of his father, Robert Koeber, Sr.

The speakers had been preparing on the three assignments, Big Business, Crime Prevention, and Aviation Progress, for one week. One hour before the contest they drew their topics and placed in order of speaking.

Philip Bowen spoke on Aviation Progress. He said, "Wolf & De-sapier's use of airplanes for delivery out of town, and the Royal Type-writers' gigantic delivery plane are examples of aviation progress."

Paul Somers excellently portrayed Big Business to the audience and said that it had been one of the causes of America's recent prosperity. He also said, "Big Business is gaining friends for America, in Europe and in foreign countries. It is greatly improving economic conditions in these same countries."

John McMeen discussed "Crime Prevention." He said, "Crime must be prevented, not cured. The Baumes law and similar laws throughout the country would not only prevent but in time eliminate crime."

Margaret Smenner also spoke on Crime Prevention. Miss Smenner said that crime prevention could not be successful without better co-operation of the courts.

Herbert Vigran's phase of Big Business was that it was not only beneficial to this country financially but economically.

Robert Walsh contended that aviation progress in this country not only excelled that of Europe, but financially was a much greater success.

Miss Cromer deserves credit for organizing the contest and for having so successfully begun public speaking as one of North Side's regular activities. A good sized crowd attended the contest and supported their fellow speakers. Each speaker was given five minutes for his construction speech and three minutes for rebuttal.

One extemporaneous contest will be held each semester. Any contestant having his name engraved three times on the Koeber award will receive a smaller replica of the cup from Mr. Koeber. The judges were composed of members of North Side's faculty, and were as follows, Miss Julia Alexander, and Mr. Pennington.

FACULTY SWIMMING CLASS ORGANIZED

Teachers to Swim Every Friday at 3:15.

It is whispered among the students that the women teachers of North Side have formed a swimming class under the supervision of Miss Schwehn, girls' swimming instructor. Every Friday afternoon at 3:15 the fair teachers don bathing suits and caps and plunge into the emerald waters of the pool.

Those who have joined the class are: Mary E. Cromer, Victoria Gross, Marie Miller, Hilda Auman, Vinette Sites, Ella B. Clark, Mildred Huffman, Mercedes Hurst, Glenn Smith and Helen F. Smith.

INTERIOR VIEW OF NORTH SIDE HIGH CAFETERIA

Meals To Be Served At North Side High During Teachers Convention

Nearly Two Hundred and Forty Students Have Lunch Daily in School Cafeteria. Upkeep is Very Low.

Meals will be served at noon in the North Side high school cafeteria during the Northeastern Indiana Teachers Association, Mrs. Wellmeier, director in charge of the school cafeteria, has announced.

The cafeteria, which is located on the third floor of the building, has twenty tables, and can seat two hundred people at one time. There are fifty large windows on three sides of the room, which makes the place very light and cheery. The floor of the cafeteria is covered with Battleship linoleum.

With nearly 24 students eating lunch daily at the cafeteria, Mrs. Wellmeier and her three regular assistants are kept busy. It takes a lot of time to get the hot foods, sandwiches, salads and desserts ready for the thirty-five student helper to serve during the fourth, fifth and sixth periods. A bushel of potatoes are used each day, ten gallons of milk are used in cooking or served, six loaves of sandwich bread are made into sandwiches; thirty pounds of meat are cooked; six gallons of fruits and vegetables are served and five pounds of butter are used for table service.

The demand for hot foods is greater than the demand for salad and desserts, Mrs. Wellmeier said. The food is served at near cost price as possible, she said, and the average cost is about seventeen cents for each student.

Mrs. Hoham who supervises South Side and Central cafeterias, also supervises the one at North Side.

The kitchen has the most modern electric equipment, so that Mrs. Wellmeier has no difficulty with serving meals on time.

Teachers attending the association are invited to inspect the kitchen.

Meals will be served in the cafeteria Thursday and Friday noon to the teachers who are attending the Indiana State Teachers Association at Fort Wayne. Mrs. Wellmeier who is in charge of the cafeteria states that there will be ladies from Central and South Side to assist her. The menus have not yet been planned but it is thought that they will be somewhat like the regular ones.

Grummons and McMeen To Attend Convention

Two North Side students, Helene Grummons and John McMeen, will attend the Indiana High School Press Association, which will convene at Franklin on Friday and Saturday of this week. Ten representatives are going from Central and two are representing the South Side high school.

The opening session will be held Friday morning. Welcome addresses will be given by Dr. Rainey, president of Franklin College; Otis Woolsey, mayor of Franklin, and Senator Arthur R. Robinson. Madeline Cromwell, state president of the association, and Miss Ella Sengenberger of Indianapolis, will give the responses.

Sectional Meeting Planned

Sectional meetings at which topics of especial interest to student journalists are discussed by prominent newspaper men, will be held Friday afternoon. In the evening the annual banquet and fun-fest will be held. At that time silver cups will be awarded the winners of first places.

The delegates will be entertained Friday night by a theater party, followed by an informal dance—the Convention Ball. On Saturday morning breakfasts are to be held for the student and teacher groups. The newspaper section will be addressed by Mr. William N. Otto, Shortridge High School, Indianapolis. The year-book group will have a question box session. The business session at which the new officers for the coming year will be elected will bring the association to a close.

The Indiana Journalistic Teachers' Association will also be in session and will discuss important matters pertaining to year-books and newspapers.

JOINT PRESS CLUB IS NOW UNDER WAY

Fann and Wiant Are Elected as Council Members

SCHOLASTIC STANDARD TO BE INAUGURATED

More Good Reporters May Still Find Places and Work on the Staff.

A Joint Press Club for North Side, Central and South Side has been started by the embryo journalists of the three city high schools. The first meeting of the schools was called for last Saturday afternoon after the Central-North Side football game.

Although there was no representative present from the Green and White school, council members were elected from the other two schools. Lorena Fann, '28, editor in chief of the Northerner, was selected to represent the North school while Thoburn Wiant, '28, was chosen to voice the wishes of the Blue and White Centralites. Such an organization, uniting the Press Clubs of the city schools is the first of its kind in the state.

Although no definite plans or policies were made for the organization the Fort Wayne delegation will present, at Franklin at the Indiana High School Press Association, some measures to have eligibility rules for staff members, the same as are required of students participating in athletic events or in public speaking or dramatics. If such a rule would be passed, the advisors thought that it would do away with a great deal of the mediocre work that is being done on the publications at the present time. Even if the eligibility rule is not enforced in all the public schools in the city or state, it will be enforced at North Side, Miss Hurst, advisor for publications said. If students are interested in work on the Northerner permit slips can be secured from Miss Hurst in Room 110. These slips are to be O. K.'ed by Mr. Northrop, principal, and are to be returned to the office of publications.

Due to the fact that most of the work for the paper is done during the latter part of the week, there will be no paper next week.

Quill Club Organized

A few students who are interested in creative writing have organized "The Quill Club." Every few weeks each member is required to write some poetry, an essay or story on any subject of interest to him.

The club will hold its meetings every two weeks to talk over matters and discuss the writings of the members.

At a meeting last Tuesday the name was chosen, officers were elected, and plans for the semester were discussed. The officers chosen were: President, Margaret Smenner; vice-president, Philip Bowen; secretary, Jean Bouillet, and treasurer, Margaret Berghoff. Mr. Dickinson is the faculty advisor for the club.

To become a member, a student must have an interest in creative writing, be willing to work, and must have a creditable record in all of his studies.

D. O. McComb, County Supt.

VACATION

"Hurrah, Hurrah for the teachers," is the cry that is heard about the school.

Yes, we have a vacation on our hands. Everyone is glad even the teachers. You would think that anyone in so beautiful a building and wonderful surroundings as the pupils of North Side have, would not even think of a vacation.

But it is not the buildings or the surroundings that make us want a vacation, it is just the idea of it. I think when students really think of what fun they have at North Side they do not care so much for a vacation as they do for several extra hours of sleep. But, do they get more sleep? Many students are more in need of a vacation after it than they are when the holiday begins.

Many are leaving the city, others are going to stay at "home and help mother." Many wieners roasts and parties have been planned.

ELIGIBILITY FOR JOURNALISTS

It is a great satisfaction to many to know that North Side High School is requiring embryo journalists to be eligible for work on the school publications just as the athlete is eligible for the events in which he participates.

With nearly fifty persons reporting for work in journalism it is almost impossible for an advisor to eliminate immediately those who are not capable of carrying on the work. With only students who are passing on three subjects at work on the publications, a great deal of the mediocre work that is being done in high school journalism at the present time.

Many students are eager to get into some activity, and they break into the activity that has the fewest barriers. Too, if athletes are required to do creditable work in the class room it is no more than right that journalists should be required to do the same creditable work in representing the school in journalism.

TEACHERS' ASSOCIATIONS

With such outstanding speakers as those who will address different sessions both at the State Teachers Association in Indianapolis, and at the Northeastern Indiana Teachers Association in Fort Wayne, the public school people are going to enjoy a real vacation these next few days.

Superintendent William McAndrew, of the Chicago public schools, is one of the most outstanding characters in the teaching profession of this country. Before going to Chicago Superintendent McAndrew was for many years an assistant superintendent of the New York public schools.

Superintendent E. De Boynton, of Ithaca, N. Y., has won his position as an educational speaker by address to department of Superintendence of the N. E. A. on two occasions. We are expecting an excellent address from him on the topic of "This Unspanked Generation."

State Superintendent F. G. Blair, of Illinois, is the president of National Education Association and an educator of national importance. When he speaks we will "sit up and take notice."

Mr. Frank D. Slutz is principal of the Moraine ark School, of Columbus, Ohio, and is conducting one of the outstanding experiments in the country in the field of Elementary Education. He may be expected to bring to us an inspiring and practical message.

At the state convention Glenn Frank, president of Wisconsin and Will Durant are headliners. Both of these people have gained a world wide reputation.

ART CLUB IS NOW READY FOR WORK

Be Sure to Have a Redskin Painted on Your Slicker

North Side High School will have an Art club. That is the announcement that has been made by Miss Zook and Miss Sinclair of the Art department. The club will not be a social organization, Miss Zook said. Now she is working on a program for the year, which will include a series of lectures on different phases of art, as Japanese art, pottery, cathedrals, designs and many other interesting subjects.

The Art Club will hold its meetings each month on the second Thursday at 3:15. An election of officers will be held at the next meeting. Either a chalk talk will be given by Harold Cox, our famed cartoonist, or a lecture given on Japanese prints with an exhibit sent from New York for the purpose. Watch the bulletin board and the Northerner.

Music in the Air

The "All District Orchestra" composed of students from seventy or eighty different high schools in North eastern Indiana will play Friday afternoon at North Side for the entertainment of the Northeastern Indiana teachers. Two hundred and eighty-seven students have signed up for this orchestra which will be led by Mr. Huffman of Berne, Indiana. The numbers played will be broadcast through the courtesy of station WWO.

The Wright Players

All this week, at the Majestic Theatre, the Wright Players will present "In the Next Room," a thrilling detective story by no less a celebrity than Eleanor Robson, one of the greatest of all American actresses, in collaboration with Harriet Ford, author of such hits as "The Dummy," "On the Firing Line," etc.

Large Crowd Watches North Side Bow To Central At S. S. Stadium Saturday

Central Wins First Game of City High School Championship Series In One-Sided Tilt.

Central won! Presenting a fine running attack, well interfered, mingled with an aerial attack, the Tigers clawed their way to a 49-to-6 victory over North Side Redskins at the South Side stadium last Saturday afternoon. It was the first game to the public high school series for the city title.

North Side played Central on even terms in the first quarter, after which the defense of the Red and White was shattered before the driving plunges of the Tiger backs, who crashed their way through the Redskins' forward wall for big gains. The Central line was a big factor in bringing the ball toward the Redskin goal posts by opening big holes in North Side's defensive wall, and the Blue linemen were also frequently able to break through North Side's line to stop the Red and White backs from getting under way with the ball. Hire played an exceptionally good game at center for the uptown school, while all the Central backfield men shined equally well. Buggs was the main cog in Central's offense as he scored five of the Tiger's eight touchdowns. Central scored two touchdowns in every quarter. Koenig accounted for the Redskins' lone tally in the first quarter by charging through tackle from the Blue's two-yard line. However, this was the only score North Side was capable of making as the Central line held whenever its goal was threatened later in the game. For North Side Pierce appeared to perform best in the line and Steve Marshall received some long passes and made some good tackles to be the main threat in North Side's backfield. Lateral passes and end runs were employed mainly by the Red men to gain yardage.

Shortly after the beginning of the game, Central made her initial score and continued to add to her total until the end of the game.

A large crowd appeared for the first city high school contest of this season. Both sides of South Side's stadium were well filled and both Central's and North Side's bands stimulated the spirit of their respective

SWIMMING CLASSES ARE UNDER WAY

Outside Classes Held On Thursday—Faculty Friday.

Girls swimming classes have been completed and are starting off with a splash. Outside of the regular period classes, a girls' swimming class is to be held every Thursday night for those whose regular school periods are taken with classes.

The class of most interest is the Life Saving class. This is open to girls who are capable swimmers. So far, ten girls have enrolled. A complete course is offered including strokes, hold, and artificial respiration. Miss Schwehn also directs this class, which meets every Thursday.

The class which makes the biggest splash is the women-faculty class. It meets every Friday, and many of the demagogues bid fair to become a second Gertrude Ederle. In this class the teachers get a chance to earn a much needed diversion.

Central Catholic High Beats Conroy Eleven

Central Catholic high school defeated Conroy high of Ohio in a bitterly fought contest at Lincoln Life field Saturday by the score of 7-0.

Arnold, fullback for C. C., carried the ball across in the second period for the only touchdown of the game, plus the point after touchdown which he also made.

Straight football was used almost entirely, but Romany heaved a few nice ones down to Arnold and Dauver. The game was marked by the exceptionally strong defensive play by both teams, which kept the scoring down.

Concordia Defeated By Decatur Yellow Jackets

Losing four chances to score in the first period Concordia College lost to the Decatur Yellow Jackets, 12-7 at Lincoln Life field Friday.

Etzler, Gameck and Nebel did the best for Concordia but the first two went out with injuries. Nebel, however, squirmed and twisted his way alone through the Yellow Jackets line and scored the collegians only touchdown.

Bell and Roop played the best for Decatur, but their support from the line was very weak.

Kiwanis Club Meets at North Side High

Members of the Fort Wayne Kiwanis Club held a dinner meeting in the North Side Cafeteria yesterday noon. There were approximately one hundred and twenty members present.

Mrs. Wellmeier, the director in charge of the school cafeteria, had the regular ladies and girls to assist her. The usual luncheon menu was planned.

The orchestra and quartette of North Side, under the instruction of Mr. Mathews, furnished the music throughout the dinner.

After the dinner, the guests were shown through the building by guides.

Unique Annual to be Published By Students of North Side High School

Many Pictures To Appear In Northerner To Supply Material For Red-skin Memory Book of North Side.

North Side will have a year book. And it is not to be in the conventional style of all well-brought up annuals. According to latest announcements from the publication office, no editor in chief will be in evidence, nor a staff of any kind except, perhaps, a business manager. To add to this curiosity, the students are to act as their own editors-in-chief.

This new and original publication will be in the form of a memory book. It will include fifty pages of white loose leaf paper and brilliant red covers, which will be tied together with red and white ribbon, the school colors. The annual will also be of sufficient width and length to accommodate a newspaper folded in the center.

In order that there may be an abundance of material to paste into the year book, the Northerner will print a great number of pictures, which the students may cut out and put into their annuals. It is planned to let each organization in the school put out one edition of the school paper in which the club may place its picture, illustration or material or anything it desires. Each class—freshman, sophomore, junior and senior—will also be given the opportunity to publish an issue of the Northerner.

The advantage in having a book such as North Side's will be that anything may be put in it, from the pom poms that one can buy at the games to a strand of hair from the head of one's favorite football hero!

A first prize of ten dollars will be awarded in the spring for the student getting the most material in his annual and for the clever way it is arranged in the book.

This plan of a year book was accepted by the Senior class since it was almost impossible to put out an usual type annual without the advertising that is ordinarily used in annuals.

Melvin Koenig, president of the Senior Class, said.

SNAP CONTEST FOR ANNUAL IS ANNOUNCED

Esther Nobles In Charge of Pictures for Annual.

PRIZES TO BE AWARDED FOR NEATEST BOOK

Contests Opens Now and Continues Throughout School Year. Much Interest Is Shown.

Snapshots! Snapshots!

Everywhere you go its snapshots, since the announcement has been made that North Side High School will have a snapshot contest for the year book, kodaks have been clicking at all intervals.

Prizes are to be given for the largest and best array of snapshots. The would-be photographers should start immediately in order to obtain full scenes. The pictures may be of students or scenes around the school, which would be of interest to the student body. At least 25 pictures must be handed in to compete for the prize. An award of $5.00 has been offered to the student bringing in the best array.

Esther Nobles has been placed in charge of the contest. The negatives and snapshots should be given to her or Miss Hurst. They will be numbered to correspond with the negatives. The pictures will be posted in the first floor hall, so that each student shall have a chance to see them. Any student who wishes these snapshots may order them by number.

The contest starts immediately and lasts all winter and early spring. There is no limit to the size of the camera or number of pictures handed in.

Home Room Organizes

One of the first home rooms to organize is 337. William Hagerman was elected chairman and Ward Hall was elected secretary-treasurer. The first program given was a very interesting talk given by Harold Cox last Thursday morning. Among the pictures he drew was one of Andy Gump. The officers and Mr. Mosher are planning many more interesting programs.

Math-Science Club

The Math-Science Club will hold its second meeting Friday evening, November 4 at 7:45 in Room 314. The speaker for the evening will be Mr. Hewitt. All who have completed a year and a half of mathematics are welcome. "Everyone out—the more the merrier" is the slogan of the club members.

Elvin S. Eyster, North Side, Heads Northeastern Indiana Teachers

R. E. Mosher and Tourist Thompson, Other North Side Faculty, Also Elected to Positions.

Elvin S. Eyster of the Commercial Department of North Side High School was elected president of the Northeastern Indiana Teachers Association at a regular business meeting of that organization held in the North Side Auditorium on Friday of the three-day meeting held recently in this city. The newly elected president has already taken over the work of the office vacated by G. O. Simpson of Angola, retiring president.

Other officers chosen to direct the teachers organization were Clarence Green of Auburn, vice-president; M. F. Northman of Decatur, secretary-treasurer; and D. O. McComb, superintendent of public school, Allen County, chairman of the executive committee. Both Northman and McComb have served in their respective positions since the Northeastern Indiana Teachers Association was organized.

Mr. Eyster came to North Side from Central High School of this city. He

JUNIORS INAUGURATE PARTIES AT NORTH HI

Students From Central, South Side and North High Frolic.

The Juniors initiated the party season at North Side with a Halloween party held in the school cafeteria Friday night. The cafeteria was turned into a veritable cornfield with grotesque witches and cats purring wildly around.

The guests were met in the hall by white robed figures, who directed them to the party. On entering the building the guests had to pass through a devil's mouth. Dancing predominated the evening. The music was furnished by the Harvester Orchestra. About 200 guests from Central, South Side and North High attended.

Robert Beverford and Norma Johnston were awarded prizes for the best masked couples. Quina Gillie won the prize for the most individual costume.

At the close of the party, cider and doughnuts were served to the merry-makers. Novelties also were sold. Those on the various committees are: Decoration committee—Louise Shreve, chairman; Dorothy Meyer, Audra Dalton, Mary Grimme, Ward Hall, Walter Bruckner, Maxine Salzer, Harold Korn.

Refreshment committee—Catherine Miller, chairman; Marian Weinstein, Esther Nobles and Catherine Suter.

Maurice Cook To Head Sophomores

Maurice Cook was elected president of the Sophomore Class at a meeting held last week. Other officers elected were Raymond Alter, vice-president; Jane Emrick, secretary-treasurer. No class advisors or social program has been announced.

DEBATE SUBJECT AND SCHEDULE ANNOUNCED

No Places Yet Definitely Assigned On Teams.

CHINESE QUESTION TO BE DISCUSSED

Schedule Includes Bluffton, Leo, Central, North Side and Columbia City.

Resolved, "that the great western powers should hold themselves bound to the same rights and duties in their relations with the Chinese in China as in their relations with each other," is the subject that has been announced for the Northeastern Indiana debating league, according to a statement made by Miss Mary Cromer, head of the English department of North Side High School. On December 9, the North Side affirmative team will meet the Bluffton negative team at North Side, while the Redskin negative team will go to Leo to meet their affirmative contestants.

On December 16, North Side affirmative will meet Columbia City there, while the North Side negative will meet Central affirmative here.

Although no one has yet been definitely assigned a place in the contest, there will be three members and an alternate selected for each team. Already a great number of students are trying out for berths on the regular teams. Listed among the aspirants so far are Philip Bowen, Paul Somers, Margaret Berghoff, Donald Elder, Murray Bolman, Durward Allen, Joseph Bowen and Carl Jacobs. To be eligible for the team students must have passing grades in three subjects during the previous semester and at the time of the debating must be doing creditable work in all subjects.

North Side P. T. A. To Have Open House

The North Side High School Parent Teachers Association will have "open house" at the North Side High School building on November 10, according to a statement made last night by Mrs. A. C. Richards, president of the organization. There will probably be a musical program also Mrs. Richards said. Mr. Smenner is the newly appointed secretary of the association.

Girl Reserves

The Freshman and Sophomore Girl Reserves will hold their meeting on Wednesday, November 2. Mr. Croxall is going to speak. All Freshman and Sophomore girls are welcome.

The Junior and Senior group was entertained at its last meeting by Mary Erwin who talked about Jane Adams. Miss Reynard also talked to the girls about "Friendship."

Student Players Present "Neighbors" As Initial Production

Miss Suter Directs Clever and Interesting Play for North Side and Central High School.

"Neighbors," the play given by the Student Players Club of North Side High School under the direction of Miss Mayme Suter, on Tuesday morning, was well attended and made a big hit with all the students. This play was the first given in our new auditorium.

The play opens with Grandma and Mis' Able busy talking, after they have sent in to get some starch. While she is gone she hears that Mis' Elsworth, another neighbor, is going to have her nephew come to live with her, from the west. Mis' Elsworth has no money and her husband is dead so it would be hard for her to care for the boy. The "neighbors" all agree to bring clothing to her in the form of a shower. While Mis' Elsworth goes to meet the boy, at the train, they would congregate in her front room and when she opens the door they will shout "A Shower." During their plans Mis' Elsworth receives a wire that "the little boy ain't comin' at all." Hence their plans are broken, but in the bringing together of these things the people found a more devoted feeling and neighborly interest and also a romance, the beginning of which had been attempted several times now started of its own volition.

The theme of the play brings to light the fact that folks sometimes have a great influence over the social life of communities even though they themselves don't realize it. In this case the little boy whose mother died was accountable for making "Neighbors."

The setting of the play takes place in an eastern city in a poor section of town. The "neighbors" are poor but not poverty stricken.

Central Student Players are giving this play today also under the supervision of Miss Suter. The two schools have had great fun rehearsing this play together. The Christmas play will be given under the same plan.

The casts of both schools are:

BRIDGING THE GULF

One of the greatest improvements in the high school today is the increased co-operation between the parents and the faculty. Parents are always interested in the school affairs of their children, and they keep with them through the Parent-Teachers' Association. There is a great deal of misunderstanding in the minds of many people concerning the morals of the younger generation. Authors of various magazine articles, novels, and stories have given their viewpoint of the matter.

The younger generation is not as degenerate as these writers would have us believe. The teachers and the parents know the minds of their students and children, and, by co-operation, can bridge the present gulf.—Shortridge Daily Echo.

IMPORTANCE OF GETTING ONE'S LESSONS EVERY DAY

"It is important that a student should prepare his lessons every day and not once a week," is the statement we once heard a high school girl make to her chum. It is important and also much better for the student that he should prepare his lessons every day. If he gets them each day there is no dread in his mind of tests on the daily lessons. If he has a fear of written lessons in one class his mind dwells on that one subject and he is sure to neglect the next class.

There are two types of students in every school. There are those who prepare and those who do not prepare their lessons each day. If you will notice the former are the leaders while the second type we mentioned either fails or barely gets over the line. Which class do you want to belong to?—Mitchell Hi Herald.

Shouldn't everything about North Side be unique and original? It should, and whatever it costs us, whatever dear dreams we must aside to accomplish that thing, the greater should be our pleasure in it when it is done. For years, every school annual published has started in the same mechanical order, contained the same things, said in practically the same way, and cost of the production has been several thousands of dollars.

North Side is attempting to break away from this monotonous repetition of a conventional type of book with an idea sufficiently radical to attract nation-wide attention. This year we are setting precedents that will affect our school as long as student voices resound in its halls, and once our standards are set all no succeeding class will ever lower that crimson banner.

Excitement will run high among picture lovers when the snap shot contest gets under way, and we may hope that quality, more than quantity will count in the judging of these books.

With the end of the season in sight, North Side is still not showing the pep and boosting that our football squad needs. The yelling at games does not show the fierce spirit of blood-thirsty Redskins with streaming banners of scarlet. Red! Crimson! Vermillion! Scarlet! Is there any color that suggests more life, vivid, flashing, swift as light, ready to consume everything in its path and roll on triumphantly, like a band of Redmen or a forest fire?

It is no small accomplishment to get a team on the field for a high school's first year in existence, and it should call forth the loyal support and sincere admiration of every student there.

We yell for our heroes, but we forget the men who do the quiet, and telling damage to the opposing team's offense or defense and permit the spectacular player to break through his line. It takes eleven men to play the game, and they can't all make the touchdowns.

It is time again for students to begin considering choice of subjects for next semester. Everyone, especially seniors, should choose with care, and consult Mr. Northrop about credits before signing up. Recent regulations make it more than ever necessary to take, so far as possible, those subjects that count toward graduation.

Students who have attended other schools than Central and North Side have usually a much "scratched up" program and must count every credit carefully.

We want admission to the faculty swimming class just once. Think we'll get it?

—18—

Don't forget to stock up on films. You'll need them.

—18—

Some folks are still hunting the pencil sharpeners.

—18—

That Junior Class! Are they good?

—18—

Northerner subscription isn't one hundred per cent yet.

—18—

Basketball's coming. Save your pennies.

Crazy words—crazy tune—everywhere we go it's 18.

Next Week—"What Anne Brought Home"

There comes a day when the average woman wonders what her family will think of the man she has chosen for a husband. Those are hectic days and it is this question that forms the backbone of the delightful comedy drama "What Anne Brought Home," this week's attraction at the Majestic, which opened Sunday night, October 30th. "What Anne Brought Home" comes from the pen of Larry E. Johnson and was presented at Wallach's Theatre, in New York City, by Earl Carroll. It was whispered about Broadway, prior to the play's first night, that its sponsor was producing "What Anne Brought Home" to demonstrate that a clean, wholesome, human play of American life can come into any big city and become a favorite. Earl Carroll decidedly proved his contention.

Information

That's what has been needed at North Side High since the building was opened, but it took Mrs. E. B. Clark's clever mind to work out a system.

Similar to any information department, headquarters will be in a most conspicuous place, on the second floor at the main entrance. Students will be stationed at the desk during all the regular periods of the day to aid visitors in the building and to also aid M. H. Northrop, principal, Dean Reynard, and Miss Smith, secretary. So far the schedule for student assistants has not been made out, Mrs. Clark said.

North Side Redskins Meet Kelly Klads of South Side

Saturday's Game Marks Opening of Sports Between the Two Schools.

Hully gee! And it's not Christmas, either. But it will look like a regular holiday when the Kelly Klads of South Side meet the Redskins of North Side at the South Side Stadium on Saturday for North Side's final Fort Wayne game.

From the names of the teams one might expect a group of Irishmen to be meeting the Indian braves. Besides Coach Lundy Welborn always turns out a smart and clever group of athletes—just like the Irish. But with an array of names as Dickey, North, Ballenbeck, Coor, Wenzel, Miner, Fay, Miller, Newell, Johnson and Dull, how in the world can anyone tell whether Welborn's tribe is Scotch, Irish or German? But regardless they'll meet the North Side Indians for the game on Saturday, "wearing four leaf clovers" for luck.

While in the Redskin bleachers squaws and braves will be giving the war cry and waving the "rabbit's foot" for Coach Mark Bill's eleven. As the teams, clad in red and green enter the field, the cry will pass through the crowd, and as man after man takes up the call the whole stadium will resound with cheers for one of the two local teams.

So far Coach Bills has announced no lineup for the pigskin scrap. Steve Marshall, '29, will again captain the plays of the Northmen. The game will begin at 2 o'clock. Single admission will be 50c, or the last ticket of the season book.

Saturday's game will be the first game between the two local schools.

SOUTH SIDE TEAM DOWNS BLUFFTON

Green Overwhelms Tigers In Home-Coming Event.

Coach Welborn's Kelly Klads of South Side romped through Bluffton's defense to chalk up a 38 to 0 defeat over the Tigers last Friday at Bluffton in the first Northeastern Indiana Conference contest, played by the Green this year. South Side demonstrated its superiority over the Tigers throughout the game, by circling the ends, piercing the line and cutting loose a great aerial attack to gain against the Crimson and by successfully defending its goal from the Tiger assault. The Green displayed its best football of the year.

Bluffton made a serious threat to score at the beginning of the second half when after the kickoff, South Side was penalized and Crosbie made a 30-yard gain through the line. A long pass was intercepted by Newell, spoiling the chance for a Tiger score.

A large crowd of Bluffton fans turned out to witness the Crimson and Black's homecoming tilt. South Side's band and approximately 300 rooters accompanied the Kelly Klads to Bluffton.

GIRLS' SPORTS BEGIN FOR THE YEAR

Red and White Teams Start Tourney.

Bang! Sock! Zowie! Catch that fly!

These exclamations are heard from the girl's gym. What are they for? Haven't you heard? The girls kick ball tournament is raging. Last Wednesday night the Red and White teams of the first and second and the third and fourth played to find out who had the best team of the two classes. Four innings were played and the Reds of the first and second period class won with a close score of 16-13. The lineup was as follows:

REDS—Pitcher, Korn; catcher, Levy; first base, Brooks; second base, Erwin; third base, Weinstein; short stop, Helling.

WHITE—Pitcher, Fitzgerald; catcher, Miller; first base, Cooke; second base, Knight; third base, Becker; short stop, Gillie; fielder, Aplingler.

The White team was the most successful in the third and fourth. Although the Red team put up a good fight but the shortage of players gave the Whites a victory of 29-10. The lineup for the third and fourth period was:

WHITE—Pitcher, Tonkel; catcher, Nobles; first base, Woodward; second base, Fulk; third base, Briggs; short stop, Monn; fielders, Young and Magers.

RED—Pitcher—Zwick; catcher, Reeve; first base, Weinstein; third base, Erwin; short stop, Miller.

The seventh and eighth hour class played five innings. At the end of the fourth the score was very close 29-26 in favor of the Reds, but on account of that being the only game on Friday the captains of the teams decided to play another inning. This one was fatal as to the White's winning and the score was 55-33 in favor of the Reds. The Whites were handicapped on account of shortage of players but nevertheless the game was a good one. The lineup for the class was:

RED—Pitcher, Waite; catcher, Darrow; first base, Kimball; second base, Boyd; third base, Gauerd; right short stop, Watt; left short stop, Spice; fielders, Spice and Fuchter. Bownester; first base, Shondell, sec-

WHITE—Pitcher, Walter; catcher, on base, Hart; third base, Smith; fielder, Lapp.

The captains of these respective teams are: First and second, Red, Imogene Brooks, White, Catherine Miller; third and fourth, Red, Catherine Zwick, White, Esther Nobles; seventh and eighth, Red, Wilma Kimball, White, Vivian Shondell.

The fifth and sixth hour Red team forfeited to the White team because of lack of players.

CONCORDIA WINS FROM GARRETT

Maroon and White Closes Season With 25-0 Score Over Garrett.

With the Concordia College entire team playing a great game the cadets hammered Garrett's line and skirted the ends for big gains to score a 25 to win over the high school eleven. The strong defense of the college team held Garrett well in check.

In the fourth quarter, two passes brought Garrett into scoring territory but two complete passes and losses did away with the opportunity to score. This game marked the final appearance of Concordia on the gridiron for the season.

ROOSEVELT WINS FORM CENTRAL

Tigers On Short End of 19 to 0 Score.

Central High School's football warriors bravely weathered the storm of Roosevelt's offensive attack until at the start of the second half. The Buckeye's line smashes combined with forward passes brought victory to the Dayton school at the S. S. Stadium last Saturday.

Three times in the first half Roosevelt threatened to score and thrice the Tigers repulsed them, but finally they crashed them. Central made her lone threat to score in the first quarter when a line attack mingled with end runs placed the ball on the five-yard line. However, a fumble gave Dayton the ball and the Buckeyes punted to mid-field and out of danger.

A large number of rooters followed the Roosevelt team to Fort Wayne.

Basketball Practice Begins At North Side High School

Basketball practice has begun. Already nearly 40 boys have reported for practice in the gymnasium. Coach Mark Bills stated. The squad will be out shortly before the fellows on the regular football team come out, he said. The football men will have nearly three weeks practice before the initial cage game with Kendallville.

SWIMMING

Men faculty members of the city high schools may use the North Side swimming pool on Tuesday evening from 3 to 5, and women faculty members on Friday evening from 3 to 5. Nearly 500 persons are using the pool each week, Director Ivy said.

But then we've been wondering about John Robinson's clever yelling stunt. Personally we don't approve of Redskin fans yelling, "Hold that line," when North Side has the ball and is trying to go over for a touchdown.

SOCIETY AND FEATURES

Now that October has left us and November is with us again, our interests and work turns into a new epoch.

We are beginning to feel now that winter will soon be upon us. And many of our school clubs will take advantage of the cold, crisp days of November to make a success of their social calendar.

And do you realize that this Saturday our Red Skins battle with the Kelly Klads? This is expected to be one most spectacular event of the season. The North Side bleachers will be ablaze with our startling crimson and white colors. This is the one day of the year that you who have these bright red sweaters will want to display their beauty.

While on the other bleachers will be our sister school, South Side, with her brilliant green waving in the breeze. These two colors cannot help but give a sensation along with the red and green jerseys on the field.

Miss Virginia Seemeyer entertained with a lovely dinner party at her home on W. Wildwood Avenue recently. Those present were the Misses Mary Weaver, Betty Granger, Virginia Blosser, Helen Dessauer, Luella Rogie, Ruth Miles, Betty Van Arman, Mary Jane McMillen, Frances Cook, Esther Lowery, Jeanette Popp, Betty Rahe, Judy Wilson, Mary Margaret Vesey, Phyllis Lines, Nancy Porter, Madeline Cromwell, Harriet Helster, Betty Carlson and the hostess.

John McMeen of Oakridge Road has returned from Franklin, Ind., where he attended the meeting of the Indiana State Press Association and the Indiana-Notre Dame football game at Bloomington, where he was a guest of the Sigma Alpha Mu Fraternity House.

WHO'S WHO STARTED IN HOME ROOMS

New Organization Helps Students Get Acquainted.

In the home room period not many of the teachers have planned anything definite to do as the time is so short and the pupils are not well organized. Calling the roll and making announcements have taken nearly all of the period, however, several teachers are progressing on that line and find it very interesting.

Mr. Kimes, in Room 330, has started a "Who's Who". In this the students tell the important facts in their life, including their birthplace, their residence, schools they attended, the course which they're taking and the activities to which they belong, in and out of school. Because of this the students become better acquainted and do not feel so uncomfortable near each other.

Mr. Mosher, in 337, has also taken up "Who's Who", only he is going to have an addition. He is thinking about having the students make up a code for North Side, as the upper class men will remember, like we had at Central.

Miss Gross in 331 and Miss Furst in 221 are puzzling questions concerning the students studies.

Miss Sinclair in 322 is also having a "Who's Who" recitation on the order of Mr. Kimes and Mr. Mosher.

Miss Kay Ferrall of Ottawa, Can., spent the week-end as the house guest of Miss Harriet Derck of Lake Ave.

Miss Erdlan McCloud left Tuesday for West Baden where she attended a library convention. While there she spoke on "Co-operation of Branch Libraries."

The Misses Mary Jane Scott, Mary Margaret Vesey and Jane Emrich entertained Saturday evening with a werner bake at the home of the latter. Those present were the Misses Jeanette Popp, Phyllis Lines, Dorothy McComb, Marjorie Stewart, Marjorie Schrock, Helen Marshall and the Messrs Norman Richards, Arthur Richards, Robert Kaade, Ray Alter, Jack Deely, Bill Barley, Robert Hadley, Maurice Cook, John Fawcett and the hostesses.

Miss Margaret Berghoff entertained Saturday evening at her home on Kensington Blvd. The party was in the form of a Hallowe'en dance. North Side and Central were both well represented, both by present students and some of Central's alumni.

Miss Marie Rieber recently had as her guests the Misses Orpha Fisher and Carolyn Miller of Angola, Ind.

Miss Florence Kendrick entertained at her home, with a lovely dinner party Saturday evening. Those who were present were the Misses Mary and Martha Brothers, Mary Helen Putman, Marjorie Reeves, Betty Meyer, Betty Hoffman, Mary Hughes, Mary Jane Scott, Betty Hutchens, Dorothy Troendle, Marjorie Horst-

On Going Abroad

Miss Mary Cromer, Head of English Department of North Side High, Writes on European Travel.

All teachers should go abroad. It is their duty to their pupils, their school, and their community. It makes things so easy for everyone, for when a program committee runs out of ideas for some public meeting they can just call upon Miss Blank to tell about her trip abroad, or when the school paper needs several hundred words to fill up an empty column Miss Blank can write up a little article on Europe, or whenever her overworked pupils have not had time to prepare the day's lesson they can prevent much unpleasantness by having her talk about her travels all period in response to artful and well-timed questions. What is travel for if it does not serve some useful purpose?

I am one of those teachers who have done their duty; I went abroad this summer. It was an ordinary sort of sightseeing trip made up of the usual things that anyone does the first time he crosses the water, but incidentally I managed to have the most fun I have ever had on a vacation. However, had I realized that, in spite of all my resolutions to the contrary, I should now be talking and writing about my summer, I would have carried a thick note-book everywhere and written in it many instructive details which I could put to good use now. There was a gentleman with the note-book fever in our party one day going about London. He spent all of the time while we were in a picture gallery running about and jotting down names of pictures as fast as he could copy them. Of course he didn't see any pictures, but think of all the data he was collecting for his friends back home!

Although I did not carry a note-book I did keep a diary, but there isn't anything instructive in it. It falls entirely as an aid to writing a serious article as anyone can see from the following excerpts:

June 23—Glasgow—cold and rainy! It is daylight until ten p. m. and it hardly gets dark at all. The only place to get really warm in this country is in bed under a down comfort.

July 2—Edinburgh. We saw Hazel Hawkins and Clara Williams in the doorway of Cook's office this morning—spent the evening with them at their hotel. The weather is a bit warmer, but we didn't object to the coal fire which they had in their fireplace. I ate "gooseberry fool" today.

July 4—Edinburgh to Keswick. Travelled all morning in the rain—meyer, Hazel Warning and the hostess. Miss Kathryn Suter spent the week-end in Bloomington, Ind., where she attended the Notre Dame-Indiana game.

Miss Lorraine Languard entertained at her home on Tennessee Avenue with a lovely dinner party. The evening was enjoyed playing bridge.

Miss Margaret Smenner, Madeline Cromwell, Hazel Warning and Paul Mensing motored to Purdue University. While there they attended the Sigma Alpha Epsilon Pledge Dance of which "Ted" Hagerman and "Charlie" Hengstler are pledged. The girls were the guests of the Kappa Kappa Gamma, and Paul Mensing was a guest of the Sigma Alpha Epsilon Chapter house.

Miss Margaret Smenner delightfully entertained with a werner roast at Devil's Hollow, Saturday evening. Later dancing was enjoyed at her home. Those participating in this affair were Misses Frances Cook, Esther Lowery, Hazel Warning, Harriet Hiestler, Madeline Cromwell, Mary Brothers, and the Messrs Paul Mensing, "Kenny" Rupt, Roland Smenner, Johnny Habecker, Wayne Kepler, Doc Wilkens and the hostess.

Miss Ruth Bittler entertained with a delightful dinner party on Saturday evening. The guests were the Misses Anne Barrett, Jean Hayden, Suzanne Ivins, Mary Thayer, Mary Shields, Jane Stouder, Suzanne Bowerfind, Nancy McKay, Grace Leslie, Helen Hilgaman, Alice Elders, Ruth Bowley, Martha Anne Burket, Ruth Ellen Porter, Maxine Rahe, Wilma Bales, Dorothy Neibergall, Mary Jane Cruise, Viola Voll, Margaret Jones and Dorothy Wilkens.

See you at the South Side Stadium Saturday.

met Eva McKinney in the station at Carlisle, a piece of good luck! She is on her way to Edinburgh. The summer resort of Crower is well advertised. At every station I am greeted by a picture of a girl in a red bathing suit inviting me to Crower.

The hotel at Keswick celebrated the fourth of July for us. The American flag has been flying all day, and the orchestra played "The Star-Spangled Banner" to close the evening program. For dinner we had roast turkey and cranberry sauce of a peculiar vintage. They seem to have Thanksgiving and the Fourth of July somewhat mixed.

July 5—Keswick. Rode in an auto all day about the lake country. Late in the afternoon we passed Druid's Circle, almost a complete circle of old stones. I took a picture of it. A large white bull was standing behind me trying to make out what I was doing, so the picture may look a little nervous.

July 11—Stratford-on-Avon. Saw an excellent production of "Anthony and Cleopatra" at the temporary theatre. We had front row balcony seats for five shillings, nine pence. They served tea, lemonade, and ices between acts. We have the same seats for "Much Ado About Nothing" for tomorrow night.

July 12—Stratford. Tried twice to get into the grammar school and got turned out both times by a not over-courteous gentleman. They were having examinations and did not want visitors.

July 17—London. Saw Julia Alexander in the lobby of our hotel this morning. I didn't know she was abroad. We had dinner together and visited all evening. I was delighted to see her. She is the fourth person from Fort Wayne that I have met abroad.

July 18—Canterbury. The most typical Cook tourist of a woman with her poor hen-pecked husband named Cabot went on this trip. She entertained the whole party with her note-book and her orders to Cabot. With all her fuss she missed three-quarters of what went on and succeeded only in making a fool of herself. I was sorry for Cabot.

Things have a different taste over here even if they have the same names. The first thing I shall order to eat when I get home will be hot toast and a good cup of coffee. Such things are unknown here—the toast is always cold and the coffee impossible.

July 23—Eton. The Eton boys on the street all wear high silk hats, frock coats and striped trousers. The lower form boys wear Eton jackets instead of the long-tailed coats.

July 26—The Hague. After lunch we went through the Peace Palace with a Dutch guide who explained volubly in Dutch and then translated literally into English, "Here have you, ladies and gentlemen, etc." We missed a lot of what he said, but we found him highly amusing.

July 27—Amsterdam. We have bolsters on our beds so fat that we would have to sit up all night if we tried to use them, but of course we have pitched them both on the floor. We also have down puffs and blankets of many colors. The Dutch like many bright colors. Our hotel is on the canal, and canal boats are loaded with freight right under our windows until late at night.

July 30—Cologne. The bell boys in this hotel wear dress suits. One of these elegant young gentlemen brought our small bags up, while a porter in a green apron brought the big ones.

Sauer kraut, boiled ham, and frankfurters for lunch—on a hot day, too! We took a ride in a sight seeing bus

"pur brewden" with a guide who spoke English, German and Spanish for the benefit of the various passengers. When we asked him if he spoke English he said that he could say "more als yes and no." A man took our pictures just before the bus started, and, when we got back one hour and a half later, he had the pictures printed on post cards ready to sell. Talk about German efficiency.

August 4—Lucerne. Up the Rigi by steam railroad. There was sunshine where we were and clouds were all about so that the mountain peaks in the distance were peering in and out all the time. The elevation was almost too much for me, and it wasn't very high either. I felt the way I did after taking ether, and I could hardly "navigate." However, I wouldn't have missed the trip for a little thing like that. I filled my lungs with real air when I got back to Lucerne again.

August 13—Paris. Taxis in Paris are cheap except after the theater. We left the show a little early (about 11:45) to be sure to get a taxi. We were elaborately ushered into one by the driver, who wanted thirty francs to take us home. We promptly arose and tried another taxi. We thought the second driver said five francs, but when we arrived at our hotel he asked for twenty. We called the porter to talk to him and finally gave him ten francs and the porter one for helping us out.

These are only samples from my diary, but I assure you that the parts I have omitted are no more educational than these I have quoted. To me it is a very interesting little book. I expect to spend many happy hours chuckling over it in private, but don't intend to make its content public. As I have no other notes I shall be compelled to decline all invitations to write or talk on this subject in the future.

After all is said the real benefits of a trip abroad cannot be set down in words unless one happens to be Robert Louis Stevenson or a Richard Halliburton. They manifest themselves in a larger knowledge of history, a keener appreciation of literature, and a more sympathetic understanding of our friends of other nations. These things make the traveler a more valuable member of his home community.

ARMISTICE CELEBRATION ANNOUNCED

North Side To Have Assembly Friday Morning.

PARADE TO BE FEATURE OF DAY

Annual Rabbit Supper and Bonfire To Be Held By Legion.

ARMISTICE NEWS

At 5 a. m. Nov. 11, 1918, the armistice was signed in the Forest of Compiègne.

Some terms of Armistice: German army had to surrender 5,000 guns, 25,000 machine guns, 3,000 minenwerfer, 1,700 airplanes.

The Armistice had to be accepted or refused by Germany within seventy-two hours of notification.

The Armistice was signed the Eleventh of November, Nineteen Eighteen, at 5 o'clock, French time.

On November 11, President Wilson was notified that the Armistice had been signed and the war was at an end.

President Wilson himself went to the Peace Conference, which met in Paris.

Down the dark future, through the long generations, The echoing sounds grow fainter, and then cease; And like a bell, with solemn, sweet vibrations, I hear once more the voice of Christ say "Peace."

Peace! and no longer from its brazen portals The blast of War's great organ shakes the skies! But, beautiful as songs of the immortals, The holy melodies of love arise. —Henry Wadsworth Longfellow.

It was not given to Longfellow to enjoy realization that the sentiments expressed in his famous poem of which a few lines are here quoted, would be held in the hearts of his descendants. Peace! A word which is to us in time of wealth and good health only a synonym of what we have, but in time of war, it becomes to us a thing almost unattainable as we witness the want and desolation about us. Nor can we who stayed at home during our recent war with World Powers fully comprehend the joy and rapture the millions of hearts experienced across the deep sea— hearts of those we call our allies, and hearts of our own true, loyal Yankees fighting for their country and their loved ones. Can we possibly know their unexpressed joy in that 11th hour, on that 11th day in the 11th month of 1918 when their ears caught the sound of "Peace—Peace," the Armistice has been signed?

The signing of the Armistice marked the end of the greatest of wars and heralded the dawn of Peace. Since (Continued on page 4)

SCHOOL TO BE DISMISSED ON FRIDAY

Three High Schools Will Take Part in Parade.

School will be dismissed at the end of the fourth period on Friday in observance of Armistice Day, M. H. Northrop, principal, stated yesterday. All North Side boys are expected to join the Central and South Side boys in the parade at 2:30 o'clock in the afternoon. Girls from the three schools may also be in the procession.

The following boys will be in charge of the North Side section: Melvin Koenig, Frank Nicklas, Harold Korn, Carl Jacobs, Maurice Cook, Raymond Alter, Bob Kaade, and Arthur Richard.

TRYOUTS FOR CHRISTMAS PLAY HELD

"The Clock Shop" Selected By Student Players.

FIFTY STUDENTS TRY OUT FOR CAST

Miss Suter's Classes Work On Other Production Scheduled For Later Dates.

Tryouts for the Christmas play were held by the North Side Student Players' Club last night. The play, entitled "The Clock Shop," has a very clever plot. The scene is a clock shop in which all sizes and shapes of clocks are to be found.

The plot is very unique and full of laughter. As yet the cast of characters has not been announced, but there will be the two Dutch clocks, Hans and Gretchen, the alarm clock, the coo-coo clock, grandfather clock, and many others, together with a chorus of three altos and two sopranos who play a very important part in the play. There were about fifty boys and girls at the tryout.

Miss Suter's classes are also working on short plays in the classes. The fifth-hour class is working on a clever play called "Modes and Fashions," which is the scene of a hat shop and the many different experiences that daily cross the path of a clerk in a hat shop.

N. S. TO OBSERVE EDUCATION WEEK

Parent-Teachers Meeting Thursday To Be Open House.

The week of November 6 to November 12 has been set aside for observance as National Education Week.

Mr. Ward, superintendent of Fort Wayne public schools, has suggested that the important thing to do during this week is to interpret the school and especially the new features in school work to the public, as people will support the schools if they know about and understand them.

North Side is carrying out Mr. Ward's suggestion by having open house at the Parent-Teacher meeting on Thursday evening at 7:30 o'clock.

The entire building and its new equipment will be shown and explained to the parents.

Nikolai Sokoloff Finds Way To Fame in Unusual Manner

Conductor of the Cleveland Symphony Orchestra Has a Most Interesting Career.

When the Cleveland Symphony will come on November 15 to the Shrine Auditorium for the initial program of the season for the Morning Musical, it will have as its conductor a person who had a most interesting entrance into the hall of fame for musicians.

Nikolai Sokoloff was born in Russia near Kiev. He came to this country while yet a child and learned to play the violin. The following shows what music meant to him as a child.

In his wanderings, the lonely lad was attracted by one word which he recognized on a window card. The word was "music." It thrilled him—inspired him to spell out laboriously the message. It was of a competition for violinists at the Yale University of Music.

Here was a ray of sunshine in a land which thus far had been very desolate to the precocious boy. He did all sorts of odd jobs during the next few days and got together three American dollars. Then he shopped around until he found a fiddle for that price—not a violin, but a cheap, common fiddle.

Young Nikolai knew how to teach it the language of the soul. After sufficient practice, he wended his way to Yale, only to learn the contest had been over long since.

Heart-broken, his nerves overwrought by the weeks of loneliness and despair, he burst into wild weeping. The professor was moved.

"I'll hear you play, anyhow, my boy," he said, simply to console the lad.

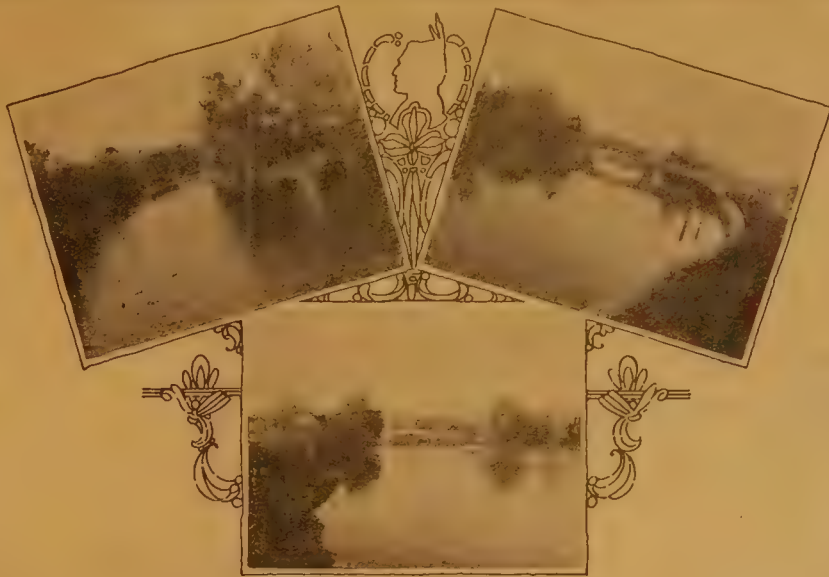

But a few strains convinced him that here was rare talent. A scholarship was arranged, and Sokoloff's career in America was begun.

Four years later, he was in the first violin section of the Boston Symphony, and had placed himself under the tutelage of Charles Martin Loeffler, teacher and composer. Three years later he went to Paris to study under Vincent d'Indy, leader of the French modernist school.

Followed a successful concert tour of France and England, and an invitation to become conductor of the symphony orchestra of Manchester.

He returned to America in 1911 as concert-master of the Russian Symphony Orchestra. Fame had claimed him. A few years later San Francisco asked him to come west as leader of a string quartet, and later proffered the conductorship of its Philharmonic Orchestra, which post he held until the World War, when he resigned to

An important meeting of the Art Club will be held Thursday in room 311 at 3:15. There will be an election of officers. An exhibit of Japanese prints from Shima's in New York will be shown. Many are reproductions of the old masters. Mary Moorhead, Evangeline Ann Zeller and Edward Waller will have charge of the program. The Art Club is open to anyone interested in art.

Will Durant, Noted Author, To Give Lecture at Moose Auditorium Friday

Noted Author and Lecturer to Talk Before Woman's Club and College Club.

Will Durant, noted scholar and lecturer, and author of the famous book, "The Story of Philosophy," will give a lecture in the Moose Auditorium Friday afternoon at 3:30 before a joint meeting of the Fort Wayne Woman's Club and the College Club.

The lecturer gave an address at the recent teachers' association in Indianapolis.

Dr. Durant was born in North Adams, Massachusetts, forty-one years ago.

That he has won over the public has been evidenced by the popularity of his addresses at the great community center, Labor Temple, maintained by the Presbyterian church at Fourteenth street and Second avenue, New York.

It was there that he met two classes every week for forty weeks in the year with an approximate attendance of 1,000 each week for eight years.

These two classes have now a combined attendance of 1,600 every week.

Coming into prominence at Columbia University, where he was teaching, Durant has maintained a stellar position among scholars. His book on philosophy has been classed as the most readable of all books of its kind.

It is composed of lectures which the author gave at the Labor Temple, and it became the best-selling non-fiction book in America within three weeks of its publication and is still at the top of the list.

Following is a summary of facts of an article, "Men and Women," written by Dr. Durant for the September American Magazine:

1. Women understand men better than men understand women.

2. Woman is biologically the more important and fundamental sex.

3. Man is more pugnacious and violent; woman more tenacious and subtle.

4. Man is more active, woman lazier; "the more she receives, the less she does."

5. Man is more acquisitive and adventurous.

6. Woman surpasses man in love, and is surpassed by him in friendship.

7. Woman is more social, man more solitary.

8. Woman is more talkative; "she is a sieve for secrets."

9. Woman is more imitative, more addicted to custom, convention, fashion, fads.

10. There is more difference between man and man than between woman and woman.

11. Woman is more dependent upon social approval; more polite, considerate, and kind; richer in the qualities that make for altruism and morality.

12. Woman is more religious; man more skeptical.

13. Man is more intellectual, but less intelligent.

14. Woman is cleverer, surer, and more practical; "No man under thirty is a match for a woman of twenty."

15. Woman matures more rapidly; man more fully.

16. Woman is more conservative.

17. Fewer women are geniuses and fewer are idiots.

18. Woman inspires art, but seldom creates it.

19. These differences are acquired rather than inborn, and are visibly diminishing as woman passes to a wider and rapidly changing life.

20. Woman is biologically the more

OFFICIALS OF A. A. BANQUET AT Y. M. C. A.

Nearly One Hundred and Seventy-Five Schools Represented.

A. L. TRESTER IS MAIN SPEAKER

New Basketball Rules of Indiana High School Athletic Association Are Discussed.

One of the largest meetings of officials, principals, coaches and school superintendents ever held in the state of Indiana was held last night at the Y. M. C. A. when the North Eastern Indiana Athletic Officials' Association members and guests held the first banquet and basketball meeting of the year. Nearly 175 schools, representing twenty counties in the north-eastern part of the state, were represented at the meeting.

Walter Geller, president of the organization, presided at the meeting, at which A. L. Trester, permanent secretary of the state organization, was principal speaker. Others on the evening's program were Milton H. Northrop, principal of North Side High School, and B. A. Sweigart, principal of the Columbia City high school.

After the main talks there was a general discussion of the new basketball rules for the Indiana High School Athletic Association. Although there have been new interpretations made on several of the rules, only three new rules were made. They are:

1. Time is taken out for all fouls.

2. The whistle is not blown when the ball is thrown up except after time out and at the beginning of the periods.

3. If time is taken out by the side in possession of the ball, while the ball is in play, the man who had the ball will put it in play from out of bounds.

The Northeastern High School Athletic Association was organized this fall, and at the present time has about thirty-five members. Membership in the Association is made up of active and associate members. The active members are those persons who are connected with the high schools and are certified to officiate at athletic events by the State High School Athletic Association. The associate members are superintendents, principals, and coaches who are not certified officials. These members have no voting power. During the basketball season meetings are held each Monday night at eight o'clock at the Catholic Community Center when basketball questions are discussed.

Miss Marjorie Suter In Clever Play

"Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs" was the unique fantastic which was given Saturday, November 5, at the Little Art Theatre by a group of local people, including Miss Marjorie Suter, who played the part of the witch. The little company plans to play a play a month.

Students of North Side High Make Class Schedules For Second Semester

Principal Northrop Urges Students To Use Great Care In Selecting and Planning Their Schedules for Next Semester.

"Students should be most careful in planning and making out their schedule of classes," M. H. Northrop, principal of North Side, said yesterday. "It is quite as essential that they select subjects that will carry out the courses of study they are following as it is that they do not drop subjects before they have earned enough credits in that subject to apply on units for graduation. Students are now making schedules for next semester."

Thirty-two credits, including the following required work, are necessary for graduation.

1. First, second and fourth years of English.

2. Three years of history, unless three years of a foreign language, or three years of science are elected. In such case two years of history are required, one of which must be United States History and one-half year must be given to civics.

3. One year of mathematics.

4. If any foreign language is taken, two years must be completed.

5. One year of science.

6. Two years of stenography must be taken if credit is desired.

Three courses are offered at North Side. The courses are so nearly alike in the first year's work that a change can be made at the end of that period from one to another, with little or no loss of credit. The three courses are the Classical, the General and the Commercial. Work in the Classical course is based upon languages, mathematics, history and science, little time being allowed for manual arts or industrial work. Pupils who are quite certain that their life work will be closely associated with the professions should choose this course.

The General course is designed primarily for the students whose school career will probably terminate with high school, and who do not wish to take a specific vocational training while in high school. Students choosing the General Course, have a wide range of elective subjects, and may choose subjects which are especially interesting to them.

To prepare students for business life by giving them a general education and a thorough training in office routine and practice is the purpose of the Commercial course.

Mr. Northrop stated that he would be glad to aid any pupil who is in doubt as to election of studies.

For the benefit of first year students the following schedule of subjects required for the first year was made.

Classical Course Required: English, Algebra, Gymnasium.

EDITORIAL

Among the most desirable and the most clever things at North Side are articles of the type written by Miss Cromer on "Going Abroad." We who have not this privilege of "going abroad" may learn as much from these accounts as the traveler himself. A first-hand knowledge of the customs, dress, and beliefs of the people of a country cannot help but aid the instructor immensely in teaching stories that depend in large measure on atmosphere and setting. Little anecdotes told by the instructor are far more interesting and realistic than the same thing in a textbook. We were also very grateful for the fact that this article was written in informal, gay style. It presents those little bits of old-world peculiarities which interested the writer at the time, and since they were written, rather than just remembered, every experience is there, just when it happened, and just as it affected the chronicler at the time.

November takes our minds again to the Great World War, its martyrs and its heroes. It has not yet been so long but that every glorious detail, even if so often heartbreaking, should flash like a torch in our memory at the words Armistice Day! Even we, who are in school and were so very young then, cannot forget the wild exhibitions of joy, full of the deep undercurrent of pain and sorrow, for those whom even peace could not restore to their homes and country. Though time, as always, has dulled the poignancy of that grief, each passing day adds to the burden of those who live to bear the scars. Our hospitals are still full of them—gassed, blinded, crippled—living a life that would be a burden to them but for the unconquerable hope and spirit that marked and still marks the American doughboy. And that does not include the thousands who came away with minds full of horrors beyond human power to forget or overcome; men who returned to a topsy-turvy world which had lost its sparkle, its universal love and innocent joy; a world grown to them grim and unyielding as the God of War himself.

To the man, too, who lost a buddy in action, it must bring memories of a moment when he raised his head to speak to his pal and found an empty space where he had been. That place is still empty in his heart, and the indescribable emotions of that moment must still come back to him at times.

It is beyond our power to change these things, for as Khayyam said:

"The Moving Finger writes; and, having writ,
Moves on; nor all your Piety nor Wit
Shall hire it back to cancel half a Line,
Nor all your Tears wash out a Word of it."

We can honor them, however, and Armistice Day is the public expression of that feeling.

EDUCATION SPEAKS

I am education. I bear the torch that enlightens the world, fires the imagination of man, feeds the flame of genius. I give wings to dreams and might to hand and brain.

From out the deep shadows of the past I come, wearing the scars of struggle and the stripes of toil, but bearing in triumph the wisdom of all ages. Man, because of me, holds dominion over earth, air and set; it is for him I leash the lightning, plumb the deep, and shackle the ether.

I am the parent of progress, creator of culture, molder of destiny. Philosophy, science, and art are the works of my hand. I banish ignorance, discourage vice, disarm anarchy.

Thus have I become freedom's citadel, the arm of democracy, the hope of youth, the pride of adolescence, the joy of age. Fortunate the nations and happy the homes that welcome me.

The school is my workshop; here I stir ambitions, stimulate ideals, forge the keys that open the door to opportunity. I am the source of inspiration; the aid of aspiration. I am Irresistible Power. —Taken from an old issue of the Courier, of Shelbyville, Indiana.

Cracks Along The Boardwalk

Dear Bill:

Don't look for me. I'm gonna stay in Fort Wayne, and go to school here. I'll bet that'll knock you for a home run, but honest it's the real goods and I'm gonna start right away.

You see, it's like this. They've got a new place here and there's teachers and everything and a building that's a darn sight bigger than anything down to the fairgrounds at Sock Center, and the round house ain't in it. It's right near the river, too.

Well, the other day I come along and seen this building and there was a gang around there and I sez, "What is this place?" They haven't moved the feeble-minded school, have they?"

And there was a feller there and he sez, "I should say not. This is the North Side High." And he acted sorta peeved but couldn't get the notion out of my head somehow because I cum right back and sez, "Then what's all them fellers doing out there with just their red flannel undershirts on? Are they firemen?" I sez.

And the feller gulped a couple times and he let out a noise like a giny hen and sez, "For the lovin' sake where was you brought up? That's the Redskins football team."

"Then what are they doing off the reservation," I sez. "I don't see no war paint. What are they aimin' to do with them leather derbies?" But the feller wouldn't talk to me no more but kept edgin' away making funny signs like I've seen them do when they wasn't themselves.

Well, there was a big racket out back of the school house and a lotta fellers thet was tootin' on horns and one was playing a thing thet sounded like Ezra had stepped on the cat. So I walked around to look at 'em and darned if they didn't have 'em all inside of a big wire fence. So I went around in front again to see if the building didn't have on it the letters, "I. S. S. F. M. Y.", but I couldn't find no label like that, and there was a lot of hollerin', and I went back, and say, listen, Bill, them Indians they call Redskins was a mix'in' it up with a gang they said had come from Michigan.

Boy, that was some rumpus. They just tore up and down that field, a-fighting over a ball thet wasn't worth more than $4.98. It wasn't no private fight either. Everybuddy was in on it. And they took turns steppin' on each others faces and kicked each other in the slats when nobuddy wasn't lookin'. None of that gang had glass slipped dogs like Cinderella and when they laid down a hog nail barge on a feller's face his nose generally went out of business. And nobuddy said "Excuse me" either. Seems like they didn't have time. I got excited watchin' it but one thing made me sorer than a boll. Every time they'd get a guy down and nearly ready for the coolin' board, some outsider would horn in and blow a whistle and then they'd have to let him up. There's allers somebuddy to take the joy out of life. I don't see what they let that feller in the white pants spoil all the fun for, when he didn't take no part in the rumpus himself. But some folks will kick even if they're playing football.

And say let me slip you something on the quiet. It was a damaged ball they were a-fightin' over, too. How do I know? Well, becuz I seen it real close and there was stitches all up onesidelike I had the time I was in the horseshpittle and got hemstitched for apindicitis. But I'll say this much in its favor. The ball kept its wind better than the fellers did. The congestion musta bin something fierce when all that gang piled up and tried to smash it. Right in the middle of the fuss they all quit and set down to rest and got to tellin' each other how good they was and why they hadn't won and why the other feller took a nose dive. Everybuddy cheered and the horn players got busy again, so I went along to the place where there was a gate in the fence and ast the feller there if I could go in where the rest of the animals was and he sez sure.

And I sez, "I ain't seen nuthin' like that since the last time we moved and pa and ma had a fight over which one had the most peaceful relations. When it was over they'd busted the kitchen stove and pa was a wearin' a window sash for a necktie."

"Haw, haw," sez the feller who was handin' out tickets with one hand and takin' them in with the other. And then he laffed till the top of his head looked like an island.

"How amusin' he sez, "to compare to a family row the efforts of our boys to amass a victory."

"Yeh?" I sez, givin' that mental zero the worst over. Don't see nowhere where they're alike? Now, let me tell you something," I sez. "There ain't so much difference at that. There's allers two sides to a family row. So there is out there," I sez, pointin' to where they was unscrambling legs and ears and other remnants out of a pile of humans out there in the field.

"In a family row sometimes honors is even just when a gang like that tackles each other. If the old man is any good at all he'll make a perty fair showin' but most of the time it's just like tryin' to bite a hunk out of a wild cat's neck when you git the crazy idee that your chin music kin beat a woman at her own game. Even a shot of giggle syrup ain't sufficient inspiration in times like these.

You jest bin yellin' about a forward pass whatever that is. Don't forgit thet some of these women git to be pretty good shots with a plate, too, and when they shoot one that bounces off your coco, boy, you're out standin' up. You ain't crowned with victory. You're crowned with crockery unless a coal bucket happens to be the handiest. There's a guy got his now," I sez as a feller comes out of the rumpus with a shanty over one eye. And then a hostler run out with a blanket and a water bucket like as if it was a livery stable and sponged this bird off so he could see which side he was playin' on.

And then a gang that was sittin' on a lot of settees along the side got sore at a feller that was throwing a fit out in front and a hollerin' through a funnel and they sassed him back something skanderius no matter what he said.

"Hulla Baloo. Hulla Baloo, Hick, Hike, Hoke. Beat 'em black. Beat 'em blue. Just another bloke," they kept a yellin'. And a student feller sez to me, "Do you not see that they are very intant on victory?"

And I sez, "Yes, so's yer old man. But no matter how you slice it it's still bolognle," I sez. "If you could keep that feller in the white pants from blowin' thet whistle all the time you could git more of them. Seems like the only time he blows that darn thing is when you've got somebuddy down and ready to separate him from the rest of his ribs."

Well, it ended sorta funny at that becuz even the time keeper got sore and shot a gun at the feller in the white pants, but doggone if he didn't miss him entirely. And then they all quit and went out and I see the fussin' was over for the day and so I went along with them.

On the way out I ast a lot of questions about the school and there was a feller they called "Prof." It seems like they learn you all about Nero and a lot of them guys thet used to wear table cloths for drapes. So "Prof" got to tellin' me how they was a teechin' young idee how to shoot and I sez, "Well, I'm pretty good with a gun myself. I'd like to start in right now," I sez.

So I'm here, Bill, and say they've got one of the biggest swimmin' holes in captivity. You don't have to wait for Saturday night or nuthin'. Gosh, it's great. I ain't been able to talk the Slanguage yet but I'm learnin' all the yells about Mark Bills and his gang and I'm a takin' first ast to the injured for my spellin', and correctin' mistakes when I notice that others insist on putting a p in newmonia when everybuddy knows that even the looks of it is darned foolshness.

Well, good by for the present and good luck.

Your friend,
"Buddy."

Will write again jest as soon as I git so's I kin spell effshently."

MATH-SCIENCE CLUB HOLDS MEETING

Mr. Hewitt Is Main Speaker of Evening.

The Math-Science Club held its second meeting of the year November 4. Despite the rainy weather there was a good attendance.

Mr. Hewitt was the first speaker of the evening. He proved that not every angle can be trisected by means of only rule and compass. His proof reminded us somewhat of Caesar, like Gaul—it was divided into three parts. The proof was based on analytic geometry. He proved two theorems in order to come to one conclusion that would prove the above theorem. He stated that it was Plato who suggested that all constructions that could not be done with rule and compass be left out of geometry. If this suggestion had not been carried out geometry would be much more difficult than it now is. Thanks to Plato.

Donald Youse played a trick on the club, but some were wise enough to catch him. He proved that a triangle which was not isosceles was isosceles. His proof was all right, but his construction wasn't.

Next John McMeen spoke to the club, his subject being Sound. The origin of sound is some vibrating body. Sound waves travel to the ear necessary for the production of sound, through some media, usually air, and affect the auditory nerve in the ear. According to physics, three things are (1) a vibrating body, (2) some media for the transmission of the waves produced and (3) a receiving station (the ear). According to this then, if a tree fell in a country that was not inhabited, would it make a sound? The receiving station is missing.

In order to have sound, a vibrating body is necessary. There are three different kinds of vibration, (1) free, (2) forced, (3) sympathetic. Mr. McMeen demonstrated all of these.

He mentioned resonance of sound. Resonance means reinforcement of sound by the union of directed and reflected sound waves. A closed tube whose length is one-fourth the wave length of the tuning fork is the best possible resonance.

The remainder of the evening was spent in games. A turkey was drawn on the blackboard and it was the privilege of all to try to draw a drum stick on it, the drawer being blindfolded. This afforded much amusement. Next we divided into four groups and had a construction race. After this we played "musical chair," refreshments were served and we departed.

Remember our slogan, "the more the merrier." If you weren't out this time, be sure and come next time.

The Wright Players

Next Sunday night, November 13, the Wright Players will give a dramatic interpretation of Eleanor Porter's famous story, "Pollyanna."

There seems to be a certain spirit of happiness in the theme of "Pollyanna" which few can resist. Its message of "gladness" as typified in little "Pollyanna" herself is one that can scarcely fail to have its effect upon the hearts and minds of the audience.

The play is not particularly dramatic but possesses an absorbing interest which holds the audience to the final curtain. It is just an intensely human play, that is all—a mixture of humor and pathos, of gladness and of sorrow, typical of life itself. And its story tells of the little orphan, "Pollyanna," whose habit it is to make everybody glad.

The faculty members and student body of North Side High School extend their deepest and most sincere sympathy to Mr. and Mrs. Slater, whose son Lester was so recently our friend and schoolmate.

REDSKINS DEFEATED BY SOUTH SIDE HIGH

Green and White Overcome Redskin Eleven by Score of 34 to 0.

North Side met South Side in another game for the city series last Saturday at the South Side stadium and fought valiantly against Coach Weiborn's Kelly Klads, but the latter's former experience on the gridiron told against the Redskin eleven and the Redskins were defeated by a 34-to-0 count.

The southern school displayed a fine running attack which came behind a strong interference and South Side's backs tore off many good gains through the line and around the ends. The Redskins, however, played the best football they have shown thus far this season, and managed to hold South Side on fairly even terms in the first half. The Redskins made good use of the forward pass, which gained against South Side time and again. Several times during the game the Crimson came within a short distance of the southerner's goal and it seemed on all these occasions that a touchdown was certain, but each time the Redskins lost the ball, either on downs or as it happened the first occurrence, when the ball was on the seven-yard line, a fumble gave South Side the ball and the Kellys punted out of danger. North Side's line often broke through the Green's forward wall for long gains at different times. Steve Marshall played a good game in the backfield for the Redskins along with Monnot, Penrod and Batchelder. Koenig, McVey and others in the line also appeared to play excellent football. Fleming and Newell, diminutive South Side backs, both made long runs to aid in piling up the Green score. Dull at fullback crashed the Redskins' wall for short gains and Dickey scored two of South Side's touchdowns after pulling in two passes and making two runs, one forty yards and the other sixty yards to score both times.

A cold, raw wind blew over the stadium throughout the game and a fairly large crowd of shivering spectators witnessed the spectacle. This victory for South Side placed the Kelly Klads on a par with Central's Tigers in the race for the city championship, both having won one game. The Central-South Side game should draw a large crowd as this contest will decide which team will be the city champion.

Redskins To Meet Garrett In Final Game of Season Friday Afternoon

North Siders Out to Seek Revenge for Reverse Scores of the Past Unfavorable Season

That final game—With Garrett At Garrett, Friday, Let's win!!!
Despite a season of setbacks and reverse scores, North Side Redskins are going on a real war path Friday when they set out to scalp Coach Wills' Garrett crew at Garrett. Coach Bills' men have played a tough schedule this year—and have been on the short end of every score. Reading, Michigan has always been known for its good teams. Froebel was next on the schedule and then came Auburn. The following week was the first tilt among city schools, when North Side played Central, and just seven days later the Redskins met Decatur. Last Saturday South Side's Kelly Klads were in opposition and Friday the Redskins will be facing Garrett.

Garrett upset the dope bucket Saturday by defeating Warsaw by a score of 12-7. This was Garrett's first victory of the season. Captain Metcalf, playing fullback, Karr at left half, and Nash, playing end, were the outstanding players in the game with Warsaw, and they are expected to be the feature players in Friday's game. With an exception of this year, Garrett has always had one of the best teams in this part of the state. Not only has it had good teams, but it has been backed by a great number of enthusiastic Garrett citizens. The game will be played on the new athletic field, which has been used just this year, and is considered a very fine field.

The North Side team will use practically the same lineup it has been using, Coach Mark Bills stated.

SOCIETY AND FEATURES

We celebrate again the signing of the "Great War" peace treaty! The rich, poor, young and old join together to give thanks once again to the much looked-for peace, that this day marks the birth of.

At this time it makes all of us feel chaffable, and how little we can give, compared with the lives that our boys gave. Many programs are being given throughout the city and in the schools which are stressing the importance of this date.

This great day is set aside all over the nation; it may bring sorrow to some dear old gray-haired mother, and to the lonesome sweetheart or sister. But yet they too cannot help but have a tinge of joy, that the horror of those terrible days are over. But the outstanding thing is Peace! What a grand word!

This day seems to pave the way to Thanksgiving and glorious Christmas. From this time on we seem to carry with us that spirit of helping others.

Miss Betty Rahe entertained with a beautifully appointed dinner party at her home on Lexington avenue Saturday evening. Those who attended this lovely affair were the Misses Virginia Seemeyer, Mary Weaver, Betty Granger, Mary Granger, Virginia Blosser, Helen Dessauer, Luella Rogge, Ruth Miles, Betty Van Arnam, Mary Jane McMillen, Frances Cook, Esther Miss Nellie Carter, of Franklin avenue, spent the week-end at West Lafayette, Indiana, where she visited at Purdue University. While there she attended the Purdue-Northwestern football game.

Miss Marie Lewis, of Edgewater street, spent the week-end in Butler, Indiana, as a guest of Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Wefel.

Miss Helen Harper, of Tecumseh street, spent the week-end at Bluffton as the guest of Miss Helen Boggs, a former Centralite.

Mrs. E. Winslow spent the week-end at Linn, Indiana, as a guest of her father, Mr. I. C. Johnson.

Armistice Day Program Announced

that day, November 11 has been declared a national holiday and is celebrated as such throughout our country. In every state a tribute is paid to the soldiers who fought so bravely and to the sailors who guided our ships across the sea, and in doing so, passed into the great beyond.

We, students of North Side High School, can likewise honor those who have died in the defense of their country, by pausing, though it be only one minute, to meditate on the meaning of the day. Our school, standing as a sentinel of peace, will close its doors at the ending of the fourth period and give its students the privilege of joining with others in the celebration of Armistice Day.

North Side will observe Armistice Day Friday with a special auditorium program at 10 o'clock. Clarence R. McNabb will be the principal speaker for the morning. In the afternoon at 2:30 the North Side High School boys will join the boys of the other two high schools in the parade, which is being planned by the local American Legion members.

A full day's program has been planned in observance of the day. The American Legion will hold a meeting at the Catholic Community Center at 10:45, when Clarence Jackson, of Newcastle, past state commander of the American Legion, will speak.

Four divisions will be formed for the parade at 2:30. In the first group will be the active military, in the second will be the Concordia Cadet Battalion, in the third will be the past military and in the fourth will be the civilian group.

After the rabbit supper at the Legion Home for the Legion members and their friends, the mortgage for the Legion Home will be burned at a bonfire at the Lincoln Life Field.

Nikolai Sokoloff Finds Way to Fame

go over seas to play for the American and British forces.

On his return to America, he was conducting a summer season at the Cincinnati Zoo, when the Musical Arts Association of the Cleveland Orchestra invited him to come to Cleveland to survey the musical ground with a view to establishing a local orchestra.

In response to a request from a Cleveland pastor who wanted a concert to help raise funds for his church, Sokoloff organized a band of fifty-seven musicians, all Clevelanders, rehearsed them seven times, and gave the first Cleveland Orchestra concert.

He has signed a contract for five years, so Cleveland and patrons of the Cleveland Orchestra will have the privilege of enjoying his masterful conducting for six years, at least, his old contract having one more year.

Sokoloff comes from a long line of musicians. When he was only five, his father put him through rigid training. When he was only seven, he was playing in the violin section of the Kioff Municipal Orchestra, and toured Russia as a regular member of the organization, remaining a part of the personnel until his parents came to America.

The purpose of this Annual Conference is to bring together older boys and adult leaders from all over the state, in order to share experiences, discuss life problems to gain courage through fellowship with others, and to receive inspiration.

Boys from 15 to 20 years of age may come to this conference from Church School classes, Young People's Societies, Y. M. C. A. groups, Hi-Y Clubs and other like groups.

The registration is limited to 1,200 boys and lears—700 at Lafayette, 500 at Bloomington. Separate registration cards are available for boys and leaders. A registration and program fee of $2.00 must accompany each card. This fee covers two meals not included in entertainment.

Delegations should plan to arrive in time to get their home assignments and should be present for the opening session at 4 o'clock. They should also plan to stay by the conference until it adjourns Sunday afternoon.

Junior Red Cross Meeting Held At Central High To Organize Council

Nina Lewis, North Side, Presides as Chairman of Meeting Which Convened at Central.

A meeting of the Allen County Junior Red Cross was held at the Central high school auditorium last Saturday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock. Its purpose was to complete the organization of a council to promote Red Cross activities in this city and county. Two or more representatives from 38 schools in this county were present, and many parents and teachers also attended.

Miss Nina Lewis, North Side high school student, presided at the assembly as chairman, and Miss Betty Hird, of the New Haven school, acted as secretary "pro tem". As regular officers had not been elected.

A very interesting and instructive talk was given by Miss Verall, D. Wright, director of the Junior Red Cross Council of Chicago, Illinois. She mentioned a number of things which high school students can do to supplement the charity program of the Red Cross. She suggested that the girls dress dolls to send to the soldiers in the hospitals (not for them to play with, but to give to their little girls).

North Side Girls Plan Rally Day

The North Side Girls Athletic Association is to have a Play Day. This was announced by Miss Schwehn, girls' physical instructor. Not a common, ordinary party, but full of pep and fun. The guests are to be the girls from the athletic associations from Central and South Side. There will be no discrimination between schools, but the three groups will be made one. The plans are not yet complete, but it is rumored that there will be games, stunts, dancing and plenty of eats. December 9 has been set as the definite date.

CAST CHOSEN FOR "THE CLOCK SHOP"

Brudi, Vigran, Jacobs, Kronkite, and Nicklas Have Parts.

FIFTY STUDENTS TRY OUT FOR THE CAST

Miss Suter's Classes Work on Other Productions Scheduled for Later Dates.

The cast for the Christmas play "The Clock Shop" was selected last week by Miss Marjorie Suter, director of dramatics, from about 50 students of the North Side Student Players Club.

The cast is as follows:
Grechen, a little dutch clock..... Margaret Brudi
Hans, another dutch clock..... Herbert Vigran
The Alarm Clock..... Carl Jacobs
The Coo Coo clock..... Robert Kaade
Grandfather Clock..... John Kronkite
The Clock Maker..... Frank Nicklas
Also there will be a chorus of six girls. This is a very clever play and will be worth while for everyone to see. It will be presented in our North Side High Auditorium sometime before Christmas.

Miss Suter's classes are also working on short plays in the classes. The Fifth Hour Class is working on a clever play called "Modes and Fashions." It is set in a hat shop and depicts the many different experiences that daily cross the path of the clerk.

SUBSCRIPTIONS TO BE PAID IMMEDIATELY

November 23 Set as Final Date for Payment.

All subscriptions for the "Northerner" must be paid on or before November 23, Miss Mercedes Hurst, director of publications, said to a reporter yesterday. Since funds have been so very slow in coming it was imperative that a specific date be set. So far, about 50 per cent of the subscribers have paid for their papers. It would be greatly appreciated if those students who haven't paid, would stop in Room 110 and pay.

Students will not receive the final paper before Thanksgiving unless they have paid for the paper, Miss Hurst said.

The contents of the Annual will be made up partially by clippings from the paper. Most of the pictures in the "Northerner" cannot be obtained from any other source.

Four Rules for a Good Sportsman

When you play a game always wish and try to win, otherwise your opponent will have no fun; but never wish to win so much that you cannot be happy without winning.

Seek to win by fair and lawful means according to the rules of the game, and this will leave you without bitterness toward your opponent or shame before others.

Take pleasure in the game even though you do not obtain the victory; for the purpose of the game is not merely to win, but to find joy and strength in trying.

If you obtain a victory which you have so desired, think more of your good fortune than of your skill. This will make you grateful and ready to share with others the pleasure bestowed upon you; and truly this is both reasonable and profitable, for it is but little that any of us would win in this world were our fortunes not better than our deserts.—Henry Van Dyke.

Pupils are urged to go over this schedule carefully in order that they may discover any possible conflicts in the subjects they have elected. Such conflicts should be reported to the office and adjustments will be made if possible, Mr. Northrop said.

In making final elections, pupils may make choice of periods also.

While there can be no assurance that such choices can be allowed, yet if a selection of periods is wisely made, it will be closely followed in making out the pupil's program, he stated.

GRADE CARDS GO OUT THURSDAY

Students to Elect Next Semester's Work.

A's, B's, C's, D's or F's! Which have you the most?

Students will find out tomorrow when they take the white program cards which will be given to them by their home room teacher, around to their other teachers. Each teacher will put the grade on the card in the proper place. After the cards have been filled out, students will take the program cards home and get the parents' signature on them. Also students must make an election of the subjects they wish to take next semester and put the period down. The cards are to be returned Friday morning to their home room teacher.

BASKETBALL TICKETS ON SALE DECEMBER 2

Students Urged to Buy Tickets for Entire Season.

Tickets for the first series of six basketball games will go on sale November 28, John DeLong, faculty manager of athletics announced yesterday. The price of the ticket is one dollar, and this will include: Admission to a North Side-Central game, and also to a North Side-South Side game. Single admission to either of these games will be 50 cents, Mr. DeLong said.

The basketball season will be opened December 2, with Kendallville. Tickets for the games on the later series will go on sale at a later date.

All North Side athletic fans are awaiting the opening game with keen anticipation. The gymnasium is one of the most attractive in the state, with a seating capacity of 3,500. Spectators have a clear view of the playing floor from any seat in the room. Different faculty members and students have expressed their viewpoints on season tickets. There they are:

Miss Reynard: "From the first basketball game on December 2nd to the close of the season, those of us interested in North Side High School are given opportunities to show our loyalty by backing our team and co-operating with our coach and officials. Let's prove our loyalty and support by making the first ticket sale being 100 per cent response."

Mrs. Clark: "Buy a basketball ticket? Why sure. Course everybody will—at least, all the live ones."

Jane Korn: "Hey! You! Are you going to get a season ticket? You ought to for several reasons: 1st, it's cheaper; 2nd, you are sure of getting a good seat at all of the games."

NORTH SIDE P. T. A. HOLD OPEN HOUSE

Parents Inspect New High School Building.

The Parent-Teachers Association held open house last Thursday evening from 7:30 to 9:00 after which a general meeting was held with Mrs. A. C. Richards, president, in charge. There were about 20 student guides who showed the parents around the school. All the rooms were open, and each department had an exhibit on display. The next meeting will be held in December sometime. The exact date has not been set but the meeting will hereafter be held in the afternoon, Mrs. Richards said.

Sophomores Meet

Maurice Cook, president of the Sophomores, held a meeting last Thursday to decide the date of their party which will be December 17th. The party will be in form of a dance it was decided. Class advisors will be Mr. Dickinson and Miss Aumann.

Student Loyalty Help Build Great University Buildings

Faculty, Alumni and Students Make Drive Go Over the Top; Demonstrate Loyalty to Alma Mater.

That student loyalty is helping to build up the great institutions of the country is evident when a recent announcement was made that the students and alumni of the University of Minnesota are preparing to erect in the near future a $1,000,000 auditorium on their own campus. The money was raised by subscription on their own campus. Their $700,000 stadium seating 55,000 people was built by their funds three years ago as a memorial to their student soldiers of the World War.

Minnesota is only one of the large universities that is being helped by students and alumni. Yale, Michigan, Illinois and Indiana are just a few of the schools where the loyalty of students for their Alma Mater makes them want to give to the extent of sacrificing to make that university a great institution.

Any Indiana student, who was at that university at the time of the Memorial campaigns, glows with pride when he tells you how "we built the grand new woman's dormitory and the new stadium." And Indiana has pledged enough money for the new union building to be built on the campus. All of these buildings were given in memory of the Crimson and White students and alumni who were in the World war.

LIBRARY WEEK NOW BEING OBSERVED

Name Changed This Year to Include High Schools.

PUBLIC LIBRARY TO HAVE DAILY PROGRAM

North Side Has New Public Speaking, Biology and Miscellaneous Fiction Books.

Every November for nine years public libraries have been observing Children's book week. This year in answer to requests from many high school libraries all over the country who wish to participate in its observance, the name has been changed to Book week. Books for every body from "The Little One" by Marion St. John Webb to books for the older boy and girl will be arranged in an attractive display at the public library. The exhibit will be open Sunday from 3 to 5 o'clock and every day the remainder of the week until 9 o'clock.

he usual display of the most attractive books of the year will be arranged in the hall and a program will be given every afternoon at Fort Wayne public library. A large room in the basement is also to be used for a part of the display.

Lists of approved books in local stores have been prepared by Miss Marian Weeb and her assistants in the children's department and will be available to parents and teachers. The display has been planned this year with a special view to interesting grownups as well as children.

This week, November 13th to 19th, North Side, as well as all other libraries, is observing as Book Week. The Indian Trophy Case at North Side library, installed some time ago, is an object of especial interest, and a small reminder of our Indian predecessors in this territory not so very long ago. It contains axes, small arrowheads, and many other crude stone tools.

The library has also acquired some beautiful new ferns in time to decorate for the great week.

Artistic and suggestive posters are distributed all over North Side's halls, reminding students of the significance of the week, and of the kinds of books to be found in the library.

A number of new books have been added to North Side's shelves recently. There are several reference books for public speaking classes, and some illustrated books in colors for the Biology department.

The Hounds of Baskerville, Conan Doyle; Microbe Hunters, Paul Di Kruip; The Cruise of the Cachale, Bullen; The Melting Pot, Ireal Zangwill Building the Nation, Charles Coffine; Golden Treasury, Polgrve, American Hero Stories, Eva March Teppan; The Last Days of Pompeii, Bulver Lytton; The Handbook Series, Beman; The Reference Shelf, Edith M. Phelps, compiler; Debater's Hand Book Series.

It is no easy task for students, especially those who are working their way through the university to pledge. Some who were working or living on a scanty allowance of $50 a month pledged as much as $100. The average pledge was $200.

Most exacting plans were made and executed to make Indiana's drive "go over the top." The first drive at Indiana for $400,000 last only 30 hours. But those thirty hours were busy ones—and hard ones. Officials, faculty, members and friends of the university said the students were undertaking an impossible task—but the students were urged on by loyalty. And now they have raised $1,600,000 for their school.

Students at North Side High School are not asked to support or sacrifice in any sense as students at these universities. North Siders are asked to support the different activities. The season tickets for basketball season go on sale soon. The price for six games is only one dollar. It's a question of loyalty to the team and to the high school to support the athletics. It takes a lot of hard work to get a team. The fellows on the squad who practice every night and who sacrifice for training are worthy of the loyalty and support of faculty members and students.

WISDOM VERSUS KNOWLEDGE

And what shall all the knowledge in the world avail a man if he hath not wisdom? A man may know everything a book can teach him, and still not be wise enough to live his life so that it will benefit himself and others the most. Knowledge is but a worthy supplement to wisdom, it can never take its place, in fact it can scarcely exist where there is not wisdom, both inborn and acquired, for a solid foundation. Deprive man of his wisdom and his knowledge would soon wreck the world.

Knowledge is pure theory.

Wisdom is life!

WHAT ARE YOU?

That most peculiar, important, unimportant, tragi-humorous word of all words, reputation, is a word we're always thinking about, and yet, after all, what does it amount to? It is peculiar, because no other word means quite so much and at the same time so little; important, because no man lives independently of his neighbor, and must at times profit by his good opinion; unimportant, because nothing really matters but what you are; tragic, because a man's reputation may drag him undeservedly through the mire; and yet humorous, for who knows into what laughable situations his reputation may carry him. And yet, on the other hand, is character a less unusual term? Important always, possessed by everyone, as different in each mortal as the sun and moon, malleable sometimes, as often unmovable, one man's master, another's slave. A man may leave his reputation far behind, but his character clings to him as closely as his skin. If he would rid himself of it he must change it, but even then, he may "jump from the frying pan into the fire." Worse than that, he may forget his character in looking after his reputation.

Reputation, not what you are, but only what another thinks of you; character, what you are.

Which matters most to YOU?

DO YOU?

Do you always dream about the future, wonder about it, worry about it, course, but just how much, how often, and most important, in what way? Do you sit in the big easy chair in a warm corner, in mind, and let things come to him who waits, and do that very thing. Do you sit still and wait for your "big opportunity" to come by, no attention to the many small ones that knock timidly at your door? Does it seem logical to you to keep your mind so much engrossed with dreams that ideas find no corner there? Are you like the man who will not save a dollar because he has not one hundred to start with? If you do, then life will always pass you by, and the "big opportunity," if it comes, will rush by with such cyclonic fury, that you, not already started in its direction, will be left hopelessly behind.

Dream, but make your dreams pay. A practical dream is as beautiful as an idle one, and a "will o' the wisp" fades always into empty air. Keep your eyes open, your ears open; see everything, hear everything, remember everything, use everything! Make each little opportunity work for you, climb each little step, each ladder-rung, save and use each tiny dime, when it becomes a dollar it will make more dollars for you, not real dollars, but much more precious things; for remember always—money is no standard of success.

TO KNOCK OR TO BOOST

Criticism is of two kinds, constructive and destructive. There are people who live to destroy and others who live to construct. Neither is altogether a helper nor a hinderer. The man who would build a massive structure over a known weak spot in the foundation is no better than the man who would destroy the thing and start anew. It is not the man who would condemn everything that is said or done, nor the man who would praise everything who helps, but the man who would tear away the weak spots and replace them not merely tear them away with ruthless hands and suggest nothing in their place.

There are many ways to knock, but only one to boost. Finding a suggestion impracticable, prove it so and improvise a better one, otherwise boost it as it is. Knocking is the pastime of fools, boosting is a credit to the wisest man.

Cracks Along The Boardwalk

"John," said the wife to her husband, "there's an installment due tomorrow and I can't remember whether it's the sixth on the radio, the fourth on the oil burner or the ninth on my operation."

Mrs. Willette: "Now, Clifford, you've never skipped school have you?" Clifford: "No, mother, I've never skipped, but I've forgotten to go back several times."

EVASIONS

That wasn't our assignment today, was it? M'gosh!

I really had that assignment written in my book for tomorrow. Well, I didn't do anything for today. I thought this was unprepared day! Yes, but didn't we have an exam that day. Gee, I'm sorry, can I bring it tomorrow?

I have it, but I left it at home.

Something happened to that paper. I had it here in my book and it's gone now. May I go to my locker to see if it's there?

I have it here, but it isn't quite finished. Do you want it now or shall I hand it in tomorrow?

It isn't in ink yet.

I lost my book.

I wasn't here yesterday, and I didn't know the assignment. Yes, I know it's the eighth period and that the lesson was assigned a week ago.

Sorry, but I spent all my time on my other three subjects.

Mrs. Clark excused me because I had such a terrible headache.

I had it but it blew in the river when I was coming across the bridge. Here it is, but that was the only paper I had at home and the lead in the pencil was poor.

No, I'm not prepared.

OVERHEARD AT THE THEATER

The Captain—"Tickets, please. Show your tickets please. This way, please. Third aisle over. Stairway on your right. Tickets please. What's that, ma'am? No, every week. Tickets please. The usher will give you one. Second aisle over. Tickets please. Up the outside stairway."

The Husband—"Well, in plenty of time, aren't we? Pretty fair crowd here. Over there's the Joneses. Wave to 'em. Mamie. Well, maybe they ain't looking, but wave your handkerchief to 'em anyway. There, how you've got 'em. Good evening the Joneses. Yes, I had to bring the wife. Well, Mamie I had to tell them something. Here, want some gum? Well, now who in the name of sense is going to see whether you're chewing gum in here in the dark or not. Well, well, if it isn't Smiths. Hello here. Say this look as if it mighta been all planned, sittin' right here together. Pretty fair crowd, tonight. No, I guess the women don't have to sit together."

The Wife—"Look, David, it's going to begin. I told you we wouldn't have to wait long. Oh look David isn't he handsome! Where's this supposed to take place. I forgot to look at my program. Oh yes, London. Isn't this grand? Sure, you're supposed to think you're in an apartment in London, and these folks are American tourists. Get the idea? Punch Ethel for me. David, Ethel, do you get it? I said, do you see what it's all supposed to be? It's a scene in London. Sure, it puts you in the atmosphere. Oh, David, see that's the way they say "Hello" in London. I'll bet there's a lot of folks here that don't get it."

Gee, this is good. Say Ethel, I've got some grand maple syrup. You folks come over after the show and we'll have waffles."

OVERHEARD AT A FOOTBALL GAME

This is only the second football game I've ever seen. But gee, I love it. It's so technical! Look over there at that swell coat on that—What's the matter? Oh, it's their ball. Well, when do we get it? It's over now is it. (Clap and jump up and down). Shut up—why? You said it was our ball. Oh, we fumbled. What's a fumble? Now who's ball is it? Theirs, but off sides. What's that? How many yards do they have to go? What down is this? Do you suppose they'd kick now? Look, look, oh, my dear! They're throwing the ball. Look at him run! They certainly gave him a grand tumble. I'll bet that hurt. Was he across? Do we get it? Really! Is that a touchdown. Goody, goody. Now how much do we get?

This and That

A gift of $500,000 from John D. Rockefeller, Jr., was given to the International Fund for Rebuilding the Shakespeare Memorial Theater at Stratford-on-Avon, was announced at a dinner given by the chairman of the American Shakespeare Foundation.

Half of Mr. Rockefeller's gift was sent direct to the British committee in charge of raising funds in England and British colonies. The rest was added to the fund the American foundation is raising.

Mr. Rockefeller said that the donation was made "in recognition of the debt which Great Britain and the United States owe in common to Shakespeare."

Another speaker declared that if everyone who had ever used a phrase of Shakespeare would contribute a dime the money would soon be raised.

This fund which is being raised will provide for the building of a new theater on the site of the old playhouse, and also for endowment of the Shakespeare Library and Museum at Stratford. This endowment will also assure the maintenance of a permanent company at Stratford for performance of Shakespeare's plays and to train actors in Shakespearean roles.

Washington, D. C., is busy these days preparing for the opening of the Seventieth Congress. This congress is to meet for the first time on December 5, for its long session. Members of the House are elected for two-year terms. Senators are chosen for six-year terms.

The total membership of the House is 435 and the total membership of the Senate is 96; therefore the Senate majority is 49.

Since the Republicans have 20 more than a majority in the House, they will organize that body. Nicholas Longworth, of Ohio, is the speaker of the House of Representatives, he was also speaker in the 68th congress. After the officers have been elected and the members assigned to committees, the House will be ready for business.

There is much work ahead of this Congress. Something must be done to provide relief for the Mississippi flood sufferers and to prevent floods in the future. Tax reductions reductions is another matter that is certain to be acted upon. Another outstanding problem is that of relief for the farmers. Also, the big appropriation bills, which provide money for government expenses, must be paid.

President Coolidge and Secretary Mellon do not favor a reduction of more than 250 million dollars a year. Representative Garner, however, has a plan which would cut taxes more than 400 million dollars a year.

Both houses will try to get their work over as soon as possible because there is a presidential election next year and all members of the House and one-third of the Senate will be chosen. They will all be eager to return to their home as soon as possible to prepare for their campaigns.

Miss Ruth Elder and George Haldean are again in America. When they boarded the Aquatania Miss Elder was on the point of exhaustion, but still she announced shortly before sailing, that she would make another attempt to fly from America to Paris. She said, "I have sworn to follow Lindbergh's path and be the first woman to fly the Atlantic, and I shall start again at the first favorable moment."

Miss Elder revealed a fact that she has this far kept to herself. She said, "I lost a piece of the plus fours I wore until I reached Paris. It was near Lisbon, a young man sneaked up with a pair of scissors from the crowd, clipped a piece from them for a souvenir."

Twenty-two billion dollars a year for food! This is what the Americans pay. This includes every kind of food product consumed from the grocer, butcher and candy store. So you see we Americans are "big eaters."

Many things have been excavated in ancient Greece, but now the greatest of these are to be excavated, that of Athens. The purpose of the excavation is to find the remains of the ancient city. Works of art and statues are among the things that are expected to be found. It is believed that the early laws of the city will be found. And perhaps the present ancient history books will have to be rewritten!

The work is under the control of the American School of Classical Studies in Athens and also the Greek government. The total cost will be about $2,500,000 and this is most all raised already. An unknown American has given $2,250,000 for the work. The land is owned privately and must be bought before the excavations begin. The land will cost at least one million dollars. Probably the actual work will not begin before 1929.

Old Fort Wayne

(Margaret Umbach)

We Northsiders are well aware of the fact that Fort Wayne has become a great and prosperous city. Our very school is an illustration of this fact as well as a result of it.

Would it not be interesting to look back into history and trace our city's progress step by step? Our school is built on the bank of one of Fort Wayne's three historic rivers. Perhaps these rivers do not seem of great importance to us today, but they certainly were important, in fact the determining factor in Fort Wayne's growth.

Fort Wayne was known to the Indians as "the gateway to the west." The portage between the Maumee and the Wabash formed the link between the Great Lakes and the gulf of Mexico.

What little we know of its history before the coming of the white man has been gathered by examining the many curious objects unearthed at various times in this vicinity.

Remains of mastodons and other prehistoric animals have been found. The mysterious race of "mound builders" left behind them proofs of their sojourn here in the form of arrow heads, copper ornaments and pottery buried in large mounds.

The Kiskadee Indians, a branch of the Miami tribe established one of the strongest settlements in the region west of the junction of the "Maumee river" and "Sturgeon creek" which we now know as the St. Joseph and St. Marys river. Before the white man disturbed them and taught them new habits these Miamis had very high characters. They were peaceful, dignified, and gentle.

The first white men to paddle up the rivers to this settlement, called Keklonga, were the French Courer de Bois and a little later the French Jesuits.

The "Lakeside Legend" describes the arrival of the newcomer. Two Indians paddling home from a day's fishing trip were quarrelling as to which had the greatest luck when suddenly they were startled by a human whose like they had never seen before. He assured them that his purpose was a peaceful one and they brought him to their tribal gathering. The entire village regarded him as a messenger from the gods, but his shiftless, none-too-lawful habits soon disillusioned them.

Some historians assert that the great French explorers, LaSalle and Champlain, actually set foot on the soil where our flourishing city has now grown up. Nor are these assumptions entirely groundless. Maps which these men drew of the rivers in this region clearly show that they knew of the confluence of the St. Joseph and St. Marys rivers and it is by no means improbable that they had visited the spot.

Garrett fell on North Side's Redskins early in the first half of their game last Friday at Garrett as a result, scored two of its three touchdowns in this period. The final score was 18 to 0. Garrett's playing shown in last Friday's fracas was a decided improvement over its former work both in offense and defense. The locals mixed a fine running and to score on North Side. In the second half, however, the Redskins came back with a 12 to 0 count against them and outscored Garrett.
Marshall and Gordon scored a touchdown each in the last half. Both made some nice gains through the line and around the ends. Several times the Redskins carried the ball into scoring territory only to have the locals hold them for downs.
The officials were:

Umpire—Gilbert, Fort Wayne.

R. P. Chambers Valued As Aid to Bills
When the final gun of the Garrett game officially closed the North Side High School football season, there was one man on the gridiron, who had given a lot of time, energy and support to the team—and yet had not received a lot of publicity that is often given many valuable people. But Rollie P. Chambers, assistant to Coach Mark Bills, wasn't going out for publicity. He liked the game—and he knew the game. It has been said that he is critical and above all fair. Perhaps that is the reason why he has been so popular with the squad and everything connected with football.
Mr. Chambers is interested in all high school sports, and is one of the boosters as well as workers in the Northeastern Indiana Athletic Association.

ed for the purpose of rehabilitating children's activities in various countries. It is still maintained, and a part is being used to aid the Indian schools of our country.

The Red Cross this year has an opportunity of branching out into another field of service—that of sending Christmas stockings to children of the Mississippi flood district. When the river overflowed, all toys were thrown away as unnecessary baggage, and thousands of children were deprived of the things that would keep them happy, though homeless. Therefore the Red Cross members have a wonderful opportunity to send Christmas presents to these children. The express company has very kindly extended their services in sending all shipments free.

A telegram congratulating the Junior Red Cross for their splendid work was received from the National Director of Red Cross work at Washington, and read to the council by Mrs. Martha McFarland.
Miss Kirch, a delegate from Indianapolis, gave an interesting report of the Junior Red Cross work there.
Following this it was moved that the present chairman and treasurer be retained until the beginning of the next meeting, which will be held in the near future.

SOUTH SIDE OVERWHELMS MONTICELLO
Kelly Klads Pile Up 31 to 0 Count on Opponents.

Holding Monticello's fast backfield men well in check, the Green and White of South Side crashed its way to victory over its opponents at the stadium last Saturday afternoon. The visitors put up a good battle against South Side and the contest was harder fought than the score of 31 to 0 would indicate.
An intercepted South Side pass by Nickolas, who raced 70 yards, for a touchdown gave Monticello its only touchdown the first of the game. From that time on South Side continually scored its backfield men reeling off a nice game behind strong interference.
South Side's defense puzzled Monticello and the visitors at no time in the game except once come into close scoring territory.
Newell, Fleming, Johnson and Dull made nice gains for the Kelly Klads and Dicky received some good passes to bring the Green nearer the visitor's goal. Nickolas and Dilling were the mainstays of Monticello, each making several runs. S. S. displayed both a good offense and defense.

CHAMPIONSHIP TILT TO BE SATURDAY
South Side and Central in Running for Coveted City Title.

The last game of the city championship series will be played Saturday, November 19, at the South Side stadium. Central and South Side will be the "friendly enemies" on that occasion, North Side having been dropped from the running in two previous games. Central defeated North Side with a score of 49-6 on October 15, and South Side carried away the honors November 5 to the tune of 34-0. Even bad weather will probably have little effect on the size of the crowd which will witness the final tussle of the year between the Tigers and the Kelly Klads.

The game takes on increased interest from the fact that neither the Blue nor the Green has shown any evidence of decided superiority during the season.
North Side watches with interest the contest between her sister schools wishing perhaps, as did Miss Suter on one notable occasion, that the battle might end in a scoreless tie.
Let's make this dance a huge success. Then maybe we can have some more.

BLUE AND WHITE TAKE CLOSE GAME
Central Drops Red Devils After Stubborn Battle.

Central high school scored twice on Morton of Richmond and these tallies gave Coach Mendenhall's men a victory over the Red Devils at North Side's field last Saturday afternoon. Morton began the scoring in the first quarter when they made their lone tally. Central's goal, however, was not out of danger in the last period, as the Red Devils twice carried the ball within a yard of the final stripe. On both of these occasions the Tigers held for downs and punted out of danger.
Morton's score was gained as a result of an intercepted pass deep in Central's territory. The Richmond team barely escaped another tally by the same route in the last period but the Tigers held them.

Igleman was a big threat in Richmond's backfield as he made big gains against Central. He also scored Morton's only touchdown and was unfortunately forced out of the contest with an injury at the end of the first half.
Ed Brockhall counted Central's first touchdowns in the beginning of the third period when he snagged the kick-off and ran through the entire Richmond team for a touchdown after which he kicked goal. The second tally came as a result of runs by Brockhall, Lester and Buggs. Hire displayed good defense on the line for the Blue and Weiss played a good game at quarter back. Besides Igleman, Buckner appeared to shine for the Red Devils.

Girl Reserves Hold Delightful Meeting
At their last meeting the Freshman and Sophomore Girl Reserves were entertained with a delightful talk by Mrs. Coxall after which the girls and boys of the school were going to give 20 new members to the Needle Work Guild. These should be brought to Miss Auman in Room 1 before November 15. Anyone before the Girl Reserves who is interested is welcome to contact the girls' room and send in a card for a meeting on November 9. Frankie Ricker spoke on her trip abroad this summer.

Neither Central Catholic of Fort Wayne nor Howe Military Academy could pierce one another's defense for a score and the battle ended in a scoreless tie. The game was played at Howe.
C. C. used an aerial attack to gain against the cadets but this was broken up. The cadets also threatened the Irish goal but were always stopped when they neared the final line. Captain Putney was watched well by C. C. but broke loose for a few good gains while Deligiannis and Schnack clashed the line for yardage. Jenkins played a good game in the line.

Arnold gained some good ground through the cadet's team and also made some long punts to keep the C. C. team out of danger. Both teams played a strong defensive game.

THANKSGIVING VACATION BEGINS THURSDAY

Churches and Clubs Plan Special Programs

CRUSADERS OPEN SEAL CAMPAIGN

Red Cross Will Work on Annual Roll Call for Allen County.

Public schools of Fort Wayne will enjoy a Thanksgiving vacation during Thursday and Friday. North Side as all other public schools will observe this occasion by dismissing school at the end of the eighth period on Wednesday.

Special programs have been planned throughout the city by different clubs, organizations and churches in observance of the day.

Gayly garbed horsemen will officially announce the opening of the campaign for 1927 Christmas seals. The cavalcade, with two buglers dressed as heralds, and the remainder of the riders as crusaders will in a way portray the health crusade of the league in the schools. It has been estimated that on Thanksgiving day approximately 25,000 letters carrying the Christmas seals will be placed in the mail to be delivered in Fort Wayne.

The local chapter of the American Red Cross will be working on the annual roll call for Allen county.

Various churches have planned special services.

The Concordia church, with Rev. H. B. Kohlmeier, pastor, delivering the address, the Emmaus at which the Revs. Fred and Philip Wambagans will speak, and the members of the Zion Lutheran church, which will hold their annual Thanksgiving services and sermons will be delivered by the Revs. Paul Dannenfeldt and Henry Luehr.

Rev. George Doege will be in charge of the services at the Trinity Lutheran church. The Reformed churches of the city will hold their union services at St. John's Reformed church and the address will be delivered by Rev. F. W. Knatz, pastor of Salem Reformed church. Union services will also be held at South Wayne United Brethren church and at Uniondale M. E. church Wednesday evening.

Other churches to hold Thanksgiving services are:

Trinity Episcopal church, Independent Spiritualist church, St. John's Lutheran church, Waynedale and Uniondale Lutheran churches and many others.

Quill Club Does Some Good Work

Members of the Quill club are quietly working away, each member doing the kind of writing that particularly appeals to him. Mr. Dickinson, advisor for this club, states that some creditable work has already been done.

That this club is known outside our school can be proven by the following bit of verse produced by the nine-year-old brother of one of the club members:

Look at all the leaves come down
Scampering, scampering over the ground
In the autumn sun.
Look at those so nice and brown
Fluttering, fluttering to the ground
In the autumn sun.
See the people walking 'round
Crushing, crushing them into the ground
In the autumn sun.
—Elbert Bowen.

Membership in the Quill club may be gained in the following manner:

1. The applicant must have finished one semester's composition work in high school.
2. He must have at least a B grade in English and must be passing in his other subjects.
3. He must produce some satisfactory written work, the merit of which will decide his admission to the club.
4. After joining the club he must produce at least three articles a semester.

Davisson's to Have Open House

Mr. and Mrs. Homer Davisson have issued a general invitation to the public to visit their studio at their home on 331 West Pontiac street. The Davissons are having open house for two weeks beginning December 2

SENIOR TICKETS TO BE TAKEN SOON

Class Has Choice of Photographers

Members of the Senior class are to have their pictures taken by December 15, Melvin Koenig, president of the class, announced yesterday. Breaking from the established custom, it is not necessary for all the photographs to be taken at any one studio, neither will there be an adopted folder for all the pictures, Koenig stated. Photographers who have been recommended to the class are Perrey, Van De Graft and Jefferson. These photographers have consented to give a special rate of discount to the Seniors. The pictures are to be taken on a 5 by 7 split negative. This will make the pictures uniform enough in size for engravings in publications. If the pictures are not taken by December 15, so that the engraving of the pictures can be done, there will be an extra charge of one dollar made to each student to pay for the delayed work.

TITO SCHIPA APPEARS HERE DECEMBER 2ND

Artist Is Favorite of Music Lovers Everywhere.

Schipa's Romance
This will be the sixth brilliant concert season in America of Tito Schipa, universally beloved and world famous lyric tenor who will be heard at the Shrine auditorium, December 2, for the second number of the Morning Music concerts. In every section of this country thousands have filled halls at his every concert; where he has sung once, he is always enthusiastically welcomed. Audiences love him not only for his superb voice and perfect art, but for the thrilling appeal he puts into his songs.

Schipa, in early manhood, is handsome, magnetic, virile. These attributes, added to his prodigious singing gifts, make him a conqueror. He has captivated audiences in Italy, Spain, Portugal, South America, England, Cuba. In our own country his triumphs in all sections have made him a tenor hero. But a hero of modest bearing.

From babyhood Schipa sang. When seven years old he appeared with a boys' chorus in the opera of "Carmen." In early youth he composed a mass of such extraordinary worth that it was sung in the cathedral at Lecce, Italy, his birthplace, and by order of the bishop.

For a time it appeared as though his future in music was ended. At the age of thirteen his mother devoutly pious, decided to devote her son to the church. Schipa went to a seminary for preparation. There the venerable bishop, hearing him sing, directed his voice cultivated by the noted Maestro of bel canto, Gerunda. On the next occasion when the bishop heard Schipa's marvelous voice, he decided, "The boy will do more good in the world outside." In all Schipa studied with his great teacher for five years, during three of these he sang only exercises. So complete and perfect was his training that today, after not having sung for weeks, he can go out on the stage and achieve a triumph. Immediately successful on his debut in Italy in "Traviata," the young tenor's world career began.

A heart romance came early to Schipa, while singing at Monte Carlo he met the charming and beautiful young girl who became his wife. They have a lovely little daughter Elena. The two happy American homes of the famous tenor are at Spabreeze, Florida, and Beverly Hills, California.

Last summer, on the conclusion of a splendid series of singing successes in America, in both concert and opera, he made his concert debut in London before a rapturous audience; next came a triumphant concert in Rome to be followed by gala concerts in Spain, and after that still an engagement of two months in opera at Buenos Ayres where magnificent acclaim awaited him.

Schipa has received distinguished decorations from the Portuguese government; from the king of Spain, and the king of Italy, who gave him the highest honors that his land could bestow, commander of the crown of Italy.

Schipa's Best Girl
Elena shares her father's heart with music. Some day, no doubt, she will become a prima donna, perhaps as famous as is her celebrated father.

In his absences on tour, singing all over the country, she somehow reckons correctly the date that he will next be home, just how she does it none knows.

North Side gymnasium which will be used for the first time December 2 when the Kendallville quintet will meet the Redskins.

Red Cross Organizations To Be Formed Next Monday

Different Departments Work to Bring Christmas Cheer; to Meet Emergency, Cases in City.

A Red Cross organization will be formed in North Side high school after Thanksgiving, according to a statement made from Miss Reynard's office yesterday. To be ready to meet any call from the city Red Cross chapter and to be of service at any time work or an emergency may arise is the purpose of the club.

Both boys and girls may enroll for membership, Miss Reynard said. Already a great work for the Red Cross has been done by the sewing classes in North Side high school. They have been making numerous garments for the children in the Mississippi flood district. Much enthusiasm has been shown in Allen county for the Junior Red Cross, especially since Mrs. Olsen from the national headquarters had her display in various schools in the county. The display will be at North Side next Monday and Tuesday in Room 110. One of the projects for the Allen County Junior Red Cross is to make stockings and fill them with hard candies and toys for the children in the Mississippi flood district.

A call has been made from the manual training department of the high school for all cast-aside toys. That department is to remodel all broken wheels and wagons, and the faces of the dolls will be repainted. All toys are to be brought to school as soon as possible.

The Same Thanksgiving Spirit of 300 Years Still Lives

(By Lorena Fann)

Three hundred and six years ago a small band of toil-worn, weary, and disillusioned seekers after liberty and freedom considered their still disheartening prospects, and the overburden of work and danger that had been their lot for a year past. Could we have blamed them had they found their hearts as bleak and bitter and merciless as the shore which shone with such deceptive lustre across three thousand miles of sea? Yet when the harvest was done, and their hard-earned crops were safely stowed away, they watched the sun rise and set, hazy with the dust of fallen leaves, on scenes so gloriously beautiful that their too-fall hearts swelled to bursting with the wonder of it. As the mad riot of color faded into the lazy mystery of "Indian Summer" amid the primal beauty of the untouched forest, life itself became a thing for which to thank their God. Kind, concealing leaves fell rustling over the many new-made graves which silently reminded the survivors of that mercy which left them their lives and their crude homes. So thankful were they that their thoughts of thanks expanded to include their dusky savage brothers, who, having once declared themselves friends to the paleface intruders, would have died for them.

A curious thing it must have been, that first Thanksgiving, to see those early Pilgrims in their quaint homespun moving among the Indians, picturesque, bizarre, with dark unfathomable eyes fixed curiously on the paleface as he gave thanks for life, food, shelter, and hope. Who can guess his unspoken thoughts, his wonder about the God who inspired such faith and love, where might easily have been such bitter despair.

The hope that inspired our first Thanksgiving leveled mountains, conquered prairie land and desert wastes, suffered in silence, and laid the great foundation stone of freedom which has never yet, and God willing, never will be torn away from under the great edifice reared upon it. Each successive year carried the frontier westward, and gave additional cause for a day of praise and thanks for the blessings that increased and multiplied as America revealed itself to be in truth that Land of Promise for which our fathers crossed the sea. As time passed and this day became dear to every American, as the country passed successfully each new crisis, the people gave thanks more and more fervently for the good fortune which was theirs.

Each year added to Thanksgiving, until today we find it surrounded by a wealth of tradition without which it is unimaginable. What mind does not instantly think of the turkey and cranberry sauce? It couldn't have been a sudden habit, it grew through generations of common usage to be inseparably associated with the day of thanks.

Three hundred years have come and gone since first the Pilgrim knelt to thank his God, and every year has added something to the comfort and pleasure of the lives of his descendants. And yet today, with so many things for which to offer thanks that no volume would hold them all, do we do that thing with as much feeling and sincerity as did those toil-worn men and women so many years ago? The glory of autumn still blazes in all its beauty everywhere around us, but are our eyes as clear to see as were theirs?

The old world has changed, his face so rapidly, our mode of life has rushed madly abreast of it, but has the steel age steered our hearts, and changed our very natures? Has conquest of the air made us over-proud? No! No! Life has made necessary a hard veneer over those feelings so much more freely expressed long ago than now. We speak a different, colored, language, but language does not make a man. Life changes, but not human nature, and being blessed a hundred-fold we return thanks in like degree.

Davissons Have Open House To Display Canvases

Artist Recently Returned From Brown County; Has Display in Hoosier Salon in Chicago Art Exhibit.

Because the picture possessed outstanding merits in the entire collection of pictures displayed last spring at the Hoosier Salon in Chicago was the basis of the decision passed by the judge on the picture of Homer Davisson when it was awarded first prize. The jury considered technique composition, subject and execution.

A real Hoosier artist—and a Fort Wayne man! And the prize winning canvas was the work done by a man who had been inspired down in the grade schools by a schoolmate who sketched in boyish fashion grotesque pictures and outlines on his slate and on the blackboard.

In their quaint little house at 331 West Pontiac street, the Davissons are making a most picturesque studio on the second floor. What a delightful place it is with its gable roof—and its large windows at either end. The sunlight floods in to light the canvases that are hung here and there—in fact all over the room are lovely pictures and outlines on his slate and on the blackboard. These mostly are from Brown county, where the artist has recently spent a few weeks. One can feel the night fall over the weep patch and see the sun in the autumn shed its light on the multi-colored trees on the rugged hills, and suddenly one can be carried far distant from the Hoosier state so dear to the artist for there are sails and boats of Duvernay, Brittany, clumps of Normandy, poplars and little French farms. And most of the pictures are in frames designed, carved and made by Mr. Davisson.

Very charming and hospitable persons—the Davissons. And in the next two weeks, beginning December the new studio will be completed and there they are planning to have open house. And more than that they have offered to hang one or two of the canvases in the North Side High School. A rare treat. Students who have gone to Central have appreciated the Davisson pictures in Central's library, one of their highly prized possessions.

Mr. Davisson is rather hesitant in speaking of his travels and of his collection of material, but he has a wealth of interesting facts to tell about Europe and New England states and Brown county. No wonder! He has spent two years in Germany, one in France, one in Italy and one in Holland! Besides, he personally conducted European tours for eight summers. But most of all Mr. Davisson seems to love Brown county.

Concerning the Brown county colony of the Chicago Evening Post recently said:

"The Brown county group, the oldest and most famous of the Hoosier artist bands, was for 30 years without a permanent place for their exhibitors. Visitors who wished to see the work of the various artists had to visit the studio of each in turn, and each artist lost valuable time in showing canvases to his visitors.

"Now all that is changed. In a building owned by William Wilkes the group has a large, attractive headquarters where an exhibition is constantly in place. The building, which was not too new, was remodeled in the Flemish style under the direction of Carl Graf, one of the artists. Mr. Wilkes, a retired Indianapolis business man, became enthusiastic about the scheme and offered his business experience to the artists in the capacity of manager.

"Now visitors to the Brown county colony can examine the best of its members in a convenient and comfortable gallery. And they do. All day Sunday they pour into the building, some coming from neighboring cities and towns expressly for the purpose, students jaunting down from the state university at Bloomington, while tourists passing through are induced to stop and investigate. On a recent Sunday 700 people visited the gallery in this out-of-the-way spot. There have been times when the doors have had to be closed against the crowds.

"The financial benefit to the artists from the gallery was immediate. One room in the gallery is devoted to a display of etchings, water colors and small oils, all priced at less than $50, which find ready favor even with casual visitors. To provide for maintenance costs of the gallery a display of pottery also is made, and the revenue from this is not inconsiderable, as many will take pieces as souvenirs of their visit if not for their artistic merit.

"The Brown county artists had hoped to be able to display Indiana pottery in their gallery, but they were unable to find any in the quality and Overbeck pottery of Indiana is made in such limited amounts and is generally contracted for so far in advance that they were compelled to take a supply of another type from the East."

BASKETBALL LINE-UP IS ANNOUNCED

List Subject to Change Before Initial Game December 2.

Fifteen of the twenty members for the first and second basketball teams were announced by Coach Mark Bills last night after basketball practice. The list includes North Side's only veteran basketball men, Arthur Penrod, '28 and Steve Marshall, '29. Others on the list are Robert Beverforden, '28, Jack Gordon, '31, Melvin Koenig, '28, Robert McVey, '29, Arthur King, '29, Claude Freimuth, '30, William Barley, '31, Theodore McNelly, '28, Robert Walsh, '28, Raymond Soughan, '29, Robert Hines, '29, Joe Miskell, '30 and Don Chaffin, '29.

The other five members of the squad will be announced in a few days, Coach Bills said. Although these boys have been picked for the squad there are others in school who may be called at any time. This list announced may not be permanent, Bills said, and it may be changed before the initial game of the season with Kendallville, on December 2.

The twenty men will be placed in two teams, with ten men in each team, but these teams have not yet been chosen by the coach.

Practices and tryouts for berths on the regular squad have been held every day for the last two weeks.

The coach has several North Side boys in mind for work on the team, and they may be called to report at any time.

JOINT P. T. A. TO BE HELD AT NORTH SIDE

High School Student on Program.

A joint meeting of the Parent-Teachers Associations of the three public high schools will be held at the North Side High School Wednesday evening, November 30 at 7:15. The program will consist of "Neighbors" given by a joint cast of Central and North Side, and acts from the minstrel show given last year by the South Side High School. Following the program in the auditorium games will be played in the cafeteria and refreshments will be served. Parents, teachers and persons interested in schools are invited.

Some unusual features, which have not been released for publication are being planned for the meeting.

Football Squad Enjoys Booster Club Dance

A large crowd attended the Pow Wow last Friday. The decorating committee, (due to the artistic ability of Mr. Ward Hall) made the cafe a most enticing dance floor. Red and white were the prominent colors. The chaperons for the evening were Miss Reynard, Mr. and Mrs. Borgman. Guests were Mr. and Mrs. Bills, Mr. and Mrs. Northrop, Mr. and Mrs. Chambers, and Mr. and Mrs. Eyster. The "University Five" furnished the music for the evening. Punch was served and a general good time enjoyed, due to the efforts of the Booster club committees.

"Neighbors" to Be Given for Saturday Club

The play, "Neighbors" which was given at Central and at North Side some time ago will be re-enacted for the benefit of the Saturday club which is to be held at the home of Mrs. Paul Mossman on November 28.

GIVING THANKS

It is difficult to say anything new about Thanksgiving. We accept it scarcely without thought as a part of our America. It is our nation's oldest holiday; an institution founded on the desire of the human heart to voice its thanks for many blessings, for gratitude is one of the noblest of all virtues.

The earliest harvest day Thanksgiving in America was kept by the Pilgrim fathers at Plymouth in the fall of 1621. The custom grew throughout New England particularly, but although a day was set aside by the colonists, there was no official recognition for many years. It was in 1789 when our present government was founded on the constitution of the United States, that President George Washington, as chief magistrate, issued the first Thanksgiving proclamation.

But the significance of the day had long since gripped the hearts and entwined itself about the hearthstones of the American people. Men who had fought for home and country when liberty's torch was lighted in the fires of the Revolution, remembered to give thanks. Perpetuating the old New England custom, they praised the Power that had made and preserved a nation. Along with its religious observance, this day, through succeeding generations, became one of feasting and gladness, as reunited families celebrated harvest home.

The spirit back of this day is as old as the race. Its forerunner was the grateful Noah and his first Thanksgiving service for safe deliverance from the flood. The return of the prodigal son was the occasion of another season of thanksgiving. No one can read of the father's joy without visualizing the gladness of that moment. Everybody was happy except possibly the envious elder brother, and the unfortunate fatted calf which was converted into veal cutlets.

It was in 1863, during the Civil war, that our own Abraham Lincoln issued another memorable Thanksgiving proclamation as president of the United States. The high tide of southern invasion had just receded at Gettysburg. At fearful cost the union had been saved from disaster and defeat, and in gratitude to the God of Battles, President Lincoln set aside a day of prayer and thanksgiving. Twice since then has the scourge of war passed over our beloved homeland, but the vision on his knees in the White House, pleading for his country, will remain so long as the republic shall endure.

Three hundred years have come and gone since the landing of the Pilgrim Fathers, but as we turn back the scroll, what pictures rise up out of the records of the past. There is the story of that first Thanksgiving day, with its pitiful setting of vanished hands; of voices that were stilled; of sorrowful memories; of dreary wastes; a bleak and rock bound shore and winter's desolation. So many forms were at rest beneath the snow. Burials were in secret. They dared not let the Indians know of their weakness. Of the little band of 102 who came in the Mayflower, more than half were dead. At one time there were only seven well persons to take care of the sick. Yet when spring came no one thought of returning to England.

They had longed for a land where they might worship God in their own way. America offered such a home and in that wilderness of New England, stalked by foes, where pestilence and famine multiplied, they braved the rugged stormy land and perils of the deep. Only the indomitable spirit which freedom had planted in their breasts, enabled these heroes to "carry on."

Once when all their food was gone, it is said that Elder Brewster, over a meal consisting only of clams, returned thanks to God, who "had given them to such of the abundance of the seas and of the treasures hid in sands."

When "starving time" decimated their ranks and the wild game of the forest failed them, a bit of fish and cup of water was sometimes all they had, but "grateful for Thy mercies, Lord" was still the burden of their song.

We who are never pinched by want or hunger; who enjoy countless blessings which they never know, yet grumble because we do not have more; can we not take to ourselves from this the real message of Thanksgiving? Aside from their spirit of gratitude and praise; their willingness to endure for freedom's sake; are there not many other lessons in this picture for the American people today?

Whether they had much or little, they were grateful. They loved peace. They dealt justly. They worshiped Him who had led to this wilderness home the feet of those who blazed the trail for America's future greatness. Their bravery commanded respect. And through it all, their humbleness emphasized every virtue. They sought to win and did win the good will and friendship of those about them, when the white man and the red clasped hands and savage guests were welcome at Pilgrim feasts.

This is the lesson for us all this Thanksgiving day. Humbleness. And with it a thankful heart, which Cicero said is not only the greatest virtue but the parent of all virtues.

And so today among a multitude of other things, let's be grateful that Providence has so wonderfully prospered this great nation of ours; and to count our individual blessings, "Lest we forget."

If we would ring true to the fine old colonial model; that forerunner to American citizenship, let us make it mean more, this festival of the thankful heart, this truly American institution inaugurated by the Pilgrim Fathers and their forest friends, three centuries ago, and who in the words of the old song

"Smoked peace pipes and forgot to kill
That first Thanksgiving Day."

VISION

This and That

(By E. Juergens)

The terrible explosion at Pittsburgh spread death Monday, November the 14th. Many were killed and more injured. The cause of the disaster was thought to be from workmen, who were repairing a gas tank. There was thought to be a leak in this tank and as they were using acetylene torches, the gas was ignited by the torches and hence, the great explosion. Pieces flew for an area of more than one square mile. Many large buildings were leveled. One fire chief who was crossing a bridge nearby said that he saw the great steel gas tank rise hundreds of feet in the air. He also said it was like a huge balloon riding on a crest of a burst of flames a block wide. Then for an instant it remained motionless in the air. Then exploded like a great firework bomb with a report that could be heard, throughout the city. He says, because the explosion was in mid-air the tons of steel flew in every direction, crashing many buildings, and killing many people.

Another terrific explosion occurred several days ago on board the steamer Jacob Luckenbach, near Baltimore. This killed one man and injured five others while it blew one man overboard. It occurred on the first deck, where men were working with acetylene torches, near fuel tanks.

"Fort Wayne should be one of the most beautiful cities in the country," was the statement made at a luncheon meeting, several days ago. It was also said that the way to beautify Fort Wayne, was to get into possession of the land where the improvements are going to be made, and then proceed to beautify it. It was also said that there were three duties of citizens in regard to their city, and they are: Make the city safe, make it sanitary and beautiful. Are we doing all we should do for Fort Wayne?

The airplane carrier, Saratoga, is the biggest and best ship of its kind in the world, will soon begin service in the United States navy.

This ship has just been finished and will be placed in commission some time this month. It cost $45,000,000, and is 833 ft. long. It has a flying deck extending from stern to stern. The Saratoga will carry 83 airplanes and will have a crew of more than 2,000 officers and men.

1927!

This year will be long remembered in the United States, as a year of terrible floods. The Mississippi was the greatest of them all. Now, New England, is counting the cost of the greatest in their history.

The cause of their flood was the heavy rains.

Many of the smaller towns were cut off from the outside world for a time and President Coolidge sent supplies by army airplanes.

The New England flood is believed to be worse, and more lives lost, than the Mississippi flood because the rivers rose so quickly that there was little or no time for escape.

The largest plane ever flown is being built at Garwood, N. J. It is a double tier Lawson super-air liner, three times as large as the largest plane flown. It has a capacity of 100 passengers. Alfred W. Lawson is the designer.

Cracks Along The Boardwalk

Extra! Extra! Several North Side students kidnapped. Majestic Theatre takes them into captivity for "The Poor Nut." I don't know, I'll be afraid to go into a thing like that, it might something like "The Gathering of the Nuts" or whatever it is.

The fair team of Frances Cook and Esther Lowery certainly looked collegiate Saturday in their rah-rah-coon coats.

If you have not promised Jane Emrick to buy your season ticket from her you will, because she had everybody sign "on the dotted line." Good business, Jane.

Yes, the war's over, that noise is just Robert Kaade's shoes.

What do you think of a teacher what'll buy a taffy apple and eat the taffy and leave the apple. Yeh, it was Miss McKin, but don't tell her I told you.

Our idea of something funny would be Ted McNelly's interpretation of a spring dance.

You may not believe it, but I saw Charley Pierce with his hair combed. Mabel: Why do you call one of our athletes a bird? Ruth—Well, he is chicken-hearted and pigeon-toed, has the habits of an owl, likes to wear a swallow-tail coat and collar with wings, he is always acting the goose, and he is a perfect jay.

"Well, dad, I'm engaged."
"You don't really mean it."
"Of course not, but it's lots of fun."
—Scream.

Sizzling: Can you draw?
Boulder: A little, why?
Sizzler: Well then, draw closer.
—Witt.

Man to a Friend: Do you know where I can get forty thousand cockroaches?
Friend: What do you want those for?
Man: My lease runs out next week and I agreed to leave the house as I found it.
—Chauncleer.

"My future is assured."
"Why."
"I'm going to die."
—Webfoot.

Daughter: No daddy, I won't need any new clothes this spring.
Father: Ye Gods! I was afraid it would come to that!

"Any part of the city you want, cheaper rates!" yelled the taxi driver.
Student: You can't string me again, I bought the city hall last year and they wouldn't give it to me.
—Dreperd.

"I can read your mind like a book," the professor droned on. "I can tell just what each of you are thinking."
"Well, why don't you go there?" remarked the cynic in the rear seat.

The sweet young thing was saying her prayers: "Dear Lord," she cooed, "I don't ask for anything for myself, only give mother a son-in-law.—Bliscon.

"I read that a father of ten killed himself."
"My goodness, what a young father."

Stranger: Are the police in this town mounted?
Town Juhester: No, only stubbed.—Widow.

Teacher: (to Frosh) Mr. or Miss —, spell banana.
Frosh: Banananana— darnit, teacher, I know how to spell it, but I don't know when to stop.

He: Have you ever been in love?
She: That's my business.
He: Well, how's business?—Bell Hop.

S. S. DEFEATS CENTRAL BY NARROW MARGIN

Kelley Klads Regain Football Title by 12-to-6 Score.

Before a crowd of 3,500 football fans that packed South Side's big stadium to capacity Central high school's football warriors battling stubbornly before a consistent attack of the Green were forced to give way to the Kellies and South Side regained the coveted city high school football championship lost to Central gridders two years ago. The struggle took place last Saturday afternoon.

It was a battle royal with the Tigers striving in vain to keep the title earned two years past, but South Side's efforts were equally in earnest and finally the Green triumphed. The rival schools played the greatest championship game ever witnessed here.

Central's touchdown was the first tally of the game. This score came in the second quarter when Brockhall, backfield, tossed a long pass to Lyons lanky colored end, who managed to convey himself and the ball to within one foot of the southerners' goal line before down. Bugs took the ball and smashed over the goal line on the next play. The try for point attempt failed. To celebrate this good start Central fans released many blue and white balloons which floated over the east wall of the field.

Central had another change to score earlier in the game. After the Tigers had kicked off South Side failed to gain and Fay's punt was blocked and recovered by Central. The Blue advanced the ball to the 5-yard mark where S. S. stiffened and held for downs. After Central's first tally the Blue supporters went wild with joy and demonstrated its appreciation in various ways while on the east side of the stadium nothing broke the silence of the saddened followers of the Kelly Klads.

The first S. S. score was also made in the second quarter. After a steady march down the field, the ball being advanced by short passes and line

Redskins Face Stiff Teams In Basketball Schedule

Season Opens With Kendallville, Quintet on December 2; Two Veterans Are on Squad.

With the ending of the football campaign for the public schools, Fort Wayne athletic fans will turn their attention to basketball starting December 2. North Side's material this year does not look so promising with only two regular basketball veterans on the squad, but Coach Mark Bills has some prospects who may develop into good timber when the games get well under way. Although the prospects are not so bright for the Redskins, student loyalty in the new school is at high ebb, and season tickets are expected to be in great demand when they go on sale November 28.

An even dozen home games grace the North Side schedule this year. The opening game takes place here when Coach Stanley brings his Kendallville quintet to Fort Wayne for the initial game in the huge North Side gymnasium. Kendallville is known for its good team and its one player alone, Prentice, is known all over the state. He made the all-state team last year. The Kendallville players went thru the second round at the state tourney, and were eliminated by the Muncie boys, runners-up for champs. Coach Stanley is new at Kendallville this year, coming from Garrett. The night following the Kendallville game, the local boys journey to Warren, and on the following week the South Bend boys meet the locals in the North Side gymnasium.

plunges, Dull plunged over for a touchdown.

South Side's second tally which made victory possible, was made in the third quarter when the Kellies advanced the ball in almost a like manner as they had when the first tally came with Dull and Fleming doing the major part of the ball-carrying. Again Ford Dull crashed through the line for another six-pointer.

This ended the scoring but South Side came dangerously close to Central's goal several times in the final minutes of the game. It was at these critical times that the Tigers' fighting spirit was displayed and Central's defense tightened, shutting off a score.

Bugs and Brockhall were the two mainstays of the Tigers' offense while Lester Weiss and Bash also played a great game in the backfield. Led by Hire, the line featured by the playing of Quick, Lyons, Dornte, Cook, Selling and Rinaker displayed great, defensive football. Peter Vincenski also played a good game while he was in, being forced out by a leg injury. South Side's line comprised of Dickey, Fay, Hollenbeck, Eppie, Coan, Rastetter, and Miner also played a fine defensive game, while the backfield stars of the Green were: Newell, Johnson, Fleming, Ellenwood, Miller and Dull.

By virtue of this victory, besides regaining the city championship, South Side gains possession of two trophies, to remain at the southern school for another year.

ILLINOIS COPS BIG TEN CHAMPIONSHIP

Trophies Change Places in Rival Schools.

It's all over now!

That football season of 1927. And Saturday's games were slated for rivals of long standing. In the same breath Illinois-Ohio, Yale-Harvard, Purdue-Indiana, Chicago-Wisconsin and South Side-Central are always mentioned.

Illinois came out on top of the Big Ten conference by defeating the Buckeye crew before a most enthusiastic crowd of 70,000 fans at the homecoming for Ohio at Columbus. Only Minnesota had a chance to dispute the honors; the Gophers too had gone through the season without a defeat, but their tie game with Indiana marred their record. But now Illinois can claim the turtle for another year.

Chicago and Wisconsin are rivals of long standing.

There are some trophies that stand between some of these rival schools which is given to the winning team to be kept until the next game. Among these schools are Minnesota and Purdue. Minnesota this year will carry the little brown jug back to their northern school with the numerical 13-7 representing their victory over the Maize and Blue squad of Michigan.

The old oaken bucket which is the trophy between two Indiana schools, Indiana and Purdue, will again be with the Old Gold and Black school at Lafayette. And no doubt the cow bell at Purdue rang on Saturday night, after the Boiler-makers' victory over the Scramplin' Hoosiers at Bloomington. The cow bell at Purdue is always in danger before an Indiana game, quite as much as the Navy's goat before an Army-Navy game.

ST. BERNARD FALLS BEFORE C. CATHOLIC

Buckeyes Are Snowed Under 24-to-0 Count by Irish.

From the very beginning of their game last Saturday at Lincoln Life field, C. C. of Fort Wayne started a hard line-smashing attack and pushed over a touchdown early in the first period. In the second quarter Huguenard went over the line for a second marker after some pretty broken field running. A pass, Huguenard to Arnold, gave the Irish a third tally in the same quarter. In the last half the final score was made after a series of line bucks and an end run by Arnold. All points of touchdowns failed. Both teams frequently resorted to punting and the passing was also good. It was the best football the locals have displayed this year.

SOCIETY AND FEATURES

After prayer and fasting and a farewell feast, the Pilgrim Fathers left the city of Leyden and sought the new and unknown land.

When first the Pilgrims sighted the new world, they were filled with praise and thanksgiving. Going ashore they fell upon their knees and blessed the God of Heaven. And after that whenever they came across hard problems, or were delivered from them, they gave thanks to God.

During the first winter our poor forefathers suffered miserable hardships because of sickness and want of food. The little colony was thinned out and many pitiful graves were made on the near-by hill top.

When spring finally came they tilled the soil and never ceased watching it until it had reached full growth. Their prayers were answered and plenty of rain fell, and the sun did not forget to shine.

Soon the spring days were over and never had so large a harvest been seen. The Pilgrims rejoiced and reaped their crops. Then, filled with the spirit of thanks, they prepared a feast, and this was known as the first Thanksgiving.

They were far from home and friends, they cooked and brewed—and sang, perhaps, as they did it. And, not satisfied with cooking and brewing for their own selves, they went out into the great dim forests and invited the savage redskins.

Thus, we have the story of the beginning of our civilization and we have much to be thankful for, having been borned into all the pleasures which we enjoy, and for which our Pilgrim fathers had to fight.

THE WRIGHT PLAYERS

"Lightnin'" the play, which scored such a great success some seasons ago, and the title role of which was immortalized by the late Frank H. Bacon, will be the unusual offering of the Wright Players next Sunday, November 27th.

To Fred Sullivan, the distinguished character, will fall the pleasurable duty to portray the wonderful character of "Old Bill Jones," also known as "Lightnin'" — a lovable old man who is somewhat of a liar, and a bit too fond of good liquor.

Frank H. Bacon, who created the role on the stage, also was a co-author in the piece, sharing the credit for the drama with Winchell Smith. There is a subtle humor in almost every line, situations that bring smiles and chuckles to the audience, and then a series of happenings filled with pathos that run the gamut of human emotions.

MR. EYSTER HEADS NEW FINANCE SYSTEM

All Organizations Are To Report To Mr. Eyster.

A new plan has been instituted at North Side high school, whereby all the clubs and organizations of the school will have a centralized system. It will operate under the name "North Side High School Associated Activities."

According to the plan, Elvin S. Eyster will act as treasurer for every organization in the school. There will be a treasurer for each society as usual, who will keep a record of their financial status under Mr. Eyster's supervision. The students acting in this capacity will be given instructions on how to act as treasurer or secretary for their club, and the treasurers' books for the various organizations will be kept uniform.

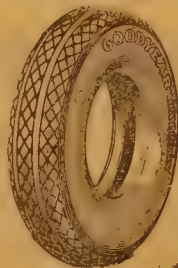

Each club will turn its money over to Mr. Eyster, who will in turn issue a treasurer's receipt for same. The money will be placed in the bank in one account, in order to eliminate having so many small accounts.

When any organization desires any merchandise or service, it must make out the order on an official requisition blank approved by the faculty advisor and school treasurer. In paying for any merchandise or services, the club will draw a warrant or order on the school treasurer to pay for the requisition by check.

Besides attending to the finances, Mr. Eyster will also act as financial advisor to these various organizations. He will give suggestions to any group on questions of raising and spending money in matters of any importance.

Every club that is now organized should send their treasurer or representative to Mr. Eyster as soon as possible in order that the plan may be explained more fully. He may be found in Room 228 at any time during the latter part of the fifth period, the eighth period, and before and after school.

NORTH SIDE PRESS CLUB IS ORGANIZED

All Active Staff Workers Eligible for Membership.

OFFICERS ELECTED COMMITTEES NAMED

To Open Activities With Party for South Side and Central Clubs.

A meeting was held yesterday to organize North Side's first Press club. Those eligible or membership are active members of the staff who are interested in learning more about journalism from personal contact with men and women who are following that profession in life. At a meeting of the Joint Press club of the three schools Lorena Fann was elected as North Side representative in the executive council of tri-school organization, this office carrying with it the position of president of North Side's Press club. Other officers were not elected in time to be published in this issue.

The first action of the club will be to entertain the journalists of her sister schools with a program and refreshments tomorrow afternoon. Aside from such social gatherings as these the club will strive to get well-known journalists to talk at meetings in order to make plain the very practical side of high school press work. The purpose will be to improve the Northern and to turn out journalists capable of taking places of responsibility in professional work. Every phase of newspaper work will be stressed as much as possible, and efforts will be made to get speakers who can talk authoritatively on a variety of subjects.

The club intends to start work immediately, and committees have been appointed by the president as follows: Refreshment Committee: Chairman, Lucille Reichle, Nina Lewis, John McMeen, Lella Smith.

Entertainment Committee: Chairman, Philip Dodane, Margaret Berg-hoff, Jane Korn, Ray Alter.

Publicity: Donald Elder, John Sessler.

RED CROSS CLUB BUSY ON CHRISTMAS WORK

Group to Aid Disabled Veterans, Flood Sufferers and County.

In order to further the work of the newly organized Red Cross organization in High School a "penny box" has been placed at the information desk in the main corridor.

Any courageous person having will power enough to part with a penny or two on this lunch allowance is urged to do so, (no restrictions as to amount), by members of the organization.

Various kinds of work is being done by the organization. At present lamp shades are being made from cartons. Jokes and bright colored advertisements pasted on tarelton cloth produce very interesting and pretty effects. The base of the lamps is made of any large bottle and glass lamp. Waste paper basket will also have jokes and cartoons pasted on them. The things are to be Christmas presents for the disabled veterans at some United States government hospital.

About ten families here in Allen county will be taken care of at Christmas by the Red Cross club. Baskets of food, some clothing and toys, will be given. Any person who is able to give canned goods or other foods is urged to bring it in to headquarters in 110. The domestic science department has kindly offered to make some clothing, and the manual training is renovating broken toys. Dolls will be made and any thing useful will be used in some way. The Sharky County Mississippi flood victims are going to be helped. Offering of clothes food and toys for the children will be sent.

The club held a meeting on Monday, November 27 and elected officers. The committees and officers are as follows:

President—Frances Cook.
Vice-president—Mary Jane Scott.
Secretary and treasurer—Lorena Fann.

News reporter—Eduell Miller.
Service—Edwin Hipkips.
Advertising—Eduell Miller.
Material—Grace Dye.
Art—Helen Marshall.
Miss Hurst and Miss Reynard, advisors and anyone wishing to enter the club may do so by seeing either of them. No dues have been set as yet.

Read and Heed

Everyone who has a moment to spare will be welcomed by the Red Cross. There is a lot of work and not enough workers.

There is still time, also, to donate clothing and unused toys to the cause.

GIRL RESERVE INITIATION TO BE HELD

Interesting Talk Given by Mr. Ewald of S. America

MOTHER AND DAUGHTER TEA IS PLANNED

Joint Entertainment to Be Given for Benefit of Children in Orphans' Home.

The Girl Reserves will hold a meeting today in the music room. An initiation will take place. It is urged that all be present. The last meeting was intensely interesting and this meeting promises to be even more so.

At the last meeting a very interesting talk was given by Mr. Ewald from South America. His main subject was about the girls of South America, their lives, and the few advantages that they had. He also told of different conditions of South America.

The Wednesday before Christmas has been selected for the Mother and Daughter tea. Plans are being made for the Crimson Y and the Polar Y entertainment to be given Christmas for the orphan children at the orphans home.

CAESAR CLASSES BUILD PYRAMIDS

Ethel Meyers Proves to Be Cartoonist.

"Hey there! Whatcha doin' with that big piece of paper?"

"That's just my Caesar pyramid!"

"Caesar pyramid! Hah! Caesar did a lot of things, but the pyramids are in Egypt and I don't believe he ever had a thing to do with them."

"That may be, but this is one to represent the action in Shakespeare's play, Julius Caesar. You don't need to take my word for it; just look into room 332."

Investigation proved that some unusual work has been done in the English 4 classes. Mr. Dickinson states that this year the classes studying Caesar have displayed a great deal of ability in their illustrations. One, labeled "Poor Brutus," has caused a great deal of amusement, for Ethel Meyers has proved herself quite a cartoonist. Those that are especially noteworthy—that is, unusual in design, coloring, lettering, etc., were made by the following people: Virgil Eisenhut, Lysie Turner, Emma Anglin, Jean Bouillet, Ethel Meyers, Helen Schearer, Myron O'Brien, Margaret Brudi and Olive Campbell.

Look Over

Wednesday, November 28, a joint meeting of the three High School Parent-Teachers' associations was held at North Side.

A fine program was presented by all three schools. The play "Neighbors" was given by the joint cast from North Side and Central. The "Minstrel Show" consisting of about 20 boys from South Side was also given.

After the program, sandwiches and coffee were served in the cafeteria to the many parents, teachers and students.

Mr. Croninger then presented a beautiful cup to the school having the largest attendance at the meeting. North Side having 97 parents and teachers, received the cup.

Home Economics Club Holds Meeting Monday

The North Side Home Economics club held a meeting last Monday, No. 8. Each chairman met with her committee and made plans for the year. The next meeting will be held next Monday, December 19 in room 123. A candy demonstration will be given by Miss DeVilbiss. Each member is asked to bring a prospective member for the club.

The Home Economics club united with the Booster club at the game and sold red and white buttonets made by the members of the club.

The girls are also making dresses for the Red Cross. These dresses will go to the orphans in Sharbey county, Mississippi.

"MESSIAH" STAGED BY LUTHERAN SOCIETY

Presentation To Be At Shrine On Sunday, December 18th.

Music lovers of North Side will be pleased to learn that the Fort Wayne Lutheran Choral Society plans to offer as its contribution to the holiday season "The Messiah," the famous oratorio, "The Messiah." The date set for the event is Sunday afternoon, December 18, and the place is the Shrine Auditorium.

"The Messiah" tells the Biblical story of Redemption, carrying the listener through the career of the Savior from the nativity to the resurrection. The celebrated "Hallelujah" chorus, in which the triumphant faith of the believer in the risen Lord rings out in tremendous chords, is usually considered the climax of the composition, but the two concluding choruses are no less impressive: "Worthy is the Lamb," and the grand "Amen," with which the work closes.

Mr. Weller, conductor of the Choral Society, has been fortunate in securing the services of some noted artists for the solo parts. The soprano solos will be sung by Miss Luella Feiertag, formerly of Fort Wayne Miss Feiertag has appeared here on numerous occasions and has never failed to please her audience with her beautiful, clear soprano.

The bass and tenor soloists are both from Chicago. John Rankel will sing the bass solos and Dwight Edrus Cook will sing the tenor parts. Both have sung the "Messiah" a number of times and have been highly recommended by Chicago critics.

The alto solos will be sung by Miss Harriet Clark, from Kansas City. Miss Clark is also an experienced singer.

Tickets for this event may be secured from any member of the Choral Society, or, after December 11, at the Box Office of the Shrine Auditorium.

Girls' Stunt Night Goes Over Big

The "Stunt Night" planned by the Girls' gym classes was given last Friday in the auditorium. Several stunts were given and were interesting and amusing to both the audience and the girls taking part. Helen Ballou's class was awarded the prize for the cleverest stunt. The stunt was a pantomime and was very amusing as well as clever. Mildred Kissinger's class had a "Hicksville Band" which gave some popular and classical music for the audience. A gym class showing what the girls are doing under the direction of Miss Schwehn was given by Esther Nobles' Whites. A style show and basketball game were also given. After the stunts candy was sold in the hall. The sale was very successful.

Debate Teams Plan Interesting Schedule For Remainder of Year

Affirmative Team Meets Bluffton Here, December 7; Negative Team Debates at Leo, December 8

Our debating teams have planned a full and interesting schedule for the remainder of the year. Since this is our first year in debating, we hope that it will be a very successful one.

The members of our affirmative team are Carl Jacobs, Robert Walch, Durward Allen, the captain, and Joseph Bowen, the alternate speaker.

Some of the members of the team have had previous experience. Carl Jacobs had some experience at Central last year. Robert Walsh came to us from Central Catholic where he debated during his Freshman and Sophomore years. During his Junior year he was in the Constitutional contest and an elocution contest. He promises to be a very splendid debater.

The affirmative team will debate the Bluffton negative team here, in our auditorium, Wednesday, December 7, at 3:15 p. m. The speakers of the Bluffton team, in the order in which they will speak are:

Ralph Kemper, Gretchen Hubner, Paul Wilson. Wendell Guidin is the alternate speaker. These students are all seniors, but have had no previous experience.

Professor Andrew W. Cordier, who is head of the history department of Manchester College, North Manchester, Ind., will be the critic judge. He is well qualified to judge this debate since he has judged high school and college debates many times before. Having a critic judge makes the audience and the contesting teams much more satisfied. Professor Cordier explains the good points and the bad points of each team, and he tells why his choice was made; thus making the audience understand his decision better. This causes no ill feelings, and points out to the losing team the things that they will have to work hardest on, and to the winning team, the things which will make it better.

The members of our negative team are:

Philip Bowen (captain), John McMeen, and Paul Sommers. Louise Shreve is the alternate speaker for this team. Of the members of this team, Philip Bowen is the only one who has had previous experience. He was on the debate team at Central last year, and he won the extemp contest here at our school this fall. Paul Sommers was also a contestant.

Our negative team has also a full season planned. Thursday, December 8, this team will meet Leo affirmative team at Leo. The following week it will debate Central affirmative here while our affirmative team travels to Bluffton.

During the past week there has been a racing sale of tickets for the North Side vs. Bluffton debate here Wednesday, when there will be an announcement of all the debates to take place. Let us hope that the good support that is shown now will continue throughout the year.

Mr. Suter will be chairman for the debate.

DEC. 15 DEADLINE FOR SENIOR PHOTOS

Northerner to Print Several Senior Editions in Spring

Seniors are urged to have their pictures taken immediately, as there is only a short time remaining in which to have it done, the latest date being December 15. Each senior who does not have his photo taken by that date will have to pay an extra charge of one dollar to pay for the delayed work of engraving for publications, Melvin Koenig, senior class president, announced.

It will not be necessary to have all the photographs taken at any one studio, although Perrey, Van de Grit, and Jefferson have been recommended to the class. These photographers have promised a special rate of discount to all senior class members.

Pictures are to be taken on a 5 by 7 split negative. One of these must be a glossy print negative, because it will look much better when used in publications, it was announced by the editor-in-chief.

Plans are being laid to have several editions of the Northerner devoted to the seniors. The paper will give even more information about these dignified personages than an annual would be able to give.

HONOR ROLL STUDENTS ARE ANNOUNCED

At Least Three A's Required to Make Honor Roll

37 NORTHSIDERS ARE HONOR STUDENTS

Edwin Bleke, Junior, Makes Highest Number of A's.

An honor roll is the evidence of the scholastic standing of a school. The purpose of it is to inspire students to work harder for grades. Grades are very important in everyone's life. They determine whether a student may get into college, and also are great factors in determining whether a student is eligible for athletics and various organizations. To make the honor roll, a student must have 3 A's and the other grades must not be lower than a B. Mr. Northrop, principal said. The following people have made the honor roll:

Freshmen

CLUB ASKS FOR OLD TOYS

Clothes and Fruits Are Also Needed.

"Any old clothes today lady?" That's what the Red Cross club wants everyone, to be asking. But the clothes must be in good condition, for they are to be boxed up and fled with a perky bow and sent on to someone else for Christmas. So far a great many toys have come in. Miss Hurst said, but the manual training department is willing to mend many more, she said.

The organization is asking also for fruits and jellies to fill the Xmas baskets. Meetings of the group are held on Tuesday and Thursday afternoons at 3:15 and on Wednesday evenings at 7 o'clock.

North Side Celebrates Victory in Pep Session

"All in the gym for the pep session."

"Pep session? How come?" "Sure there's a pep session and Miss Hurst is talking She's tellin' all about the game at Warren Saturday night. Come on in."

Yes, North Side had a pep meeting Monday morning and Miss Hurst gave one of the most exciting talks (even if we did know how it was going to end) on the Warren and North Side game.

Mark Bills presented Principal Northrop with a scalp, the first the Redskins have brought back. Mr. Northrop was quite pleased, but expressed his opinion that the next time one with a different color of hair should be brought back.

"Be sure and support North Side's debating team Wednesday after school. Admission is only 10 cents. Buy your tickets from members of the debating team," Edward Ford said in a short talk before the students.

Miss Cromer, who is coach of debaters at North Side is also head of the English department.

NO. SIDE DEBATE INTERESTS VARY

Hobbies Vary From Being a Cartoonist to a Scientist.

Do you know your debaters? Here are a few of the characteristics that may help you. We will take the affirmative side first.

Durward Allen: Anyone who knows Durward knows he is quite a scientist. He has taken every science available in high school. When you see him the first two things you will notice are, his sweater and those curly locks. We wonder how often he gets a marcel or if he has a permanent.

The second on the affirmative team is Bob Walch. Bob is a cartoonist of great renown. He seems to be constantly teasing someone. He is quite well known as Prof. Quanchit but better known as Napoleon.

Our next victim will be Carl Jacobs. Bud is not very tall but he is very well liked by his classmates. He likes dramatics and is a very active Junior.

The last, but not least, on the affirmative team is Joe Bowen. Joe is Philip's brother, and Philip is on the negative team. These brothers are known as the Bowen twins. Joe is quiet until you know him and then, oh! boy. He is only a sophomore. The youngest one of the team.

Now we will characterize the negative team.

Philip Bowen, one of the Bowen twins, had the honor of winning the extemporaneous contest. We wonder who will be the winner this time. Listen, here's a trait that will help you find Phil: He is not at all bad looking, but don't tell him I said so. Phil is a senior. I really don't think you will have any trouble finding him.

The second of our negative team is Paul Sommers. Paul is quite a serious chap but still he does crack some wise ones once in a while. Oh! yes, Paul is a blonde, too.

Now, our only girl is Louise Shreve. Although she is the only girl on the team, she doesn't seem to mind it at all. Of course we don't blame her a bit. One of her outstanding characteristics is a smile. Louise is a Junior.

Last, but not at all least is John McMeen. Johnny is quite high up in the world. He even looks down on every one in North Side. He seems to be in love with every girl in school and always looks for a chance to take one home in his car. Yes, and he is also an invaluable reporter on our Northerner and he is a Junior.

Our debating team has a good leader, anyone who knows Miss Cromer realizes she likes debating. Coaching a debating team seems to be her hobby. And we all say she has made a great success at it. We thank you, Miss Cromer, for your untiring work and hope our team wins the debate.

E. Juergens.

Home Economics Club Entertained

Last Monday, November 28, the girls in the Home Economics department were entertained by a demonstration from Wolf & Dessauer's department store in the school laundry, who was exhibiting the Maytag washing machine. The girls were invited over to spend forty minutes of each period. The department hopes to purchase a washing machine in the near future.

EDITORIAL

RED CROSS

In addition to regular Red Cross activities December brings Christmas work, which includes Christmas cheer for disabled soldiers, orphans and families who would otherwise find no difference between the Yuletide and any other season in the year. The Northernner office is at present headquarters for the North Side High School Red Cross chapter. The membership is small, the amount of work to be done is far beyond what the members can find time to do. Why not join and help. Boys are needed as well as girls because there are many things the girls cannot do. There is no worthier work to which to devote your time and energy than the joyful business of making others happy, and there is no army more sure of victory than that which knits its organization carefully and sets out well armed, to stay gloom and sorrow with the shining blade of cheer.

Just imagine yourself a poor orphan, or the child of a poor family, and think of Christmas without your big Christmas dinner, and without the presents which you receive. They may not be the purpose of Christmas, but just think how much Christmas spirit you would be able to feel if you were deprived of them. When you exchange gifts with your friends, you prove your love for them, but do not forget that in giving to the poor you give to Him for whom this day was set aside, for He said, "Even as you did it unto the least of these, ye did it unto Me."

ARGUMENTS

Arguments may be divided into two classes: those which may be settled by points of fact, and those which depend upon a difference of opinion. Arguments of the first named class are comparatively easy to settle by producing the facts, but in the latter case, in order to settle the argument to your own advantage, you must win the other contestant to your point of view. It is useless to try to out-talk your opponent. By losing your temper and raising your voice, you admit that you are losing confidence in your convictions. You can win only by convincing him of your sincerity and proving the soundness of your opinions.

Above all, pay attention to what the other fellow says. The purpose of argument is not only to impart but to acquire knowledge.

CAN YOU?

It is well to be able to change your mind, but not without reason. If all your friends disagree with you, don't listen to them unless they can give good reason for their opinions. Remember that "Public opinion is an ill wind, before which the minds of weak men sway like weeds in a storm."

LETTER MEN

It is nearing the time when we do honor to those men who have worked for us so faithfully in the athletic field. We believe that every man has played his best, lived his best, and given all that he had to give to his school. We honor them, and we give them our best wishes for the work which they will do for us in the future. Also, we do not forget those who have worked, but who are not yet receiving the greatest reward which North Side can give them, her letter. Neither do we forget all the men who went out for practise night after night, but who didn't get into any game. It's real school spirit for a fellow to report for scrimmage every night and then have to sit on the benches during the games; but these men are really backing the team.

Cracks Along The Boardwalk

We won—we won—We won—By golly we won!

Dear Peg:—

Talk about fish stories! Here's one! You remember the fish poles at the swimming pool? Well, the story goes back to them. And it comes from no other than our life saver, Ivy! Anyway, he boasts a recent catch of six bass and fourteen crappie! Aow maybe we haven't passed our Red Cross Life Saving tests, but its hard to believe this.

Yours for the Bass,
Sue.

WEAR YOUR SCHOOL COLORS

Sorta looked like the Fireman's ball at Warren Saturday night after the team had "attended" the fire sale. Red kerchiefs, checkered caps and leather hats—Stand back, boys, it's not the section gang—just North Side basketball team.

But Joe Miskell's hat wasn't fire sale stock. No siree, he's just one of Chicago's "rouger element," so Joe says.

Dear Peg:

We hear that in Miss Nelson's French class they translate literally 333 "Cherchez la femme" to mean "cruising in a flivver". Now what book of idioms do they use?

Yours,
Rachel.

Wear Your School Colors.

Wanted—A chaperon for faculty members attending basketball games. Leave recommendations at the Roanoke garage. They will be called for by Miss Storr. (Note: This is no advertisement for the Roanoke garage.)

Give to the Red Cross.

Dear Peg:—

We come from one of the oldest families in this country. In fact all of us belong to some of the oldest patriotic organizations—and our ancestors were listed among the 103 on the Mayflower. (Or was it 104?) Now we hear that that boat carried ten gallons of whisky for "strict medical purposes." Do you suppose the assertion is well grounded, and what shall I do?

Perplexed,
Madge.

(Ed. note: Date your ancestors with LaSalle's or Pere Marquette's expedition. We'll swallow it with the same grain of salt.)

An offer for an improvement would be an information desk in the gym, business would be rushing.

I always eat my peas with honey,
I've done it all my life.
It makes the peas taste funny.
But it keeps them on the knife.

(Thanx to the Scholastic.)

Wear Your School Colors.

Well, how does it feel—17 to 24.

Did Penrod have a rival at Warren or any other special urge, he certainly brought home the bacon, but not in the sense that Bob Walsh brought home the doughnuts.

Give to the Red Cross.

How about it, team, wouldn't a nice scalp be a nice Xmas present for Mr. Northrop.

Hear the Debate Wednesday.

We hear that Miss Cromer's class is going to give Herbie Vigran a pair of gold handcuffs for Xmas. Ed Ford's present will be a muffler.

Freshman Kaade doesn't make enough noise with his shoes, he has taken to black and white blazers.

This and That

It is a good thing President Coolidge doesn't have to pay taxes on the White House because he would either have to be a very rich man or the government would have to give him a big increase in salary. The assessor has just assessed the value of the White House at 22 million. This means the yearly tax would be $374,000.

A lady in Sherwood, N. Y., on her hundredth birthday said, "The young people of today are all right. Both boys and girls are better all-round than they were fifty or seventy-five years ago." And she said that the flappers will come out better and finer than the girls of two generations ago.

This lady, Miss Howland, was a teacher for 80 years. Before the Civil war she went to Washington, and taught in colored schools for three years. In 1867 she started a school in Virginia. She ended by saying, "I hope to see the dawn of uninterrupted international peace."

John D. Rockefeller, Jr., has given two million dollars, for the founding of an archaeological museum in Jerusalem. He has given money before for this purpose. He is thought to be the unknown American who has given money for other work in that part of the world.

The Fort Wayne people have given one million dollars for Christmas checks which are to be delivered to the people Thursday. Fort Wayne leads the entire state in the Christmas Club deposits. Hurrah for Fort Wayne.

Six months ago Paul Kosty, 36, and the father of three children, was pierced through the skull by a white molten steel bar. It entered his head behind the jaw and emerged through the right temple. Twenty-two feet passed through and he pulled the other four feet through. It was three-fourths of an inch in diameter.

Surgeons marveled, but he has recovered and is now back at his old bench.

A leading realtor of this city said we all need more living outside. He says that what we must do with the children is to build in them the supplementary strength to take care of them in days of stress. Live out of doors as much as possible. Take hikes, and now that winter is near go ice-skating, sleighing, etc.

A great aid to thrift is the installment plan. A man who seems to have great authority on this says, "Installment selling has come to stay, and installment credit is not more dangerous than ordinary forms of credit."

The statue of Alexander Stephen, by Gutzon Borglum, the vice-president of Confederate States of America is shortly to be unveiled in the Hall of Fame at the capitol in Washington. This statue is a gift from Stephen's native state of Georgia.

Froebel of Gary is state football champ for 1928! That was definitely decided when the upstate eleven downed the Shortridge (Indianapolis) team with a score of 70-0. Shortridge had claimed the state championship as they had not been defeated by any other team in the state on their schedule.

Save Your "Northernner" Picture Drawing Begins

On the first copy and all following copies of the Northernner next semester you will find a number. At the end of the year the original prints of the pictures that have appeared in the paper will also be numbered. The lucky ones are those whose number on their Northernner corresponds with the number on the picture.

Many have expressed a desire for these pictures so save all copies for this is the way to get one.

MANY SEASON TICKETS SOLD

New Payment Plan Is Introduced.

Nearly $350 for season tickets was taken in during the recent basketball campaign, Mr. Eyster stated yesterday. A new idea was launched Tuesday for the sale of tickets, that of buying tickets on the installment plan. Students should pay 50c down and would receive tickets for the home games this week-end. The price of the following games will be 25c until the ticket is paid. This plan has its good features and it is hoped that it will be helpful to the students. Single admission to the South Side and Central games will be 50c. There were seventeen students selling the season tickets. They are: Morris Cook, Jane Emrick, Robert Koade, Jane Korn, Kathryn Miller, Frank Nicklas, Paul Prichard, Maxine Salger, Lella Smith, Marie Kilbourne, Delores Spahr, Vincent Snowberger, Hannah Stillpass, Mary Weinstein, John Weldon and Kathryn Zmich.

Central Tigers Nose Out Marion Grants In Fast Game

Kelly Klads Defeat New Haven in Opening Game of Season for South Side Team.

South Side high school opened its season last Saturday evening by scoring a 26-13 win over Coach Paul White's New Haven quintet. The defense of the Green stopped the game the Tigers gained sweet revenge for the beating the Giants gave them resorted to long shorts throughout the game.

The first half was played on even terms, but in the second, South Side began to draw away from the county team. Dick Bell lead the Kelly Klads to victory with 3 field goals, while Eldenberger counted a like number of times from the field and once from the foul line for New Haven. South Side's passing attack worked well against New Haven.

Displaying mid-season form in a smooth passing game Central high school defeated Marion by a count of 27-31 at the S. S. H. gymnasium last Saturday evening. In winning this game the Tigers gained sweet revenge for the beating the Giants gave them two years ago at the state tournament.

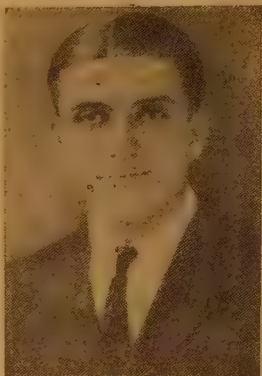

It was a fast game and the lead see-sawed back and forth thruout the contest. The Tigers defense showed great strength in stopping Marion under the basket. In the second half a rally by Marion headed by Kuhnheim gave the Giants a 27-23 lead but Central soon closed the gap and the score was a tie, 27-27, with three minutes of play remaining. Bash scored a field goal from just back of the foul line and a minute later Lyons scored from beneath the basket to clinch the victory.

Lyons was a big factor in Central's victory. He stopped Marion's attack time and again when a score would have resulted and besides he lead the Blue scoring with three field goals and a free throw. All the Tigers looked good and Marion showed a decided reversal of form since its game with Columbia City. The Giants put up a stellar brand of basketball, but the Tigers were just a little better.

CONCORDIA LOSES TO MUNCIE NORMAL FIVE

Maroon's Rally Falls Short.

Playing a heavier and more mature team the Maroon and White of old Concordia went down to defeat before the attack of Muncie Normal last Saturday night at the Cadet's gymnasium.

The visitors presented a lineup of men that were speedier and more experienced than the locals. At half time the score stood 26-13 in favor of Muncie and in the second half Concordia's fighting spirit began to show itself and the Cadets rained shots thru the rim and were fast overtaking the visitor's lead when Muncie stalled with the ball in the last six minutes of play. Captain Fulmer of Muncie lead Muncie to victory with 16 points to his credit while Concordia's captain, Etyler was high point man for the Cadets.

REDSKINS MEET TOUGH ADVERSARIES

Two Home Games to be Played for Week-End.

After seeing the Redskins win their first victory in the history of N. S. H. S. it is hoped that this triumph will be duplicated when the Red and White basket warriors clash with five from South Bend and North Manchester at the Redskins gymnasium.

Both South Bend and North Manchester Friday and Saturday nights. Chester bring rather strong outfits here especially the former, who won over Angola last Saturday night to the tune of 28 to 22. North Manchester received a drubbing last Friday night from Fairmount H. S. by a count of 40 to 32. Both schools will be remembered as having had strong teams in the past. A large crowd of Redskin boosters are expected to be at these games to uphold the team as both these games will provide entertainment galore for net fans.

Arthur Penrod, who has played his last game for North Side on the football field, and is now lined up with the net and rim crew. He scored 15 of the 24 points at Warren Saturday night.

BLUE MEETS DECATUR AND KENDALLVILLE

S. S. Defeats Connersville and Broad Ripple.

Central and South Side will be kept busy this coming Friday and Saturday by basket contests on these dates for all of their opponents are tough adversaries if past records have any influence.

The Tigers will entertain the Yellow Jackets on Friday, and on Saturday they will travel to Kendallville. The Yellow Jackets made the Blue and White team go at a fast pace in last year's regional tournament before they went down before the attack of the Tigers and many of Decatur's men are back again this year to do battle for the Yellow Jackets. Kendallville should be well known to North Side fans by this time and any downfall before Prentice and his mates can assure the Tigers of the kind of team they are about to meet.

The Kelly Klads of S. S. H. S. will meet a strong team in Connersville when they travel to that town Friday evening. Last Friday night Connersville buried Newcastle's Trojans under a 9 to 26 count. Besides Connersville is well known at Indianapolis having put an appearance at nearly every state tournament in the past. Nuff said. On Saturday the Kellies will clash with Broad Ripple which was nosed out by Technical of Indianapolis last Friday night by the score of 17 to 15. Both of these games will be played on foreign floors.

Redskins Scalp Warren In Second Game of Season

Redskins Lose To Kendallville Five in Opening Game of the Season on Locals' Floor.

We won! We won! 24-17! Saturday's game with Warren marked a new epoch in the history of the North Side Redskins, when they took the scalp of the Warren crew and brought it back to Fort Wayne.

And it wasn't without a battle that the Redskins won their victory. From the first whistle to the final shot the game was evenly contested, and at no time did the North Side team slack up a safe margin on the score. Taking the lead from the first minute of the game, where Steve Marshall looped the loop the Redskins remained on the long side of the score throughout the entire game. Twice the score was tied at the fourth point in the first half, and at the twelfth point in the last, but each time Coach Mark Biel's men plunged ahead to make some more counters.

Penrod was high point man for the Billsmen, making 15 of the 26 points. All the way thru Penrod played a hard game. Miskell, Gordon, Marshall, Penrod and Beverford entered the fracas. Koenig soon replaced Miskell. Throughout the game the North Siders had a hard battle and they lost many shots at the basket. With only three minutes to play the score was 13-17. The Redskins then showed better form and made two more baskets. Bob McVey entered the game for the last minute and a half and scored the final two points for North Side.

Led by Prentice and Heign, both veterans of last year's state tournament, who both scored seven times from the field and once from the charity lane, Kendallville high school won over North Side last Friday evening. It was the opening game of the season for the Redskins and the first to be played in North Side's gym.

In the opening minutes of the game the Redskins played their opponents on even terms but as the game continued the veteran Kendallville men began to demonstrate their superiority by their smooth passing attack and their accuracy in basket-shooting from all angles of the floor. Prentice seemed to be the best performer of the evening with his fine dribbling which seemed could not be stopped. The Redskins fought hard but were unable to cope with the attack of the veteran team.

Arthur L. Trester, permanent secretary of the Indiana High School Athletic association attended the game.

SOCIETY AND FEATURES

Hurry! Hurry!
Seems to be the pet expression at this particular time of the year. With our school work, Christmas shopping, and plans for our Christmas holiday, one hasn't much time left.

But what a glorious time of year this is! Old man winter and Jack Frost have aided Santa thus far in putting a nice white blanket of snow over the ground. And nothing seems to fill us so much with the Christmas spirit as snow! One surely couldn't help but believe in Santa, if he visit the down town section and see all the little dainties which he has left in the shop windows.

One of the hugest thrills that can be had at present is to view a forest of dear little pine trees, that are holding out their needles, as gracefully as possible in order that they may be chosen to be cut and carried into the city. There they are put into a nice warm house and decorated with colored balls and gold and silver tinsel.

Miss Jeanette Pitts had as her guest recently Miss Vivian Davis of Deshler, Ohio, formerly of this city.

Girls To Make Tour Of G. E. Plant

Taking advantage of a half-day's vacation offered them, a number of girls conceived the idea of going through the General Electric plant. At first they were met by an obstacle which strangely enough was that of securing passes. They pleaded their cause nevertheless and soon, with Miss Meyers as a guide, they were merrily on their way. The first department to which they were conducted was that of the dispensary. Here a smiling, pleasant-faced nurse made them welcome and offered many useful bits of information concerning the patients, the mechanical devices with which the rooms were furnished, and the operations of these.

After exhausting their guide by numerous questions they next wended their way to one of the "Piece Departments," and from thence to one of "The Assembling Rooms." This last was vastly interesting and especially so after the party was shown the M10 motor, the smallest motor made in the world. Another department which offered much interest was that of the radio. Here long rows of employees assembled the various parts in their individual places.

After the journey through this resourceful place, for such it proved to be, the group was finally conducted to the gymnasium and bowling alleys. This building was a massive structure, and on being told that it was built of the profits made from candy-selling, all were astounded.

On the whole the visit was one full of interest and information. Those who made up this adventurous party were the Misses Geraldine Baker, Virginia Orr and Eleanor Michlen of South Side high and Wilma Crimm, Gretchen Schellenbach and Flossie Stuber of North Side.

NORTH SIDE HIGH WINS TWO DEBATES

Miss Cromer's Team To Meet
Central Wednesday

AFFIRMATIVE TEAM MEET
COLUMBIA CITY, DEC. 14

Critic Judge From North Manchester For Central Contest

Eats! The magic word! We'd all travel far for them, and when it's good and cold we surely welcome them. Our debaters had a very pleasant experience last Thursday night at Leo. While the wind was howling in our chimney tops, and we were sitting at home hugging our fires, our honorable and most worthy debaters of the negative team, traveled to Leo and added another victory to our record. Leo gave a celebration after the debate in honor of our worthy heroes, and served hot chocolate, sandwiches, and other goodies. Who wouldn't like to be a contestant with such worthy and hospitable opponents? The lucky members of our negative squad were Phillip Bowen, captain, John McMeen, Paul Sommers, and Louise Shreve as alternate.

The decision of the debate between Leo affirmative and our own negative team was a very hard one to decide. There were three judges, and an entirely new system of figuring was used. Of course it came out in our own favor but the figures were very close. The judges were Clarence McNeff, Edwin Thomas, both of this city, and Miss Guild, an English teacher, of New Haven.

There will be another most important debate this week, and that will be with our sister school, Central. Our negative team, the victor of last week's debate, will debate Central affirmative team here, in our auditorium, Wednesday, December 14, at 3:15 p. m. This will be a very interesting debate, and it will seem to Miss Cromer that both of her teams are contesting against each other. The Central team, consisting of Thorburn Wiant, Sol Rothberg, Paul Aumann, and Josephine Connors, were most of them pupils of Miss Cromer. No doubt all of us have heard these students battling for Central, and at that time for us, now they are contesting with our negative team, and we will feel that whichever team wins, the victory will be a hard and well earned one. We all know what a coach Miss Cromer has proved to be for our teams, since we have begun the season with all victories, and hope to continue these victories.

This promises to be one of the best and most heated debate of the season. We should all attend, not only to support our team, but for the benefit that we will obtain from the debate. Tickets are now on sale anywhere, for ten cents. When Ed Ford comes bouncing around the halls you won't have a chance to get away without buying a ticket; so all show your spirit and don't suddenly evaporate when you see him coming.

Professor Fred R. Conkling, head of the English department and debate coach at Manchester college, will be critic judge for this debate. We all know the advantage of a critic judge, having heard Professor Cordier, of the same college, who gave the decision for the North Side vs. Bluffton (Continued on page 4)

Christmas Vacation Begins December 22

School will close Thursday, December 22, at the end of the eighth period for Christmas vacation and will open again on Tuesday, January 2," Mr. Northrop said, in an interview last Monday.

With the approach of Christmas comes the usual round of parties, trips, gay holiday festivities, and many kinds of pleasure. Many students are looking forward to receiving a large number of presents from fond fathers and mothers, boy and girl friends, and relatives. However, the real Christmas spirit should be that of giving to others instead of only getting. "It is more blessed to give than to receive."

NORTHERNER TO HAVE SPECIAL ISSUE

Christmas Edition To Have Unusual Feature.

The Northerner will put out a special Xmas edition next Wednesday according to a statement made by Lorena Fann, editor-in-chief, of the publication. This will be the second "ten cent" issue of the paper, the editor said. The first being the initial publication of the school year. With this special ten cent edition there will be the usual value of seventy-five for the school paper given to the students. The support of the students has been greatly appreciated, Miss Fann said, and the students should realize that their support is what makes the school paper possible.

Next week's Northerner promises to have several new features.

FIFTY-SEVEN TO GRADUATE IN JUNE

No February Grads at High School.

The list of Seniors expecting to graduate next June is tentative due to the possibility of failure in some elective which will automatically drop the student's name from the list. There are no February graduates. Following is the list of graduates:

Durward Allen, Lucile Beder, Ruth Beckman, Evelyn Beerman, Margaret Berghoff, Robert Beverford, Murrey Bolman, Lee Roy Blough, Robert Brousius, Wealtha Carrel, Oral De Lancey, Carol Buecker, Frances Cook, Harriet Derck, Margaret Dreyer, Lois Bussler, Donald Elder, Lois Evans, Mary Elizabeth Erwin, Lorena Fann, Clue Ferguson, Edward Ford, Helen Gebhart, Helene Drummons, Paul Haberly, Thelma Henderson, Glenn Hoemig, Norman Johnston, Evelyn Juergens, Alma King, Melvin Koenig, Sam Landire, Gale Long, Ted McNelly, Mary Miller, Rex Mounsey, Elizabeth Moyer, Frank Nicklas, Arthur Penrod, Jeanette Pitts, Elizabeth Rippel, William Scheiman, William Schellenbach, Margaret Smenner, Lella Smith, Harry Snoke, Delores Spahr, Mary Steiner, Helen Laempel, Herbert Vigran, Harold Walker, Alice Lee Ward, Clyde Wilkenson, Helen Woodruff, Sadie May Woods, Glorvina Young.

If any name has been omitted, please report to Mr. Northrop immediately.

NORTH SIDE MEETS TIGERS ON FRIDAY

First Tilt of City Teams On Friday.

GAME PLAYED IN NORTH SIDE GYM

Large Crowds Expected To Attend From Both Schools

When North Side and Central clash at the Redskin's gymnasium next Friday evening, December 16, it will mark both the initial meeting of the Red and Blue in a net contest and also the opening fracas of the season for the city public high school net title.

Many are banking on a victory for the old Blue and White as the Tigers have won three straight victories in as many starts over Marion, Decatur and Huntington, while North Side has chalked up one victory to three defeats, winning over Warren and falling before Kendallville, South Bend and North Manchester.

It is probable that Coach Mendenhall will use the lineup he has been starting in his games this season. Coach Bills' lineup will no doubt consist of five of the following men: Penrod, Gordon, McVey, Koenig, Marshall or Bevenforden.

The game no doubt will draw a large crowd and tickets went on sale yesterday. Single admission tickets will be 50 cents. Since so many season tickets were sold at both schools, only a limited number of single admission tickets will be sold, at was announced yesterday.

CLUBS GIVE MOTTOES TO HIGH SCHOOL

Hi-Y Clubs Put in Worth-While Mottoes

North Side high school has just received 40 posters from her Hi-Y clubs, which will be posted in the corridors during the year. Each poster is made of a motto that is full of meanings and is a good thought for the students. The posters will be changed each week according to a statement made by Mr. Orling and Mr. Kimes, advisors of the clubs.

One of the purposes of the club is to be of service, and in giving these mottoes to the high school they are giving something most worthwhile to every North sider.

Following are two of the mottoes:

As You Think

If you think you're beaten, you are;
If you think you dare not, you don't;
If you like to win, but you think you can't,

It's almost a cinch you won't.
If you think you'll lose, you're lost,
For out in the world we find Success begins with the fellow's will:
It's all in the state of mind.

If you think you're outclassed, you are;
You've got to think big to rise;
You've got to be sure of yourself before

You can ever win a prize.
Life's battles don't always go
To the stronger or faster man;
But soon or late the man who wins,
Is the one who thinks he can.
W. D. Wintle.

PASS IT ALONG

"When a bit of sunshine hits you,
After passing of a cloud,
When a fit of laughter gets you,
And your spine is feeling proud—

Don't forget to up and fling it
At a soul that's feeling blue,
For the minute that you sling it,
It's a boomerang to you.
Capt. Jack Crawford.

Sophomores Plan Christmas Dance

Christmas greens! Christmas bells! Christmas tree! Christmas dance! Everything, in fact, except the fat jolly old elf they call Santa. Who knows, maybe he will be there, not in person, perhaps, but surely in spirit.

Have you asked her yet? And your ticket; have you bought it? Better hurry because the energetic Sophomores are pushing the sale pretty hard. The tickets are fifty cents—couple or stag. And reveals will be in full away from eighty-thirty to eleven-thirty in our own cafeteria on the night of the 17th. Everybody out!

RED CROSS TO CARE FOR TEN FAMILIES

Club is Asking For Clothing and Foods of All Kinds

The Red Cross workers of North Side will be kept busy from now until Xmas if all their plans are completed. Already a box has been sent to Shoakey county, Mississippi, for the children of the flood sufferers there. Xmas greetings have been sent to a government hospital for the soldiers to send to their friends; and now the local club is working for people nearer at home.

From the local chapter of the Red Cross came the statement that thirty families were still unprovided for in any way for the Christmas, and ten of these families have been adopted by the North Side club. This does not mean that every high school student doesn't have to work, according to a statement made by Frances Cook, president of the club. What is needed by the club is any kind of food, canned fruits, jellies, candies and clothing and toys. Besides getting the material for the different boxes we need someone to deliver them after they have been packed, Miss Cook said. Any person who has clothes he does not use or toys that have been cast aside, is asked to bring them immediately.

For the benefit of the persons who will donate some material the following family chart has been compiled:

News Stories to Be in Earlier

Material for the Northerner must be handed in at an earlier date, Miss Hurst, advisor of the Northerner said yesterday.

No material will be accepted on Tuesday morning, Miss Hurst said. Advisors of classes and clubs are asked to get their material in on Friday.

ART CLUB CHOOSES OFFICERS FOR YEAR

Arlene Gillespie was elected president of the Art club at its meeting last week. Other officers chosen for the organization were: Vice-president, Marie Greer; secretary and treasurer, Edward Waller; chairman program committee, Evangeline Ann Zeller; chairman publicity committee, Mary Moorhead and chairman social committee, Jane Nelson.

Help Others Have a Merry Christmas

A great amount of food and clothing is needed by the school Red Cross club to fix boxes for ten families for Christmas. The only way to get this material is by student contribution. Each student who can do so is asked to bring some garment or some fruits or jellies. Leave the material for Frances Cook in Room 110.

SENIOR PICTURES MUST BE TAKEN

Special Discounts To Be Given
Class of '28

A recent inquiry disclosed the fact that only a few Seniors have had their pictures taken. These pictures should be taken at once and the proofs, 3x7, split negative, finished glossy, given to Miss Hurst. Perry, Jefferson and Vandegrift have been given the preference to other photographers, although the Seniors may go where they choose. These, in particular, have given a discount to the students, but this will be withdrawn after Christmas.

It will be worth while for the Seniors to have this matter attended to promptly to avoid the rush that comes around Christmas and the additional cost. "If these pictures aren't taken within a short time, it will be too late to give them to me," Miss Hurst stated yesterday.

Juniors Planning to Show "Struggle" For Jan. 7

Remember last Halloween when the poppiest class in school (this was written by a Junior), gave a blow-out that was the talk of the school for weeks after? Well, this very self-same class is giving another dance January 7. Anyone who missed the masked ball should be ashamed and sorry. This "Junior Struggle", occurring when it does, gives those unfortunate people ample opportunity to redeem themselves.

Those who were there remember the perfectly topping time you had blowing horns and eating confetti so come and have some more fun. The hardworking committees and officers promise novel forms of announcement, games, new ones, for which there will be given prizes, and dancing of course.

Unless you already know the admission is thirty cents, stag; couple, sixty. To gain admittance non-Juniors must be accompanied by a Junior. Don't forget.

Date: Saturday, January 7, 1928.
Time: 8:15.
Where: Your own cafeteria.
Present reputation insures a good time.

Football Boys Suffer No Injurious Effects Examinations Show

Dr. Dancer Claims High School Students In Good Physical Condition.

While the schools have always operated, there is much better cooperation in the schools this year among teachers, the medical profession and the parents and our school folk are in a good physical condition, Dr. Charles Dancer, head of the city school medical staff and physician for North Side high school, said yesterday after compiling statistics from the medical examinations which have been given in the public schools. All North Side high school students have been examined, Dr. Dancer said. Dr. Dancer with his staff of workers

XMAS PLAY TO BE GIVEN DECEMBER 21

Music Program Is Planned by Mr. Mathews and Mr. Teel

MISS SUTER IS COACH OF PRODUCTION

Other Faculty Members Assist With Play.

The Clock Shop, which is to be in North Side auditorium, Wednesday, December 21, at 10 o'clock, promises to be one of the best Christmas plays ever presented. As the posters read, there is singing, dancing and romance in the play, varied enough you will admit to suit almost any one's whims.

The plot is clever and just think, real huge clocks have been made for these clocks to stand inside. Mr. Thompson, of the manual training department at North Side made the grandfather clock and Miss Sinclair decorated it.

Mr. Spaulding, of Central's manual training department, made the cuckoo and alarm clocks and Miss Newman and Miss Reike decorated them.

Miss Strauch, of Central, with her co-workers in the sewing department made the lovely Dutch costumes for the girls, while Central art department decorated them. Miss Heferlein, of North Side with co-workers, made the Dutch boy costumes and North Side art department decorated them.

Mr. Teel and Mr. Mathews trained the choruses. Miss Souderlund, of Central, has charge of the dance. So from all this you see the play must be very extensive and expensive, therefore, the ten cent admission charge.

Every student who can afford it should not miss this play because it will afford you much pleasure and besides just think it's our first Christmas play at North Side. In addition to this play the music department is giving you a group of carols.

Invite your parents to see it if they can get away at this early hour.

It's a busy time of the year we know but tell them what an interesting program they'll get to see for 10c.

The entire casts includes, the clocks—Margaret Brudi, Herbert Vigran, Carl Jacobs, Bob Kaade, John Cronkite, Frank Nickolas, Norman Richards.

Glee Club To Give Pro- gram of Christmas Carols

Mr. Mathews Directs Work of North Side Music Group For Program

On December 21, 1927, the Glee club will put on a program of Christmas songs. Including some of the well known carols, such as "First Nowell," "We Three Kings of Orient Are" and "Come All Ye Faithful," also very old Christmas carols of various countries less known but no less beautiful, one is an old Gregorian melody of the 8th century, still another an old Swedish Carol, in fact, many different countries are represented by these beautiful old Christmas songs. Thus the program it is quite different from the usual Christmas program and gives promise of being an especially attractive one. We all know that Silent Night, Holy Night, is an old German carol, that the First Nowell is an old English one, but we seldom realize that many other countries have carols just as beautiful with which we have not become acquainted. These songs are so arranged that they tell the Christmas story from the time the shepherds in the fields see the star until the child Jesus is found in the manger, and is worshipped by the three wise men.

The program is to be presented by the combined Glee clubs, assisted by the part of the school orchestra. The chorus will be divided into two parts, one being on the stage the other singing from the rear balcony. These choruses will sing alternately thus giving something of an antiphonal effect.

It is hoped that all the students of the school will attend this Christmas program and that they will bring with them the true Christmas spirit. Any of the parents who would like to come will be welcomed. The time will be announced later by a bulletin. The entire program is supervised and directed by Mr. Mathews.

ARE YOU LOYAL?

Want some excitement? Then be in North Side's auditorium today, Wednesday, when the Redskins meet old Central in a rare battle of words. Students that, this time last year, stood side by side on the Tiger platform face each other across North Side's stage in the first contest of this nature ever held. They've traveled together, suffered defeat together, and now they try against each other the skill developed originally by the same teacher. They have been a great team, we've been proud of them, not even imagining the excitement when they would be separated and debating each other. It is an opportunity to hear old friends and to support team.

If you could have heard the debate last Wednesday, you'd never miss another one. Such arguments, such refutation, and even Burke! Yes, Bob used Burke's argument against force and used it effectively, and it was entirely impromptu, too.

Our team is strong in construction, consistent, logical, and accurate. They build an impregnable fortress on rocks of universally accepted truths, leaving their opponents no ground of argument of an opponent is so inaccessible that a point of weakness may not be found through which they enter and tear down the entire foundation of the opposition. They don't memorize their speeches, and that is easy to prove. In their constructive speeches they find time to refute any of the other team's arguments that are more appropriate in that place than in the rebuttal without losing the thread of their own thought. Then when it is time for rebuttal they talk until forced to sit down. They say something important with each word, and they talk as rapidly as clarity will permit. They don't make a point and leave it hanging in the air. They clinch it!

Miss Cromer is deserving of a great deal of praise for her untiring efforts in coaching the debaters, and may quite conceivably be not a little responsible for the life and force of their style of address.

The crowd at the last debate was larger than that at most debates, and the spirit and interest of the audience was remarkably fine. Everyone saw and appreciated the advantages of a critic judge, and interest ran high by the time he had shown each team their weak and strong points. Critic judging is of invaluable aid in correcting weaknesses for the sake of future debates, and that service was performed in the North Side-Bluffton contest with great conciseness by a man who shows undeniable evidence of his familiarity with this task.

All things considered, there are so many reasons for every North Side Booster to attend the Tiger-Redskin tongue-fracas that the auditorium should be full when the chairman calls the meeting to order.

FORCEFUL CHARACTER

Do you ever want something, something you feel that you could get if you just had that extra little bit of nerve, that love of work, that irresistible driving force that carries some men and women through life on high tide? Do you have the erroneous but very general idea that they are just born with it? They are not. Every man is born with the desire to let the other fellow do the work, to sit back and say, "Well, what does it matter, anyway? I work twice as hard as the next fellow, but we'll both end about the same way." It is not true. Every man who ever lived a full and busy life was a dynamic force in the shaping of the world, though it was but a tiny atom that he moulded to his will. A cyclone cannot compare with him in producing effects that last and grow down through the centuries; for do not forget that your work must be a perfect block in the Mighty Puzzle, and if it is not the next man cannot build his block upon it, but must spend his time rebuilding yours. You may not be a Euclid, Plato, or Lincoln, but who can tell, you might be! You will not be, however, if you do not put your whole heart and soul and a good deal of yourself as well into everything you do. No man ever yet sowed one crop and reaped another; no man ever will. And they are not born that way. They live and learn; they cultivate a desire to work, and presently when it has become a habit they find it a pleasant one. They don't suffer from petty ills; they are too busy. They don't worry over unimportant details; they are too busy. Feeling tired doesn't bother them; they are too busy to notice it.

If you work forcefully, faithfully and whole-heartedly, you can make anything succeed, but first be sure that your object is worthy of you. Choose your way with infinite care. You wouldn't walk a stone ledge, beside which the sheer wall dropped away into nothingness, with your eyes closed. No more can you walk through life that way. Neither would you jump impulsively into empty space. You'd look very carefully below before you jumped. Then don't leap into life that way. Don't act on impulse. Think through to the end every result of what you are doing; don't ever deliberately blind yourself to facts. Consider every other possible plan of action, and don't abandon its consideration until you have proven it entirely impracticable. When you have made up your mind, act quickly and forcefully; let no obstacle be too difficult to overcome, no distraction enticing enough to lure you away from your purpose. Let but one fence bar your path; consideration for others. Now what you want, be sure it's worth wanting, and go after it.

Go after it hard and fast, and, above all, consistently. Don't scatter your efforts. Don't start for one goal, change your mind mid-way and start for another. You may waste your life that way, and leave nothing for the world to remember you by. If you aren't getting where you want as fast as you think you should, try harder. Stopping sets for you a precedent which you will follow with ever-increasing ease with each enterprise, for we are slaves of habit. A faint heart never won anything, and a "quitter" drinks a bitter cup when he reaches the dregs, for there will be one cup which he must drink to the dregs, and that is life itself. If the enterprise was worth choosing in the beginning, it is worth carrying through so long as life lasts.

That, and all that, must go into the making of a forceful character, and a forceful character can not but make a happy life.

COURTESY

There are many things worthy of admiration in this life. Some of these, such as great talent, inventive genius, statesmanship, are attained by a very small number of people.

There is one desirable characteristic, however, which anyone can acquire without great expenditures of time, money, or effort. Everyone can be courteous. Courtesy makes life more enjoyable, not only for those to whom it is shown, but, in an equal degree, it increases the happiness of him who practices it. The habit of being courteous ought to be formed just as any other habit is—by constantly living up to it.

Courtesy is necessary for the success of any undertaking. A business concern whose clerks are courteous far surpasses one whose employees are unfriendly and selfish.

Wherever two or more people are gathered courtesy must be ever present. We may well apply this rule to our school life. We ought not shout or whistle in the halls where such conduct will disturb others. Shouting and whistling belong out-of-doors. We ought to think always of how our actions will affect others and not only of what pleasure they will give to us.

I have a weakness, I'll confess,

Ten Ways in Which to Comment on a Baby That Will Never Win a Baby Parade.
"Sturdy little thing, isn't it? Just look at those legs."
"Well, I really couldn't say, but to me—oh, is it?—he looks exactly like his mother. That nose, for instance."
"Honestly, I never saw anything like it in my life!"
"You know, most babies at this age don't look like anything. But this one certainly looks like something."
"And just to think that some day he'll grow up, and ride in the subway."
"My, what a long baby! He's going to be a big, tall man."
"I'll just bet you're proud of him, aren't you? Who wouldn't be, that's what I'd like to know?"
"Just look into those eyes—there's something so, well, sort of 'spiritual' in them, if you know what I mean."
"When you come right down to it, there's nothing quite so remarkable as biology, is there?"

If there are enough people standing foolishly around, you can get by with merely shaking your head and smiling fatuously at the exhibit. The parents, being parents, will invariably put the happiest interpretation on your effort.

Street Cars to Stop In Front of N. S. H.

"Sweet are the uses of adversity," quoth Shakespeare, but he didn't know of the trials and tribulations we of N. S. High had to go through in regard to the street-car. But look up and smile, dear people, we have won our petition; the street-car stops at the end of the board-walk. There were so many demands for a street-car stop that the decision was made Saturday.

North Side stop next," the street-car conductor called as he stopped "by the barbecue stand—way over across the bridge"—but off piled the school teachers. The street-car blazed on and stopped at the board-walk, discharging a few students. While the students came rushing gayly along the board-walk, here came Mrs. Clark and a few of our other teachers with arms piled high with books and grumbling about the inconvenience of commuting on street-cars.

game Friday evening, we shall have a pep meeting Friday afternoon at 2:40.

7. Single admission tickets to the Central-North Side game will be on sale Tuesday in 228, in the office and by ticket sellers. Admission will be 50c. Owing to the large season ticket sale both here and at Central, the number of single admission tickets will be limited. If you need an extra ticket, get it early.

8. Christmas seals may be secured in the office and from Mrs. Clark in 316.

9. Installments on season tickets must be paid to Mr. Eyster in Room 228 before noon Friday. Payments will not be received after that time. M. H. Northrop.

Central Tigers Win Two Games Over Week End

Huntington and Decatur Falls Before Central's Fighting Tigers

Led by Hire and Dornte, Central's fighting Tigers overcame a lead held by Decatur at the end of the first half to score a win over the fast Yellow Jackets in a close tilt by a score of 36 to 29 at Decatur last Friday night. The outcome was always in doubt until the last few minutes of the game, Decatur holding a 17-to-15 lead at halftime over the Tigers, the lead saw-sawed back and forth from one team to the other. In the final minutes of the game the Tigers forged ahead to bag the victory. Decatur's failure to connect with free throws cost them many points.

With Huntington playing listless basketball Central's Tigers had little trouble in winning over that high school's quintet at Huntington last Saturday night, running rough shod over the Vikings, 47 to 29. Fourteen Tigers appeared in the fray while Huntington used ten men. Central held the lead all the way and were nter seriously threatened by the Viking five throughout the game. The Tigers held a 17-to-12 lead at the half and from that time on proceeded to pile up a big lead over Huntington to win by a big margin.

Connersville Ovelwhelms Green, South Side Noses Out Broad Ripple.

Piling up a big lead in the opening minutes of the game Connersville high school's Spartans gained a decisive victory over South Side's basket snappers last Friday evening at Connersville. The Spartans led at the half 21 to 10 and were never headed. Ridge and Johnson lead Connersville's attack while Ball and Dickey looked best for the Kelly Klads.

South Side used many substitutions but were unable to stop the Spartan's driving attack or pierce through their defense for scores:

In a close hectic battle, massed by many fouls South Side nosed out Broad Ripple high school by a count of 25-27 at the Ripple gymnasium last Saturday night. With South Side leading at the half the locals came back fighting hard and the lead swayed back and forth in the last half when a basket by Dickey in the final minutes of play gave the victory to the Kellies. Bulling looked to be the best performer for Broad Ripple while Baxter and Miner were South Sides' stars.

Short Shots

Central seems to be going good so far. Three victories in as many starts is the present record of the "Fighting Tigers."

Don't let 'em make it four straight, Redskins.

By the way Decatur failed to gain revenge over Central for the trouncing the Tigers gave them in last year's regional and nothing would have pleased the Yellow Jackets more than a victory over their old foe.

South Side took an awful trouncing from Connersville's Spartans but took their spite out on Broad Ripple.

Central Catholic split even, losing to Cathedral of Indianapolis and winning from Anderson Catholic.

We want a blue scalp, Redskins.

Max Baxter, a former Bluffton star, is aiding South Side's basketball hopes considerably.

After holding Muncie's famed Bearcats to a 10-point win, Huntington let Central trample al lover them.

Here's hoping for the best. S'long. Everyone out for the game next Friday.

GIRLS A. A. FROLIC AT NORTH SIDE

Central and South Side Guests of North Side

The Athletic Association Girls of South Side and Central frolicked in the girls' gym Friday night, the guests of the G. A. A. of North Side. About thirty girls from each school attended. Upon entering the gym they were divided into three groups the white elephants, red squirrels and yellow canaries. Games were played between these groups. After the games a treasure hunt was held. The yellow canaries were the first to reach the cafeteria, and were awarded a box of lollypops for the prize. Doughnuts and cocoa were served to the girls. Harriet Derck played the piano during the lunch. The girls later danced.

North Manchester Game Heart Breaker For Redskins

South Siders Break Even—Lose One—Win One

South Bend brought a rangy fast team here Friday night and romped to a 35-18 victory over the Redskins. Penrod kept the locals in the running in the first half, but the Benders watched him in the last period and ran away from the Red by raining in shots. Failure to connect under the basket cost the Redskins many scores. Crispell, tall center for South Bend, headed the visitors' attack with four markers from the field, while Penrod counted 11 of his team's points.

Playing its best basketball of the season, North Side, fighting hard was forced to take the short end of a 33-29 count last Saturday night, but North Manchester the victor over the Redskins, was compelled to use everything it had to accomplish this feat. The Redskins held the lead at half time, but North Manchester came back in the final minutes of the game to tie the score and later win.

Penrod as usual lead the North team with 11 points, but Marshall was a close second with 10 and Gordon accounted for the remaining Red score with 8 to his credit. North Manchester's tallies were evenly divided between the team.

ART CLUB HEARS TALKS ON PRINTS

Collection of Prints by Great Masters Is Exhibited.

The Art Club spent a very profitable and interesting hour, Thursday afternoon, in the study of Japanese prints. A collection of prints made by the great Japanese masters was exhibited. Interesting talks were given by Mary Moorhead, Edward Waller and Evangeline Ann Zeller on the characteristics, history and manufacture of the prints. The following gives some of the points stressed in their talks:

Eastern art differs from western art in many ways. The idea that art is an imitation of nature is unknown. Shuzan, a great artist, living about 1777, says, "Among the various kinds of paintings there is one called naturalistic, in which it is thought proper to portray flowers, grasses, fishes and insects exactly as they appear in nature. Since this only aims at showing the forms of things and does not regard the canons of art, it is commonplace and can lay no claim to good taste. It is, therefore, in vain to expect to find in any Japanese design, reproductions that will astonish us by their life likeness. Eastern art never competes with photography. To the Japanese art is like poetry, full of harmonies and rhythms that are not heard by ordinary people. It is the interpretation of life in a finer way.

The eastern artist tries to show the character of things, as the weight and mass of falling water, a bird as a winged thing rejoicing in its flight, the tiger as the embodiment of force and fury. To concentrate on this, he disregards surrounding objects and does not fill in backgrounds. He does not hesitate to make a robe longer to show dignity. In poetry a woman is compared to a lily. He paints her one. Therefore, Japanese art affects our emotions and only poetic minds. Japanese art follows rules. Objects are not rounded and are without shadows. Shadow is considered mere accidents and passing, and should not be saved. Flatness is aimed at and no perspective shown. Perspective is shown, however, by a subtle use of color. To show depth a series of scenes is given as on a stage. Objects have no highlights and water no reflection. Spaces are never broken up symmetrically and the artist deliberately refrains from saying all he has to say.

The art of wood engraving began some time between the twelfth and fourteenth centuries. By the end of the sixteenth century it was being used to illustrate books. The designs were crude. It was not until the last of the seventeenth century that wood engraving became an art.

Moronobu born in 1625 was the son of a famous embroiderer and textile designer. He brought out more than a hundred books and albums and an unknown number of broadsheets. His lines are firm and alive. His figures appear to us distorted but show a bold command of expression. At this time, the slogans ruled in Japan. They forced the nobles to live six months a year at Yedo or Tokio. The theater developed. Bach had his favorite actor. Many of Moronobu's figures are those of actors. His prints are in black and white. If colored, it is done by hand.

Massanobu is credited with being the inventor of two color blocks. Green and red were first used. When three colors were used, blue was selected as the third color. Later red, blue and yellow were used. Hand coloring gradually disappeared, as polychrome came in.

One of the chief uses of Japanese prints was to show the beauties of Japan to travellers. Thus we have such titles as "Snow on Hiramama", "Rain by Night at Karasaku", "Evening Glow at Seta", etc. Fruits, flowers and birds are pictured. A subject that never tires is Mt. Fuji. Hokusai made a hundred views of it. The outstanding masters of Japanese art are Hiroshige, Hokusai, Toyonobu, Harunobu, Shunsho, Kiyomitsu, Sukenobu, Moronobu and Massanobu.

Old Japanese color prints are printed on mulberry bark paper and are the product of three different craftsmen, the artist who drew the design, the blocks and the printer. A block was block maker or engraver who cut the cut for each color in addition to the key block. The drawing by the artist was done in India ink with a brush on very thin paper. This was passed to the engraver who pasted it face down on the block and carefully cut the wood away, using chisels and gouges. The printer painted the color on the blocks with brushes. A sheet of damp paper was laid on each block in turn and an impression rubbed off by hand with a rubber pad called a baren. The colors were not ink but paint mixed with rice paste. The whole process was hand work and every detail carefully looked after, the finest examples being printed under the personal supervision of the artist.

Miss Zook of the art department received the prints used at the meeting from Shima's in New York City.

NORTH SIDE HIGH WINS TWO DEBATES

debate. Professor Conkling is a very capable judge and has given many decisions for teams which belong to the debating league, of which North Side is a member.

While our negative team has been kept busy, our affirmative team, consisting of Durward Allen, captain, Robert Walsh, Carl Jacobs, and Joseph Bowen as alternate, has been working hard also. Their ability as successful debaters was shown to us by their victory over Bluffton last Wednesday. This team will again be in the field Wednesday, December 14, at 7:30 p. m. at Columbia City.

Let us hope that all of the students will turn out for these debates this week. Since our teams have shown us what they can do in bringing home victories, let us give them our loyal support. They need your support in order to give a successful speech so be sure to be here Wednesday at 3:15 at the North Side vs. Central debate. Be sure to get your ticket now!

The Holland tunnel, connecting New York City with Jersey City, was opened for traffic last week. This tunnel (there are really two) is under the Hudson river. One way traffic is all that will be allowed in each tunnel.

These tunnels are more than a mile and a half long, have required more than 8 years to build and their total cost is about $50,000,000.

The chief problem of the engineers was how to do away with the deadly carbon monoxide gas, thrown off by the automobiles, but this was solved by huge fans, at each end of the tunnel, which ventilate the great tunnels without a draft.

Freshmen Class Officers

The president of the Freshman class is Arthur Richards. He is a short little boy who wears a bow tie and who stopped reading "Child Life" when he graduated from the eighth grade at Forest Park school. He uses Spearmint tooth paste and was born in 1913. He tells us that he doesn't chew gum, but we have our doubts. He dances.

Mary Jane Scott was elected vice-president. She likes to swim at Tri-Lakes. She uses Pepsodent tooth paste, wears 5½ double A shoes, takes English, Home Economics, Latin, and Algebra. She was born October 4, 1913, and her favorite color is green. She eats in the cafeteria and is not crazy about lollypops. Her favorite movie star is Norma Shearer and she spends Saturday at the Majestic. She goes to all the basketball games and her favorite basketball hero is Bob McVey. She takes Glee Club and studies in the evening and are her rosy cheeks natural? She chews raspberry gum. She uses April Showers perfume and wears flesh powder. Wouldn't you know it?

Our secretary and treasurer is Harold Novitsky. He was born here in Fort Wayne, June 22, 1913. The stork brought him all wrapped up in a red blanket and his favorite color has been red ever since. His feet match him. They are cute and small. Just think wouldn't we like to wear 4½ shoes?

He is studying to be a journalist and his subjects are English, German, Algebra and Biology. His favorite sport is basketball. He likes lollypops and loud ties. He drives an Elcar.

He spends his summers at Wawasee; his Saturdays at the American Ice and Coal Company; his Sundays at Sunday school and then a show. We're sure that he'll make a fine secretary and treasurer for the Freshman class. Let's all boost him.

Maybe an accountant would call it profit and loss, but we'd first consult the Better Business Bureau to see if the old custom of exchanging gifts were not commercializing Christmas too much.

For instance, if one eye is lost, the sight of the other becomes stronger, and if a person grows deaf in one ear, the hearing of the other ear becomes more acute." ## NORTH SIDE DEBATE TEAM BEATS CENTRAL

Prof. Conkling, of Manchester College, Is Critic Judge

NORTH SIDE DEFEATS COLUMBIA CITY

Every Debate Has Proved a Victory for Hard-Working H. S. Teams.

The North Side debating teams have made a name for us in the field of rising young orators. Last Wednesday afternoon our negative team met the Central affirmative team here in our auditorium, with Professor Conkling, of Manchester College, as judge. The debate was one of the best high school debates that has ever been heard in the city. Both teams showed great ability as debaters.

The Central debaters had very good delivery while our team showed great ability in giving argument, and it was on argument that we won the debate. Professor Conkling explained to the audience just why his decision was in favor of North Side, and he spoke of our team's wonderful ability to present argument.

Wednesday evening the North Side affirmative team met Columbia City negative team there, in the last debate on the schedule for this year. The debate was a very good one, and ended in our favor. Professor Cordier, of Manchester College, who judged the North Side vs. Bluffton debate here, was judge at the North Side vs. Columbia City debate also.

Our schedule for debate is complete in the Northeastern League. There are eight schools in the league, of which North Side and Andrews high schools were the only undefeated teams. Miss Cromer has announced that we will not debate for the championship, although it was announced in the evening News that there would be a contest between North Side and Andrews.

Since there are eight schools in the league, the different schools drew lots to decide their schedule, and the results of the debate season are as follows:

Andrews—First series winners, affirmative and negative; second series winners, affirmative and negative.

Bluffton—First series winners, affirmative; second series winners, negative.

Central—First series winners, affirmative; second series winners, negative.

Columbia City—First series winners, affirmative.

Huntington—First series winners, negative.

North Side—First series winners affirmative, negative; second series winners, affirmative, negative.

South Side—Second series winners, negative.

The Huntington (negative) and Columbia City (affirmative) debate in the second series was declared a tie.

Since this is our first year and we are meeting other schools for the first time we should be very grateful to our debating teams for bringing home victories, and giving to us an all-victorious team. We should support our debating team and give them the best we can in an audience since they are giving us all that they possibly could in bringing us home all victories.

Mr. Northrop Wishes Everyone a Merry Christmas

WHAT'S THE MATTER WITH THE EIGHT?

674 Season Tickets Sold for Basketball.

674—and it isn't a prescription for colds either.

Figures will tell, and 674 tells just how many season tickets for North Side's first series of basketball games have been sold. There are 682 enrolled in the high school at the present time, Mr. Northrop said, and yesterday, "and we're just wondering what we can do to make our record 100%," he added.

It is quite unusual for a high school to put over such an unusually large sale of tickets, Mr. Northrop said, and then he commented on the fine spirit of co-operation and support that has been shown by the students, faculty and patrons of North Side.

Students who have been selling tickets have been working very diligently. And they did not stop working when the first game had been played, John DeLong, faculty manager of athletics said. The students continued to work, basing their sales on the fact that it was still a bargain to buy a season ticket for the games.

Nearly sixteen students were selling tickets. A prize was offered to the boy and to the girl who sold the most tickets. Jane Korn and Catherine Zwick tied in sales for girls. Each sold 88. Paul Pritchard sold 63 for the boys, while Bob Kaade came in for second place with 59 sales.

STUDENTS IN CITY HIGH SCHOOLS COMPETE

Seniors to Be Awarded Scholarships.

Through the local Optimist Club students of the city high schools will be given an opportunity to compete in literary work, according to a recent announcement made by the organization. The purpose of the contest is to encourage high school students in composition work and to help them get a view of public service.

Worthwhile prizes will be awarded to each class according to the present plan which calls for a first prize of $5.00, a second prize of $3.00 and a third prize of $1.00 in the Freshman, Sophomore and Junior years in each high school. An additional $5.00 will be given to the best Freshman theme, best Sophomore theme, and to the best Junior theme from the three high schools. Three $150 scholarships will be given to the successful Senior candidates.

Freshmen in the schools have been given the subject, "Who is an Optimist?" These themes have to be in by January. Prizes will be awarded in February to the Sophomores on the subject, "What is the most conspicuous service any citizen may render to this Community?"

"What do service clubs such as Optimists, Rotarian, Kiwanis, Lion, Exchange, Hundred Percent, etc., mean to a city like Fort Wayne?" is the topic selected for Juniors. Prizes for the third year people will be awarded in March.

The topic for the Seniors is "My Impressions of the Optimist Creed." The prize for this theme will be given next April. The $150 scholarship is made up of $50.00 from the Optimist Club which is to be matched by a $100 scholarship to be given by the Fort Wayne center Indiana University Extension. The $50.00 part may be used in any school, while the $100.00 part is to be used in Fort Wayne only.

The English teachers and the Principals in the respective schools will decide the winners of the prizes in the schools. The awards for the themes winning first place for the city school will be made by the president of the Optimist Club and his associates.

North Side's next home game is January 6 with South Side. Be there!

Central lost her first game of the season to Froebel of Gary Saturday night at North Side gymnasium. The score was 40-28. Froebel took the lead during the first few minutes of the game.

Red Cross Sends Christmas Baskets To Ten Families

City Junior Red Cross Sends Carload of Material to Mississippi.

Merry Christmas!

That's what everyone is saying, yet no one is going to really feel it any more than the students of North Side who are working to bring a little bit of happiness to the ten families who have been assigned to our school for Christmas.

"Students have responded quite well to the call for food, clothing and toys, yet we need a lot more of everything, Frances Cook, president of the high school Red Cross club said. Most of us don't even think of Christmas dinner, Miss Cook said, yet these families are going to have only what we can take them. There's still time to bring things for the Christmas baskets, as they will not be delivered until Thursday.

If anyone had looked into Room 110 the last few days, he might have thought he was right in Christmas headquarters, for there were toys, clothes, fruits and foods which were to be sent out to these ten families.

Last week the local club sent Christmas greetings and also sent a large box of clothing and toys to the children in Sharkey county, Mississippi. The clothing was made in North Side high school under the supervision of Miss Beierlein and Miss Pate. The money for the clothing by the students for Junior Red Cross work.

Miss Beierlein and Miss Pate deserve a lot of credit for the splendid work they have done.

Miss Seaton, who has charge of the Junior Red Cross work in the city, took the Sharkey county work as the Christmas project of the organization. In the last few weeks hundreds of toys have been renovated by the manual training departments of the city schools under the supervision of George Russell, city supervisor of manual training. Girls in art and sewing departments of the public schools have been busy repainting doll faces and making dresses. Nearly a carload of material was sent by the Fort Wayne schools to the Mississippi district, Miss Seaton said. Some two-room schools sent five packages; larger schools sent as many as 300 and 400.

EDITORIAL

Almost two thousand years ago the world slept peacefully under a clear starlit sky while shepherds watched over their flocks in the fields near lazy little Bethlehem, transformed for the time being into a center of activity by the taxpayers gathered there. One glorious star heralded the event in all the world's history most precious to a Christian. A lowly manger was His first bed, yet even on that first night great wise men knelt before Him and worshiped Him. The angels of high Heaven came down and comforted the frightened shepherds with words which strike a chord of memory in every heart, "Peace on earth; good will toward men." The keynote struck those many years ago has swelled to a volume of praise and a doctrine of peace, as each anniversary adds sweet traditions to the day.

A life of love and generosity in thirty short years has endeared the Christ-Child to the world for two hundred centuries, and the ties of His love will grow more and more binding as human understanding becomes more complete. He spent thirty years on earth for one purpose: to give. But did He give money or great positions? He gave Himself. It is a lesson to us who would give and know not how. The leper in Lowell's "Vision of Sir Launfal" uttered one of the truest things that ever passed human lips:

'Tis not what we give
But what we share
For the gift without
The giver is bare.

It is not easy to give as Christ gave. No man ever set himself a harder task than to give himself with his gift, for it is the easiest of all known things to offend in the giving of a gift; it is easy to give it as a haughty man would toss a coin to a beggar on the street. The Yuletide turns man's thoughts to love and understanding, and he kneels at the manger and worships in the gifts that he gives.

Do you remember what Christmas used to mean to you years ago? It meant fat, smiling, red-cheeked Kriss Kingle, who came gliding over the glistening snow from Wonderland, silver sleigh bells, clear-toned and soft, tinkling like tiny echoes from Santa's merry homeland. In those days you received, because you knew not what it was to give. When that myth faded away the child cried out, but the man rejoiced at his new knowledge and the opportunity to give. Every man has buried within him somewhere the desire to serve, and the leeway which he gives that desire is the measure of the man. He finds it a wonderful delight to help and to give, not stopping to ask, "Who is my neighbor?" not wanting to know what good he may gain from his kindness, finding his return in the joy which he creates.

Redskins Play Two Stiff Games Over Week End

Central and Laporte Cop Games From North Side Net Teams.

After holding Laporte to a 15-14 score at the half North Side Redskins went down to a 40-25 defeat before the up-state crew. North Side Redskins played a great game during the first half, but their game weakened during the second half, while the up-state team rallied and continued to hit the basket for counters.

Gordon led in scoring with nine points. Marshall scored six; Penrod, eight, and Vall, two. All the Redskins showed good floor work. In the game Coach Mark Bills used Penrod, Marshall, Gordon, Koenig, Vall and Kraft.

Congratulations Central! Since we didn't win we're glad you did. A simple narrative of a team of six men going down in a noble battle before a team of thirteen veteran players. The score was 38 to 15.

Only six Redskins were used in the entire fracas, and they were against the thirteen men Coach Murray Mendenhall had to use for Central.

A la Knute Rockne, the Central regulars did not begin the battle, but before the game was over they had all appeared. However, they did not show up as well as the boys who started the game.

From the start Central took the lead and kept it throughout the entire game. North Side's team showed up exceptionally well, although their inexperience was evident. They fought a hard battle. Marshall showed best form of the season. The Redskins' team work was worthy of praise.

Basketball Schedule Is Made For Girls

A definite basketball schedule has been drawn for the girls of North Side. It is in the form of tournaments: One an interclass tournament at North Side and as class tournament with South Side and Central. The tournament at North Side will be between the Red and White gym classes. From these, two White and two Red teams, composed of the best players of each group, will play a tournament. The final game will be played as a preliminary to a boys' game.

The tournament with South Side and Central will be in a form of a class tournament. The schedule is as follows:

Monday, February 20 at South Side:
Frosh (Central) vs. Frosh (S. S.)
Soph (S. S.) vs. Soph (N. S.)
Juniors (Central) vs. Juniors (N. S.)
Seniors (Central) vs. Seniors (S. S.)

SOCIETY AND FEATURES

Christmas! The word itself suggests a beautifully lighted Christmas tree surrounded by presents; a large table with a delicious Christmas dinner setting on it, and a group of merry people enjoying the Christmas surroundings.

Christmas is the world's most celebrated holiday. When we hear people talking about the holidays, we know they are alluding to Christmas.

Christmas is the joyful and beautiful holiday when we think of its meaning and how the first Christmas came about.

The celebration of Christmas is really older than that of Christianity. The pagans kept the celebration as a festival of the new sun. They thought the new sun would make their crops better in the coming year if they celebrated it at a certain time every year.

In Rome, no wars were declared, no executions were made, and every one was free during the holidays. The Romans gave gifts to the poor and presents to friends and thus gave an idea to the modern people.

The northern nations celebrated Christmas in honor of their god, Thor, with songs and dances and feasts.

The date of December 25th, was not set for Christmas until the fourth century.

Before that time the date had been movable like that of Easter. Christmas has been celebrated in every month from October to April, through the centuries.

Our Christmas carols came from Palestine. The first collections were printed in 1521, but they were sung long before then. The beautiful Christmas tree came from Germany and earlier from the east. Santa Claus came from Holland and the Christmas cards, the yule log, plum pudding, and mince pie came from England. The decorating with holly is an old heathen custom. The heathen decorated with holly and greens, to shelter the Christmas spirits and fairies.

And so we have gathered all of these things from different countries and altogether they make the wonderful Christmas time, for which we long from one year to the next.

Four more days!
It almost seems impossible! But yet it is true, and by now nearly every window has a gay holly wreath in it and even brightly lighted Christmas trees. All are completing their plans, in preparation for the gay old fellow, who's work is nearly completed for another year.

If we could only take a peek in Santa's toyland garden, we would see the old fellow walking mid the rows of tops and picking the ripe ones. Then he would pick the prettiest dolls from the doll trees, and marbles from the marble bushes. We could also see his helpers, the merry elves, cutting down the very finest Christmas trees from the huge pine forest. Then we would see Mrs. Santa packing all the toys so Mr. Santa would be ready to start in time Christmas eve.

This is the dream of every little tot. But, of course, the mighty high school student turns his attentions to bigger and better things.

In these last few days of school before Christmas, every student seems to be in a trance of excitement thinking store for him during vacation. To say nothing of our "All powers"—the teachers! But at least we have the consolation that we can come back to school after vacation to rest up. So let's go to it! And here's to all, to all a good night.

Merry Christmas!

The Misses Frances Cook and Esther Lowery have issued invitations to a bridge which they will give December 27 at the home of Miss Cook on California avenue.

Miss Pearl Coulter, assistant librarian here, will leave Friday for her home in Pennsylvania where she will spend the Christmas holidays.

Miss Catherine Alter has returned from her studies at Ypsilanti, Mich., to spend the holidays with her parents on Crescent avenue.

Miss Blanche Lonergan has returned from her studies at Ypsilanti, Mich., to spend the holidays with her parents on Crescent avenue.

The Misses Catherine Alter and Blanche Lonergan informally entertained Sunday evening at the former's home on Crescent avenue. Those present were the Misses Mary Catherine Emrick, Esther Davies, Jane Emrick and the hostesses and the Messrs. Franklin Emrick, Russell

Cook, Paul Mitchell, Raymond Alter and Tommy Cook.

Merry Christmas everyone. Since we've had such a happy old year, we're bound to have a Happy New Year!

GRAVEURE TO SING AT THE SHRINE JAN. 18

Most Versatile of All Known Concert Singers

SINGING CAREER BEGAN LATE

Full Life and Varied Activities Create Wonderful Powers of Interpretation.

Louis Graveure, the internationally eminent baritone who will sing here for the Morning Musical Wednesday evening, January 18, at the Shrine auditorium, is said by those who know him to be by all odds the most versatile singer ever known to the concert stage. This does not refer to the fact that Mr. Graveure can sing in many languages, and that his programs include operatic selections from many composers as well as folk songs, classical songs, even humorous songs. Mr. Graveure's versatility is that of a man who says of himself, "I am a jack-of-all-trades and, I sincerely hope, a master more or less of one."

He did not start singing early in life, but was given a thorough education and was preparing for his life-work in sculpture when several accidents occurred.

He was born in Belgium and of Belgian parents, but was brought to England when he was a baby and there, after his father's death, received virtually all of his early education. He was always making pictures and modeling in clay, and as there was no compulsion on him to earn a living it was decided that he should make his way in one of the arts. Sculpture—which Mr. Graveure still follows as an amateur—led him to architecture and from architecture he was starting in to tackle the complicated technical problems of building construction when his voice changed. Unlike most boys Mr. Graveure did not experience the awkwardness of "acute and comical cracking in the voice," as he describes it. His voice slid gradually down from his treble and when he was next aware of it had become virtually a basso profundo.

This will surprise those who have already heard the fine baritone quality of his present voice, but there are other accidents which explain the change.

Friends urged him to give up his other pursuits and study music. Following their advice, he went to France and to Germany to study. On two occasions overstudy led to a near-breakdown and he was advised to rest. Instead of loafing Mr. Graveure got himself hired on fishing smacks and did his work like a true fisherman.

Joint Home Economics Meeting Is Planned

A very interesting program has been planned by the Central Home Economics Club to be given in the Central auditorium Tuesday afternoon, January 12, at 4:00 o'clock. John A. Miller, from the A. H. Perfect Company, wholesale distributors of foods, will give a talk on "Food Facts and Fancies."

It is to be a joint meeting of the three public high schools. Miss Barnes, cooking teacher at Central, will be in charge of the program.

All girls and teachers of the school who are interested in home economics are invited to attend. Those wishing to go are to meet in room 123 at 3:20.

NATIONAL ORATORICAL CONTEST PLANNED

Farm Relief Subject For State Discussion Contest.

N. S. PRELIMINARY TO BE IN FEBRUARY

Essay Contests On Law and Citizenship To Be Held At Same Time.

The plans for the debaters for the future term are many. There will be three contests next semester, an extemporaneous contest, a state discussion contest, and a national oratorical contest. If there is sufficient remaining time there might also be a dual debate outside of the league.

The subject for the state discussion contest will be Farm Relief. There will be a preliminary contest here at North Side some time in February, in which all the pupils in school are eligible. At this time the candidate from this school will be chosen to be sent to the county contest, at which the successful candidate will be named to travel to the district contest, and then to the state.

The State Discussion Contest will have a constructive speech with an extemporaneous rebuttal speech. This contest is sponsored by Indiana University, and each student is free to present the subject from whatever point of view he chooses and he is expected to defend his point of view against attack. Each speaker will be allowed eight minutes for his constructive speech and three minutes for his extemporaneous rebuttal speech. The contestants will be judged on argument and on effective delivery.

There will also be a preliminary contest for the national oratorical event. In this contest eight American boys and girls will receive a trip to the Olympic games at Amsterdam (Continued on Page 2)

FORUM MEETING TO BE HELD JAN. 15th

First of Series of Meetings For High School Students.

The first meeting of the Forum will be held Sunday afternoon, January 15th, at 3 P. M. The topic "The Real Meaning of Friendship," will be presented by Mr. O. M. Brunson, religious work director of the Y. M. C. A. Mr. Brunson is one of the founders of the Forum, he is a skilled leader and will prove a splendid leader for this opening topic.

The Forum has attracted national attention to the Fort Wayne "Y" and because of the success of the Y. W. C. A. and the Y. M. C. A. in developing this type of work the State Conference or Adult Guidance of the Y. W. C. A. meeting at Muncie, February 4th and 5th, will make a study of the Fort Wayne Forum.

The Forum was a big success last year, a fact which was demonstrated by the number of boys and girls attending it.

ENGLISH CLASSES DO INTERESTING WORK

Three Classes Publish Small Magazine.

Ten-B English have been editing a small class magazine. "The 10B Hive" is the name of the 10B2 class; while "The Northern Star" is the name selected by the 10B3, and "Christmas, As You Like It," was chosen by the 10B5 people. The magazines were made near Christmas time and contained Christmas stories, extracts from classics studied and news articles in general. Each pupil contributed to the publications.

German Clubs Holds Christmas Party

A German party was held on December 22. German games were played and German songs were sung. Santa Claus came and distributed gifts to everyone. Refreshments were served and everyone enjoyed themselves.

N. H. S. Requires Electric Scoreboard

North Side has a new scoreboard. This new addition to the gymnasium is a great improvement over the one in use up to the present time. It is controlled from the score keeper's box and has electrically lighted numbers which may be changed with very little effort on the part of the score keeper.

North Side Has New School Song

North Side has a new song the words of which were composed by Mr. Kimes and the music by Dorothy Helling. The song has proved to be very popular.

North Side High
Our dear old North Side High
Stands majestic by the stream.
She's the pride of every student
And the ideal of his dream.
In her halls are fondest memories
Of the golden days of spring.
She's our love, our Alma Mater,
And for her our praises ring.

Our dear old North Side High
Stands for service, truth and light.
For her honor and her glory
We will wear the red and white.
In her halls are fondest memories
Of the golden days of spring.
She's our love, our Alma Mater,
And for her our praises ring.

ST. OLAF CHOIR TO APPEAR AT COLLEGE GYM

St. Olaf Organization Keeps High Standard.

MUSICIANS COME FROM MINNESOTA COLLEGE
To Appear At Local Gymnasium January 29.

The history of the St. Olaf Lutheran Choir, which will be heard in concert at the Concordia College Gymnasium on January 29th at 3 and 8 P. M., should dispose, once and for all, of the often-repeated idea that a certain amount of so-called popular appeal must be made in order to attract audiences.

Certainly this organization, hailing from a Minnesota denominational college, has not wanted for audiences. Large auditoriums the country over have been packed again and again by a public eager to hear what these young choristers, under the phenomenal leadership of Dr. F. Melius Christensen, can do, and a disappointment has yet to be recorded.

But not one program ever has contained a number which might be called a compromise with popular taste. Not one of its items is permitted the slightest descent from a standard of dignity, purity and sublimity which is the marvel of music-lovers. Only sacred music is sung, and only sacred music couched in the most masterly terms. The great composers of church music through five centuries have been called upon for subject matter, and each one is interpreted with deep reverence as well as high technical skill.

The young men and women from St. Olaf College sing the most difficult works ever written for choral performance; sing them without accompaniment, without scores, and without an aid to the assumption and maintenance of pitch. And they do it seemingly as easily as the average college chorus would "Old Black Joe."

As long as the St. Olaf Choir continues to draw crowds, critics need not despair of the quality of public taste.

Beautiful Apartment in Home Economics Department Is Almost Completed

To Be Opened Soon For Public Inspection—Teas For Teachers and Mothers.

(By Lucille Reichle)
The home economics department is just finishing a very interesting project which they have undertaken—that of furnishing a model five-room apartment, consisting of living room, dining room, bedroom, bath and kitchen. Anyone visiting it is struck by the display of good taste used in the selection of the furniture, floor covering and drapes.

The living room with its French doors hung with silk damask drapes, the cozy gate-leg table, numerous chairs, reading lamp with chair and table, lovely console set and mahogany desk and bookcase combined is particularly inviting. None the less charming are the dining room and bedroom. The furnishings of the former are of mahogany, while bright cretonne drapes add a gaiety and beauty that would delight any feminine heart. In the dining room the furniture is of walnut with an oblong table, six chairs (including the host chair), a beautiful carved buffet and an orange lacquered chest to match the console in the living room.

The kitchen is such a pretty, bright room that it seems the work would not be so hard, and that even dishwashing

NEW STUDENTS TO ENROLL IN NORTH SIDE

Forest Park and Bloomingdale Send Students.

TWO NEW FACULTY MEMBERS ARE ADDED

Plans Announced For Closing Semester and Opening Second School Term.

Nearly 125 new students will enroll in North Side High School for the second semester, according to a statement made by M. H. Northrop, principal, in an interview. The students will come from Forest Park and Bloomingdale and several have enrolled from out of the city.

There will be two new faculty members added to the staff, Mr. Northrop said. One new teacher, Miss Mary Howard, will join the language department and will teach Latin. Miss Howard was graduated from the Indiana State Normal School with an A.B. degree, and from Wisconsin University with an A.M. degree. For the last four years she has been at the head of the Latin department at Janesville, Wisconsin.

The name of the new faculty member who will be added to the mathematics department has not been announced.

School will be dismissed for the first semester Wednesday at noon, according to an official announcement made. Grade cards will be given out Wednesday morning during home room periods. After the home room periods, the regular classes, running on a twelve-minute schedule, will meet. During this time the teacher will put on the students' grades. Pupils will go to 316 for regular study hall periods and also for lunch periods. Miss Schwehn, Mr. Mathews and Mr. Bills will be in the study hall to put Physical Education Band, Chorus and Glee Club grades on the cards.

For the new semester, beginning January 23, Mr. Northrop has inaugurated a new plan of enrollment for freshmen. Already he has room assignments and pre-structions for the new freshmen to Miss Mona Hale, principal of Forest Park school, and to Burton Q. Adams of the Bloomingdale school.

Students now enrolled in high school will go to their present home rooms on Monday, January 23, for enrollment and general instructions. Following the opening period of forty-five minutes the regular class day schedule will be carried out in twelve-minute periods. On Monday afternoon, under the supervision of Mr. Pring, the book store will be open and freshman locker assignments will be made by Mr. Northrop.

With all the details taken care of on Monday, the regular class day schedule will begin on Tuesday, Mr. Northrop said.

BULLETIN!

All members of the Home Economics Club are asked to be present at the next meeting, which will be held in the Central Auditorium January 12 at 4:00 o'clock.

EDITORIAL

It is not a fair act to criticize somebody else who is doing something you are not able to do yourself, so don't razz speakers in pep session, please.

In the near future North Side inaugurates something new in high school sports in Fort Wayne, an inter-school swimming meet. It is open to all comers, and should prove one of the most interesting sports of the entire season in coming years. There is a chance for tests of speed, endurance, form, grave and distance in diving, and all the other things characteristic of a good water enthusiast.

Every swimmer should participate in this athletic contest, at present so rare in high schools. It is a chance to show outsiders the value of our swimming pool and swimming instruction, and should receive the same support that other sports do.

MAKE THEM COUNT

Father Time swings his great scythe, and another year slips silently into the past. While it may not be altogether pleasant to recall everything that has happened in that year, and mayhap not altogether wise, still those things upon which it is most unpleasant to reflect it is apt to be most wise. Those things that you have done which could have been avoided, I mean.

Did you play when you should have studied?
Did you put in only so much time as would get you through?
Did you take responsibilities and shift to the shoulders of others?
Did you put off until tomorrow what should have been done today, forgetting that tomorrow never comes?
You, you probably did! Do you think that there is wisdom in reflecting upon those things? If you just reflect upon them and nothing more, of course not. But that year is past, and the past is irrevocable; but then, there is tomorrow, there is the year that the old year's death brought to life and to power. Now, now is the time to say what you are going to do in that year (no not a New Year's resolution, but a Life Plan, sacred and unbreakable.)

If you haven't studied in the past you can begin today, now. If you have just "slipped through", you can make a few A's. If you have dodged responsibilities, you can search them out. If you've been a procrastinator, you can start now to do everything at the earliest possible moment instead of the latest; make today count since tomorrow has so often failed to materialize, and time, instead of becoming more plentiful has become more scarce.

Although the New Year does not bring the new semester, time is flying and it is growing short. Ask any athlete and find out at which end of the race one must strain every faculty, command every ounce of energy to finish a winner. He will add, however, if he is wise, that it does not pay to start out walking. It is important to get a running start and keep a steady pace in the center. The center has passed! It is time for the final spurt which will win the race. Then comes a pause for rest, and then the running start for next semester's race. Count every minute!

Understanding—The act of seeing both sides to one question; Realization of others' rights; confidence in your own. All are essentials to student welfare. Are we successful? Understanding is the basis of co-operation.

And without co-operation we may not hope to succeed. Northsiders, let us strive for understanding, that we may have co-operation, that we may have success, both at school and in later life.

Short Shots

Henry Watts is captain of the Wabash High School team. He has been playing basketball for two years. He plays guard and also played tackle on the football team.

Thomas Cornell is the high point man for the Wabash cagers and plays a flashy game at forward. This is Tom's second year. He played quarterback on the football team and is next year's football captain.

The Central-South Side game will be played next Monday night at the South Side gym. Tickets are going fast and if you want one be sure to get it now.

S. S. seems to be "going good." They have won their last seven consecutive games and by good scores too.

See the Wabash game Friday.

Art Penrod says, "There are a lot of careers but the career of a lady killer is the poorest paid of all."

Miss Storr, "What is the greatest service any citizen can do for the community?"

Soph, who is always broke—"Invent a tough one dollar bill that will last as long as it takes to save one."

Herbie Vigran says—"My idea of a fine-looking spectacle is a healthy looking girl hanging on the arm of a dub."

Charley Pierce thinks the hardest thing in the world is coming out of the gym after a game and finding the right Ford.

Mother: "Are you first in any thing in school, son?"
M. Cook: "Yes, first out of the class room after the bell rings."

Pearl: "They say an apple a day will keep the doctor away."
Ed: "Why stop there. An onion a day will keep everybody away."

Bob: "I have a silver in my finger."
Master John Robinson: "Been scratching your head again."

B. Scheiman, coming home in middle of the day: "Dad, remember that story you told me about when you were expelled from school."

Dad: "Yes."
Bill: "Funny how history repeats itself."

Steve: "What did you do with the shirt I took off last night."
Bill: "Mother put it in the wash."

Seve: "Ye gods! The whole history of England was on the cuff."

Teacher: "You are the slowest girl I have ever seen. Aren't you quick in anything?"

Helene Grummons: "Yes, nobody can get tired as quick as I can."

Father: "My son, take this letter to the post office, buy a two-cent stamp and mail it. (In ten minutes son returns.)

Father: "Did you mail the letter?"
Son: "Yes, but I saved two cents. I saw a lot of people dropping letters in a box, so I watched my chance and when no one was looking I dropped mine in, too."

I am sorry that you broke your teeth on the fudge that I made for you. Forgive me, please. BROKEN-HEARTED PEARL.

Art Penrod: Ed, where did you get that pretty flower?
Ed Ford: "Oh, there were a lot of them hanging on some guy's door down the street."

Gale Long: "Say, Miskell, see that girl coming down the street? Why, I won't even speak to her."

Joe Miskell: Why not? Have you have a fight.
G. L.: No, I don't know her.

Say, Lucille, did John McMeen have mistletoe mixed in with the roses that he sent you for Christmas?

Why girls go to our basketball game—Arthur Penrod.

The students sat in terrible fright, Dreading to see this awful sight, "Recite" the words rang out in a harsh tune, He'd called on me, I thought I'd swoon, "That I had not studied," I was just to tell, When, hurrah, I'm saved by my friend, the bell.

The Black List is growing, I mean the number of people getting kicked out of the library, it won't be long now. The ideal of a librarian's dream is the first period, there are about ten people and no noise.

While still on the subject isn't Benny Stiegler possessed of the Old Nick or something, but maybe his dimples explain that.

Lorena Fann was heard to remark she liked every thing about Penrod; Clue and Don Elder were sitting next to him. That's a deep one.

Au Revoir is "good bye" in French, but carboic acid is good bye in any language.

If you want to get even with a particular grudge of yours, have Bob Walsh draw a cartoon of him (or her).

Let's hope we don't have the Wabash Blues Friday night. Here's hoping we don't get the Wabash Blues.

MUSIC DEPARTMENT WANTS MEMBERS

Operetta Will Feature Next Semester's Program.

More students are enrolling all the time in the band and orchestra, according to an announcement made by Paul W. Mathews, director of music at North Side. At the beginning of the semester only twenty members were enrolled, the membership has increased to thirty at the present time, and more could still be used, Mr. Mathews said. Students who want to take private lessons on some band instruments next semester are asked to sign up immediately. There is no charge for these lessons and they will be given during students' vacant periods.

The work for the Glee Clubs next semester will no doubt be an operetta or musical play, Mr. Mathews said. Tryouts for solos and parts and chorus will be made soon. The chorus will include both girls and boys. More students can enroll in the Glee Clubs. More than 150 persons are now enrolled in work in the music department.

North Manchester defeated Wabash 39-18. North Manchester defeated North Side by two points. Let's not get those doggoned Blues.

National Oratorical Contest Is Planned

a tour of six European nations.

This 1928 contest, which will be sponsored in Indiana by the Indiana State Bar Association will be by far the largest in the history of a movement which has attracted the interest of students and educators in seven nations.

The participating nations will be the United States, England, France, Germany, Canada, Mexico, and Japan. Work on this contest, in which any secondary school pupil under nineteen years of age is eligible, will not begin before the second school term, about February 1.

The 1928 contest will not only be larger than all previous contests as regards the number of nations participating, but also in the number of newspapers which are sponsoring and conducting the contest. The newspaper sponsors of the contest for 1928 in the United States number fifty-three. Owing to this and the resulting increase in the intensity with which the contest will be conducted, it has been necessary to increase the zones into which the country has been divided from seven to eight. The winner of the championship in each zone has a place in the national finals, which will be held in Washington on May 25. All eight of the participants in the national finals are given as a prize a ten-week tour of England, France, Italy, Germany, Holland, and Belgium, with all expenses paid.

The winner of the championship of the United States will compete in the international finals to be held in Washington on October 13. A handsome silver loving cup will be awarded to the winner of the national contest, and the winner of the international contest will be given a larger loving cup.

Each school will handle the selection of its own representative. The champion of each newspaper territory in Indiana competes in one of the eight zone meetings, which represent semi-final meetings for the entire nation. These meetings will be held on May 11. The Indiana champion will compete at Troy, New York.

The contestants must deal with one of the following subjects:

"The Development of the Constitution," or

"The Present Significance of the Constitution."

Each speaker is allowed only ten minutes. The general schedule for the 1928 contest is as follows:

Selection within each school must be made by March 16, 1928.

Selection of county champion by March 30, 1928.

Selection of congressional district champion by April 20, 1928.

Selection of state champion by May 11, 1928.

National semi-finals at Troy, New York, evening of May 25, 1928.

International finals at Washington, Oct. 13, 1928.

The Essay Contest

In addition to the oratorical contest there will be conducted in Indiana this year an essay contest at the same time as the oratorical contest. This is also open to the same class of students. The county and district winners will be selected at the same time as those for the oratorical contest.

The essays must be on the following subjects:

"What Is a Good Citizen?"

"Why Obey the Law?"

These essays must contain not less than 500 words or not more than 1,000 words. They will be judged in the regular way and be finally presented to the American Citizenship Bar Association for the state at large. There will be $1,000 in cash awards to winners in the state finals of the oratorical and the essay contests.

Let's have another "full house" for the Wabash game and show the Redskins we're all "back of 'em."

Greetings, everyone.

STUDENTS ARE GIVEN AWARDS

Margaret Umbach Earns Gold Pin in Typing Contest.

A number of 128 students at North Side were awarded medals and certificates for speed in typewriting recently.

Margaret Umbach who earned a gold pin for typing 61 words a minute for fifteen minutes, deserves credit for her splendid achievement. She is the first to receive a gold medal at North Side, and her winning of the pin has placed this school on the honor roll of the L. C. Smith Typewriter Company, one of whose machines was used by Miss Umbach.

Commendation must also be given to the other students who earned typing awards. They are as follows:

Lois Evans, silver pin, 52 words a minute, Underwood typewriter; Rex Mounsey, silver pin, 50 words a minute, L. C. Smith typewriter, and certificate, 38 words, Underwood typewriter; Helen Woodruff, bronze pin, 44 words, L. C. Smith typewriter; Mary Miller, bronze pin, 43 words, Underwood; Evelyn Beerman, certificate and bronze pin, 41 words, Underwood; Lella Smith, bronze pin, 40 words, Underwood; Alma King, certificate, 31 words per minute, Underwood typewriter.

When trying out to win a medal or certificate, the aspiring student must use unfamiliar printed material provided by the several typewriter companies. The tests consist of fifteen minutes' steady writing with as few errors as possible.

Limitations are placed upon the amount of mistakes allowed on each pupil's paper. The number of errors permitted ranges from three to fifteen, according to the make of machine used.

Tests For Christmas Presents Received

Even if Christmas has been gone for "weeks", some folks are still pondering about those few stray gifts. Here's the advice. Put it to those gifts and close the Xmas season.

Test 1: The first test is to try to wear it. If you can get your hand into it, it's mittens. If you can get your feet into it, it's probably a pair of bed socks. If, on the other hand, it seems to fit down over your ears, it is a skating cap. If you can pull it down as far as your waist, it is a slip-on sweater, and if it will not fit over your head at all it is probably a lettuce bag.

Test 2: If you cannot wear it, then see if you can wind it up. If you wind it up and it runs, it is a clock. If you wind it up and it does not run, it is a pencil sharpener. If it runs without being wound up, it is a Ford. If it does not choose to run, don't you believe it.

Test 3: Next try to drink it. If it can swallow it and it is liquid, it can swallow it and stay conscious, it is good liquor. If you can't swallow it yourself, try it on your guests.

Test 4: Now put it on the floor and jump up and down on it. If it does not smash, it is a pogo stick. If it does smash, so much the better.

Test 5: If the gift responds to none of these tests, however—if you cannot wear it, drink it, wind it up, ride it, smoke it, or use it in any conceivable way—then it undoubtedly is a Work of Art. Replace it reverently in the box, pack the excelsior around it again, and give it away the following Christmas.

Miss Catherine Alter has returned to Ypsilanti, Mich., to resume her studies after spending the holidays as guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. Alter of Crescent Ave.

South Side High Wins Game From Decatur High School

Kelly Klads Take Easy Game From Decatur.

The highly reputed Decatur scoring machine was held to four field goals last Saturday night by the airtight S. S. defense and as a result the Kelly Klads won, 26 to 13. In the opening minutes of the contest it looked like it would be a close game but S. S. began to sink the leather from all over the court and gradually pulled away from the visitors. At the half the score stood 11 to 6.

In the second half S. S. continued to pile up the score until at the end of the game the Green had doubled the score on the Yellow Jackets, 26 to 13.

Dick Dell for the Green and White scorers with five field goals with Van Ness and Fuestel following close behind each registering 3 and 2 points to his credit. Hill and Annadell were the only other Yellow Jackets to score from the field, the others having been closely covered by the Kellies.

Although the Green and White defense was superb and held the Yellow Jackets well in check Decatur did not show the hand of basketball of which it is reported capable.

A large crowd turned out to see the game with both sides of the gym nearly filled. A large number of Decatur people accompanied the team.

River Forest College Wins From Concordia

River Forest College, of Chicago, Illinois, came and went Saturday night. They came to Concordia's gymnasium to play the Maroons and went with a 26-to-19 win over the local collegians. The game was nip and tuck throughout and not until the final minutes of the game did the R. F. men crash through to victory. Concordia's lack of accuracy from ### Central Is Defeated in Exciting Game by Kendallville; Prentice Leads.

Central played one of the most spectacular games of the season last Saturday night when they were forced to give up the ship to the Kendallvilleagers led by Prentice, who won the Gimbel prize at the state last year. The visitors took home a 36-to-33 victory and the reputation of being a fast club.

The Tigers were handicapped by a low start and Prentice, Kendallville's floor guard. It was not only Prentice who stopped the Central attack and began adding up a score but the rest of the Kendallville cagers did creditable work.

During the latter part of the second half Central came back with the old fighting spirit and the game became anybody's game until Kendallville called time out to spike the Tiger guns. When the play was resumed, only forty-five seconds of playing time remained and the Centralites were held for the rest of the game.

The visitors also took the reserve game by a score of 29 to 26.

the 15-foot mark was an important factor in the local's loss. Etzler appeared to be the only Maroon able to send any free throws through the net, lodging six of them. Close guarding with many penalties marked the play of the first half in which both teams were never more than three points apart in the scoring column, with the score being tied once. In the second half R. F. staged a rally which gave them victory in the end although Concordia staged a rally. It was at this time that loss of points from the charity lane proved disastrous and the final gun found the Illinois five on the long end of a 26-to-19 score.

Redskins Defeated By South Side and Portland In Week-End Games

South Side Kelly Klads Defeat Redskins, 35-22

South Side Kelly Klads made it quite evident that they know basketball last Friday night when they defeated the Redskins, 35-22. The South Siders took the lead in the early part of the game and held it throughout the entire game.

The North Side quintet finally rallied late in the second half but was unable to overcome the lead on which the Kelly Klads rode to victory.

South Side's defense completely stopped the Redskins in the first period. North Side was only able to make two field goals in this period.

South Side held a 22-7 lead at the end of the first half and increased this lead to 37-7 before the Redskins found the net again. Welborn sent in his reserves late in the second half.

North Side was playing in tough luck and many of its shots rolled out of the basket instead of in. The Redskins came down the floor in great style and fired away at the basket but their shots bounced off the basket in a heartless fashion. Time and time again the North Siders broke loose for open shots but could not make them sink.

The Redskins were playing a smoother floor game Friday than they have all season. Team work and fast passes worked the ball down the floor several times.

The South Side reserves defeated North Side reserves in the preliminary game by a score of 23 to 10. The Green and White second team held the lead throughout the entire game.

REDSKINS LOSE TO PORTLAND TEAM

Marshall Is High Point Man For North High Team.

The North Side Redskins were defeated last Saturday night by Portland to the tune of 33 to 23. The Redskins played a fast peppy game but were playing in hard luck and were not able to hit the basket. They made a number of threatening rallies but were not able to overcome the lead gained by the Portland cakers. Marshall was high-point man for the North Side team.

Speaking of football, 94 squads are enrolled; 3,171 boys played football this season.

This number of teams indicates an increase of 50 per cent within the last five years. The number of players has increased a larger per cent in this length of time. There is no state championship in football as there seems to be no satisfactory way of determining such.

In all probability more and better football was played among the high schools of the state this season than for a number of years. The game is growing in popularity each year and most of the schools that are large enough to support the sport financially with sufficient enrollments are now playing the game.

SOCIETY AND FEATURES

Outstanding among the recent parties was the bridge which the Misses Frances Cook and Esther Lowery gave at the home of the former on California avenue. Prizes for high scores were won and later a delightful two-course luncheon was served at the small tables to the guests who numbered forty. The guests from out of town were the Misses Rosalia Polack, of Chicago, and Marjorie Collins, of Hillsdale, Mich.

Ted Hagerman and Charlie Hengstler have returned to Purdue University after spending some time the guests of their respective parents.

Breaking resolutions, taking tests and making up back work, seems to be the chief occupation of the students about this time of year. Most of us have come back to earth by now, after the rush of Christmas, only to find that down here another rush is on—do you realize that our semester is nearly ended, and it probably will end some of us, too.

About next week we will see some new "57 varieties" when the new Freshmen will be entering North Side's famous halls. Then about that time the Seniors, of haughty demeanor, will raise to another notch and give the poor little "newcomers" a treat.

The Misses Mary Thayer and Margaret Jones united in entertaining with a lovely bridge party recently at the Shrine club house. Prizes for high scores were won and a delicious luncheon was served to the eighty guests. The girls who attended this delightful affair from North Side were the Misses Margaret Smenner, Frances Cook, Mary Jane Scott, Betty Moyer and Nancy McKay.

Miss Phyllis Lines entertained with a skating and slumber party Saturday evening. After the skating party the guests were taken to the hostess' house where a dainty luncheon was served to the guests who were the Misses Jeanette Popp, Charlotte Latker, Dorothy McComb, Marjorie Schrock and the hostess.

Miss Mary Helen Putman entertained with a delightful dinner party at the Mandarin Cafe last Saturday evening. Those who attended the lovely affair were the Misses Mary Elizabeth Hughes, Margaret Smenner, Marjorie Reeves, Mary Hillis Miles, Mary Jane Scott, Alice Miller, Janet Egly, Dorothy Troendel, Mary and Marthens Brothers, Louisa Fredricks, Betty Moyer and the hostess.

Miss Charlotte Eberbach entertained with a party at her home on Forest Park Boulevard. Those who attended the lovely affair were the Vesey, Mary Louise Rolf, Elsie Schlemmer, Nancy McKay, Mary Margaret man, Mary Jane Scott and the hostess.

The Misses Virginia Trier and Anne Hayden have returned to DePaul University after spending some time the guests of their respective parents.

Miss Jerry Morris entertained with a New Year's party at her home on Warsaw street. Dancing and games were enjoyed throughout the evening. Those attending were the Misses Marie Rapp of Montpelier, Ind., Jane Bradtmiller, Lois Duesler and the hostess, the Messrs. Rex Mounsey, Wayne Davis, Murray Bulman, Glenn Hoemig and Elmer Doege.

Miss Charlotte Latker informally entertained during the holidays at her home on Spy Run Ave. Those present were the Misses Jeanette Popp, Marjorie Schrock, Dorothy McComb, Mary Margaret Vesey, Jane Emrick and the hostess.

Phyllis Clark has returned to Bloomington to resume his studies after spending the holidays as guest of Mrs. Ella Clark of Old Fort Place.

The Misses Virginia Bond and Georgianna Miller entertained with a lovely dance at the latter's home on Wayne St. during the holiday season. Those present were the Misses Nancy Porter, Lucy Porter, Mary Weaver, Betty Yarnelle, Barbara Beal, Elizabeth Porter, Nancy McKay, Charlotte Eberbach, Catherine Orter, Betty Bailey, Susie Bowerfind, Mary Ellen Heit, Mary Reynolds Cline, Mary Jane Scott, Virginia Miller, the hostesses and the Messrs. Paul Mitchell, Norman Richards, Arthur Richards, Bill Lypkey, Sam Elliott, Ed Higgins, Ernest Rurde, Orin Simpson, Bob Ciscow, Bill Spice, Bob Pape, Don Elder, David Rahe, Dick Weaver, Joe Williams and John Astrom.

Miss Harriet Derck of Lake Ave. spent part of the holiday season in Grass Lake, Mich., where she was the guest of Miss Avis Rohrer.

ART CLUB SOCIAL TO BE JAN. 16th

9B Students Are Making Antique Samples.

Miss Hall was unable to give her lecture on Italy at the date set. Therefore, the Art Club social hour has been postponed until Monday, January 16. The meeting will be held at 3:15 in the cafeteria. The orchestra will furnish music and light refreshments will be served.

Miss Hall visited various countries in Europe last summer. She has many beautiful postcards and pictures which she will throw on a screen with her new postcard enlarging machine. Miss Hall is supervisor of art in the city and has had wide training and experience. The Art Club promises all those who attend the meeting an exceptionally fine time.

Queen Anne's salon was a sewing bee for tapestry embroidery. Many beautiful, and some not so beautiful, tapestries of Crewel work were made by her ladies. This started the fad that faded out with the samplers of Queen Victoria's and of our grandmothers' time. Just as every period of unique furniture has had its day of popularity in our present time, so samplers are coming back. This has given our brilliant 9B students their knowledge of lettering. Some lovely samplers have been made with some quite original pen work.

Noted Journalist Now On Staff of Northerner

L. Otto Slush, world-renowned writer and pea-shooter, is now in our midst. The Northerner considers itself very lucky in obtaining the services of this great person. Mr. Slush is a very famous character analyst and specializes in personalities. Every week one or two of the very prominent persons in this school will be interviewed. These interviews are starting now and will continue until then. A general warning is issued to all the students that if there is something they wish to conceal they should not tell it around school, for, as you will soon find out, Mr. Slush sees all and knows all. And just to let you in on a little secret, L. Otto Slush is so good he even knows things that don't happen.

These articles can be found elsewhere in this issue if you will only take the pains to look for them. The column is entitled "Profiles", but you will find that you get a front view.

Always be on your guard against this Slush person, for the least little meritorious deed that you do, he will know about it, and will constantly torment you. This last statement was drawn from a remark that L. Otto made some years ago when he was only a cub reporter. Everyone remembers the great lolly-pop disaster, when a man choked to death on an all-day sucker. Well, Slush was going out to get the story. Until then no reporter had succeeded. When he left he said, "I want that story, and what I want I gets." Sure enough, he not only came back with the story, but with the stem of the lolly-pop. You must remember that this was years ago. He has increased a thousand-fold since then. But mere words are inadequate. You must turn to the column and see for yourself.

Frank Fortmeyer, North Side's custodian, met with an accident the week before Christmas. While hanging a picture the ladder on which he was standing collapsed. In falling Mr. Fortmeyer struck his leg against a desk, painfully injuring it. It seems fine to have Mr. Fortmeyer back with us again this week.

Graveure to Sing at the Shrine Jan. 18

He was just about to make his splurge as a bass-baritone when he had an attack of diphtheria. When he came out of a long convalescence his voice had degenerated to a husky whisper, and sculpture, architecture, building, had all been thrown overboard. For months he had nothing, but eventually went to South Africa.

There Mr. Graveure did many things, among them investing in an expedition, and taking part in it, to discover the source of certain streams which was down small diamonds in their river beds. He lost his money and tramped through the veldt, recovered enough money to start home again, and decided to come to Canada.

It was on his way back that he found his voice returning note by note. He discovered that he could sing a note without hurting himself if he sang it a certain way, not the way he had been taught. He developed the way of least resistance. His voice grew stronger and stronger. He worked out a system of health for himself. And when he felt certain he came to the United States and began the extraordinary and successful career as a concert singer which has carried him triumphantly over the country. He began in 1915 in America and has been here ever since, living in New York with his wife, who is known on the stage as Eleanor Painter, the star of many operettas of the better kind.

We sympathize with Central for their loss to K'ville as we lost our first game of the season to that place.

For the new semester, beginning January 23, Mr. Northrop has inaugurated a new plan of enrollment for the freshmen. Already he has sent home room assignments and preliminary instructions for the new freshmen to Miss Mona Hale, principal of Forest Park school, and to Burton Q. Adams of the Bloomington school.

Students now enrolled in high school will go to their present home rooms on Monday, January 23, for enrollment and general instructions. Following the opening period of forty-five minutes the regular class day schedule will be carried out in twelve-minute periods. ## Freshman Contest For Optimist Club Closes To-Day

Other Classes Have More Time to Work; Optimist Club Creed Is Given to Seniors.

Freshman themes for the Optimist Club contest will be handed in today to Miss Cromer, head of the English department. The other classes will have some time to work on their themes, Miss Cromer said. The Optimist Club with the Indiana University Extension Division are sponsoring the contest.

The purpose of the contest is to encourage Fort Wayne high school boys and girls in their composition work, and also to help them get a view of public service which they later in life will be asked to perform, in so encouraging the students they have formed a plan to offer three prizes. The first being $5.00, second will be $3.00, and the third will be $1.00; these prizes will be awarded to the freshmen, sophomores, and juniors in each high school. An additional $5.00 will be given to the best freshman theme, to the best sophomore theme, and to the best junior theme from the three high schools. Three $150 scholarships will be given to the successful senior candidates.

The topic for the freshman theme will be "Who Is an Optimist?" The sophomores are required to have their themes in by February 15, and their topic will be "What Is the Most Conspicuous Service Any Citizen May Render to This Community?"

The juniors must have their themes in by March 2. The juniors' topic will be "What Do Service Clubs Such as Optimists, Rotarian, Kiwanis, Lion, Exchange, Hundred Percent, etc., Mean to a City Like Fort Wayne?" The judges and prizes will also be the same as those for the freshmen.

The senior contest will be for both February and June graduates. The topic for their theme will be "My Impressions of the Optimist Creed." The

EUGENE WILLIAMS TO SPEAK AT PRESS CLUB

Joint Clubs to Meet at South Side Monday.

Eugene Williams, city editor of the Journal-Gazette, is to be the main speaker of the Joint Press Club which will be held at South Side January 23 in the form of a pot-luck supper. Plans for this meeting were completed last night at North Side's Press Club. A delightful time is assured to all who attend.

Those who wish to attend are asked to sign up with Lorena Fann. The last joint press meeting was held at North Side. Both Central and South Side had a large attendance at that meeting. North Side is expecting a good representation at the meeting next Monday.

BIG SISTER MOVEMENT IS STARTED

Dean Reynard Inaugurates New System.

UPPER CLASSMEN TO HELP THE FRESHMEN

Nearly Eighty Girls Working In Plan.

The "Big Sister" movement will be inaugurated next week when about eighty upperclass girls of North Side will act as big sisters to the girls who are entering North Side. The new students represent the Forest Park, Bloomington, and some out-of-city schools.

The work of the big sisters consists of helping the new girls find their room, assisting them in buying books and to act as an advisor to the Freshmen during the remainder of the year.

Dean Reynard has had the big sisters get in touch with their charges before the opening of school next Monday. Most students don't remember how many times they walked "around the circle," but the Big Sister movement may eliminate the hours spent in hunting rooms.

Basketball Practice Held For Girls

MISS FRANCES COOK

Frank Nicklas is general chairman for the Senior vaudeville for Friday. One of his assistants is Frances Cook. Miss Hilda Schwehn is one of the class advisors.

Work On Senior Vaudeville Progresses In Fine Shape

Many features on Bill for Friday Vaudeville; Dance to Be Held Later; Vaudeville Price 25c; Dance 15c.

Stop! Look! Listen! For what?

Why, the Senior vaudeville of course! Everybody's going. And why shouldn't they? You know 'tis said that it puts any of Flo Ziegfield's work to shame, with actors who would be headliners on a Keith circuit, and with song, dancing and fun making that is worthy of a Broadway playhouse, there's no doubt that North Side's vaudeville will be a success. Here's a little data that's worth remembering about it:

Date—Friday, January 20th—Leap year.

Time—7:30 p. m.

Place—North Side auditorium.

Sponsors—Senior class.

Price—Vaudeville $ .25; dance following $ .15.

General chairman—Frank Nicklas. Assistants—Melvin Koenig, Mary Erwin, Frances Cook, Clue Ferguson, Margaret Smenner, and Betty Moyer. With these popular wide-awake North Siders doing their best, everyone just knows it's bound to be good. So far students haven't fallen down on any thing (with all due respects to ice skating) and it's no time to begin now. Everyone is asked to together and make this first vaudeville of the new school one that will stand out in North Side's history. Freshies and Sophs and Juniors are reminded that their days will soon be here when they will be the dignified Seniors of their Alma Mater and regardless of dignity, will need the support and good will of those beneath them who will be aspiring to Seniorhood. So everyone is asked to show the Seniors what can be done and help them put over the vaudeville.

Miss Suter, Miss Cromer and debaters, Harriet Derck, Harold Cox, Miss Schwehn and girls, and Mr. Mathews have offered their assistance in producing a vaudeville.

Harold Cox, '31, cartoonist for the Northern, has made some clever posters for use in the halls.

Mr. Pennington and Miss Schwehn and class advisors are working to make the vaudeville a success.

HEAD ADVISOR NAMED FOR CLASSES

P. T. A. To Meet At Beginning of New Term

Mrs. Richard has announced that there would not be a meeting until the beginning of the new term, but the sponsors of the classes were named last week. They are: Mrs. Cook for freshmen, Mrs. Ervin for juniors, Mrs. Richard for sophomores, Mrs. Richard for freshmen.

There will be a dinner for the parents of the seniors some time next month. The next meeting will not be held for a month or so.

Many New Students Report For Work On Northerner

Extensive Subscription Campaign Is Planned for Publication for Second Semester.

Plans were near completed today for the publication of the Northern for next semester, however, no announcement of staff members will be made until the next edition of the paper, Mercedes Janet Hurst, advisor said yesterday. Next week's paper will be ready for distribution next Monday, according to the present plans. Lorena Fann, editor-in-chief said. The paper may go on sale at the Decatur game, but the main purpose of the publication is to give final announcements to students and new Freshmen at the opening of the second semester.

Many new staff members and several new features will be added to the paper for the second semester. Among the new recruits on the publication are Raymond Alter, Ed Ford, Paul Haberly, Bob Walsh, Norman Richards and Herb Vigran. Among the new features is the "Profile" column, which will give side lights on two or three students each week.

The campaign for subscriptions will be started next Monday for the second semester paper. A corps of diligent workers has been selected to put across the drive, among these people are Jane Korn, Katherine Zwick, Paul

N. S. SELECTED AS PLACE FOR TOURNEY MEET

First Contest Scheduled For March 2 and 3.

12 SCHOOLS VIE FOR PLACE IN REGIONAL

Definite Schedule To Be Announced Later.

North Side High School was selected by the board of control of the I. H. S. A. A. as the place for both the sectional tournament March 2-3 and for the regional tournament on March 10, Milton L. ## TRADITION

About every building in and out of which there is a flow of life, there must be built many phantoms, wraiths of the past, whose spirits walk the halls and whose presence fills the air. Especially in a school is there the constant memory and ever-increasing evidence of those who went before. It grows rich in the deeds of its alumni, and it treasures records of them. It is they who have made the school a human, throbbing, living thing instead of just—a building. These are tangible things, for they leave behind banners, cups, and medals that they have won; they leave in their papers and annuals records of things they have done; and they leave their names and pictures. The spirit that they have created seems almost a tangible thing, since it is passed directly from one class to another.

In a class by itself is the intangible tradition, a mere memory, now forgotten and again revived. As time goes on the memory grows more and more indistinct; things that were of priceless value to those who knew them grow unimportant as time goes on, and as years intervene are finally forgotten.

Should this be? Should anything about a school be relegated to a dusty attic, unprotected, where time will soon demolish it? I do not mean that it is always possible to save the thing itself, but surely it would be possible to immortalize it and keep tales of it alive through the years to come.

Even now the object of which I speak is a smashed and battered thing, broken by rough impacts and thoughtless ill-usage. Many careless feet have passed above it with never a thought that it, as such things often do, might outlive in their memory everything else about their school.

Some day when its cracked, uneven surface shall have given way to smooth, prosaic cement, will we not sometimes wish that we might walk on it again?

Our BOARDWALK! How can we preserve its tradition?

WHAT'S IN A NAME?

North Side is finishing its first semester of life; we are not young any more, for: Tradition has been made, new associations have been formed, old ones strengthened, precedents have been set, history has been made, and more is in the making!

In another semester the RED will present its first graduating class to Fort Wayne, and its ups to us how proud she will be of the first product issuing from her beautiful halls. Is one year long enough to instill in us that intense loyalty which would make our whole lives an effort to be worthy of our Alma Mater? One week would be long enough!

The hall has been started rolling and future years should see it travel with ever-increasing speed. We who are privileged to spend but one year at North Side may watch with pride, as Fort Wayne grows and the school capacity is filled, the army of students laboring under the scarlet banner. The Vanishing American will live again in the many students issuing from school under his picturesque name of Redskin! Life could give them nothing better than his keen love of nature and his unfailing knowledge of the meanings of her many moods. May he face life with all the Redman's courage and all his characteristic bravery in the face of death or worse than death.

No more glorious, no more unique, and no more mysterious figure stands in the pages of human history than the American Indian. His origin is unknown; when Columbus came he found him here. He found a man super-humanly brave, who would run the gauntlet or burn at the stake silent and unmoved, who would undergo fiendish torture for his idea of honor, crude as that idea was, and who was almost unbelievably pure in his personal life. He found physical perfection and matchless hardihood, a result of outdoor life and training in forest lore from infancy onward. When civilization drove the Redman relentlessly westward, he faced it and backed away, fighting with fierce, unquenchable spirit to the last, knowing the odds were against him. History has written this record indelibly over many a blood-stained page, believing it has closed its curtains forever upon the last acts of a dying race. But who knows? Perhaps one of them did not prophecy wrongly when he said, "The Redman's day will come again." They are a dauntless people, and may not be entirely counter out of the race until they are exterminated from the face of the earth.

Was a more fitting ideal ever picked for young men and young women just starting out on the pathway of life, with all the many means and ways of living to choose from?

May we, like those for whom we are named, meet the crises of life wordless but ready for action. May we always protect and cherish our high standard of honor. Above all, may our lives be clean. Even more now than then do we need a love and knowledge of nature, and the physical perfection that is the fore-runner of a healthy and active mind.

Again if we face life squarely and the chances are against us, may we continue to fight until we are conquered and even though we droop our heads may we keep them active for any chance that will help us to our feet again.

All that the Redskin was and all that must we be, otherwise we cannot with honor use his name.

Bob Walsh: "Pa, you remember you promised to give me $5 if I passed in school this year?"
Father: "Yes, Bob."
Bob: "Well, pa, you aren't going to have that expense."

Frances Cook: "If you tell a man anything it goes in one ear and out the other."

Paul Haberly: "If you tell a woman anything it goes in both ears and out the mouth."

A junk shop near a railroad crossing in Denver, Colo., carries a conspicuous sign with this hint to passing motorists: "Go ahead; don't wait for the train to pass; take a chance; we will buy what's left of your car."

Ray Alter: "Say, Herb, what was the name of the first broadcasting machine?"

Herb: "Atwater-Kent, wasn't it?"
Ray: "Nope—Eve."

Paul Haberly: "Speaking of movie actors, do you know Menjou?"
Helene Grummons: "Adolphe Menjou?"
Paul: "No, Menjou own business."

Bill Scheiman (on 'phone): "Hello, is Boo there?"
Frances Cook: "Boo who?"
Bill: "All right, little girl, you don't need to cry about it."

A Modern Paul Revere

Now listen my children and you shall hear
Of a famous speeder, named Paul Revere;
At Concord he hopped in his Ford machine,
Then bought five gallons of gasoline,
He stepped on the gas, and away he spun,
And in eighteen miles reached Lexington.
A speed cop held up a detaining band,
But Paul kept going to beat the band.
"The British are coming," he shouted back,
"They're chasing me in a Cadillac,
They've offered to trade and throw in an extra cord,
But there hasn't nobody ganno get my Ford."

ANNOUNCEMENTS

The Math-Science Club meeting has been changed from Jan. 19 to this evening, January 18, at 7:30.

North Side will play Auburn there Friday, the 20th of January. Decatur will play here January 21.

Mr. Northrop has announced that North Side is the first of the three high schools of the city to go over the record in helping the Chamber of Commerce in a housing survey which they have charge of. He stated that those who have signed up to help in this survey are to meet at North Side Thursday morning at 8:00 o'clock. Cars have been provided which will take the helpers to their respective districts.

Miss Reynard has announced that the conference hours in her office for next semester are third, sixth, seventh, eighth, and ninth. She also stated that Dr. Dancer will be here the first and second periods to examine the new students.

And How!

Now when it comes to the style of hats, Paris has to give way to North Side. Even Fifth Avenue or Michigan Boulevard can't boast a much greater variety of headgear than the Redskin school.

As for brilliant red tams, there's more and more of them: with four white feathers for seniors, three for juniors, two for sophomores and one for the Rhinies (bless 'em). Then there's small hats and big hats, and blue hats and black hats, but the style reaches its zenith with a foxy red derby. Just where did the color come from? It's typical Chinese red lacquer—Page Bill Borgmann.

PROFILES

The other day I was in a heated discussion on monkeys and the Darwin theory. That gave me the idea that some of you kids (pardon me, I mean students) might like to hear about all the great people we have at our swell school here. Some of these geniuses will some day be the world's greatest men and women. Who knows but what some day one of these studious, hard-working freshmen will be the greatest trained flea trainer the world has ever known. Or maybe you, if you are ambitious, can obtain the unrivaled title of king of the potato mashers. So, dear reader, I have undertaken the very, very very, very (that's enough) hard task of interviewing these famous personages and giving you personal glimpses of their lives, their habits and customs. But laying all seriousness aside, if you so-called pupils will work real hard for teacher, perhaps some day you will be interviewed by our paper too.

The other day, while walking down our spacious halls, someone ran up to me and said, "You might not believe it, but they built a skyscraper right in school." I ran around a corner in the hall and found that it was only John McMeen. You can imagine my disappointment. Here I thought I'd get a good story for the paper. Well, I can't say I lost out entirely. Here's the story I got.

I goes up to John and says, "Jack, can I interview you?"

He pipes back, "Who are you?"
I tells him. Then "What paper you with?" I tells him. So John cracks out, "Well, I'm not used to such small papers, but I'll oblige you."

Well, nobody can make dirty cracks about our paper, so I ups and says, "Don't do me no favors," but anyway John's already talking. Most of his blowing was big words. I couldn't understand, however I got this much.

"You'll find that I'm a very quiet, unassuming chap that don't say much. I don't do much either, besides my profession. Sometimes I take girls riding in my car. I figure if the girls are kind enough to ride with me I should be kind enough to ride them. We get along fine that way. My favorite pastime is blowing soap bubbles, however I do like to play ring-around-the-rosy sometimes. I shave once in a while. Aside from that I have no bad habits, except maybe to mix honey with my peas, but you see it makes them stay on my knife lots better. I ought to tell you, also, about my faults, but I haven't any faults, so I can't do that. Oh, yes, I should say that I'm somewhat of a singer. I just love those sad, sentimental ballads like "The Black Bottom," etc.

Just then a girl went down the hall and John went tearing after her. Thus a very charming interview came to an immature end.

L. OTTO SLUSH, Q. E. D.

Our next subject for interview today will be from our bevy of beautiful girls. I suppose everyone here knows Margaret Smenner. If you don't you will before I finish. Margaret is very pretty and has the keenest set of baby blue eyes you want to see. And that isn't all. She uses 'em.

I approached Margaret the other day and said, "Margaret, I hear you're the most popular girl in North Side." Well, she gets those lamps agitating and says, "Well, I hope to tell you I am."

Then I gave her the old line about wanting her picture and an interview. For reasons not yet made public her picture won't be printed (don't worry though, it's safe in my room), but the following shows what Margaret thinks of herself:

"When I get up in the morning I scrub my teeth with my own brand of tooth syrup. It isn't any good, but it tastes nice. Then I have my usual breakfast of flapjacks and pickles. They say if you like pickles you're in love. This is not the case with me, although I'll have to admit that I have a weakness for basketball men, especially those handsome brutes. (All of this in a very bashful tone.) After spending an exhaustive day at school I go home and work every evening. Sometimes on Saturday evening mother allows me to go out. Gee, but that thrills me.

UNUSUAL WORK DONE IN ENGLISH CLASS

I should think his opinion about airplanes would be interesting.

The good Quenn Bess comes next on my list; she is another particular friend of mine, although I do not altogether approve of everything she does. I hope she doesn't snub Paul.

I am only in hopes that Lincoln will accept my invitation; he may not approve of my other guests, but I'm sure, in the simplicity of his heart, he will see some good in all of them. I hope he remembers some of his clever stories. I don't believe I have made a mistake in asking Joan of Arc to be Abraham's dinner companion. These two have something in common. Each was a martyr to the countries they loved, for they both gave "the last full measure of devotion" to that country.

There are several people that I feel should have been invited, but I can't seem to overcome an old grudge which I hold against them. Two of these are Julius Caesar and Edmund Burke. I have never forgiven them for the trouble they caused me in my tender high school years.

As I thought I had better add a little liveliness to my party, I have asked Mr. Micawber and, as his dinner companion, Cleopatra.

I have no doubts about a lack of interesting conversation among my group of carefully selected guests. I want to say, though, that I will not be responsible for anything that happens at my dinner party.

South Side Takes Game From Central Quintet

Capacity Crowd Sees Kelly Klads Score 39-18 Victory Over Blue and White Tigers.

South Side marked up the second victory for themselves in the inter-city games by beating Central Monday night by a score of 39 to 18. The Kelly Klads, led by Bell, ran roughshod over the Tigers in their first game on the hardwood court for two years.

At seven-thirty a record crowd filled the gym. Every seat and every bit of standing room was taken. Many who were not able to get tickets stood in line waiting and hoping to pick up a ticket.

The Green and White had a good defense and the Tigers were only able to collect one field goal during the first period. The half ended 20-5 in favor of the Kelly Klads.

Central relied on long shots at the beginning of the game and were not able to break through the opponents for any short shots.

South Side played an even game and the scoring honors were evenly divided between Feustel, Baxter and Bell, each getting three field goals and a free throw.

Brockall was Central's high point man, sinking three field goals in the second half.

During the second half the Tigers tried to rally, but failed and South Side kept on adding up the points on which they were to ride to victory.

S. S. AND CENTRAL TO MEET STRONG TEAMS

Green Clashes With Shortridge Here Saturday.

After tears are shed, celebrations had and bets paid as a result of the Central-South Side game, the two quintets will resume action again at the end of the week, the "fightin'" Tigers taking on Libby high school at Toledo and Manual Training of Indianapolis, here. Central will go to Toledo Friday night where no doubt the Libby five will try to even scores with the Tigers as the Blue handed them a defeat last year by a good margin. Manual will be entertained here Saturday night. This team is a new foe of the Blue and the Tigers are anxious to get the edge on the capital five by winning this game.

South Side's only week-end game will be with another Indianapolis team here Saturday night, with Shortridge high school forming the opposition.

South Side Wins Pair of Games From Strong Five

Central Loses Games to Angola and Newcastle Last Week; Repeat Loss Suffered Last Year.

Although the Green and White of South Side high school emerged victor by four points in their game with Bluffton, the Wells county Tigers kept the Kelly Klads on their toes throughout the contest and not until the final gun was South Side assured of its victory.

The frequent deadlock of the score featured the game, the count being tied five times during the battle. At half-time the count stood, 16-16, but in the second half the Green went into the lead and although Bluffton continued to threaten their lead the Kellies came out with a 32-to-28 win in the end.

Bell and Van Ness were the high-point men in the southern school's eighth consecutive victory while Miner and Dickey were the defensive stars. The playing of Ellenberger, Crosbie and Swigert featured the Tigers' attack.

ANGOLA DROPPED BY GREEN

With Robert Mooney and Max Baxter hitting the net from all angles the South Side quintet defeated Angola Saturday night by a score of 44 to 31. It was the ninth consecutive victory for the Kellies.

South Side presented an air-tight defense, which Angola seldom penetrated with the result that the Purple-clad players were often forced to shoot from far out on the court. Miner and Dickey were the shining lights for the Kelly Klads on the defense.

After the first string men had run up a good lead, Coach Wellborn sent in his substitutes who performed almost equally as well as the varsity had.

SWIMMING PAGEANT TO BE GIVEN HERE

Girls From Three Schools Form Club.

"Neptune's Daugh'er", a swimming pageant, will be presented by the "Y" Aquatic Club, January 27 at the Y. W. C. A. pool. About 20 girls will take part. Miss Johnston of the Y. W. C. A. has charge of the pageant and is assisted by Miss Soderlund of Central, Miss Patterson of South Side and Miss Schwehn of North Side.

The Y. A. C. is composed of five girls and their instructor from each high school. The girls who are representing North Side at the present are Catherine Shrive and Mary Jane Scott. The club is for the purpose of giving the girls who are good swimmers a chance to work with other girls to improve their style, and also to learn new strokes and dives. The club meets every Wednesday.

North Side High School Meets Auburn and Decatur Quintets

Wabash Hill Climbers Take 33-31 Victory From Redskins in Close Game at N. S. Gym.

North Side will meet two stiff opponents on the hardwood this week-end when they clash with the Auburn quintet at Auburn on Friday night and with the Decatur Yellow Jackets on the local floor Saturday.

Auburn has been playing neighbor teams of North Side. She defeated Bluffton with a score of 23 to 22. The Auburn cagers lost to the Kendallville squad and won from Angola. Friday's game with Young's men marks the second battle between the Redskins and the Auburn crew; North Side lost to them on the gridiron earlier in the season.

Decatur always sends out a scrapping bunch of Yellow Jackets—they're a bunch that's out to fight. Decatur lost to both Central and South Side this season, but that doesn't mean they do not have a strong team.

A different lineup of Redskins will meet the Auburn and Decatur teams, Coach Billis said.

The Decatur game will be the first on the second basketball series. Tickets have been on sale for the past week, and will be on sale during the coming week, according to the plan worked out by Elvin S. Eyster, school treasurer. Mr. Eyster's report for the first semester showed that there were 832 students enrolled in high school, and 674 season tickets for basketball had been sold. Students are working to put over as successful a drive during the second semester.

The Redskins took the short end of the count last Friday night against Wabash. The game held the crowd's best attention throughout and was probably one of North Side's fastest games.

Marshall captained the North Side quintet and also collected four field goals and six out of eight charity tosses. Cornell starred for Wabash adding six field goals and three free throws.

North Side held the lead during the greater part of the game and lost out in the last four minutes. Just before the half ended Wabash made an unsuccessful rally but at the close of the first North Side led 22-10.

During the second half the Hill Climbers lived up to their name the hill being a large lead gained by gained by the Redskins. When the gun went off they were two points over the hill.

The Redskin reserves were defeated by Rock Creek, 21-17 in an interesting game.

The Irish resumed their winning streak against Convoys last Saturday night, winning a 26-to-13 victory over the Buckeyes.

The Irish had to play harder than the score would indicate as the Buckeyes had a five-man defense that was hard to penetrate.

Central held the lead all during the game, the Convoys quintet making their strongest bid for victory during the second half by bringing the score up to within one point of the Irish.

SOCIETY AND FEATURES

Many people are taking these few days of vacation between semesters to a great advantage. A great many social functions have been planned, outstanding of which is the Senior vaudeville, and dance which will be by far the most spectacular of all the school social events of the year. The vaudeville will furnish plenty of entertainment and laughs along with the fun at the dance.

Along with the school social events, outside affairs are making headway, and many lovely parties are being planned for the days of vacation.

GIRL RESERVE CLUBS TO BE COMBINED

Officers To Be Elected By Ballot in the Hall.

The Crimson-Y and Polar-Y clubs are to combine their membership next semester, stated Miss Huffman and Miss Auman, advisors of the two clubs.

Officers of the new organization will be elected by ballot, the vote placed in a box provided for that purpose in the hall. All members are urged to vote. A list of those who have been nominated is as follows:

President—Helen Ballou and St. Mae Woods.

Vice-President—Evelyn Dale Barstie and Helene Grummon.

Secretary—Frieda Winters and Mary Steiner.

Treasurer—Juquita Fredrick and Flossie Stuber.

Miss Nelson's French class had a vocabulary match last Friday in which Elsie Wetzel won first place and Mildred Eilers second after these two had stood alone for some time.

Miss Victoria Gross will delightfully entertain with a luncheon-bridge Saturday afternoon at her home on Kensington Boulevard.

Miss Mercedes Janet Hurst will entertain with a luncheon-bridge Wednesday afternoon at the Keenan Hotel.

Wade McCoy has returned to his studies at Indiana University after spending the week-end in this city.

The fifth program of the Walther League concert and lecture series was presented last evening, when Alma Peterson, prima donna soprano, appeared at Zion's Hall.

Miss Peterson is a well-known artist. She has sung with the Chicago Opera Company for five seasons. Since 1925 she has been with the Philadelphia Civic Opera.

Wherever she has sung people have enjoyed and praised her work. Her Fort Wayne audience unanimously agreed with the Chicago Music News in its statement calling Miss Peterson "a very queen in the exquisite finish of her singing."

PLAY TO BE STAGED IN FEBRUARY

Miss Marjorie Suter Directs Production.

CARL JACOBS TAKES PART OF TOUCHSTONE

Several Veteran Actors Appear in Cast.

"Cremity of Errors," a farce by Shakespeare, will be given by Student Players about the 14th of February. Carl Jacobs will again be seen in a prominent role. Harold Korn will again play the part of the lover, though not as much as Orlando in "As You Like It." Ralph Ehrman takes the part of a monk, very much unlike that of Oliver Garnett Carpenter, Frank Nicholas, and Herb Vigran are appearing for a second role in North Side.

Dr. Pinch, a schoolmaster, is wonderfully portrayed by John McMeen. The play is very amusing, one of the best comedies written by Shakespeare. It will probably be given in Shakespearean style under the direction of Miss Suter. The cast is:

Duke—Donald Elder
Antipholus of Syracuse—Norman Richard
Antipholus of Ephesus—Harold Korn
Dromion of Syracuse—Robert Kaule
Dromion of Ephesus—Carl Jacobs
Angelo—Herbert Vigran
Nurse—John Robinson
Dr. Pinch—John McMeen
A Monk—Ralph Ehrman
Algon—Frank Nicholas
Balthazar—John Robinson
Ardiana—Dorothy Bowman
Suriana—Marie Greer
Toshea—Garnet Carpenter
Stage Managers—Ralph Ehrman, John Robinson.

HOME EC. CLUBS HEAR LECTURE ON FOODS

John Miller Talks On Food Facts and Fancies.

Mr. John Miller, noted editor and lecturer, spoke to the Home Economic clubs from the three high schools, last Thursday, January 12, at the Central auditorium. Mr. Miller is from Chicago, and is a member of the Inter-Allied Food Council. Until recently he was editor of a well known food magazine. Mr. Miller spoke on "Food Facts and Fancies." He emphasized the importance of buying pure foods. He said "that national, state and city pure food laws protect the food to some extent, but there are degrees of purity, depending on the cleanliness of the factory, and the standards which the manufacturers set to follow. Some strive for the quality, but a majority for the profit."

He said there were almost three billion children under-nourished in the world. "Not because of lack of enough food, but because of not the proper kind of food."

Mr. Miller told many humorous stories. He related the tale of a man with a pain in his stomach, who was advised by his physician to laugh 20 minutes before each meal. This was to give him liver exercise. He carried out the order, and always sat and laughed twenty minutes before eating. One day while dining in a prominent restaurant he indulged in his usual exercise of laughing. A man at another table was so agitated over this behavior that he could not refrain from going over and asking what the matter was. The laughing man replied, "I am laughing for my liver."

Whereupon the other man said, "Well, if that is going to help getting the order, I might as well start in, too. I ordered liver twenty minutes ago, and it hasn't arrived yet."

He also said the economy is to buy the best. "The better grades go farther," he cited. He gave coffee and flour as an example.

The editor lectured them on the importance of noticing the brands of food also.

Harold Heaton, Wright Player At Majestic, Makes Many Friends

Actor Likes Good Music—Detests Jazz—It Gives Him Mental Indigestion.

"Come right in, if you'll pardon me being in shirt sleeves," was the cordial welcome given reporters who interviewed Harold Heaton at the Majestic theater.

Harold Heaton is the possessor of a rare and interesting personality. He is very precise and orderly as one can tell by his personal appearance, and he openly confessed that his belongings are all kept in separate boxes.

Anything colorful appeals to Mr. Heaton, his favorite colors being the primary ones; he hates drab, grey, browns and tans.

The father of Harold Heaton was a civil engineer, and, like most fathers, wanted his son to follow the same profession, but the son chose the stage as a career. His work he finds interesting, as evidenced by the fact that since the opening of the Wright Players here in September, he has not had one night off. His keen, calculating eyes and winning smile and his ability as an actor, have made for him many friends in Fort Wayne.

He is very fond of good music, but he hates jazz, saying that it gives him "mental indigestion". He did say that "Alexander's Ragtime Band" held a strong appeal for him. At the age of twelve he had mastered, by himself, Chopin, Beethoven, Brahms and the works of many other famous musicians. Even now when he is tired he finds that playing the piano rests him. He loves to read, but because of lack of time doesn't indulge in it much.

Most of his time has been spent in New York and he has many friends among the professionals.

He loves flowers.

He hates mediocrity.

His favorite pastry is custard pie.

He hates Chicago, and loves Detroit.

He hates disorder and even though he possesses lounging robes, slippers, etc., he seldom dons them.

Among the things noticed in his dressing room was a flask reposing on the radiator, and if the reporter had been a writer of fiction instead of prose news, she might have been tempted to be very curious as to why it was in so conspicuous place, but later her hidden curiosity was appeased when she found that he used it in "Gertie."

Mr. Heaton does not indulge in smoking—only when his part in the play requires it.

North Side High School, Fort Wayne, Indiana

HOWLING HOST GROUP TO BE ORGANIZED

"No Dates" Permitted in Bachelor's Section

NORTHROP RESERVES SEATS FOR ROOTERS

Practice To Be Held Wednesday At 3:15.

Every boy out for the Howling Host section! That's the plea from a group of North Side enthusiasts who maintain that the team has not been getting sufficient support from the Rooters' section. The students have been most loyal in supporting the squad and the athletic department, by buying tickets but the rooters have not been organized into a Rooters' section. Girls are all right but they haven't any business in a boys' Howling Host section, was the taunted report given by Norman Richards. Then he went on in a three minute rhapsody and stated that girls' voices were "high and squeaky" and although they were necessary at any athletic contest, it wasn't necessary to mix the soprano with the baritone.

Colleges have rooters' sections for fellows and that's what is wanted at North Side, and "no dates" will be permitted in the Howling Host section. Any fellow who brings along a girl to the game will feel unnecessary unless he parks his lady friend with the other co-eds, is the warning sent out by leaders of the Bachelor Baritones.

A section of the best seats in the gymnasium will be reserved for the group, which will hold a practice meeting tonight at 3:15 in the gymnasium. All the fellows who have been asked to join the group are urged to be at the rehearsal.

ELIGIBLE PUPILS FOR BOOSTERS ANNOUNCED

OTHER STUDENTS INVITED TO TRY FOR ASSOCIATION

Students Of 10-B Standing Are Eligible.

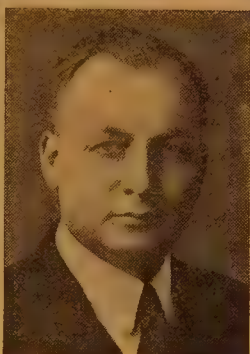

Nearly fifty North Side students earned 25 work points in the Booster Club for the first semester, Miss Julia Storr, advisor for the organization recently announced. These people are now eligible for membership in the club, she said. Other students who did not earn the 25 points for the first semester will be given another chance for work for the second semester. Any student in 10-B or any higher class is eligible for work points.

Following is a list of eligible students for membership at the present time:

TWO NEW TEACHERS ARE ADDED TO LIST

Teachers and Their Schools Are Listed.

Although claiming the Maize and Blue school as his Alma Mater, Mr. Northrop has attended Colorado University, Indiana University, and took post-graduate work at the University of Chicago. Before going to Central, Mr. Northrop was connected with the Kendallville (Indiana) High School. Mr. Northrop has proved his efficiency and true worth in the last semester. He is admired and liked by every student of North Side.

Dean Reynard is a graduate of Union City high school, and has attended Cornell and Indiana Universities. She was an active member of both schools. She was connected with the American Red Cross during the World War, and later did recreational work in the paper mills at Neenah, Wisconsin. ## TEN ACTS ON BILL FOR THE EVENING

Dance Is Given Later in North Side Gymnasium.

North Side's vaudeville, sponsored by the Senior class Friday night, was a great success. A large crowd witnessed the ten headlines on the program, and attended the dance later.

Featured on the vaudeville bill, was Miss Cromer's class at a banquet. "Eat, drink and be merry." Quite clever indeed were the speeches given by Ed Ford on "Wild Animals", and Louise Shreve, impersonating Miss Cromer. Herb Vigran acted as toastmaster. Helen Gebhart and Glorivina Young were quite good in the song "And How."

"Ship Ahoy" by the Girls' Gym class, Mathews Music Makers, Hans and Company were all good and won warranted applause from the audience.

Miss Suter's class went over big in the "Busy Bee Hat Shop and Such." Harold Cox, the high school cartoonist, was quite professional in his chalk talk.

Raymond Alter, '30, and Margaret Umbach, '28, will head the Northerner staff for next semester, was the announcement made from the publication office today. The business staff of the paper has not been definitely announced, Miss Hurst said, although the present subscription campaign has been organized under the direction of Ed Ford. The entire staff will be announced next week.

The subscription will begin next Monday morning and will last through the remainder of the week. Payment for the publication will be made at the time the subscription is taken. The cost of the Northerner is only 75 cents a semester. The goal for the subscription is 500. Thermometers will be placed on the bulletin boards to show the progress of the sale. Solicitors are not limited to home rooms to get subscriptions.

Four teams have been organized to carry on the work of the campaign. The captains and their teams and the home rooms in which each is to work are as follows:

FULL PROGRAM AT NORTH SIDE FOR 2ND TERM

Tournaments and Swimming Meet on List

CLUBS PLAN MANY REGULAR MEETINGS

Seven Basketball Games; Four Home Tilts.

With the opening of the second semester, North Side high school faces a full program of activities from the beginning of the semester until commencement in June various activities are scheduled. Although only one semester's work can be recorded, North Side clubs and organizations have made a great stride since the opening of school in September.

During the second semester North Side, with Central and South Side assisting, will have the sectional tournament on March 2 and 3, and the regional tournament on March 10.

The public speaking people are busy getting ready for various contests, among them the national oratorical contest. Student players and Seniors have plays to think about, while the publications people are hoping to put out a representative paper for the school.

Down in the Home Economics department, the girls will be quite busy "keeping house", since they had their four-room apartment furnished just a short time ago. Already they have had open house and entertained the faculty, parents and friends.

The athletic department quite naturally has a full schedule with Central January 27 here; Defiance February 4 here; Garrett February 11, there; Bluffton, February 17, there; South Lima, February 18, here; South Side, February 24, there; Angola, February 25, here. Not only with basketball, but spring sports, as well, will claim a lot of time for many of the athletes. Then there's the swimming meet on February 10, and the life saving classes, and a full program for the girls in the athletic department, which will probably terminate in some sort of gala day in the spring for the girls.

Clubs that have scheduled any meetings for certain dates with Dean Reynard are:

Art Club—2-4 Thursday each month.

Math Club — 1-3 Thursday each month.

Girl Reserves—Every Wednesday, 3:30.

Girl Scouts—Every Wednesday 3:27.

Home Economics 1-3 Monday each month.

Boosters' Club—every Tuesday.

Three Courses Are Offered To Students At North Side High

Choice of Classical, General and Commercial Courses Prepare Students For Various Field of Work.

Pupils entering North Side High School have a choice of three courses. The classical course, the general course, and the commercial course are offered.

Languages, mathematics, history, and science are the subjects emphasized in the classical course. It is mainly for pupils who intend to enter some profession. After completing this course with an average standing of "B" or more one can enter almost any college. Elective subjects should be chosen according to the requirements of the college the pupil wishes to attend.

The general course permits students to take part in the work they are most interested in. It is especially for people who intend to complete only a high school education, but it will prepare one for almost any college if electives that fill the requirements of the college are chosen.

Pupils who wish to prepare themselves for a business life should take the commercial course. Besides giving a general education it trains one thoroughly in office routine and practice.

Subjects required for the first year of high school are:

Classical Course:

Required: English, algebra, gymnasium.

Elective (two): Latin, French, German, Spanish, biology, manual training, domestic science.

General Course:

Required: English, arithmetic or algebra, gymnasium.

Elective (two): Latin, French, German, Spanish, biology, manual training, domestic science.

Commercial Course:

Required: English, arithmetic or algebra, gymnasium.

Elective (two): Biology, Latin, French, German, Spanish, manual training, domestic science.

Under ordinary conditions four subjects a term should be taken. Sixteen units or thirty-two credits are required for graduation. Subjects required are:

1. First, second, fourth year English.

2. Three years of history unless three years of mathematics, foreign language or science are elected, when only two years are required, including United States history.

3. One year of mathematics.

4. If a foreign language is elected, two years must be completed.

5. One year of science.

WELCOME, FRESHMEN!

Hello, Freshmen; North Side welcomes you! We don't know you yet, but we hope to soon. We watch with interest and with no little curiosity, too, to know what you will be. There will be athletes, journalists, debaters, actors, singers, artists in music and drawing, scholars, and class leaders. Which will you be? Which are you fitted to be?

You're at the beginning now, and it seems as though you have a lot of time, doesn't it? Don't be deceived. Time seems to stretch ahead for ages and ages, but we get busy, and all at once we wake up with the realization that somehow it has got behind us; it's gone and what a host of things it has left that we wish we had done, and even wish we might retrace our steps and do.

Shakespeare made Macbeth say: "Tomorrow and tomorrow, and tomorrow, Creeps in this petty pace from day to day—" Evidently time went slowly for him, seeming to creep. Yes, it seems to creep, and still,

"Time and tide wait for no man," especially time; and those, you must have found by now, are the truest words, a mortal ever uttered. There must have been many times in your life when you put something off and had to rush it through at the last minute, greatly inferior to the product you would have turned out had you not been pressed for time. It will be increasingly so as you advance into high school life.

Find something you are fitted to do and which appeals to you strongly and devote your extra time to it from your Freshman year onward. Be the early bird; get an early start and keep running all the time, for even if you get an early start someone else will pass you in the race if you shirk.

Those who "do things" about school will graduate one by one and there will be a constant and ever-increasing cry for more. As a matter of fact the need is always present, and your talent and your ability will be more welcome than you know.

Now is the time to start. Don't wait until someone else has half-way won the race and then start trying. You will break your heart crying for what "might have been" had you had an earlier start.

There have been many with ability and talent who waited until they were Juniors or Seniors to start doing something, and then found a perfect avalanche of things crashing down about their ears when they did start, things that should have been done long since.

The Red offers every field of activity the human heart could desire; choose yours now and have four happy and busy years in which to pursue it.

North Side wishes you all the luck and happiness on earth, and is quite sure you will earn and get it.

GIRLS' SPORTS

The girls have been working very hard recently in basketball in preparation for the interclass tournament. It is one of the big events of the year in girls' sports, which are seriously in need of more support from the girls as players, and the school as boosters. More the latter, however, than the former, for the girls have responded well, and each of the teams boasts many good players who should give the audience a little pleasant excitement. Miss Schwehn has worked hard, and believe her teams capable of playing with out-of-town teams if the school would boost such a movement. It would add something in interest and enthusiasm and would be a long step toward girls' sports in which North Side could have even more than the just pride that she now has. We have that pride, but do we manifest it? If boys would support girls' sports as enthusiastically as the girls do the boys, they would both go over in fine style, and the ferocious menace of the Redskins' war cry would have a new champion.

A certain young professor had a bad habit of betting. He bet his superiors, hired help, in fact, everyone.

One day he was called into the president's office and was told he would be given a chance, to teach in another college. He was given a letter of recommendation by the president. The letter told about his bad habit of betting and expressed his wish that his new employer might cure him.

Upon the young professor's arrival he went straightway to the president's office and bet him fifty dollars that he had a mole on his shoulder blade. The president, he had none, took off his shirt and proving it, thereupon taking the fifty dollars and warning him never to bet again.

Several hours later the president of the first college received a telegram which read, "Forward your two thousand. I made President Jones take his shirt off five minutes after I arrived."

Old Fort Wayne

The period in the history of Fort Wayne while the French were in control has often been called the "Golden Era of French Rule." The Indians were perfectly happy and satisfied, because the French mingled with them as equals and did not look down on them as an inferior people as did the English later on.

The first French fort was built on the right bank of the St. Marys river, just north of the present right-of-way of the Nickel Plate railroad. The exact date of its erection is unknown, the earliest record that has been found being in the year 1697. Jean Baptiste Bissot, Sieur de Vincennes was the first commandant of Post Miami, as the fort was called. As he greatly feared the English, who were struggling hard to gain a foothold in the rich Maumee valley, he conceived the unique plan of sending all the Miami Indians at Post Miami up to the St. Joseph river near the present site of South Bend, there to keep guard and to prevent English traders from moving southward. However, he died before carrying this out; besides, the Indians refused to move. There were about four hundred of them here at that time. They worked hard raising corn, but at the same time loved to dance and play. Numberless buffalo roamed about in the valleys of the Maumee and Wabash rivers furnishing easy game.

Many people regard the region near Vincennes as the oldest ground, historically, in Indiana. History disproves this fact, however. In the early part of the eighteenth century the boundary of the region called Louisiana extended north into Indiana about as far as the city of Terre Haute. Francois Margane, nephew of Commandant Brisot of Post Miami (Fort Wayne) after remaining here for some years, was transferred to Louisiana. Here in 1731 he founded a post at Vincennes. Post Miami had been built many years before.

While Dubussion, who succeeded Sieur de Vincennes was in charge of Post Miami, Nicolas, chief of the Wyandottes, started an uprising against the French. He sent the false report to the Miamis that Detroit had fallen and urged them to burn Post Miami. They did burn the fort, but spared the eight white men in it. Later, they repented this act and asked the French to forgive them.

The English were giving more and more trouble to the French. They sent gifts and arms to the Indians urging them to desert the French. They were successful, too, for the Miami's turned against the French and nearly all of them left Keklonga.

Dubussion was now called to Detroit and captain M. de Raimond sent to take his place. The French, hard pressed by the English, decided to announce the boundaries of their possessions. For this purpose Captain Pierre de Celeron with a small company of French and Indians travelled through this region burying lead plates on which were carved France's claim to the land.

When de Celeron reached Post Miami he found the fort in ruins. Eight miserable huts sheltered twenty-two Frenchmen, all of whom were sick with the fever. In spite of their wretched condition they were very much interested in drawing up plans for a new fort, and, though too weak to work long at a time, they completed the new fort in the spring of 1760. It was situated on the east bank of the St. Joseph river near the present St. Joe Boulevard and Delaware avenue. Here in recent years have been found reminders of this, the last of the French forts, including a copper medalion dated 1693, and a little curiously decorated.

Joseph Drouet de Richardville, drawn by the advantages of trade to be found here, has often been called

Profiles

Well, folks, here I am back again this week just as I promised. We're all ready to hold a post mortem on some other unfortunate person. Who shall it be this time? Somebody asked me if I was interviewing the big people in school, and when I said yes, they said, well, then, for heaven's sake go interview Lester Baughman. Immediately I hid me hence and whether I got it or not, you can see by reading further.

When I first came upon Lest (we mean less), he was all huddled up in his locker. He said he was playing hide-and-seek with Humpty Dumpty, but I didn't believe him. I finally persuaded him to come out and I broached the subject of how he liked his coffee, wet or dry? He cheerfully replied that dead men tell no tales, but I couldn't quite see the connection. I must be dense. No, no; you've got me wrong. Less was all right; he was just being playful. You'll find he's like that. I asked him to say something about himself and it went like this:

"When I was a mere child, that is, smaller than I am now, the rope that my mother led me by broke, and I fell in the snow. That's why I always have cold feet. When I get big, I mean after I start growing, I'd like to get a job splitting peas in a split pea factory. Santy told me this Christmas that might do that if I'd be a good boy. Since then I've been ever so good. But you'll have to excuse me now, Otto; I see Humpty coming down the hall and I'll have to get in my locker again. Thus I left him just as I had found him or, in other words, if Lester Baughman can't get into his locker a sardine can."

He weighed ten and a half pounds when he was born, but now weighs 200 pounds. He attributes his success to drinking Carnation milk, which comes from contented cows.

"Ah, ha!" she cried as I came up. "You will try to rush me. Well, I've been rushed too many times."

"Aw," I said, "I was only foolin'. I want you to gimme a slant on your life. All the ifsos, whyfores and whens, if not the how muches Oh, pardon me, I forget you don't know who this is. Perhaps you'd like to be introduced. Ah, er, ah, dear public, meet Margaret Berghoff. In case you freshmen don't know, Maggie is a senior and expects to be one for the next few years, or maybe I shouldn't have mentioned it. I also should explain that Maggie is sometimes jokingly referred to as a student. This, I think, is a slight error on the part of the faculty. Maggie is a lover of art, and the fine things of life and don't care who knows it. She says, "One of the things that I simply can't stand is a girl who is always making wise cracks and being a tomboy."

I (L. Otto Slush) heartily agree with this last statement, or, as you might say, "them's my ethics."

But to get down to business. I told Maggie that she had been stringing lines so long she ought to be able to string me a swell one. And did she? Myomo my Geegosh (with apologies to Ella Cinders). I had to write what she said so fast that the end of my pencil caught on fire and the sheet started burning. In the conflagration Maggie's hair caught afire and you can see how it's singed if she'll let you. You want to be careful though, 'cause since then she's been very hot headed. As I said, the first part of the paper burnt. I managed to salvage this much.

"And what's more, Mr. Slush, don't get fresh with me asking me if I like dates. I do indulge in a fig or nut now and then, but never dates. I'm just crazy about nuts. You see being one myself, I have to be. I like walnuts, butternuts, and the nut that holds auto wheels, not to mention North Siders. I want you to be sure and say that I'm the only girl in North Side whose feet aren't mates. You think that the left is bigger than the right, don't you? Well, that's wrong. The fact is that the right is smaller than the left. You know, like two and two make sixteen."

Oh, yea, I knew I knew that Maggie had water on the brain and it froze. Since then everything slips her mind. So I called a brain specialist and beat it. I don't mean I beat the brain doctor; I mean I went away.

Buy-buy, Maggie.

RED CROSS VALUES FORT WAYNE'S WORK

Miss Seaton Receives Letter From Sharkey, County.

That the work done by Junior Red Cross at North Side Red Cross at North Side High School and by other schools in the city was appreciated is shown in a letter recently received by Miss Seaton, who is in charge of the Junior Red Cross work in the Fort Wayne schools. The letter was written by Mary E. Bailey, executive secretary of the American Red Cross in Sharkey county, Mississippi.

Following is a copy of the letter:

My dear Miss Seaton:

I want to thank you and all the Fort Wayne's first permanent white settler.

Now came the great struggle between the French and English for supremacy in America. For years the British had been drawing the Indians by bribes. One Englishman, John Pothin, had been so bold as to actually enter Post Miami itself and urge the Indians to turn against the French. French troops passed along the Maumee on their way to join the armies in the east.

Finally the surrender of Detroit gave the English control of the Wabash-Maumee valley. The French could hold out no longer. In December, 1760, Post Miami was surrendered to Lieutenant Butler and the British flag raised over that important fort.

schools of Fort Wayne for their bountiful supply of toys and gifts to the children of Sharkey county. I can never tell you what a wonderful help your gifts were. The boxes arrived on every train, and very soon my warehouse was full. I received boxes from all over the United States, but fully 50% of all my toys came from Allen county, Fort Wayne, Indiana. I am asking if I cannot write this one letter to you and perhaps you can publish a part of it in your Junior Bulletin, expressing to all of the schools of Allen county my very deep appreciation of what they did. I must tell you just a little bit more about our gifts for I am sure you will be interested to hear it. I received boxes from Montana, Idaho, Washington state as well as from the north and east. People from all over the county came down to see the toys and it took ten trucks to carry them. There wasn't a needy boy or girl in Sharkey county who did not receive a bountiful supply of toys. You and your schools will never know the happiness that you brought to Sharkey county.

Won't you please, in some way express to the schools my sincere thanks and appreciation for what they did and let them know their gifts were appreciated more than they can ever know. The grown ups in the county appreciated them just as much as the children and they also feel very grateful for what you have done.

Again thanking you for the wonderful and marvelous gifts I am,

Most sincerely yours,
MARY E. BAILEY,
Executive Secretary.

Besides the list of games for the three schools in the regular schedule both sectional and regional tournaments will be held at North Side.

Buckeye Five Dropped in Fast Contest.

Displaying a brand of basketball far different from that shown in the S. S. Central game the "Fightin' Tigers" of Central High School sent Libby of Toledo down to its first defeat of the season 18 to 13 at Toledo last Friday night.

Central played superb all-around basketball and only once did the Ohio quintet hold the lead and then by a scant 1 point. Central, however, did not try to score unless an opening in their opponents' defense appeared and played safe throughout.

At a practice of the Senior, Junior and Sophomore class basketball teams held in the boys' gym Wednesday, an election of captains was held. Oral Delancy was chosen to head the Senior team, Esther Nobles the Juniors, while Catherine Zwick is to pilot the Sophomores. All of these girls were prominent in athletics at Central. Catherine headed the Freshmen team there, while Esther and Oral were both members of their class teams. The teams are ready to start a class tournament. After this class meets will be held with South Side and Central. The girls are swiftly rounding into good shape and are showing up well in practice session.

NORTH SIDE LOSES TO DECATUR

Yellow Jackets Take Game From Redskins by a Score of 57 to 16.

Stinging from defeats handed them by Central and South Side formerly in this season, the Yellow Jackets of Decatur came here Saturday night and gained some revenge for these losses by severely trouncing North Side, 57 to 16.

Soon after the start of the game the Adams county five began to bombard the net and it was not long before Decatur had established a comfortable lead and was still chalking up scores. Not only did the Yellow Jackets show good shooting eyes from the field but also chalked up 15 points from the foul line.

Bell, Annadell, Hill and Kuck divided scoring honors evenly for Decatur, while Gordon led in the scoring for North Side. The Redskins could do nothing against the strong offense and defense of the Yellow Jackets.

The Decatur five led at the half 24 to 7. Marshall missed many shots, his tries rolling around the loop and out many times during the contest.

McVey, showed up well at back-guard, stopping the Decatur attack time and again.

A large crowd turned out both from Decatur and Fort Wayne.

Reserves were defeated by Decatur Reserves, 42-10.

Referee Writes On Spectators Behavior Toward B. B. Officials

Article Appears in Publication by Central Booster Club; Declares Fans Are 'Cheating' in "Razzing" the Referee.

The following article, "A Spectator's Behavior Toward Athletic Officials," was written by Carl Olson for "The Fan," a publication put out by the Booster Club for the Central-South Side game.

Razzing an official in any athletic contest is the lowest form of vulgarity. It may be placed in the same category as cheating. You are asking the official to be dishonest. You are prejudiced to the extent that you want your team given an unfair advantage. Winning at any and all costs brings nothing but grief. Lawlessness is encouraged, the welfare of future generations is at stake. Be careful! Our boys and girls are usually anxious to do the right thing but their elders set a bad example, they are wont to follow. Is it to be wondered that their respect for law is lessened? Too many instances of crime in this country today tell the story.

A referee in a basket ball game is merely there to see that the rules and

CENTRAL VICTORIOUS OVER MANUAL HIGH

Tigers Rally in the Second Half to Win by a Count of 30 to 18.

The Central Tigers staged one of their famous rallies during the second half to win over Manual of Indianapolis last Saturday night. The first half was a close affair and Manual led 10-9 at the end of the half.

During the second half the Blue and White net men ran away from the visitors by virtue of their ability to hit the basket.

Dornie, Hammond and Franke starred for Central adding twenty-four points to the total. Burris and Whitaker were the high point men for Manual.

The contest was witnessed by a small crowd. The Central reserves were defeated in the preliminary game by a score of 34-20.

The H-Y Gym class has begun observing Thursday night as game and league night. Part of the time will be devoted to basketball and the rest of the time to volley ball. Last week after some strenuous basketball, "Ham" and Sullivan chose up volley ball teams. Sullivan's team won the first two games in volley ball but "Ham's" group won the second two games. Some of the fellows thought volley ball wasn't much of a game but hated to stop, once they got started.

regulations of the game are observed. The athletic authorities have chosen him for his fearless interpretation of the rules. His ability has been demonstrated on innumerable occasions, his sincerity and integrity are beyond reproach. Instead of being booed when he calls a foul on a player, he should be accorded silent approval by every one. A good, fast, clean game won on merits is worth more than one filled with brawls and bitter feelings. A square deal for the official avoids this.

It is the consensus of opinion among Athletic Directors and Coaches that more than ninety-nine per cent of all athletic officials are sincere and honest in all their decisions. That in itself is reason enough for according them all the support possible. Like all humans, these men often guess wrong, but the percentage is usually in their favor. For those spectators, who are more or less critical of all officials, a try at officiating would not be amiss. It would be interesting to get their reaction, if asked to repeat.

Help the referee. The coaches and players do it, so why not the parents and friends of the school? Make it your duty to boost. You will not lose.

Forget partiality. Be fair and may the better team win.

An athletic official's job is tough enough at its best. If you don't believe it, try it, and don't be surprised if your efforts have been in vain.

Our Board Walk

By George Patterson

Of course every student of North Side will understand what I mean by the board walk. It is that straight and narrow path which directly connects the transports of the Indiana Service Corporation with the halls of higher education. This stout structure has among its various properties the merits of indifference, by which I mean that it is absolutely immune to heat and cold alike. It suffers no after effects from tropical heat or wintry blasts, both of which are likely to work horrible and lasting destruction upon a cement one. Its marvelous drainage system, consisting of slopes and cracks renders it dry and healthful while the nearby soil reeks with the moisture of a recent rainfall. Who among you dare say that he has yet seen a cement sidewalk, which after the slightest rainfall is not a perfect series of lakes whose depth varies according to the volume of the shower? These pools are not very agreeable things to walk through. When a sidewalk of the cement variety develops a default, as they often do, it is necessary to remove a whole section, some sixteen to twenty square feet of cement, before the repairs can be made; while in our present case if it is only necessary to replace a board occasionally. It would be foolish to ask which of these methods would be the cheaper.

Wishing to cover thoroughly all phases of the subject I will next discuss the possible term of duration for a walk such as ours. It is a well known fact that wood, exposed to weathering, will after a period of years decompose. However, contrary to this bold declaration of science, some genius, whose name, although I have forgotten it may easily be found in the annals of "Sears and Roebuck," has discovered and perfected a marvelous preparation which may easily be applied, although originally intended for roofs, to any wood with the result that it will uphold nobly for many years. However, will miracles never cease? This same preparation, being intended for shingle roofs, is fireproof, so there is absolutely no danger that a few stray sparks from a neighboring chimney will convert our high road into a roaring inferno. Perhaps the most marvelous characteristic about this fluid is its price. It would seem that such a beneficiary solution would command an almost prohibitive price; but, evidently the inventor was at one time a poor man, and, realizing the evils of high prices, has set his own according to his conscience, or perhaps he is an active member of the fire fighting squad, and, wishing to lessen the labor and danger for those worthies, has set the price of his commodity accordingly; at any rate his prices are appallingly low. Surely the people, already burdened with taxes, would approve this cheap method, rather than the expensive cement work way.

Who would dare plow up the "Lovers' Lane" at West Point? Who would dare destroy the ancient halls of Oxford? The very face that they are original, there since the schools themselves, makes them dear to the hearts of the students. Apply the same policy here and you will easily see that every student of North Side should fiercely reject the removal of this old landmark. It is part of the original North Side high, the one you loved and attended; and, as Burke himself would say, by its removal "you impair the object." So, in conclusion, I wish to say that although "I do not choose to run in 1928" my hopes, my wishes, my efforts, and my votes will all be for the candidate who has a "board-plank" in his political platform.

Social events have come to a standstill during this in between season because most everyone is saving for the various drives that will take place during the coming week. Of course everyone is planning on buying a season basketball ticket and subscribing for the Northerner. With two drives, one can easily see that it is well worth while to do without a few parties so that we can enjoy the pleasure that these two luxuries will bring to us.

Kathryn Card, Wright Player, Not Charming Only As An Actress

Majestic Character Lady Has Strong Likes and Dislikes as Part of Her Makeup.

If it is possible, Kathryn Card is on time for all of her engagements. She has to be on time for her work. She thinks it not only essential for etiquette, but for success as well.

She is the wife of Fred Sullivan.

She likes the original, rather than the eccentric; but will wear what she pleases if she likes that special outfit.

She likes short skirts.

She loves to argue on any subject except religion; on that subject she says she never gets any place; she claims she does not have sufficient time to keep up on current books and economic and political topics of the day.

She loves plays and opera, and goes whenever she has a chance. During one season she saw seventy-five shows in New York City, but not one was musical. She is sorry she missed Rose Marie.

As her time is quite limited she frequently sports. She likes swimming and horseback riding, but doesn't care for golf. She likes to see any athletic contest except football, that seems too brutal.

Her early youth was passed in Montana and Washington.

She is deeply interested in color, whether it pertains to a room, clothing or dialogue. Her own conversation is brilliant and entertaining, as one might well expect, after seeing this person who has so completely won over her audience.

Children divert her greatly. She has a daughter and adores her. Ada is sixteen, and is a Junior at Central. She was named after an aunt.

In any work that interests her, Kathryn Card gives her whole self.

She is able to bring out any character she wishes, whether admirable, picturesque, exotic or lovable. She is impetuous.

She has a decided liking for diamonds, but doesn't care much for any other jewel, and alas! she has too few of the coveted stones!

She can't see any sense in an interview if a reporter isn't told the truth.

No certain flower is her favorite—she likes them all. She loves good music. In fact anything of an aesthetic nature appeals to her. If she had time, she would like lazy evenings around a glowing fireplace.

Soft shaded lights would be essential in her apartment. She enjoys her home.

She smokes Lucky Strikes and likes them. She has never endorsed cigarettes.

Her keen sense of humor is one of her most outstanding characteristics. She answers any question directly and without a pause.

She is fair, and holds fairness as one of her principal creeds.

Although very calm, she can make up her mind quickly and is determined to carry out her decision.

Kathryn Card—just as lovable as she always is on the stage.

She has genuine charm.

PLANS BEING COMPLETED FOR BIG MEET

Extra Attractions Are Added to Schedule.

SEVERAL STUDENTS SHOWING UP WELL

Awards To Be Made In Each Event.

Who's going to win the high school swimming meet? Will he be a sophomore? Will she be a junior? What class will carry off the honors?

This big question will be decided some time after 730 p. m. February 10 at the big swimming meet to be held in our own pool.

Much interest is being displayed and everyone who has entered is working hard. All the swimming classes are given over to preparation for the meet.

Besides the regular contest several extra attractions will be offered. The boys will play a game of water basketball, and the girls will play a game of water baseball. Both the girls and boys will entertain with several comic races.

"The dope favors Niles, Fisher, Sessler, Allen and Jacobs for the boy winners and Margaret Erwin, Helen Ballou, Catherine Shreve, Geraldine Beerman, Maxine Salzer, and Mary Jane Scott for the girls," Mr. Ivy said.

So far only fifteen boys have signed up, but many more are expected to do so next week.

Mr. Ivy, boys' swimming instructor, has set the deadline for entering the events at February 3. Many more students can enter the races. Awards will be made in each event. All students are urged to support the first swimming at North Side. All plans are being completed for the event.

Art Club Holds Last Meeting of Semester

The last meeting of the Art Club was held January 10, 1928. Miss Hall, art supervisor of the city schools, who has just returned from a trip abroad, gave a delightful talk using colored cards. Her discourse included description of cathedrals she saw in her travels. Mr. Mathews' orchestra furnished the music before the meeting. Miss Mary Elizabeth Bent gave many beautiful piano selections while the refreshments were being served. On February 13th another meeting will be held in room 311. Phillip Dodge and Harold Cox will be in charge. The meeting is to be "Cartoon Evening."

Important Northerner Staff Meeting

There will be a meeting of the staff Wednesday at 3:15 in room 110. This meeting is very important and Francis Cook, Henry Foster, Ed Ford and Margaret Umbach are requested to be there.

North Side High School Recommended For Commission

New School Rated Superior and Excellent by State Inspector; Classes and Equipment in Good Shape.

North Side High School has been rated superior or excellent by the state division of inspection and has been recommended for a commission since a recent inspection of the building, classes and equipment. That the examination of the building was most comprehensive is shown by the fact that every detail of high school work and equipment was covered under the heads of building and grounds, library and laboratories, records and reports, maps, pictures, buses and hawks.

Following is a report made by the inspector:

"The inspector had the pleasure of inspecting North Side high school and found very satisfactory conditions. This school plant is one that far surpasses the ordinary building standards and it has so many distinctive features that it will become a model for future buildings. It has been especially designed to fit in with the surroundings and with proper landscaping it will be recognized as a product of fine art. Not only does the building rank high artistically but it is very serviceable as well. The location of the rooms are such as to make them easily accessible with a minimum of travel. The building is of 'open type' construction so that an

STUDENT PLAYERS CLUB

Initiation services were held recently for the members of the Student Players Club.

PHYSICS CLASS TO GET NEW RADIO

Mr. Chambers Receives Code From France and England.

One of the outstanding features of interest at North Side is the radio outfit in Room 234. It consists in a complete outlay of apparatus that would delight the heart of any "radio fan."

There are a number of different kinds of radio sets in the laboratory. One of these, a short wave set, is used to get far stations. Mr. Chambers said that he has heard code from England and France with it, although he has not heard any music from there. At present he is building an eight-tube superheterodyne set, which will also be very strong. A third receiving set, called an A. C. or all-electric set, has to be attached to the electric lights in order to get different broadcasting stations.

Mr. Chambers hopes to have a broadcasting set soon, besides these splendid receiving sets. This will be a great addition to the school.

The room is equipped with many cupboards in which are stored extra radio parts, batteries, and physics apparatus of different kinds. Among the apparatus is a wet all "B" battery, which takes the place of two dry cell batteries. This kind is seldom used as it is more expensive than the ordinary ones. There is also an "A" battery with a charger attached to it here.

All this fine equipment should surely make the study of advanced physics interesting to students, including girls, a few of whom are in the classes.

Student Players of North High Eat Sandwiches At Initiation

Miss Suter Has Organized Three Drama Classes to Be Given at North Side High School.

O-o-o-h, what a taste! Gee, that's hot. My tongue's about to burn up. What are they feeding us, anyway? Do I have to eat the whole sandwich? Ouch! Geeminy, it's got holes in it. I'll see you later—outside.

No, it's only the Student Players' Initiation. Lard onehalf inch thick between slices of bread, then a little soap to eat, and then a gentle application of the lost art (padding), well calculated to make anybody eat off the mantle for a time. Some of them still are, and it happened last Thursday, January 19, too.

The new style of sandwich has not proved very popular, however. (Perhaps it's because they can't be toasted.) (A plaintive sigh is distinctly heard from some one. We think they had to eat one, untoasted.)

It was a unique initiation; very pleasant for those who participated. (As initiators, I mean.)

Miss Suter has organized three drama classes, which Student Players must join. They have previously been admitted on plays in which they have acted.

The Players have given "Neighbors" and "The Clock Shop," both of which were enjoyed immensely, despite the imagination required to set the stage, which was of almost Shakespearean in its simplicity.

"The Comedy of Errors" is to be given soon, as well as a play which has not yet been chosen.

Miss Suter has not yet announced the drama which is to be given as the Senior play.

The Student Players' Club was or-

HOUSE SURVEY IS TAKEN WEDNESDAY

North Side First to Complete Its Assignment.

In spite of the rain and cold of last Thursday North Side went over 100 per cent in the Chamber of Commerce housing survey. Only four districts were left and these because of the muddy condition of the streets. On Wednesday morning in near zero weather thirty-five students went out and finished work on these districts. North Side had the honor of being the first school to respond to the request made by the Chamber of Commerce, and was also the first to complete the survey of their territory.

The purpose of the drive was to give an active idea of the housing situation in the city, and to get a definite statement as to living conditions in the city.

Householders throughout Fort Wayne were informed through the local papers of the survey. The Chamber of Commerce was well pleased with the loyal response of the North Side officials. Those who went out on the survey will be rewarded with a half holiday some balmy spring day. Mr. Northrop, principal of North Side, said.

FRESHMEN GIVE PLAY ON TARDINESS

Numerous Excuses Are Given By Actors.

Place—office.
Time—A few minutes after the sixth period bell has rung.

Actors—Miss Smith and a number of students.

Enter a drove of Freshmen who stand like sheep driven to slaughter waiting for the neglected attention of Miss Smith. The latter finally lays down her pen, stares at the sea of faces and says "Well."

In unison, as if they had spent many hours of rehearsing, they cried out emphatically, "We're late!"

Miss Smith, in time, brought out a new book of the coveted admit slips and handed out the admit slips after hearing tales of woe such as: "I couldn't get my locker open," "I couldn't get my locker shut," "I lost my locker slip and Mary here forgot the combination of hers," "I got lost," "I couldn't find my Latin book," "I got to my seat and was just going to set down when the bell rung. The teacher said I'd have to get one of them slips," "I went up town to lunch and the street car was late."

The bombardment of bad English ceased. The actors and actresses made their exit. The "curtain" was lowered. Miss Smith sighed, put away the pad of admit slips, picked up her pen and went to work.

ECONOMIC DEPT. MAKES BUDGET

Engel's Law Used As Basis for Budget.

The students of the Economics classes of North Side High School were recently asked to prepare budgets for families of four having incomes of $1,500, $3,000 and $10,000, respectively. A committee of three, one from each class, then selected from these budgets the extreme and the average figures. Engel's law of family expenditure was the basis on which the budgets were computed. After many years of investigation among Saxon families Dr. Engel found the following to be true:

As the income of a family increases, (1) The percentage of expenditure for food decreases; (2) The percentage of expenditure for clothing remains approximately the same; (3) The percentage of expenditure for education, health, recreation, etc., increases.

As might be expected in a group of budgets from over fifty people, fifty incomes were distributed among the various items in widely differing amounts. It is especially interesting to notice the sums listed in the savings column. With a $3,000 income one person laid $1,100 by for a rainy day, while another saved nothing at all. The amounts saved out of $10,000 showed still more difference, varying from $50 to $6,925. The budgets showed, too, that some people are more in favor of education than others. The amount spent for education out of a $10,000 income varied from $60 to $3,000. The two extremes in the recreation column for $10,000 were $75 and $2,000.

It is the general belief that girls spend more for clothes than boys do. However, the budgets of the boys and girls showed very little difference with regard to clothing. It was also definitely proved that boys like to eat better than girls do, as their average was the higher of the two. While the boys allotted a trifle more for recreation, the girls stressed education more, on an average.

Everyone has heard of the inequality of the distribution of wealth. The budget showed both the cause and the effect of such inequality. Some people think of recreation and pleasure as being so much more important than others consider them, that this in part accounts for an unequal distribution of wealth. Habits created by the inequality would affect the budgets, too, since those used to luxury would think it impossible to live on a small amount, while those used to living more moderately would have greater savings.

NORTHROP TALKS AT CENTRAL HI

Dad Goes Back For Pep Session Friday.

Last Friday Mr. Northrop spoke at Central's pep session. He stressed the necessity of sportsmanship. Sportsmanship has been Central's main characteristic for many years. Central's slogan, "Fighting Central," was developed several years ago when Central was losing all of her games. "It is up to you students to keep up that slogan and Central's spirit," said Mr. Northrop.

Ed Ford, '28, Given Major Position On Northerner Staff

Staff Members Make Pledges to School for Second Semester; Great Amount of Work Is Planned.

With the announcement that Ed Ford, '28, will head the business staff of the Northerner for the second semester, the major staff of the publication is completed. Raymond Alter, '30, and Margaret Umbach, '28, will handle all the editorial work of the paper. Frances Cook, '28, will again be woman's editor and Henry Foster, Jr., will retain his position as sports editor.

A great amount of work has been planned by the new staff which has pledged itself to make the Northerner a better school paper. It has also pledged more news, better news, better features and real service to the school. "What we hope to do is to get the paper out every Wednesday on time," is the opinion expressed by Ed Ford and Raymond Alter.

Students can assist in punctuality if they take the responsibility of getting in material for the student publication on time. The deadline for all material is Monday at 10 o'clock.

The members of the staff have been urging every student to sign up for

DEBATERS ADMITTED TO NATIONAL LEAGUE

North Side Is Fifth In State To Get Charter.

CREDIT POINTS ARE NEEDED OR CHARTER

Chapters in Thirty-One Different States.

North Side has been granted a charter in the National Forensic League, which is a high school honor society for debaters. The purpose of the National Forensic League is to promote the interests of interscholastic debate, oratory, and public speaking by encouraging a spirit of fellowship and by conferring upon deserving candidates a worthy badge of distinction.

The North Side chapter is No. 218. This means that there are 218 schools in the United States that are members of this organization. These schools are distributed among 31 different states. North Side is the fifth school in Indiana and first in Fort Wayne to receive this honor.

This organization has a system of credit points to be earned in different public speaking contests. A school must earn at least 100 of these before it can petition for a chapter. As a result of our successful season this fall we were able to make more than the required credits, and thus qualified, although the league has never before granted a petition to so young a school.

Before long you will see our debaters strutting down the halls showing everyone their emblems which are in the form of a key. In college a key means an honor society; it means the same in high school. In order to wear a key the debater not only has to be good in debating but must be in the upper two-thirds of his class in scholarship.

It is a great honor to get into so great a league and it took much work and midnight oil on the parts of both Miss Cromer and her team, so let's take our hats off to them all.

MATH AND SCIENCE CLUB HOLDS MEET

Mr. Chambers and Paul Somers Speak to Members.

The Math-Science Club held its monthly meeting last Wednesday night. There were some new members in attendance.

Talks were given by Mr. Chambers and Paul Somers. The former demonstrated the Neon lighting system and our eminent debater gave a talk on Archimedes.

Games were played and refreshments were served later in the evening.

THE LIBRARY

Few of us realize what a really great institution a library is. From its shelves we obtain not only the stories of romance, adventure and travel, but also invaluable assistance in making our studies more easily understood.

Abraham Lincoln often walked miles to borrow a single book that he might improve his education in the short evening hours after a day's hard work. How much more fortunate are we. Books dealing with every subject we might wish to learn more about have been collected and placed right in our school building.

It has been prophesied that some day scientists will invent a method for turning time backward and people can see events and nations that have long since passed off the earth. We do not need to wait for this remarkable invention to take place. From our own library we can look back through the ages to the very beginning of history.

We are told that through travel one's education is broadened. We cannot all travel as we long to, but we can learn to visit far countries with famous authors. Travelling in imagination is the next best thing to travelling in reality.

Since we can derive so many benefits from our library it ought to be our favorite "stopping place." Those who have just entered North Side will be thankful later on if they form the habit of using their library privileges now.

SUPREME SPORTSMANSHIP

Since I have been a follower of high school sports, I have seen a great many commendable displays of sportsmanship, but never, I believe, any to equal that which I saw Friday night, January 27.

I saw a team accustomed to victory go down in defeat in one of the fastest, hardest-fought games that I ever saw. Foul after foul was made in their over-anxiety to stop their certain loss. As time went on and hope ran lower, not one word of razzing was audible in one of the most disappointed crowds that ever watched a high school basketball game.

It was SPORTSMANSHIP to the nth degree; a sight so inspiring, so wonderful, and so unusual, that it calls for unstinted notice and praise from everyone who saw it. It adds immeasurably to the glory of old CENTRAL'S name, and commands all our respect and admiration.

PAN-FORT WAYNE-ISM

The Pan-American Congress is now convening at Havana, Cuba. Its purpose, as expressed in President Coolidge's speech is to create a feeling of friendship among the Americas because they have so many common interests.

The three Fort Wayne high schools also have many interests in common. They all exist for the same purpose, to afford girls and boys of Fort Wayne a source of education, and help them become better citizens of the United States. Since this is true they should show nothing but good will toward each other. They are really but one group of people in separate buildings only for the sake of greater convenience.

Ought we not carry out a sort of Pan-Fort Wayne-ism?

North Side's second semester of school is well on its way, having had a start remarkably free from confusion. Because of the fact that the student body is not so large as to necessitate many of the various classes Mr. Northrop deserves special credit for arranging the classes so that pupils could continue in the studies they wished with very few, if any, conflicts.

Another factor lessening confusion was the "Big Sister movement." The girls entering North Side for the first time were assured of having some one to help them adjust themselves to this new era of their school life.

We wonder if there are all girls at North Side and no boys so we judged by the splendid backing the team has from the rooters. Come on, fellows, let's show them that we're behind them even if we can't talk for the next few days.

Everybody has been told that they don't know everything at one time or another and most of us have let it pass. Let's make use of others knowledge and suggestions and see if they won't fit in some place.

Profiles

Who's the most patriotic guy in N. S. H. S.? Who's the guy that advertises his school? Who's the guy that's so wild about his school that he even wears its colors? I'm asking ya' who's the guy? You know the North Side colors, White and Red? Well, this guy's white all right, (that is, of course, when he washes). And is he red? Well, I should hope to snicker. He's a Redskin from the bottom of his head to the top of his feet. In fact he is Hiawatha himself. I know, because I saw him spread out his coat in a puddle for Louise Shreve to step on. And you know Hiawatha did that, or maybe it was Miles Rief, I mean Miles Standish, anyhow it was a Redskin. This boy Red, what I'm speakin' of isn't very big, weighs about 2,000 pounds in the shade by the Centigrade scale, and has a set of brains he uses now and then. He says he uses them so they won't get rusty, but just look at his head. Anyhow, his head isn't ivory cause ivory don't rust. I'm going to quote a passage here from this Indian, by the way I suppose you have guessed that it's Clayton Duntun. If you haven't guessed it is anyhow, "All my life people have called me "Red." I wish that my hair was lavender or polpe or some pretty name.

"Ah, those eyes. Oh, those f's. The eyes are emphasized." This very condemning statement was made recently concerning a North Sider. Who was the North Sider? Oh, now you said something. Yes, that's right, you guessed it.

What flavors cake? Why, I think it was raspberry, but I'm not certain, maybe you had better ask her. Oh, yes, speaking of that substance. Two years ago she robbed a house and took everything but the soap. The dirty crook! But one thing that I want to say about Frances, for that's who it is—Frances Cook—is that she is very refined, Oh, so refined. I just wish you'd notice, some time, how gracefully she chews her gum. She has has a technique that only a Cook could have. Now, don't mistake me. I mean our Frances, not the lady that cooks the grub in the cafeteria. But what has she got to say for herself? Oh, yes, she says this:

One of my pet hobbies is going with boys that have a lot of money to spend. Why, Mr. Slush, do you know that I have already went with boys who get so much as 10 cents a week, or maybe that's a month. I'm not sure.

Speaking of Underground Railways, I don't think there are many people in Fort Wayne that know the U. G. R. R. used to run under Fort Wayne. Aren't we lucky that it didn't cave in? Why, just think we couldn't have had this charming interview. It really was a pleasure, Otto (may I call you Otto?) But I'll have to go now. Bob is waiting for me. I'll be seelin' ya."

(Editor's note: I'll say the same thing about next week—I'll be seelin' ya!)

Yours Incessantly,

The Preservation of Historic Fort Wayne

History! The word itself brings to one's mind adventure, romance, deeds of courage, costumes and customs of years gone by. People in all ages have been interested in the deeds and habits of their ancestors. The sagas of the Norsemen, the tribal traditions of the Indians, the tales of chivalry of all European nations, the stories of our own colonial history, all show this. These are taught to children as soon as they can understand spoken words and are retold and reread until they come to be cherished by them as some great property to be held dear all through life. Great authors recognize the fascination of history. Shakespeare, Longfellow, Sir Walter Scott, all of them drew upon it.

Not all people enjoy reading about history, but even if they do not, they do find interest in the material relics left by past generations. Few people are so modern as to be bored in a historical museum. Cities all over the world spend great sums of money to preserve relics of their forefathers in large museums, and to show citizens and strangers the exact spots where important, history-making acts were carried out. Ought Fort Wayne not to do this, too? It certainly ought if it has been the scene of a famous historic event and if it can be shown that such action would be advantageous to the city.

Fort Wayne need envy no other city its historic importance. A review of its past shows beyond doubt that it has been the scene of countless important events. The earliest records show it to have been a strategic point. Rivers were the chief lines of traffic to the Indians. Fort Wayne, boasting of three, proved to be a great "Gateway to the West." It was the site of one of the strongest Indian settlements in the middle west. The French, who were the first white men to paddle up the waters of the Maumee, instantly realized the value of this place where the three rivers met as a trading post. They sought the friendship of the Miami Indians here. They built a fort, established a great fur trade, and lived happily for a time. Their success drew the attention of the British to the spot and a long and bitter struggle for its ownership followed. Finally the French, having exerted their utmost strength and failed, reluctantly surrendered to the Redcoats. The English, too, found it a valuable fur-trading post. After the thirteen colonies had become independent, England still claimed some posts in the west, but in time the American flag was raised over Fort Wayne. Washington himself, though working at the great task of making the new government succeed, recognized that Fort Wayne was an important spot for the Americans to hold.

Since all these events happened here, many relics have been found and there are points of historic interest, not only to its citizens, but to all Americans. It would certainly be advantageous to preserve these relics and to place permanent markers on the spots where the city's future was determined.

If it were done the city's popularity with visitors would be increased. Besides seeing Fort Wayne's present prosperity they could learn its past importance. The most convincing argument for such a step is not, however, that it would increase the interest of outsiders in Fort Wayne, but that it would add to the general culture of the citizens themselves. It is a well-known fact that children can be taught much more easily by showing them things than by merely reading or telling about them. If they can associate the things they learn from books with the relics they see in the museum and the monuments with their messages of past achievement the lesson will be much more apt to make a lasting impression on them. Grownups, too, will profit. Seeing a marker set up, curiosity will urge them to examine it and discover its purpose. Thus they will learn what they would never bother to gain from books. Their knowledge of Fort Wayne's history and incidentally of American history will be greatly increased.

Cautious and economical men might bring forth the argument that people are not interested in the city's history, and trying to get them interested by maintaining a museum and setting up markers would merely be a waste of money. An investigation of the past attitude of people shows this view to be untrue. For several years the Y. W. C. A. has sponsored historical tours of the city, lead by Bert Griswold, when that beloved historian was still among us, and later by other men who had studied Fort Wayne's past. Each time a large crowd took advantage of these trips and greatly enjoyed the fascinating tales associated with the numerous historic spots. If more such points were marked, people could find them themselves and derive even greater benefit than by visiting them only once.

Anyone who has travelled through the eastern states or into Europe knows well that the points that draw a great many people are the places where history has been made. No one would think of leaving Philadelphia without visiting Independence Hall, Betsey Ross' home, and the other places that meant so much in colonial history. The various battlegrounds of the Revolutionary and Civil wars are yearly visited by great numbers of people. Places in Fort Wayne meant just as much to the history of the middle west, and people would be just as interested in visiting them if they knew where they were.

Surely the place over which Indians, French, British, and Americans fought so fiercely has great historic importance. Surely Fort Wayne is interested in increasing its popularity with visitors and even more so in broadening the general culture of its citizens. Making greater efforts to preserve its historical relics and permanently marking places of historical interest would accomplish this. The people have shown that they are really interested in, and would benefit by such a step, therefore it is up to the city to carry it out.

Nine Students Are Eligible for Office

The first meeting of the Booster Club for this semester was held last week. It was held mainly for the purpose of becoming organized and all who earned 25 or more points last semester are eligible to join. The following have forty-five or more points and are qualified to hold an office: Maurice Cook, Edward Ford, Ward Hall, Jane Korn, John Wilding, Maxine Salzer, Catherine Miller, Louise Shreve, and Mary Grimme.

All members present at the meeting were requested to join one of the three groups: Ways and means, program and general.

Miss Storr, the faculty advisor of the Booster Club, and the members deserve a great deal of credit for their helpfulness to all groups who are working for the interest of North Side, for selling at the games, helping arrange assemblies, pep meetings, and other things which they do for the benefit of the school.

Kelly Klads Chalk Up
Another Victory Saturday

Central Loses in Hard Game to Bluffton Quintet by Score of 34 to 32; Game Is Fast and Furious.

The Kelly Klads chalked up another victory and Shortridge High of Indianapolis received a defeat. The South Sides were slow in getting started but the offensive work of Baxter enabled them to win the game on the upper game of a 51 to 32 score.

The rangy Shortridge snipers started with a rush and had garnered eight points before the Kelly Klads connected. The remaining time the teams fought on even terms but South Side gradually pulled to the fore. The half ended 22 to 16.

From the beginning of the second half there was no doubt as to whom the victors were going to be. The South Side sharp shooters led by Baxter started bombarding the basket with a volley of shots most of which swished through the net.

South Side presented a smooth passing attack that completely baffled the capitol cagers. The Kelly Klad defense tightened in the second half which necessitated long range shooting by the down staters.

Baxter of South Side was high point man with 16 counters. Orr of Shortridge was high man for his team with 15 counters.

Central staged two desperate rallies against Bluffton last Saturday night at North Side, but the wide lead gained by the visitors was large enough to offset these rallies and the locals were forced to drop another close game. The final score was 34-32.

A slow start at the beginning of each period proved disastrous to the Tigers. Bluffton grabbed an eight-point margin in the first half that the Tigers finally overcame and the visitors took a 10-point lead in the second half which was just a little too strong for Central.

Inaccuracy at the foul line proved costly to Central, the Tigers making only two out of ten while Bluffton registered eight out of eleven.

Central then started its second great rally which cut the advantage to two points. From this time until the end of the game it was a merry battle.

Bluffton had a great offensive team and worked the ball down the floor with lightning like speed. Its defense also was a stumbling block for the Tigers during part of the game.

Red and White Five Downs Tigers in Spectacular Battle Before Crowd of Frenzied Fans.

We won! We won!
We won! By golly we won!
That first home victory!

Staging a great battle against great odds, North Side proved still to be in the running for the city title by defeating Central, 37 to 31 last Friday night. This game will go down as the first home athletic contest won in the history of the Redskin school.

Franke's field goal and Hammond's free throw gave Central an early lead but Penrod's and Gordon's baskets put the Red and White team in the lead. From this time on the game was nip and tuck until the final minutes of the first half when North Side ran up a lead of 16 to 23 at rest time.

Shortly after the start the Blue started a rally at which Central fans took heart again but the Red snipers again began to find the basket with tosses from far and near and North Side continued to have things its own way until the game ended.

The rejuvenated Redskin lineup looked 100% better in this game than in previous appearances on the hardwood. Every player was hitting the net from all angles and the Redskin passing and floor work was exceptionally good. Whenever a safe lead was established during the contest the Redmen would employ a clever passing game to hold this margin. Every Redskin broke into the scoring column with the exception of Christie.

Only two of North Side's field goals were made from under the basket, the rest being long sensational shots that came swishing through the net from all angles. Central's guarding, however, was good, although it was impossible to stop the Redskin's attack. The manner in which the Redskins played against the Blue was absolutely unbeatable and almost the best of teams could not have halted the Redskin's powerful drive. This win puts North Side on a par with Central, each having won one and lost two in the inter-city games.

Central's reserves staged a last minute rally to defeat the North Side reserves 18 to 17. With the Redskins leading throughout, the Tiger cubs caged two goals from the field in the final minute of play to win a thrilling contest.

CENTRAL CATHOLIC
DOWNS INDIANAPOLIS

Double Overtime Necessary to Break Tie.

The Central Catholic five nipped the Cathedral high of Indianapolis by a score of 35 to 34 in a double overtime game.

The game was a fast one on both sides, the lead going from one team to the other. C. C. kept the lead until the last ten minutes when the Indianapolis team got their eyes on the basket and was able to hit it.

The Cathedral team found the basket seven times the rest of their points being made from the foul line. At the beginning of the game it looked like an easy one for the Central Catholic.

C. C. came back at the half with another rally but it was soon checked by their opponents. In the last four minutes the Indianapolis team was in the lead but the Irish got a field goal and a foul shot tying the score 29-all.

In the overtime periods they hit the basket regularly. When the final minute was played the score ended 35 to 34, favoring the local Irish.

SOCIETY AND FEATURES

Hello!

Well, how does everyone feel now? Yes, you, too, "freshies"! Well, that's fine! Everything seems to be all set again. Everybody's happy—and how!

Have you seen these new freshman girls? Maybe, I should have said, "How can you help but see them?" At any rate you'll have to admit they have school spirit in doling up in war paint and looking much like the Indian himself—Hey! Hey! But the worst feature of the episode is, they insist on falling for these good-for-nothing Senior sheiks—and that's bad!

Perhaps we should have said something of the freshmen fellows, but we felt that would be unfair, as we prefer picking on people our own size.

Such is the life of a freshman!
So, Toodle-de-o.

Miss Esther Cromwell spent the week end in Dayton, Ohio, as guest of relatives.

Miss Jane Emrick recently entertained a delightful informal party at her home on St. Joe Boulevard. The guests were the Misses Charlotte Eberbach, Nancy McKay, Phyllis Lines, Mary Margaret Vesey, Dorothy McComb, Mary Jane Scott, Marjorie Schrock, and the hostess.

Defiance, O., to Meet N. S. on Home Court.

Next Saturday, February 4, North Side will entertain Defiance, Ohio, high school in their only tilt for the week. Little is known pertaining to the strength of the Buckeyes, but it is evident that the Ohio five will provide much action for the Redskins.

Central will parley with Auburn at Auburn on the same night. The auto city has passed thus far through a fairly successful season and a good game is assured. The Tigers have always managed to defeat Auburn in net fracas in the past and hope to repeat this year.

South Side will take to the road this week-end, meeting Wiley at Terre Haute on Friday and Crawfordsville on Saturday. Both of these teams are new foes to the Kelly Klads and South Side is anxious to continue their string of victories.

HI-Y HOLDS ITS WEEKLY MEETING

Mr. Brunson Given Bag by Hi-Y Clubs.

The Hi-Y Clubs held their regular weekly meeting at the Y. M. C. A. Thursday evening. Charles Weyrick, president of the North Side Hi-Y, was chairman of the program. Mr. O. M. Brunson gave the principal talk of the evening. His subject was "The First Hi-Y Clubs in Fort Wayne." Mr. Brunson was the founder of the Hi-Y Clubs of Fort Wayne. Later in the evening Mr. Croninger, principal at Central High, presented to Mr. Brunson a bag as a gift from the Hi-Y boys of the city. Mr. Brunson is leaving the city soon and is going to take up work at Indianapolis.

THOMAS TALKS AT PEP SESSION

Ed Ford Also Shows Oratorical Ability.

At the pep session held preceding the Central-North Side game everyone became very enthusiastic about Mr. Thomas' talk on "Sportsmanship." In this address he emphasized loyalty to school and athletics. He also stated that in our loyalty to our school we should not allow ourselves to "razz" as that admits a defeat.

Ed Ford talked about the Northerner and stressed the fact that if it doesn't come up to your idea of a good paper you should report to Room 110 for an assignment, as there is always plenty of work to be done.

Some of Miss Schwehn's basket ball girls gave a specialty game between North Side and Central. The girls on the Central team were: Catherine Shreve, Helen Ballou, Oral DeLancy, Catherine Zwick, Dorothy Tonkel, and Imogene Brooks. Those taking North Side's part were: Esther Nobles, Jane Woodard, Louise Shreve, Maxine Salzer, Kathryn Suter and Jeanette Pitts. Referee—H. M. Schwehn, Podunk's Pond.

A new yell was introduced and it went over big:
Yea—Redskins!
Yea—Redskins!
REDSKINS!
Redskins.
The meeting ended by singing the school songs.

"An Electrical Life?"

By GEORGE PATTERSON

Many moons ago while I was still confined to the freshman class it was forcibly brought upon me that I had better choose a life career and I began to prepare myself for the execution thereof. Now from the ages of seven to ten I had definitely decided to become a policeman and strut around in my glorious uniform with a gun at my side. Of course, it was my unlimited privilege to enter any picture show, street car or train absolutely free of charge, and to murder, arrest, or prosecute my enemies at will. Then as my age advanced, from ten to twelve I put away this childish idea and began to train carefully and thoroughly for the life of a fireman. When I had seen several large fires which revealed to me the dangers of this profession I rapidly changed to an engineer, an aviator, a sailor, a soldier, a mechanic, and now I have undertaken the shocking idea of being an electrical engineer.

My first, and by the way my last, idea was to create a new electrical labor-saving device and thus be hailed by the riotous multitudes as an Edison or a Steinmetz. After twenty-five minutes of actual concentration upon the subject I was brought to the horrible realization that everything possible was invented and there was nothing left for me to do. I was powerless, doomed to die a death by slow starvation because I had made a New Year's resolution not to change my life profession more than three times a year, and this was the fifth time already. As you all know, "necessity is the mama of inventions," and I decided therefore that it was only fair to the public and myself (we inventors work for public benefit and not for ourselves) to manufacture some device to benefit some social group. It chanced that in the paper that morning there was an article relating how a number of anarchists had been felled in their attempt to elevate the position of the czar through the agency of TNT. The royal guards had heard the tick-tick-ticking of a bomb clock in time to prevent the explosion. Now that proves that bomb clocks are a failure. Personally I have no respect for czars, and, wishing to benefit the anarchists, I set about to manufacture and market an electrically controlled infernal machine with an "Ironclad" guarantee that it would produce no tell-tale sounds until time to go into effect.

After three days, two hundred and ninety-seven shocks, six cuts and four heart failures, the destructive demon was complete. It was entirely electrical and of very simple construction; "the smallest child could operate it." It consisted of coils, spark gaps, batteries, oil lamps, fuses and five ounces of best firecracker powder. This could be replaced by a load of TNT, the amount of which was to be determined by the size of the czar and the altitude they wished for him to attain. With all hope and care possible I carried the beautiful new invention into a nearby field. I set the time for one minute and retired to a safe distance. One-half a minute passed. I became terrified. Visions of vast property damage, and long death lists danced before my eyes. As I watched the "thing," I thoroughly wished that the deed was undone. I finally decided to rush bravely out and stop the "thing" before the time was up, but after consulting my "ingersoll," I saw there was only a short suspense of fifteen seconds remaining. Fifteen short seconds! No, I would not go out! Why, what if I should fail to get it shut off? Then, oh, well, who wants to become a martyr of science? Again, I consulted my "one dollar special." Oh, death to my dreams and hopes! The time was past by almost five seconds. Perhaps I had set it wrong. My last hope for success! In vain I waited for another minute. No shattering explosion reached my ears. No trembling of the earth shook me. Slowly and with downcast heart I approached my machine. There it sat. Its ugly features seemed to grin and mock me as a failure. It was only colossal will power and my inability to find a rock that prevented my immediate destruction of the "thing." I gathered it tenderly into my arms and carried it home. Then I carefully transported it to the barn roof; seeking the highest point I summoned all my wrath and hurled the "million dollar boon to bolshevism" to the earth below. The complete destruction pleased me immensely. I descended from the roof with a light heart. I didn't want to be an electrical inventor anyhow. Just wait until next year and I'll be a—a—ah— Well, just for convenience we'll say a printer.

43 STUDENTS NAMED FOR HONOR ROLL

Girls Lead Boys in Getting Names on Roll.

FIVE SENIORS ARE NAMED ON LIST

Classes Are Evenly Divided For Honors.

The first semester Honor Roll has been officially announced by Mr. Northrop.

The question, whether the girls or boys lead in scholastic honors, once more arises. Twenty-eight out of forty-three honor students are girls. This does not altogether prove that the girls are more brilliant, because more girls than boys are enrolled in high school. The classes vie quite evenly for honors. Out of such a large class as the Freshmen have, it is to be expected that they should lead.

Following is a complete list of honor students.

Seniors

DISCUSSION IS SCHEDULED FOR FEBRUARY 15th

Any Student Is Eligible For This Contest.

N. H. S. WINNER TO ENTER COUNTY CONTEST

Contest To Be Given In North Side Auditorium.

February 15 has been chosen for the day of the tryouts for the State Discussion contest. The subject for the discussion is "A Government Plan for Farm Relief." The contest is open to anyone and those wishing to enter should see Miss Cromer at once. The winner of the tryout at North Side will enter the county contest. Each speaker will be allowed eight minutes for the constructive speech and three minutes for a rebuttal. The final contest will be held at Bloomington after the county and district contest.

The discussion will be in the nature of an assembly program for the whole school.

Last year in the Discussion contest at Central, Byron Novitsky, under the direction of Miss Cromer, won first place in the school discussion and went as far as the district contest where he tied for first place with a boy from Columbia City. The Columbia City boy was given the decision.

North Side should have a fair chance in the other contest because of the excellent showing we have made in our debate meets.

Journal-Gazette Carriers Join Y

Through the generous interest of their employers, the Journal-Gazette, sixty boys were given a free membership to the Y. M. C. A. These boys enjoy all the privileges the Y has to offer as long as they are efficient in their work and keep up their interest in the Y.

GIRL RESERVES ELECT OFFICERS

Two Clubs Unite For Remainder of Year.

One of the most delightful meetings of the season of the Girl Reserve club took place last Wednesday evening. This was the first meeting since the two Girl Reserve clubs have united. The business meeting was held first and the ring standard was explained as follows: Girls must attend three-fourths of the meetings. They must be a Girl Reserve members for one semester. During that semester they must take part in the Recognition Day program and also in some other program. They must live up to the code as closely as possible. They must bring a slip signed by their mothers saying that they are trying to live up to the Girl Reserve code. Then they must make an appointment with Miss Jackson and explain to her what the code means. Then by a deposit of one dollar they will receive the honorary Girl Reserve ring.

The new officers and committees who are now in charge are: President, Sadie May Woods; vice-president, Rebada Bannister; Secretary, Mary Steiner; treasurer, Flossie Suber. The program committee consists of chairman, Rebada Bannister; music, Marie Reiber; devotionals, Helen Ballou; dramatics, Garnet Carpenter; talks, Lorena Fann. The service committee comprises, chairman, Mary Erwin; school service, Wilma Kimball; old peoples' service, Helen Tremple; children's service, Ruth Ann Woods; foreign service, Wealtha Carrel; money-making plans, Mary Ben Dure; publicity committee—poster, Mary Moorhead; paper, Glorvina Young, Bulletin on board, D. Detrick; Membership committee, Vivian Shon-dell, Oral Delancey, Bertha Johnston; social committee, chairman, Juanita Fredericks; treasurer, Helene Grummons, club recreations, Carroll Richter.

After the business meeting the girls enjoyed a splash party in the pool. Then everyone was ready to eat, so they journeyed up to the cafeteria where a most delicious supper was served. A most enjoyable feature of the program was a talk given by Mrs. Ray in which she compared each line of the Girl Reserve code to something in Christ's life. She pictured every line of the code, which made the girls understand it much more clearly than they would just by reading it. This code which every loyal Girl Reserve is trying to live up to is that they should be:

Gracious in manner
Impartial in judgment
Ready for service
Loyal to friends.

Reaching toward the best
Earnest in purpose
Seeing the beautiful
Eager for knowledge
Reverent to God
Victorious over self
Ever dependable
Sincere at all times.

NORTHERNER DRIVE STILL IN PROGRESS

Sale Of Papers To Be Made In Home Room.

An extensive campaign has been started for the Northerner with great hopes of success. Several new features have appeared and many new joke writers have been added to the staff and are doing some beautiful and clever work.

A crew of subscription agents has been organized who covered the home rooms Monday and Tuesday of last week with considerable success, but a more intensive campaign is planned for the current week. From the old group a new crew has been selected for the second campaign. Each of them has two or three rooms to canvass. All solicitors are asked to turn in their subscription blanks to Mr. Eyster this week. Sales of single copies of the Northerner have been so encouraging that each solicitor will carry ten papers in addition to those to fill subscriptions.

An effort will be made to get those who are buying copies each week to save work and expense by subscribing for the semester.

The following are the twelve who have been chosen to solicit in the home rooms:

Bob Kaade, 332-333; Jane Emrick, 112-116; Katherine Zwick, 230-231; John Robinson, 336-337; Arthur Richards, 333-335; Jane Korn, 322-323; Jane Woodard, 220-221-223; Paul Somers, 330-331; Carl Jacobs, 211-212; John Wilding, 324-327-329; Rebada Bannister, 316-321; Louise Shreve, 232-233-234.

HOME EC. CLUB PLANS FULL YEAR

To Hold Tea In Apartment for Mothers.

The Home Economics Club held a meeting last Monday, January 31, at 3:15, in Room 123. It was the first meeting of the new semester.

The officers elected last semester still hold the same positions for this semester, as there was no new election.

At the next meeting which is February 13, the aims and purpose of the club will be discussed by the president, Lucile Wilson. The program and social committees made tentative plans for a tea in the apartment in honor of the mothers of the girls.

Later in the spring a picnic will be held, but the exact date has not been decided upon for either the tea or picnic.

The different committees discussed plans for the remainder of the year.

The awards will be made today noon when the three first students of the high schools will be guests at the regular luncheon meeting of the Optimist club.

Prizes of five dollars, three dollars and one dollar are to be awarded to the three students winning first, second and third places in each of the schools.

The Sophomore theme are to be in the latter part of February. Following is the theme written by Elizabeth Shookman:

Who Is An Optimist?

Optimism is a disposition to take the most hopeful view. An optimist therefore is one who looks on the bright side of things, one who is hopeful, one having faith in the future. He is one who is constructive, a pusher, a builder, and a booster.

Washington was an optimist. In the dark days at Valley Forge he had faith that the insufficiently fed and poorly quartered troops would finally win in the cause of right against oppression. He had faith and hope that right would prevail. The optimism of Washington and his associates gave us this grand old country of ours.

The United States government was founded upon optimism. Its founders were men who had faith in the colonists and in the future generations. They who planned our government could see the possibilities of this land. They had confidence that the citizenship that made up the colonies was men of the sturdy kind, the kind required to build a nation that would take its place as a leader of nations.

Lincoln was an optimist. He had faith in this country's government. Lincoln hoped to have an opportunity to strike slavery. When the opportunity came, his faith enabled him to carry on to a successful conclusion the great Civil War.

We in Fort Wayne have faith and hope in the future. The optimists of Fort Wayne have built fine schools, churches, and public buildings. They have made beautiful parks and built comfortable homes as emblems of their faith in the future with a hope that Fort Wayne will be better fitted to assume the responsibilities of tomorrow.

Icebreakers, New Feature In Dances, To Start Friday, February 10th

North Side Syncopators To Provide Music For Epic-Making Dances; North Side Students Only To Be Admitted.

With great hopes of success North Side has inaugurated something entirely new in dances. They have been given the appropriate and striking cognomen, Icebreakers. The hours are from 3:15 to 5:00, and only North Side students will be admitted. A new jazz orchestra has been filling the air at N. H. S. with lively strains, and everyone who has heard them will agree that we are lucky to have their services at the dances.

Tickets at three for ten cents will be on sale at the door, and the floor will be cleared at the end of each dance. Of the money thus earned twenty-five per cent will go to the class or organization sponsoring the affair.

Everyone at North Side is cordially invited to come, and this experiment should receive the support of the entire student body, for if they are not successful they will be discontinued, Dean Reynard said.

The first dance will be held Friday, February 10, sponsored by the Boosters. The others will be sponsored:

Initial Plans Are Completed For Tournaments At North Side Hi

Joint Paper To Be Published By Three Schools; Three Bands To Furnish Music For Games.

The first plans for the Sectional and Regional tournaments were announced yesterday by M. H. Northrop, principal of North Side and official host for the tournaments, after his conference with F. H. Croninger, principal of Central, and R. N. Snider, principal of South. Both Mr. Snider and Mr. Croninger will co-operate with Mr. Northrop in carrying out the plans and work of the sectional tournaments, March 2 and 3, and the Regional tournament on March 10. At the first series of games the teams and coaches of eleven schools will be the guests of the Redskins. These schools are Central, South Side, New Haven, Madison, Township, Harlan, Arcola, Woodburn, Huntstown, Leo and Coesse. Meals will be served in the cafeteria, Mr. Northrop said; and added that accommodations would be made to take care of all the basketball fans for lunch and dinner both on Friday and Saturday in the cafeteria.

The usual staff of co-workers will assist Mr. Northrop in carrying out the work of the games. They will be assisted, however, by members of the Central and South Side staff of workers.

That the schools are co-operating and working harmoniously for the success of the tournaments is shown by the fact that they are working more as one school, rather than each for his own school. All three high school bands will be present for all the games. Too, the school papers of the three schools are uniting their efforts and are planning to publish extra editions for the tournaments. All the material from the three schools will go into one paper, it was announced. The edition will probably be a twenty-four page publication, and will be given to the regular subscribers of the respective school papers. Single copies will sell for ten cents.

Tickets for the tournament games will go on sale the week of Monday, February 27, at the three city schools and at all schools scheduled for the sectional tournament. Single admission to any session will be 40 cents. The season ticket for the sectional will be $1.50. Single admission for the Regional games will be 60 cents and season tickets will be one dollar.

The Fort Wayne schools are rotating in the role of host to the tournaments. The next tournament held in Fort Wayne will go to South Side, and next Central will act as host.

SCHOOL RINGS AND PINS ARRIVE

Only Juniors and Seniors Can Wear Insignia.

The long-awaited North Side pins and rings have arrived. They are in the office, and those who ordered them can get them by paying the balance owed. They should be taken at once to avoid delay in settling the bill with the company.

Everyone is exceedingly pleased with these emblems, and the Freshmen and Sophomores (who are barred from purchasing them until they are Juniors and Seniors) are all trying to find a Junior or Senior who will let them wear his.

The fourteen-carat pins are $4.00 and those of ten carats are $3.50. The rings are priced at $6.50 and $5.50 for fourteen and ten carats, respectively.

LINCOLN: THE MAN

You've read of him as a poor youngster, as a rail splitter, as a struggling lawyer, as a statesman, and as president of the United States, when those states came so perilously near dividing. But—have you read of him as a humorist, a nature-lover, a literary follower? Lincoln was all of these things.

Possessing a keen wit, Lincoln oftentimes infuriated his secretary by telling stories which some occasion or other was sure to recall to his mind. Seward was a business like soul and at the president's words, "That reminds me—"he would throw up his hands and bear up bravely throughout the narrative. Somehow, one can imagine Lincoln keenly enjoying the demeanor of his outraged secretary and prolonging the ordeal out of a friendly sort of malice.

It has been said of the Kentuckian that he had no knowledge or love of nature but fact contradicts this belief. Lincoln settled a question for a group of White House visitors concerning the identification of a tree. One lady believed it to be a cedar while another was positive that it was a spruce. However, it proved to be neither, but a specie of cypress. Lincoln added that, being a back-woodsman, he had had ample opportunity to increase his knowledge of nature.

Lincoln shared the popular liking for poets of that period. Longfellow, Bryant, Whittier, Stedman and Holmes he quoted with ease and brilliance, while some of the more classic he reveled in. Byron and Browning he admired. Shakespeare he really studied. He gave, on one occasion, his own idea as to the interpretation of a certain portion of Hamlet which, he stated, was apt to be slurred over or omitted altogether by the actor. This impromptu exhibition was said to be superb and, as Carpenter said, "Unsurpassed by anything I have seen on the stage."

One of Lincoln's oddities was the using of a cane when he was a boy. He carried one on the occasion of his first inauguration and he handled it so awkwardly that reporters concluded that Lincoln had never before touched the article.

Just a word as to the politics in Washington is illustrated by an extract from a letter written by Charles Dana to C. F. Adams in 1863:

"There is an absence of personal loyalty to the president. He has no admirers, no enthusiastic reporters to bet on his head. If a Republican convention were to be held tomorrow he would not get the vote of a single state." And closes with: "He (Lincoln) has a kind of shrewdness and common sense, mother wit, and slipshod, low-leveled honesty that made him a good western jury lawyer. But he is an unutterable calamity to us where he is." And Dana speaks mildly. Greeley, Beecher and Bryant speak of Lincoln with hatred. As for most of us, we like to remember him as the sad-eyed giant who buoyed up the hearts of his soldiers and their mothers. As the man who won the admiration of the south. Also, we admire him in revering the memory of Nancy Hanks and his own little mother.

One of the many traditions regarding Valentine Day is that the custom of sending messages of good will to one's friends given up because St. Valentine, on that day, always distributed gifts to the poor people.

If Valentine Day causes us to feel friendly and generous toward each other it is truly worth while to continue its observance. Why do people always feel happier on holidays, when cheery greetings are exchanged than other times? Is it not because showing kindness and good will to others increases our own happiness?

The idea of giving also reminds us of the duty we owe to ourselves, now, while we still have youth and the opportunity to obtain an excellent education.

"Smile and the sun will pierce the shadows,
Trust, and the mists will roll away
Give, and the Heavens will be opened."

HOW TO READ A BOOK

Lord Macaulay, in recalling some instances of his childhood, said: "When a boy I began to read very earnestly, but at the foot of every page I read I stopped and obliged myself to give an account of what I had read on that page. At first I had to read it three or four times before I got my mind firmly fixed. But I compelled myself to comply with the plan, until now, after I have read a book through once, I can almost recite it from the beginning to the end."

Cracks Along The Boardwalk

First Man—"How are you getting along at home since your wife's away?"
Second Man—"Fine! I've reached the height of efficiency. I can put on my socks now, from either end."

THERE'S A REASON

Both beautiful and dumb
My own true love must be;
Beautiful, so I'll love her,
And dumb, so she'll love me.

Our idea of the meanest person on earth is the teacher who borrows the little boy's fountain pen to write down an "F" for him.

Be it ever so homely there's no face like your own.

English Teacher—All themes should be written so that even the most stupid people can understand them.

Sudent—Yes, ma'am, and what part don't you understand?

Ray A.: What does veni, vedi, vidi mean?

Norman R.: Oh, that's just the beginning of a new yell.

NO LUNCH!

Paul Revere—The British are coming!
Colonist—What for, lunch?

Me—There are several things I always count on.
You—For instance?
Me—My fingers.

Herbie—I just thought of a good joke.
Ed.—Aw, keep your mind to yourself.

What's the difference between vision and sight?
That's easy, my girl is a vision and yours is a sight.

It cost a young girl in New York $3 to call a traffic cop, dumbell. How about that for a bargain?

"Are you afraid of airplane poisoning?"
"What's that?"
"One drop will kill you."

SONGS THEY DO NOT SING

Darling, I am growing old—
Silver threads among the gold,
Do you think that it would do
If I put in my shampoo,
Henna or peroxide, dear?
None will know it—never fear!
Tell me, darling, do you care
If I tint my golden hair?

She was only an Iowa girl. "Dear Pa: Iowa month's rent."

Maggie S.—I believe the girls like the concealed fellows better than the other kind.

Francis C.—What other kind?

If I had a nickel
And you came by
Do you think I'd spend it?
No—not I!

Where there's a will there's relations.

M. Kilborn—What part of school do you like best?
W. Jackson—The five minutes between periods.

The time-honored Latin
The iron-bound Latin
The moss-covered Latin
Which hangs on so well.

Lorena Fann—Did anyone see John McMeen today?
Lucille Reichle—I saw him driving his dad to the gas station.

About five years ago the style of bobbed hair was gorwing. Now it's the bobbed hair.

TABLE ETIQUETTE

Biscuits should be opened with the fingers if your hostess has failed to place an axe on the table.

Always eat soup from the inside of a spoon. There isn't much on the outside.

HEADLINES IN A PAPER

"Three babes in a Chicago jail." Like father, like son.

M. L. (In Sewing Class): Is the brim of my hat large enough?
Miss Beierlein: Yes, for what's going in it.

A LESSON IN SPELLING

Pay great attention! What does this spell—Goughphtheightteau? Well, according to the following rule it spells—Do you give it up? It spells potato. viz.—gh stands for p, as you will find from the last letters in hiccough; ough for o, as in dough; phth stands for t, as in phthisis; eigh stands for a, as in neighbor; tte stands for t, as in gazette, and eau stands for o, as in beau. Thus you have p o t a t o. Who will give another?

Ward Hall—What is the greatest water power known to man?
Norman Richards—That's easy. Woman's tears.

Virginia Fredericks—Why, Harold, you've got your socks on wrong side out.
Harold Korn: Yes, my feet were hot so I turned the hose on them.

She—Why have men an Adam's apple and women haven't?
He—They have. Only it turns to applesauce.

WE WONDER WHY—

Miss Storr keeps that charming boy and girl on her desk continually.
Lorena F. wore that becoming tomboy suit Friday.
Pearl and Ed are so affectionate.
The ground hog doesn't keep his promise.

Jane Korn (reading out loud): "A man was refined and cultivated." She must mean sugar.

ED SAYS:

NAMES WHICH SIGNIFY

Morris—A comfortable seat (in furniture.)

Butler—A servant, always wanting a tip.

McMeen—Brutal.

Wade—To get all wet (especially feet.)
Furat—The beginning.

We wonder why this fellow Exit has so many offices around North Side.

Profiles

"Oh, I don't know, I don't feel well. You see I've been working awfully hard lately. You can tell that by just looking at me. Look at this dirty old shirt I have to wear, and mother makes me year these clod-hoppers. Oh well, they slide pretty nice on these floors, though. I'll tell you, Otto, my pride and glory is my hair. Don't you think my curls are just too sweet? Virginia curls my hair every week—that's the reason it's so cute. The reason I dress like this is because I'm in the second hand coal business. Yes, I handle ashes. My shoes make a lot of noise and when the girls hear me coming they run (he didn't say to him or from him.) By the way, Otto, did you hear the song entitled, "She was only a coal man's daughter, but holy smoke how hot."

That was Harold Korn. You know Harold is a fine boy. He admits it. And Freshman girls, listen to this, he's president of the Junior class and darn good-looking when he's made up. The trouble is most of the time he isn't made. He's quite a clever actor and likes chocolate covered ice cream on a stick. He will make his debut in dramatic circles in the near future (watch for date) and if you'll take a tip from me you won't come. Never before has such a genius come to North Side, and there will never be another (we hope).

As we sat around the fireside that evening, the conversation turned to swords. After a few cutting remarks on this subject some one made a very pointed statement. Then we spoke of sabres, outlasses, daggers, and last of all dirks. Ah ha! Dirks—that reminds me. I've heard that word before. Now where was that? Think hard, Otto. As I scratched my head I exclaimed "I've got it." It was at school. There's a girl there and her name, I believe, is Derck. Yes, Harriet Derck. That's her. Then the thought came to me like lightning, I'm going to interview that girl. And after many perilous adventures I succeeded in obtaining the coveted interview, which follows: namely: viz: to-wit: habeas corpus: or what have you?

I, Harriet Derck, do hereby and thereupon swear that all I testify is as untrue as they make 'em. No, I don't swear either, but just the same it's so. My parents were the best sword people in Fort Wayne, and I don't mean by the way. I suppose you know that a dirk is a short dagger, well I'm not short but I'm just as deadly to the male. Yes, I have some accomplishments, play piano plenty good and I'm the only person who has successfully succeeded in making a piece of Ivory soap sink. And that's no dirty story. And what's more it stayed sunk. So much for that. I'll now tell you about my faults. I'm madly in love. I don't say much about this but I feel like I can confide in you. The object of my passions is Maggie Berghoff. (Poor Maggie!) Oh, here she comes now. We're going to step out, and are we high steppers? Just ask us. I cried, but she was determined and left.

North Side Cops Thrilling Game From Flashy Defiance Quintet

Redskins To Meet Garrett at Garrett Saturday Night; 'Game to Be Hotly Contested.

Battling against an eleven-point lead that was chalked up against them in the first few minutes of the game by the Defiance Buckeye team, the North Side Redskins fought to earn a 25-23 victory Saturday night. The game was played according to Ohio rules, with a thirty-two minutes playing game divided into quarters.

The tall, rangy Buckeye squad started off with a rush and soon ran their score up to 11 before Marshall scored on a short shot just as the quarter ended, 11 to 2.

With things looking cloudy for North Side, the Redskins started a rally which brought the score to 18-13 at half time. McVey, who is playing his first season on the basketball court, had sunk two of those sensational baskets in his own Irish style from the middle of the floor.

North Side's playing changed considerably in the second half, the Redskins holding the Ohio five to two field goals, and a free throw while they proceeded to pile up their own score and change defeat into victory.

In the final moments of the contest, with Defiance leading 23-17, Chaffin chalked up one, and Marshall two field goals to knot the count. It was a wild crowd of Redskin fans that yelled and took up the call and shouted till the whole gymnasium rang with cheers for the Billsmen. And the war cry put the Redskins back on the war-path and when the ball was put back into play, with a flash Chaffin caught the pass from Marshall, and looped the loop for two more points. It was a great play. The Redskin fans went wild. Defiance called time out with only a half minute to play but the North Side warriors were determined for victory, and "played snooks" with the Ohio five in the remaining seconds, and safely held their margin to emerge victor, 25 to 23.

North Side did not display the basketball shown against Central but nevertheless played fine ball. Steve Marshall lead the Redskins' scoring with nine points. Closely pressing him for honors came McVey with 8 points. Bob played the finest game he has shown thus far this season.

Besides playing fine defensive basketball with Penrod, the backguard, he dropped in four long baskets, scoring two in each period when they were mostly needed. Gordon and Chaffin accounted for the remainder of North Side's points with two field goals apiece.

The Defiance attack was centered around the rangy Cunningham, who scored seven baskets to be high-point man. Chapline and Schenerman completed the Buckeye scoring with five and four points respectively.

In the preliminary the Redskin reserves were defeated 23 to 9 by Roanoke's varsity.

Lineup and summary:

SOPHS DEFEAT FRESHIES, 12-11

First Game of the Inter-Class Basketball Is Played.

In the first of the inter-class basketball games, the Sophomores defeated the Freshmen by a 12-11 score. The game was hard fought all the way, the Freshmen leading 3-2 at the half. Tonkel led the Sophomores with four field goals, while Slater and Patterson led the Frosh with two each. All the players showed up well. Reeves played a good game as guard for the Sophs and Young showed up well with the Fresh. The lineup:

Soph (12)	Frosh (11)
F. C.—Zwick.	F. Ben Drue
F. Korn	F. Cook
F. Tonkel	F. Patterson
G. Weinbrenner	G. C. Shreve
G. Ballo	G. Spice
G. Reeves	G. Young

Substitutions: Grunther for Weinbrenner, Weinbrenner for Gunther; Briggs for Patterson; Young for Briggs; Butler for Cook; Slack for Butler; Slater for Slack; Slack for Slater; Prange for Shreve; Spice for Prange; Geary for Young; Bannister for Geary; Geary for Bannister; Wack for Spice; Shreve for Wade.

Field goals: Zwick 1; Korn 1; Tonkel 4; Patterson 2; Slack 2; Ben Dure 1. Free throws: Ben Dure, 1.

their victories to three consecutive ones at the expense of the home team.

The Redskins also hope to gain revenge for the 18-to-6 beating they received at the hands of Garrett last fall on the gridiron. Garrett does not appear to be as strong on the hardwood as on the football field, however having lost a majority of this season's games.

Many North Side fans plan to go to Garrett Saturday night to support their favorite.

No lineup has been definitely announced by Coach Mark Bills but he no doubt will start McVey, Gordon, Marshall, (Koenig, and Penrod.

Defiance's coach is a fine example of good sportsmanship. His team piled up an 11-point lead and then went down to defeat before the Redskins. But when the gun was fired that coach did not walk off the floor with his team until he had walked across the gymnasium to shake hands with Coach Mark Bills, and congratulate him on the Redskins victory!

Defiance, we're for you!

Central and South Side Highs To Play Out-of-Town Saturday Night

Tigers To Go To Elkhart; Kelly Klads To Peru; Latter Team Appears To Be Stronger of Two.

Both Central and South Side will play their sole week-end games on Saturday night on opposite floors. The Kelly Klads taking on Peru and the Tigers are clashing with Elkhart.

The Peru five looms as the stronger of these two opponents claiming victories over such fives as Elwood.

CENTRAL TAKES AUBURN GAME

South Side Loses Two Games Over Week-End.

The Auburn high school team received a defeat by the Central Tigers of Fort Wayne by a score of 34-25.

The Tiger cagers started with bang and rolled up a lead which the Automobile City snipers found impossible to overcome. The first half ended, 25-10.

Although in the second half the Auburn cagers marked up 15 points they could not overtake the lead which the Tigers had gotten.

Brockall and Lyons were the most outstanding players of the evening.

Brockall sank six baskets and also played a good defensive game. Lyons was decidedly "on". He was the main stay on the defense, which the Auburn team did not penetrate until later in the second half.

A great number of rooters went from Fort Wayne to see the game.

South Side lost two games over the week-end, Terre Haute Friday night and to Crawfordsville Saturday night. The locals put up a stiff fight against Terre Haute, leading at the half, 18-16.

The Wiley high school quintet displayed the best game this season by downing the Kelly Klads, Fort Wayne was ahead by four points near the close of the game but some sharp shooting by Terre Haute turned defeat into victory. Lineup and sum-

South Side also lost to Crawfordsville Saturday night by a count of 53-39. Displaying the same fast under the basket attack that has featured their entire season's play the Crawfordsville quintet defeated the locals in a fast game. The score at the half stood 24-13 in favor of Crawfordsville. The Kelly Klads fought game but losing battles and lost both of their week-end games.

C. C. WINS TWO GAMES FOR WEEK

Howe and St. Johns Fall For Irish Crew.

The Central Catholic team of Fort Wayne scored a 43 to 14 victory over the St. John's squad of Delphos, Ohio. The Buckeye team played a fair game at the beginning of the game which was played at Library hall but under the strong defense of the Irish team they soon wilted.

The St. John's team could not break through the strong defense of the C. C. team. The visiting team could not get loose for more than four field goals. Their usually high point man was held to one field goal apiece.

The C. C. squad got into it in the first half and was continuously sinking their shots on the other hand the Buckeye squad got but one field goal and five free tosses thus the score ended 23-7 favoring C. C.

The Delphos coach put in reserves but they failed to hold the Irish five down. All but one man scored at least once on the C. C. team. Romary was highpoint man with five goals from the field.

Howe was defeated by Central Catholic in close game the score being 25-21.

Not at any time was either team very much ahead of the other. C. C. led the score which was 11-7 at the half. Both teams scored 14 points in the last half. The four point lead the visitors had at the half was carried on through the rest of the game and proved to be the winning score.

The scoring honors were divided pretty evenly. The Howe center hit the basket three times from the field.

SOCIETY AND FEATURES

How the time does fly!
Here it is February already!
By the time old Father Time brings February to us it does not seem long until June—and graduation for the Seniors and another vacation for the underclassmen.

Although February got gypped and has 29 days, she can boast of having the most great men's birthdays and Valentine Day! This being leap year the fellows might get the best break. But custom usually holds to form so no doubt there will be as many boxes of candy bought this year as ever. And no one can kid me that all the fair sex are not grateful to the fellow who invented red stain heart-shaped boxes of candy.

Miss Suzanne Bowerfind recently entertained with a lovely formal dance at her home on the Old Mill road. The room was effectively decorated with different colored balloons. At a late hour delicious refreshments were served to the guests, among whom were the Misses Betty Yarnelle, Lucy Porter, Ruth Miles, Mary Reynolds Kline, Georgiana Miller, Elizabeth Porter, Mary Weaver, Phyllis Schaaf, Mary Jane Scott, Barbara Beall, Jeanette Popp, Charlotte Eberbach, Nancy McKay, Mary Ellen-Hett, Katherine Porter, Virginia Bohn and the hostess and the Messrs. Dick Kent, Joe Williams, Tom Snook, Hart Schaaf, Bob Spice, David Rahe, John Astrom, Harry Offut, Bill Lipkey, Dale McMillen, Dick Weaver, Bob Sisco, Edward Kane, Edward Higgins, Paul Mitchell and Bob Hoffman.

Miss Dorothy Rippe recently entertained with a lovely bridge party at her home on Rivermet avenue. The guests were the Misses Harriet Derck, Margaret Smenner, Margaret Berghoff, Louise Miller, Florence Kendrick, Helen Dilts, Mary Helen Putnam, Helene Smith and the hostess.

Miss Phyllis Toothill recently entertained with a lovely dinner party at her home on Webster street. The guests were the Misses Marorie Horst-meyer, Mary Elizabeth Hughes, Margaret Smenner, Marorie Reeves, Mary Hillis Miles, Mary Jane Scott, Alice Miller, Janet Egly, Dorothy Troendel, Mary and Marthana Brothers, Louisa Fredericks, Betty Moyer, Mary Helen Putnam and the hostess.

Miss Ruth Bittler recently entertained at her home on West Berry street. At a late hour a delicious luncheon was served to the guests who were the Misses Betty Van Ar-namm, Virginia Holden, Jane Emrick, Helen Dessauer, Virginia Blosser, and the hostess and the Messrs. ## FRESHIES PLAN PARTY FOR FEB. 17

Upperclassmen To Be Chaperoned by Freshies.

The Freshmen's first party of this year has been planned for February 17. The 10B's are still considered Freshies as they will not graduate until June '31. The party will be in the cafeteria at 7:30. Several novel games have been planned and prizes given to the winners. Refreshments for all. Admission 31 cents. Every body have change ready, please.

Origin of Valentine Day Dates Back For Centuries

Delightful Old Narrative Forms Basis of Sentimental Holiday.

Once a year
In the month of February
I look through my dictionary
A new meaning to find
For St. Valentine.

Webster says
The fourteenth of February
Is the day when love is gay
And cupid steals hearts away.

The origin of this sentimental holiday is in itself a delightful narrative. Long, long ago a Roman Catholic bishop, St. Valentine, was martyred in Rome about A. D. 270, on the fourteenth of February. This day has been celebrated in a manner not at all serious, by Catholic and Protestants alike. Several explanations are given for the familiar custom of sending anonymous love tokens, cards of greeting and the like to one's favorites, and for the various social activities connected with that day. Some say that Saint Valentine was accustomed to go around from house to house, leaving food on the doorsteps of the poor, and the custom of sending Valentine greetings anonymously developed from that. Another explanation connects the modern celebration of the day with the observance of the Roman festival Lupercalia, a ceremony typifying purification, which occurred on February the fifteenth. At this time, as the old myth is tall, each of the young men celebrating the festival drew from a box the name of a lady to whom he was to be faithful for the ensuing year. It is supposed that this custom is the origin of some of the sentimental features of Saint Valentine's Day.

There are two types of Valentines used, the sentimental and comic. It depends upon the impression the giver wishes to make, which type of these two he sends. Boys usually give their boy friends comic Valentines, but to their "best girl" a huge, lace Valentine is bestowed with the hope that the love verse inscribed "registers."

Next week, if big smiles play on the faces of the girls of this school, the conclusion may be immediately drawn that the postman brought them something, whether it be a huge, red valentine box filled with chocolates or a little paper heart, (mailed with a cent and a half stamp), with the words, "I want you for my Valentine."

Mr. Northrop says: "The meet was one of the finest, most interesting events presented at North Side this year."

PAUL A. HARSH TALKS AT N. H. S.

Toledo Lecturer Talks At Evening Meeting.

Paul A. Harsh, C.S.B., of Toledo, Ohio, delivered a lecture Monday evening, February 6, entitled "Christian Science: The Power of Good," before an audience that nearly filled the high school auditorium. Mr. Harsh is a member of the Christian Science Board of Lectureship of the Mother Church, the First Church of Christ, Scientist, Boston, Massachusetts. He was introduced by William F. Rubert, First Reader of the local Christian Science church, under whose auspices the lecture was given.

A partial report of the lecture follows:

In the text book of Christian Science, Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures, Mary Baker Eddy, its author, thus defines Good: "God; Spirit; omnipotence; omniscience; omnipresence; omniscience" (Pg. 587) and it is proposed to present the subject of Christian Science here from this standpoint, that is, of good and its power—power inherent in it, constantly being manifested by it, and inevitably lifting mankind upward and onward to God.

Deep seated in the heart of every one of us there dwells a desire to know more about good, a yearning to attain to the secret place of the Most High, to that point of understanding whereby good may be brought more largely and more specifically into daily experience and there retained and used.

Primarily, the desire for good—for the guidance and control of all intelligent mind, God, must exceed all other desires. The seeker for divine good must be able to say with David, "As the hart panteth after the water brooks, so panteth my soul after thee, O God." Such desire is prayer. A prayer that is always answered. There are no exceptions.

On the first page of the first chapter of Science and Health, Mrs. Eddy, its author, declares that "desire is prayer" and that "no loss can occur from trusting God with our desires, that they may be moulded and exalted before they take form in words and in deeds." This was the prayer of Elijah answered by the "still small voice," this the prayer of Nehemiah answered by the restoration of Jerusalem, this the prayer of Jesus before the tomb of Lazarus, and this, my friends, the prayer of thousands of Christian Scientists today. A prayer that is being daily answered by the healing of every sort of sin, disease and discord.

Mrs. Eddy loved the Bible as no other book. From earliest childhood she studied it, pondered its precepts and guided her life by its rules and standards. For three years after her discovery of Christian Science, which occurred in 1866, she lived constantly with her Bible, seeking through its inspired pages to find the Science of the Christ healing which had come into her experience. It was her only text book and she describes this quest as most joyous, uplifting and beautiful. This was a logical result of her training and environment as well as her own natural inclination.

Through many busy years Mrs. Eddy was being prepared in countless ways for the stupendous work that was to be hers in later life. Many of her close associates were men and women of deep learning and great religious intuition.

"JURY TRIAL" TO BE GIVEN BY MUSIC DEPT.

Mr. Mathews Assisted By Miss Huffman

MORE BOYS NEEDED FOR PRODUCTION

Operetta Is Clever Comedy In One Act.

"Trial by Jury," a one-act operetta written by Gilbert and Sullivan, will be given March 14 by the music department of the North Side high school, under the direction of Paul Mathews, head of the department. Mr. Mathews will be assisted by Miss Mildred Huffman, a member of the English department.

Although the rehearsals have begun, no assignments for parts have been made, Mr. Mathews said. Tryouts for the different principals will begin in a few days, he said. Students who are not signed up for work in the music department still have a chance to take part in the production if they will see Mr. Mathews some time this week. Several more boys are needed for the operetta which calls for four principals, one girl and three boys, besides twelve bridesmaids and a jury of boys and an audience.

"Trial by Jury" will be given two times, on Wednesday morning, March 14, for high school students and on Wednesday and Thursday nights for patrons and friends.

CONTEST TO BE HELD IN THE AUDITORIUM

Preliminary Contest To Be Given in Auditorium

FOUR BOYS COMPETE IN FRIENDLY ARGUMENT

Plans Are Made For National Oratorical Contest.

The preliminary contest for the state discussion contest will be held this morning at 10 o'clock in the auditorium, under the direction of Miss Mary E. Cromer, head of the English department and director of public speaking. Four boys have signed up for the contest to represent North Side at the county meet. These boys are Philip Bowen, Clayton Duntun, John McMeen and Herbert Vigran.

The subject will be "A Government Plan for Farm Relief." It is a discussion contest with a constructive and a rebuttal speech. The speeches will be judged both on thought and delivery. The winner of this contest will represent North Side in the county contest which will be held in March.

The National Oratorical contest is also being worked upon at the present time, the preliminary contest of this will be held March 7. The contest will be on the constitution, and the members of the public speaking class are now busily engaged in writing orations, which will be given in class only. At the present time there are several students who are planning to enter the contest. Everyone is eligible and all those wishing to go out for it should see Miss Cromer in room 329.

BOOSTERS DISCUSS TOURNAMENT

Organization Promises To Support This Event.

Plans for the coming tournament to be held at North Side were the main objects for discussion at the last meeting of the Boosters' Club, Tuesday, at 3:15.

Miss Storr announced the need of co-operation among the members of the club to make the tournament work successful.

COMEDY OF ERRORS SCHEDULED FRIDAY

Play Is Full of Laughs and Ingenious Situations

PLAY TO BE GIVEN IN AUDITORIUM

Small Admission Charge To Be Made.

"Comedy of Errors" will be given at 10 o'clock Friday morning, February 17, at the regular auditorium period. This is an excellent comedy full of ingenious situations; there are laughs by the scores. Don't miss seeing Harold Korn and Norman Richard as the two Antipholuses and Carl Jacobs and Bob Kaade as the two Dromios. These two brothers and two slaves, identical twins, are the ones who furnish all the Antipholus of Syracuse and his Dromios and the ridiculous situations. Antipholus of Ephesus and his Dromio. They all meet in Ephesus. When the Dromio of Ephesus meets Antipholus of Syracuse, his Dromio naturally thinks him to be his master. And in turn Antipholus of Syracuse is baffled by the strange orders of this Dromio. Then the Antipholus of Ephesus comes in contact with the Dromio of Syracuse and they cannot understand one another. The Dromios cannot be told apart by their masters, nor can the Dromios distinguish the differences in their masters. The play will be staged very simply but costumed quite elaborately. Admission will be five cents so that everyone in school can afford to go. Shakespeare is acted so seldom that it behooves every student if he can possibly afford to take advantage of this performance.

Keep programs for Friday morning. Cut them out and put in purses or pockets. Those taking part are:

The Duke of Ephesus... Donald Elder Aegaeon, a merchant of Syracuse... Frank Nicholas

Antipholus of Ephesus... Norman Richard Antipholus of Syracuse... Harold Korn Dromio of Ephesus... Bob Kaade Dromio of Syracuse... Carl Jacobs

Balthazar, a merchant... John Robinson Angelo, a goldsmith... Herbert Vigran Dr. Pinch... John McMeen

SCHEDULE FOR TOURNEY MADE FEBRUARY 25th

Tickets Will Go On Sale During Tournament Week

MEALS ARE TO BE SERVED IN CAFETERIA

Joint Newspaper To Be Published Friday.

Who plays the first game in the tournament?

The order in which the teams of Central, South Side, North Side, Leo, Harlan, Huntington, New Haven, Monroeville, Arcola, Madison Township, and Lafayette Center will play in the sectional tournament on March 2 and 3 will not be known until Saturday morning, February 25, when the names are drawn and the schedule arranged, according to a statement made by M. H. Northrop in an interview. He also stated that North Side had charge of the tourney this year while South Side will have charge of it next year and Central the next if Fort Wayne draws the tournament.

Both luncheon and dinner will be served in the cafeteria during the tournament on Friday and Saturday. This will save fans and visitors much time as they may stay and see all of the games.

Miss Storr, faculty advisor of North Side's Booster Club, is doing much to make this tourney a success. Various members of the Booster Club have also offered their services.

Season tickets for the sectional are to be sold for $1.50. Everyone is urged to buy one as it is much cheaper. Single admission to any game during the sectional will be forty cents. Tickets will go on sale the week of the tourney. Season tickets for the regional, which will be held March 19, 1928, are $1.00, and single admission to any game during the regional will be sixty cents.

A large issue of a "Tournament News" will be published by the three schools on Friday. Copies will also be sold at the tournament.

PRESS CLUB HOLDS SECOND MEET AT S. S.

North Side Sends 12 Delegates to Potluck Supper.

South Side Publications students acted as the hosts and hostesses for the second meeting of the inter-city Press Association held at South Side high school.

The meeting was held in the form of a pot-luck supper and everybody brought "beans, potatoes, meat, fruit salad and in other words every thing their mothers did not want for supper."

Thoburn Wiant, president of the Association, was the speaker of the evening. Miss Harvey, Miss Austin and Miss Hurst all gave short talks. Miss Austin's talk was hurried by the arrival of the dessert.

Those who attended from North Side were: Lorena Fann, Martha Butler, Herbert Vigran, John McMeen, Margaret Umbach, Philip Dodane, Lella Smith, Jane Emrick, Lucille Reichler, Ray Alter, Maurice Cook and Helene Grummons.

High School Students Begin Work On Joint Paper "Tournament News"

Plans Made To Make Publication Complete, Newsy and Interesting; Will Be Devoted Chiefly To Sports.

Extra! Extra! Big edition of paper to enlist services of journalists of all three city high schools!

Since it has been definitely decided that North Side is to be host at both the Sectional and Regional Tournaments the three Fort Wayne High Schools have been busily engaged in planning the papers that are to be issued as joint publications of the three schools.

Plans for the Sectional paper are nearly complete, while those for the Regional are still somewhat vague. It will in all probability be called the "Tournament News," and the former issue will contain eighteen pages, which will be devoted chiefly to sports.

The first and editorial pages will be under the direct supervision of Miss Harvey, of South Side; Miss Huslin, of Central, will handle the advertising; and sales will be in charge of Miss Hurst, of North Side.

Under Miss Harvey's direction will be six of the best news and editorial writers from each of the three schools. They will write regular front-page news, features for the editorial page, editorials on topics of general interest, and special welcome editorials in honor of the city's guests.

Miss Austin, assisted by six of the star advertising solicitors from each school will canvass the city for advertising.

Each subscriber in the three schools will receive his paper as usual, and single copies will be sold for ten cents. Miss Hurst will be assisted in this work by six salesmen and subscription agents from each of the Fort Wayne high schools.

The issues preceding the Tourney issues will come out on Friday instead of Wednesday for North Side in order to leave as much time as possible for work on the big edition.

In addition to these fifty-four workers there will be a great many sports writers on the job filling the two pages allotted to each of the city schools for news and cuts of their basketball teams.

The remaining ten pages will contain news of the visiting teams, probably in one-page allotments.

The Regional edition will consist of ten pages made up in much the same manner as the Sectional issue. A section will be devoted to news of the contestant from each of the four regions designated as Decatur, Warsaw, Bluffton, and Fort Wayne.

Teams Are Organized To Take Part In Games; Every Boy in North Side To Have Chance To Play.

In order that every boy in North Side may have a chance to display his skill at basket ball, teams have been organized in each home room. The games will be played every Friday night after school unless otherwise announced.

Not many regulations or restrictions have been placed upon the fellows playing, but the rules that have been made must be obeyed. They are: 1. Captains responsible for their teams.

1. Teams must report promptly for games.

2. Every member of the squad shall take part some minutes in each game.

3. Lineups shall be given to the scores before each game.

4. The original squad list shall not be changed.

2. Games shall be played "continuously," i. e. two teams shall play a half and rest, while the other teams play.

3. Play every Friday unless otherwise announced.

The results of the first series of games and boys who competed in the games are as follows:

EDITORIAL

NORTH SIDE'S LOYAL BOOSTERS

A school always cherishes the support of its alumni. When former students cooperate with the present students in their support of the various activities of the school it shows that these activities are receiving the recognition they deserve, which encourages those participating in them to make greater efforts toward success.

North Side, having no alumni, would feel this lack greatly, were it not for the loyal support given her by the people of Fort Wayne, especially those living in the North Side district.

The interest shown in our endeavors in the field of sports and of scholarship has by no means gone unnoticed. We wish to express our sincere appreciation to these friends of ours, and also the hope that we may always be worthy of such support as they have given us during our first school year.

"IT"

"It" is not something purely physical but is our attitude and a state of mind. Features will often thrill members of the opposite sex, but when an analysis is made "it" resolves into personality. Now if "it" is a personality, how may the individual obtain the essentials? Follow closely, and if you have at least an average share of good looks, learn how to become popular without playing a saxophone. Now is the time to form a pleasing personality by developing traits of character that every one admires.

Honesty, willingness, and lots of the stuff which tennis rackets are strung with go a long way. When you are sure you have acquired these, brighten up the exterior with a smile. Simple directions, aren't they, and if anybody will follow them and not forget to wash his neck and ears each morning—well, you can't stop him, that's all—for he has "it" at last.—Piedmont Highlander, Piedmont, California.

WHAT DOES SCHOOL MEAN TO A GIRL?

What does school mean to girl? It no tonly means that she will be one of the more intelligent women of her community, but this knowledge will help her to be worth while. Of course, she wants to enjoy all the pleasures of life, but does she want to work for them? The majority of girls would much rather go out into the world and learn through experience. In several years she has learned but a few things at a very great cost. Her life is soon over and she has learned but little because her years have been spent in drudgery for lack of system.

In order to be a stenographer, a school teacher, a clerk in a store, or a farmer's wife, she must have an education to earn a profitable living and do her bit in the world.

Thus, we see some of the advantages of an education to a girl and there are so many others that she should avail herself of every opportunity to enlarge her store of knowledge in order to be of the best service to the World.—The Key.

TRY, TRY AGAIN

The truth of the old maxim, "If at first you do not succeed try, try again", has often been proved. We, too, have experienced its value. During the first half of our basketball season it seemed as though the fates were against us and we could not win, though both team and student body exerted all efforts possible toward that end.

Luck seems to have changed her mind and decided to be on our side now. This is by no means the case, however. The welcome change is the reward for tireless work on the part of the coach and the team, and continued support on the part of the students. We have tried, tried, tried each time coming nearer to success. We may not always win our games, but we will gain the respect and good will of all if we do our best and ever keep trying to improve.

SCHOOL PRIDE

We are North Side's first students. When we came into her halls everything was immaculately clean and unscratched.

Countless children are looking forward to the time when they will have the privilege we are now enjoying—that of spending four happy and beneficial years here. Tim and constant use will unavoidably cause the building and its equipment to lose their clean and new appearance, but ought we not to do all in our power to keep them in the best condition possible so that those who come after us will derive as much benefit from them as we did?

CONGRATULATIONS

Congratulations are due those who won honors in our first swimming meet. Swimming is surely a great addition to our list school activities. We agree with the "Hoosier Poet" in his praise of the joys to be found in "the old swimmin' hole." Our swimming pool has an advantage even over that much-sung spot, however, for we can enjoy it all the year 'round.

Having once again looked back over the life of Lincoln, who did so much to make the world a better place, let us resolve to be more like him—kind, thoughtful, humble, anxious to learn and to help.

Cracks Along The Boardwalk

It's great to be a joke editor,
To sit up late at nite
And scratch your wool,
And play the fool,

And write, and write, and write.

This doesn't sound original, but don't mourn over me for my defalcations.

Can anyone imagine John Robinson concentrating?

A girl in our class said a zero meant next to nothing.

Phil D.: "I wish I lived here three hundred years ago."
Mr. DeLong: "Why?"
Phil D.: "Then I wouldn't have so much history to learn."

'28: "Want to buy two twenty-five cent tickets?"
'31: "What for?"
'28: "Dumbbell, for fifty cents."

"Where have I seen your face before?"
"Just where you see it now."

The shop was deserted except for the cashier.
"Do you keep motor-car accessories here?" asked a handsome young man, as he strolled in.
"Only me," she replied.

"How do you account for the editors always refusing your articles?"
"Really I haven't the slightest idea."
"Well, maybe that's the reason."

About the only business that makes money without advertising is the mint.

Prof: "Sound travels 1,100 feet per second. How far will it take it to travel 16 miles?"
Taxi Driver's Son: "By day rate or night rate?"

Oh, these absent minded professors!

One.
Prof: "Miss Jones, I want you to answer this question—"
Miss Jones: "I'm sorry, professor; I'm absent today."
Prof: "I beg your pardon; the next person will answer it."
Two.

Prof: "Didn't you have a brother in this course last year?"
Student: "No, sir; it was I I am repeating the course."
Prof: "Extraordinary resemblance—positively extraordinary."

Miss Hurst: "Oh, Harold, how did you lose your tooth?"
Harold cack: "Shifting gears on a lolly-pop."

Senior: "Those jokes in the Northerner are pretty rocky."
Mike B.: "Just what do you mean—rocky?"
Senior: "They belong to the stone age."
Wow ! ! ! ? ? — — ! ? — It was just too bad.

Two is a company, three is a crowd, but not when the third fellow has a car.

'30: "I passed Shakespeare to-day."
'31: "Did he speak?"

Mr. Ivey: "Give for one year the coal shipped into the United States."
Student: "1922, none."

Margaret Umbach (in history class): "Well, maybe it does sound funny, but I always remember dates."

I can work, and sweat, and tug, and toil,
'Til my finger tips are sore,
But some poor fish is sure to say—
"I've heard that joke before."

Maggie S.: "Who wrote his autobiography?"

Mrs. Clark: "Esther, your mouth is open."
E. Nobles: "I know it, I opened it."

Herbie: "What time is it in there?"
Lucille R.: "The same time it is out there."

Profiles

Rattle, rattle rattle! Bet you can't guess who's coming. Nope. Wrong again. No, it isn't a car; it's a cracker. Not a fire cracker, a wise cracker. But just like the former, he ought to get shot. Everybody ought to know this guy. He's the one that was implicated in the famous swinging door case many years ago. Yes, fellows, he's the first human to ever be hit by a swinging door, and he looks it, to say nothing of his conversation. Talk! Say, that guy can talk more and say less than anybody I know. I also want to call your attention, ladies and gentlemen, to the fact that he is one of the original Two Black Crows, but he had his downfall. He and Herb Vigran are the only surviving members. He and the latter along with some cronies served time during 1927-28 at North Side. He always did things in the right way as when he served time he got himself a ball and chain.

If you haven't guessed who this is by this time you must be a freshman. It's our own beloved Eddie, Ed Ford (latest model). Now, this is confidential, Ed's a friend of mine and I can't say the things about him I'd like, but you just see me some time after school. I'll make his ears burn (somebody bring him ungentine, poor boy). When I came up to him he was hitting on all 6 7/8. He rattled it off like this:

"How are your ears to-day? Keeping them clean? That's good. Say, what's a cynic, Otto? Don't know? Why, it's a place where they wash dishes. What's that? You will? Say, don't get tough, I'll sic John McMeen on you. Do I like North Side? Well, you'd be surrounded. Especially a certain little girl in red. Slow down, slow down, Ford, your radiator's steaming. You better see how fast you can beat it. I see a cop. Pardon me, my error, how was I to know it was Ted McNelley. You say you're speeding through town because your brakes are broke and you want to hurry home before you have an accident? All right. So long.

Very closely associated with this Ford is another machine. It doesn't run by gas; it runs by steam (you might know, it's a woman). Every one of you guessed right, it's the Standley Steamer, Pearl Standley. I asked her the other day what she liked and she said Eddie. She went on to say that she also likes tomato soup and mush. Which all goes to prove that you can't paint a skyscraper with a toothbrush. Do you know Pearl plays a sax? Yes. I asked her if she was a finished musician and she said, "not yet, but the neighbors are making threats. Well, Pearl, North Side wishes you a lot of luck along that line (all bad).

I, L. Otto Slush, hereby set my hand and seal and I, the aforesaid Slush, wish to state that all what's coming (e. g., the statements and remarks issued by Pearl) are good to the last drop:

A few years ago I was walking through a cemetery. I noticed a narrow tombstone inscribed with this epitaph, "Lord, she was thin." Upon inquiring I learned that the husband of the deceased was a Scotchman and didn't have room to put on the "e." You asked me about myself. Well, I'm a good-looking girl who can cook fudge that would knock your teeth out (even if they're not false). Which reminds me, I'm getting to be a big girl now and I'll soon be able to wear mother's teeth. So I took those $50,000 and bought telephone slugs, so you see I'm still talking and perhaps I always will.

At that instant Ford and Standley drove away, leaving me on the corner singing the tired customer song, "I wonder why you keep me waiting, Charmaine."

Yours disrespectfully,
L. OTTO SLUSH, N.G.

SOUTH SIDE AND CENTRAL CLASH FRIDAY NIGHT

Rivals To Meet at South Side Gymnasium

SECOND MEETING OF TWO CITY TEAMS

Kellys To Kendallville; Tigers Entertain Warsaw.

Central and South Side, old rivals for basketball supremacy in the high schools-of the Summit City, will again clash next Friday night at South Side gym for honors in the race for the city high school basketball championship for the second semester, '27-'28. The dope favors the Southern quintet although Central may stage a surprise for the Green five.

South Side's lineup will probably be Van Ness and Feustel, forwards; Miner, center, and Bell and Dickey, guards.

Central's probable starting five will be Dornte and Franke, forwards; Hammond, center; Brockall and Lyons, guards.

The usual color, enthusiasm, spirit, and bands of both schools will probably be in evidence with a large crowd of fans attending.

In the first meeting of the two schools this year the Kellys swamped the Tigers with a score of 36-18.

Redskins Swamp Garrett High in Flashy Game of Basketball There

North Side To Travel To Bluffton Friday; South of Lima To Play Here Saturday.

North Side gained ample revenge for the defeat handed them by Garrett last fall on the gridiron by severely trouncing the basketball five of that town's high school by a 56-to-14 score. The contest was waged at Garret last Saturday night.

Garret took an early lead when the local boys scored the first goal from the field. From that time until the end North Side held a lead which they never relinquished. The Redskins used a smooth passing game which easily penetrated Garrett's defense and gave North Side many close cracks at the net. Jack Gordon was a heavy contributor of points for the Redskins, scoring 20, while Penrod and Marshall each got 14. For Garrett S. Gordon and Traster each counted three double-markers. Besides showing a fast offense North Side exhibited an airtight defense that held Garrett well in check.

Lineup and summary:

Referee: Griffith, Auburn.

On to Bluffton! Friday night the team travels to Bluffton where they will meet the aggregation of that city what promises to be a good game, as Bluffton beat Central by two points and we beat them by six. Two of the Bluffton cakers are out, Stevens has a sprained wrist and Crosbie, one of their high-point men, received a bad ankle in the Central game. However, they may report for duty any time.

Three of the biggest factors in the Bluffton scoring machine are Pyle, Richey and Ellenberger. All of them will probably be seen in action against the Redskins.

That their men are veterans in the game is shown by the following schedule:

Pyle is a three-letter man; Ellenberger is a four-letter man; Crosbie is a four-letter man; Swigert is a two-letter man; Richey is a three-letter man; Prough is a two-letter man; Stevens first year of competition; Van Horn first year of competition; Barrington, first year of competition.

Here is a part of Bluffton's scores for the year:

Bluffton, 30; Rock Creek, 28.
Bluffton, 26; Hartford City, 24.
Bluffton, 50; Garrett, 26.

South of Lima will meet the Redskins on the home floor Saturday night.

hard struggle. Both North Side and Central have fallen before Kendallville's attack this season and this quintet will be remembered as having seen action at the state tournament last year. Both Prentice and Helgn of the K'ville squad are veterans of the hardwood who played at Indianapolis at the state meet last year.

Little is known of Warsaw's strength this year on the hardwood, but in former years the Warsaw five has been a match for the best of 'em. A close battle can always be depended on when Central meets this quintet.

SOCIETY AND FEATURES

(Now, isn't it terrible it's raining? Here's the lead the society editor wrote, hoping it would snow. Read this then get your slicker and umbrella and play in the snow.)

Aren't snow storms a sheer delight! As soon as the playful little snow flakes began to fall, like feathers from a downy pillow, from the sky, something within us seems to make us want to get out and see how much mischief we can do.

Of course, the old folks will say, you can give me the good old summer time with the meadows full of agreeable cows and daisies and bees and red clover and sunlight; nights full of fireflies and stars and the smell of locust and honeysuckle.

But, it would be just like this younger generation to be different and be thrilled with winter. Yet how can one help it when the silence of a cold, crisp night is broken by the sound of sleigh bells and the shouts of happy voices echo through the shivery air. Bob sled parties are the king of all parties! We all like to cross the rolling hills on our skis; down the old toboggan with the wind crashing into your face and skating to your heart's content. Who said winter didn't have its thrills?

Home Ec. Teachers Entertained at N. H. S.

The Home Economics teachers from all of the schools in the city met in the apartment at North Side Thursday evening where they were entertained with a demonstration by Mr. Damouth, a representative of the Supermaid Aluminum Cook-ware. He was assisted by Mr. Hazen Johnson of this city who is the local representative. A delicious meal was prepared and served by the two men to the teachers. It consisted of roast beef, steamed potatoes, rice, buttered carrots, pancakes and syrup, baked apples, cake and coffee.

The Supermaid is a heavy cast aluminum ware which cooks vegetables and fruits without water, bakes without an oven, and fries without smoke. The demonstrator chose the cheapest and toughest cut of meat that could be found and cooked it in a roaster with a specially designed drip system which acts as a self-basting device that keeps the meat moist and retains all of the flavor. This was prepared on top of the stove, with the gas flame just high enough to keep it from going out. Carrots were cooked without water, the steam from their own moisture keeping them from burning. This is considered one of the most valuable assets of the Supermaid because it insures the saving of all the valuable numeral salts and vitamins that are usually destroyed by boiling in water at a high temperature. Potatoes and apples were prepared in the same way. Rice, being a very dry, starchy cereal, must be cooked with water. It was allowed to steam for 20 minutes and came out in perfect whole grains, fluffy and tender throughout. The cake was baked in a utensil called a double fryer or omelet pan. The batter was poured over one side, the other closed down over it. It was placed over the gas flame and after 23 minutes it had baked to a lovely brown.

The coffee made in the Supermaid urn, according to the demonstrator, makes twice the amount per pound and of finer flavor than any other method. The flavor and aroma are tightly sealed in and therefore cannot come to meet you on your way home from work.

The demonstration and the meal were both thoroughly enjoyed by the teachers. A Supermaid frying pan was presented to Miss Keep, supervisor of Home Economics, and a smaller pan raffled off by lot to Miss Stiegleitz.

A second demonstration was given Friday morning before Miss Devlibiss' 10A cooking class, in which pancakes were prepared and served to the class.

Foreign Music From North Side High Attracts Many Students

Orchestra in Rehearsal Is Answer To Students' Curiosity; Music Causes Surprise Among Students.

Quite like the poems it was at the close of day. I was patiently waiting in line for my turn at the hot dogs at Falvey's. When suddenly came the sound of a trumpet in a distance. I stood at attention. The sound was repeated. Then came a thundering roar. What could it be? I grabbed my sandwich. (I, although horribly ill at ease) walked nonchalantly into the school building. Was it safe? I stood half scared to death in one of the recesses in the corner with my ears primed for just a little bit of evidence. Immediately the sounds filled the whole place. Certainly there must have been a radio show or maybe the wild Africans (because the music didn't sound a bit domestic.)

Who was playing and what were they playing? Maybe it was the Victrola. Even if it were a Victrola record it must have been a worn down one, because I could not tell whether they were playing some of Mendelssohn or Kreisler. Maybe it was Turkey in the Straw.

Finally I wandered down to the orchestra room and peeked in the door. Mr. Mathews was not present at the time. The orchestra was just tuning up. It appeared to me as a gym class when the teacher gives the command, "squads right" and the class turns squads left.

Some were playing and there were bows in the air high enough to touch the ceiling, others with them so low that they might touch the floor. I just happened to see Asbury Carson in the corner tuning his bass violin. I wonder if its large enough for him to put it under his chin when he plays it. Maybe it's a little large, for he was standing on a chair tuning it at the time I saw him. Suddenly Mr. Mathews appeared on the scene with his baton waving in the air. Then I heard the orchestra all hit a G together. Just then Don Elder had to go outdoors to get air because he had to play the bass horn for the rest of the time. Well, I guess I heard enough music for one day, so I started for home.

NEW TROPHY IS GIVEN TO NORTH SIDE HI

Names of Valedictorian and Salutatorian To Be Engraved On Cup.

DONOR OF CUP IS NOT KNOWN

Trophy To Remain In Possession of School.

A beautiful silver loving cup has been presented to North Side High School by an unknown donor who wishes to have his name kept a secret, said Mr. Northrop, principal of the school.

The cup has been awarded for excellence in scholarship, and the valedictorian and salutatorian of the Senior class of each year will be honored by having their names engraved on the cup. The class of 1928 will be the first to furnish the two lucky students who will be so honored.

The new trophy is the first of its kind to be given in any city for scholastic achievements, most cups being awarded for other purposes. The athletic department of North Side received the Guild trophy for the best all-round athlete. Anyone who has his name placed on that cup must be passing in all his subjects before he can qualify as an all-round athlete.

Another cup, which was given to the public speaking department of this school, is the Koerber trophy. This was to have the names of the best debaters engraved upon it. Philip Bowen had the honor of having his name on the cup for the first year.

HI-Y GIVES POSTERS TO CITY SCHOOLS

Mottos To Be Changed Each Week.

North Side is to be blessed with a few more gifts. In fact we already are receiving the benefits of the gift. The Torch Club and the Hi-Y Club have united in presenting to us a frame with forty posters. They are doing this as a part of their service work. In doing this these boys are learning the much-sought-for lesson that "It is more blessed to give than to receive." They are receiving much pleasure in presenting these posters to us, however, and they, along with us, are deriving much benefit from these posters.

These posters are divided up into mottos on: Sportsmanship, Patriotic Events, and School Spirit. They all contain a different slant on life, and their aim is to help students have a more perfect outlook on life. We already have a wonderful school, and it seems that everyone and all the clubs are seeking to make it perfect. With all of the wonderful examples of right living and success that are ever before us, through the aid of everyone in the school, we ought to make our school stand forth as an example for other schools to follow.

Bowen Will Represent North Side in County Contest.

Philip Bowen took first place in the preliminary contest for the state discussion contest held in the auditorium last Wednesday morning. The participants in the contest were Philip Bowen, Clayton Duntun, John McMeen, and Herbert Vigran. The judges were Mr. Kimes, Mr. Eyster and Mr. Dickinson. John McMeen took second place. Bowen will represent North Side in the county contest to be held in March.

The subject of the contest was "A Government Plan for Farm Relief," and Philip Bowen gave a very forceful speech. Each speaker gave a constructive speech with a rebuttal and they were judged on both thought and delivery. Let us all hope that Philip will continue the fame of North Side in this contest as he helped to win victories for us last fall in the extemporaneous contest.

JUNIOR RED CROSS
HOLDS MEETING

Art Portfolios To Be Sent To Foreign Countries

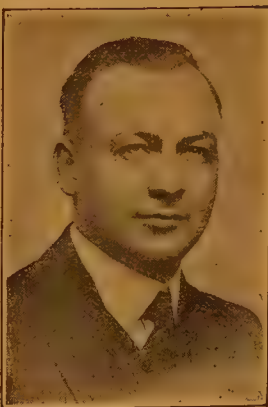

The Junior Red Cross held a meeting Saturday afternoon, February 11, at the Central High School auditorium. Miss Nina Lewis of North Side opened the meeting by acknowledging the honor which had been conferred upon her by being elected president. Miss Viola McNeal of Arcola was appointed secretary in the absence of the regular one.

Children from the different schools gave accounts of the Christmas Red Cross work which their schools had accomplished. In addition to sending out numerous boxes and baskets, some poor families were cared for. Three were helped by the Huntertown school and St. Augustine Academy sent baskets to four families.

Plans were also laid to send some portfolios of art work to foreign countries. This is a great honor to be bestowed upon the Fort Wayne schools. As usual, contributions of the school children to the National Children's Fund will be sent to Washington, D. C.

At the meeting it was planned to give an entertainment in the near future. Its purpose will be to earn money for the Junior Red Cross. Miss Deppen is to have charge of the plans. She will have as members of her committee Miss Emerick of Huntertown, Miss McNeal of Arcola, and Miss Poellinger of South Side High School.

LUCILLE REICHLIE IN COMMUNITY PLAY

North Side Student Wins Praise As An Actress.

Lucille Reichle, who is a junior at North Side, held the leading role in "The Charm School," which was presented by the Community Theater Guild last Thursday and Friday nights at the Catholic Community Center. The comedy was under the direction of Charles Shank.

Lucille Reichle took the part of the pupil in the school with whom Austin Bevans, the young principal, fell in love. Joe Fulson played opposite Miss Reichle as Austin Bevans. The Journal-Gazette in describing the play stated that "Lucille Reichle as Elsie Benedotte, the principal reason why charm wins with the obstinate young director of the school, does exceptionally good work. Her naturally beautiful voice never fails to register just what it is supposed to in all the variations of a leading role."

Mr. Bill Jones?

Here's what Bill says for this week: "It's not the size of the dog in the fight—it's the size of the fight in the dog that counts."

Have you seen the mysterious Bill Jones? We are all wondering who our good friend is. He's in a big frame and seems always to have the friendliest of smiles and gives us the best advice every day. He is in the main hall near the front entrance, and if you have not already noticed him be sure to seek his kindly face immediately. He will appear with a new poster each week and, well, that's all I dare tell you. If you ask Mr. Northrop about it, I'm sure he'll tell you to run along, but be sure to watch 'Our Mysterious Bill Jones.'

CENTRAL WILL MEET EMERSON
ON SATURDAY

Steel City Gang Are Stiff Opponents To Meet.

ONLY ONE GAME ON KELLY'S SLATE

Muncie Game With South Side Is Cancelled.

With the closing of the regular high school basketball season Central and South Side will face some stiff opposition before the sectional tournament.

Central will travel to Gary Saturday night where it will meet Emerson. Sufficient opposition for the Tigers by the Steel City crew is promised as it will be remembered that it was Emerson who, after being twice defeated by Froebel, upset the dope in the sectional tournament and downed the Blue Devils. Then that team continued its march to the state tournament, where it was finally stopped by Martinsville. According to advance reports the "Golden Tornado" has also been setting a fast pace this year. The Tigers are especially anxious to gain revenge on the Lake county natters for the 32-to-31 drubbing handed them last year.

Due to a cancellation of the Muncie game scheduled to be played at Muncie on Saturday, the South Side basketball team's only opposition will be North Side on Friday. The Muncie game was canceled for the reason of Muncie's forced cancellation of one game. The South Side game made 21 games on the Bearcat card, which is not permissible under the rules of I. H. S. A. A.

TRYOUTS FOR PLAY ARE HELD MONDAY

Seniors Begin Work on Class Play "Number Seventeen."

The senior play, "Number Seventeen," which is a mystery play, will be given March 23-30 in our own North Side Auditorium.

The play will be under the direction of Miss Marjorie Suter. She has directed the senior plays at Central for several years, and now at North Side, and is very capable in the position.

The tryouts were held Monday evening, but the cast has not yet been announced. Watch the Northerner for further announcements.

BOOSTERS CLUB TO HELP TOURNAMENT

Club Granted Concessions For Sectional and Regional.

At a meeting of the Boosters club it was announced that they had combined with the North Side Athletic Association and will have charge of the concessions at both the Sectional and Regional tournaments.

The club has charge of making placards for the Sectional. This includes the score boards and colors of each team.

Committees have been appointed for the different concessions and plans also have been made to maintain a check room during the tournament week.

Miss Storr has announced that Maurice Cook is to be in charge of the checkroom with the help of several members of the Boosters club. The helpers are Evelyn Jeurgens, George McComb, Catherine Miller, Ralph Ehrman and Harold Novitsky.

The check room which is to be used, is the one at the north end, formerly used for the book store.

The charges have not as yet been announced.

FOOTBALL FOR 1928 SEASON IS ANNOUNCED

Six Games at Home Have Been Scheduled.

CENTRAL, OCTOBER 13;
SOUTH SIDE, NOV. 3

Redskin Season To Close on November 10.

North Side Redskins face an interesting schedule in football for next fall. The complete slate of games, which has just been announced by M. H. Northrop, principal of North Side, includes six home games and three out-of-town meets.

Reading, Michigan, who played the Redskins' initial game on the local gridiron, return to open the season on Sept. 15. The following week the Billsmen go to Auburn to try to get revenge for the two defeats the Auburn teams have given the Northsiders. On September 29, the Garrett eleven comes to Fort Wayne and just seven days later Concordia College meets the local team.

The following week, on October 13 the Redskins play their first game of the city high school series when they meet the Central Tigers. The following two week-ends take in some action with some of Fort Wayne's old rivals, Kendallville here on October 20, and Portland there on October 27. On the following week-end the Redskins return home for their game with South Side, the city champs of 1927.

The final game of the Northsiders will be played at Bluffton on November 10.

"Comedy of Errors" Goes Over Big At North Side High School

Students Show Unusual Ability In Giving Shakesperian Production. Performance Is Big Success.

North Side turned time backward last Friday and lived in the days of long ago, for Shakespeare's "Comedy of Errors" was well dramatized by members of the Student Players' Club. The "gentlemen" in their bright-colored costumes, with their clever "men," the tradesmen distinguished by their flowing robes and hair, came into our school and made all forget their present joys and sorrows and live in the past.

The two pairs of twins, being as exactly alike that servants and masters, and everyone else for that matter, could not say which was which, caused many ludicrous errors, which might have been serious had not the four come face to face at last and straightened out the many difficulties. The success of the performance was unquestioned. All of the characters deserve praise for making intensely interesting a play so different from most of those written and played today. The production was Shakesperian indeed, the stage setting was perfect, allowing the audience to supply scenery of its own imagination. The appropriate costumes and the ability of the players, whose entrances were announced by placards, made this no task at all.

As has often been said, Shakespeare created no weak characters in his plays. Whoever takes the part of one of his characters, even one of the less important ones, has a chance to show his skill. The two Dromios, Carl Jacobs and Bob Kaade, created many a laugh by their wit and lively antics. Harold Korn and Norman Richards made fine Antipholuses. The characters of Adriana and Luciana were very well portrayed by Dorothy Bowman and Garnet Carpenter. Others who deserve credit for fine acting were Frank Nicklas as Aegean, Marie Groer as Lesbia, John Robinson as Balthazar, Herbert Vigran as Angelo, John McMeen as Dr. Pinch, and Ralph Ehrman as a Monk.

FOOTBALL SUBSTITUTES

At a meeting of physical directors in New York, a point was made that permanent injury from straining the vital organs often follows a football experience. This is undoubtedly the truth, but the present day coach and trainers do their utmost to prevent injuries. The young men out for football are trained much as the soldiers were for the war. This has reduced the number of serious accidents but many a young man has gone into life under a disadvantage caused by too much exertion while playing football. The same tendency has been noted in basketball where the strain on the nerves and muscles is terrible.

Regardless of the dangers of these sports, however, there will be little attention paid to the suggestion that a substitute be found for football. People, including the players and their coaches, will laugh at the thought of having gardening, swimming, or camping as a substitute for foot ball. In swimming there is still the thrill of competition, but in camping or gardening, that thrill is lost. Most colleges and universities have stadiums and these structures must be filled. One cannot use the imagination enough to picture thousands of people crowding into the stadium to see a potato planting contest between Indiana and Purdue. It would be difficult to imagine a camping contest between Butler and DePauw with every seat sold and people standing. Football has become a spectacle as well as a sport. It is played as much for the public's satisfaction as for bringing glory to the Alma Mater. Whenever a substitute is found for football, it must have the same thrilling element, the same public appeal, and the same chance for the yell leaders to strut their stuff. —Shortridge Echo.

Most of us have been studying the American version of George Washington's life for several years, but few have ever read what an Englishman has to say about him. The following is a story of his life by the English historian, William Edward Hartpole Lecky, M. P.:

"In civil as in military life, he was pre-eminent among his contemporaries for the clearness and soundness of his judgment, for his perfect moderation and self-control, for the quiet dignity and the indomitable firmness with which he pursued every path which he had deliberately chosen. Of all the great men in history he was the most invariably judicious, and there is scarcely a rash word or action or judgment recorded of him. Those who knew well noticed that he had keen sensibilities and strong passions; but his power of self-command never failed him, and no act of his public life can be traced to personal avarice, ambition, or resentment. In the despondency of long-continued failure, in the elation of sudden success, at times when his soldiers were deserting by hundreds and when malignant plots were formed against his reputation, amid the constant quarrels, rivalries, and jealousies of his subordinates, in the dark hour of national ingratitude, and in the midst of the most universal and intoxicating flattery, he was always the same calm, wise, just, and single-minded man, pursuing the course which he believed to be right, without fear or favour or fanaticism; equally free from the passions that spring from interest, and from the passions that spring from imagination. He never acted on the impulse of an absorbing or uncalculating enthusiasm, and he valued very highly fortune, position, and reputation; but at the command of duty he was ready to risk and sacrifice them all. He was in the highest sense of the words a gentleman and a man of honour, and he carried into public life the severest standard of private morals."

"His mind was not quick or remarkably original. His conversation had no brilliancy or wit. He was entirely without the gift of eloquence, and he had very few accomplishments. He knew no language but his own, and except for a rather strong turn for mathematics, he had no taste which can be called purely intellectual. There was nothing in him of the meteor or the cataract, nothing that either dazzled or overpowered. A courteous and hospitable country gentleman, a skilful farmer, a very keen sportsman, he probably differed little in tastes and habits from the better members of the class to which he belonged; and it was in a great degree in the administration of a large estate and in assiduous attention to county and provincial business that he acquired his rare skill in reading and managing men."

"It may, however, be truly said of him that his military reputation steadily rose through many successive campaigns, and before the end of the struggle he had outlived all rivalry, and almost all envy. He had a thorough knowledge of the technical part of his profession, a good eye for military combinations, an extraordinary gift of military administration. Punctual, methodical, and exact in the highest degree, he excelled in managing those minute details which are so essential to the efficiency of an army, and he possessed to an eminent degree not only the common courage of a soldier, but also that much rarer form of courage which can endure long-continued suspense, bear the weight of great responsibility, and encounter the risks of misrepresentation and unpopularity.—William Edward Hartpole Lecky, M. P.

An unknown friend of North Side has honored us by donating a beautiful silver cup to take its place with those received through the kindness and generosity of Mr. Koerber and Mr. Guild.

As the Guild cup represents an honor to strive for in the field of athletics and the Koerber cup an honor to strive for in the field of public speaking, so this new cup represents an honor to strive for in the field of scholarship.

It seems almost impossible to express sufficient thanks for so great a gift as this lovely cup. Our only means of showing the Unknown Giver our sincere appreciation is to make the best of our opportunities and those of us who cannot have our name engraved on the cup at least come as near to that honor as we possibly can.

The school spirit shown by the pupils has been beyond complaint. Ball games, plays, discussion contests, musical and other events have all had their full share of support. That is why we have come to be recognized by the people of Fort Wayne as a school deserving notice and praise.

Shall we not all "keep up the good work" by supporting all future productions? The Senior Play will be given in March. This will certainly deserve the support of everyone and we feel sure few will fail the Seniors in this respect.

FUN TO BE A SENIOR

By Mary Miller

Fun to be a senior? No, I say

For it grows worse day by day.

We must be examples for Juniors and Sophs,

And follow the customs and habits of "Profs".

We must be dignified, not run through the halls,

But take our good time and avoid office calls.

Rouge, lipstick, and powder they say, are taboo.

I think it's a shame we can't use them, don't you?

We're expected to know much more than the rest,

And never, no never, should we fall in a test,

And last, but not least, comes our final exam,

With nothing to do but crone and to cram.

Pete Hagerman says about the saddest sight is to see a woman who has just heard a choice bit of gossip rush home only to find the telephone out of order.

Profiles

"If bubbles burst, will a lolly pop?"

Three guesses. Who is this from?

This young man holds the world's lollypop record. He also has captured the American free style from an experienced lollypopper, and quietly stood by (that is, if one can indulge in a pop quietly) while his opponent choked to death (cruel boy!) (It seems that our contestant won by a lip due to the extraordinary dissolving powers of his saliva). His mouth is well calloused and North Side wishes him much success on the field of combat. And has that boy got speed? Say, he can manipulate an all-day sucker like nobody can, including me. He defies any one to show greater skill and technique in a free-for-all match. The judges for this contest will be Mary Wayne, Baby Ruth, Oh Henry and Mrs. Clark bar none.

Paul Somers is also a debater of no mean repute. Probably it is to this that he owes his success, for debates and calloused tongues go hand in hand or I should say mouth in chin. He helped decide that great question, "What will we do with carrots when they stop making soup?" (No comment whatever on the cafeteria.) After coaxing I persuaded Paul to refrain from licking his lolly long enough to give me this bit of information concerning his history that has never heretofore been published.

"You say how many ice cream chocolate-coated ones I have had? Wait till I get my old vests and I'll count up. I'll do that later. I want to tell you to what I contribute my success. It's with a lollypop in my mouth. Many's the time that I almost choked to death, but I have lived to tell this tale. Do you want to hear something funny? Imagine for yourself ice cream peanuts, roller skates and Ed Ford. Laugh? I thought I'd die. I want to tell you what a bright boy I am. I always pass in school. Take for instance the other day, I took a geometry test from Miss Sites, and I passed so well that I was excused. And now I have to do it all over again. My lollypop is getting low. Get out of my way, I'm heading for more.

"Think of the mighty oak, it was once a little nut like me," so philosophizes one of our famous North Side optimists. She, also, was doomed to the same fate as the former subject of abuse, that of being a debater. Yes, she took first prize, but when they found it out they made her put it back (naughty, naughty). You ought to know this girl, she's one of the most outstanding athletes in this school, Gertrude Ederle and Helen Wills included. She has an affinity for dark complexioned people, and is a fast worker. (Get me straight on that last.) She thinks the period between 500 A.D. and 1200 A.D. is known as the dark ages because those were the days of knights, but she loves the high school daze. Which does not go very far in proving the statement that roses are red and onions rather odiferous, as Louise Shreve undertook to do. These Shreves are fast people. Plenty fast whenever they run they always capture first, second, third, or fourth prize. That's the reason I had such a hard time catching Louise, but finally I did land her right out in the entrance just when she was skipping Public Speaking class. Oh, yes, she takes Public Speaking, that is if they give it to her. Well, as I was saying, I caught up to her at last and got this much:

"I use Pepsodent tooth paste. Otherwise there isn't anything wrong with me. My lot number is M156078, and my license (dog) is B. C. 1928 and I never run wild, which all goes to prove the old fable that "He who sits on a hot stove is crazy." I may not be bright but I'm darn good looking. I'm going to play basketball so I'll have to go now.

P. S.: If anyone wishes an interview me, L. Otto Slush, they may do so by coming to room 110, the publication office, or by sending a letter requesting it. The real thing I'm after is the letters. It certainly thrills me to get a letter from a fan after getting so many business letters and offers for better positions.

A lot of what?

North Side Crew Wins One and Loses One Game Over Week-End

Parlor City Lads Down Redskins Buckeyes Nosed Out By One Point. Both Games Well Played.

Bluffton's Tigers blasted the hope of victory for the Redskins last Friday at Bluffton by scoring 6 points in the last few minutes of the game after the Redskins tied the score. The final score was 37 to 31.

Bluffton took an early lead when Pyle and Ellenberger counted from the field but McVey retaliated with two in succession. However, the Tigers gradually drew out in front and the score was 23 to 16 with Bluffton ahead at the half.

The Redskins came back strong in the last half and outscored Bluffton, finally tying the score at 31. The Tigers took time out and when play was resumed, Bluffton broke through to score two field goals and the same number of free throws to clinch the contest. Ellenberger scored seven field goals and one free throw to lead Bluffton, while Gordon counted six field goals for the Redskins.

Redskins Will Meet Kelly Klads At South Side Gymnasium On Friday

Angola Invades Redskin Camp Saturday For Big Game—Girls To Play In Preliminaries.

North Side will wind up its season this week-end by meeting two of the strongest adversaries on the Redskin program.

On Friday the Redskins will make their final bid for an upper berth in the standing of the public Fort Wayne high schools. A victory for the Green will mean the lead for the southern school in the standing and will shove North Side into the lowest place, while a win or the Redskins will put all three schools on a par with two won and two lost and will carry the final decision to the sectional tournament. This game will be played at South Side as a return game for the tilt staged at North Side earlier in the season, which South Side won 38 to 22. The Redskins are out for revenge.

South Side's lineup of Feustel and Van Ness, forwards; Miner, center; Bell and Dickey, guards; and North Side's lineup of Marshall and Gordon, forwards; Koenig, center; Penrod and McVey, guards, will probably appear for both schools.

The North Side reserves will meet the South Side reserves. Two picked girls' teams from North Side will stage the first contest at 6:45 for the Angola game. The captains for the girls' games are Esther Nobles and Louise

Central Tigers Win Over South Side High By Score of 30 to 25

Kellys and Mendenhall Get the Bacon In Saturday's Games; Sharp Shooting Is Featured Through Each Game.

A fighting Central team clawed its way to victory and gained revenge for its former defeat at the hands of South Side.

The Tigers broke the jinx that shadowed the camp for several weeks and gained the hard-fought victory to the tune of 30-25. The Central offense was led by the two forwards, Al Franke and Adam Farrell. Each accounted for five baskets.

The defense was led by Dornte and Bash with Lyons playing a good game at center. Miner, the Kelly center,

C. C. Wins Game From Anderson

Central Catholic took an easy game from Anderson Catholic High last night by a 39-to-17 score. The game was a fast one, but the visiting team could not break through the strong defensive play of the local cagers. C. C. started the scoring and kept it up through the rest of the game at a fast pace.

Anderson guarded C. C.'s team very closely, but Romary and Diek were able to find an opening now and then and scored for C. C. On the other hand Hefferan and Ferguson scored high for Anderson's team.

C. C. counted first with a free throw. The half ended 22-4.

The second half began with the locals' second team, which kept the score satisfactory for Central Catholic. The score ended 39-17, favoring C. C. played excellent ball as well as scoring 11 points. Bell, Fay, and Feustel looked especially well for the South Siders.

The Kelly Klads broke away to a 3-point lead in the first few minutes of the game until Farrell found the net for the Tigers. The rest of the half was a see-saw affair. Neither team got any decided advantage. The half ended 13-12, South Side.

The second half started with a bang and when the dust had cleared away Farrell had scored another double marker or Central. Baxter and Miner scored a basket and foul, respectively. Bash and Farrell counted two more goals for Central.

Central held the lead the rest of the game, although they were at no time assured of victory as the South Siders trailed only a few points. The Central reserves defeated the South Side reserves by a score of 24-13.

Central Quintet Wins Over Warsaw.
Coach Mendenhall used his reserves all through the first half of the game and they were ahead at the half by 19-17 score. He put in his regulars at the beginning of the second period. It was Central's game from then on the rest of the time.

Lyons and Hammond starred with 7 and 9 points. Helt and Farrell each got three double markers apiece.

Each team had 15 personal and one technical foul. Each team also made 10 out of 15 attempts from the foul line.

The squads looked evenly matched at the beginning of the game. Central then came out of the trance and was going good the rest of the game.

Every man on Central's team except two scored from the field at least once. Central's reserves won the preliminary with a score of 30-20.

SOCIETY AND FEATURES

Greatness lives on down through the ages!

This has been proved by the public sentiment which has been cast upon the memory of George Washington. In every city, town, village and school over the entire country, old, young, happy, and distracted people are paying their respect to the birthday of the father of our country.

If George Washington could return today and see the skyscrapers, airplanes, radio and such, his bosom would swell with pride. He could really feel then his efforts were not in vain. He could be proud of the fact his Constitution has been durable these many years. And we hope he could be proud of us and our nation.

At any rate we are proud of him! As long as we exist we shall never forget our duty to George Washington and his flag, which he has given to us. —The Red—White—and the Blue!

Tea Dances Popular.

Everyone is quite elated over the tea dances which have been started at North Side by Dean Reynard. The first one was a great success and all the students were quite enthusiastic about getting to dance from 3:15 to 5:00.

It's quite a novel idea to bring this extra social life into the school. North Side is the first school in Fort Wayne to inaugurate the plan; in fact, North Side is one of the first high schools in truly for North Side! There's a school orchestra to play the program of dances, and the students are given a splendid chance to get better acquainted.

Basketball Rules

One of the main rules of the I. H. S. A. A. is, "That no basketball games shall be played by players or schools later than the State Final Tourney. This rule has been interpreted by the Board of Control to apply to inter-school games, and not to inter-school games. "Within the school" basketball playing is permitted anytime but students who play basketball on any teams other than "in "within the school" games after the State Final Tourney or after the season has closed in their high school, make themselves ineligible for all athletics until January 1 following and also jeopardize the standing of their high school in the I. H. S. A. A. The basketball season closes for all players and all teams in the I. H. S. A. A on the evening of the final day of the state final tourney, and the basketball season closes for all players and all teams in individual schools on the evening of the day closing the season for inter-school games in the school. The interim between the final tourney and sectional tourneys is not a period for violations by players or teams in school that have been eliminated or whose seasons have closed. Neither is it a period for violations by players and teams in schools that have not been eliminated or whose seasons have not closed.

Three Hundred and Fifty Tickets Sent to Accommodate Tiger Fans

New Butler Field House Has Adequate Facilities For Tourney—Has Seating Capacity of 15,000

Only three hundred and fifty tickets were sent to Fort Wayne for the fans and boosters of the Tigers for the state tourney Friday and Saturday. The price of the cardboard, which are on sale in Principal Croninger's office at Central high school, is $1.50.

Different plans have been made this year about admittance to the games. Persons who possess tickets will be admitted first, and fans from the contesting teams will be given seats in the sections reserved for that school. Each of the 16 schools will have a section reserved for its boosters.

This is the first time the state meet has not been held in the "cowbarns" since Indianapolis took the tournament from the state university at Bloomington. The Butler university field house which is to be the center of activities this year was dedicated only last Wednesday night when the Butler Bulldogs defeated the Notre Dame quintet by a score of 21-13. The building is said to be excellent in size and up-to-date features by few other similar structures in the United States. The basketball court and the 15,000 seats for spectators occupy the west end of the building. The east section of the building contains a swimming pool 60 feet wide and 120 feet long.

A quarter mile track and a spacious gymnasium are being constructed in the new hippodrome of Butler. The basketball floor has been built in sections which can be removed at any time so that space is provided for indoor baseball or football practice. The height to the roof is great enough to permit punting at these indoor football scrimmages which are being planned for future Bulldog football teams.

NORTHSIDE SENIOR PRESENT "NUMBER 17"

Miss Marjorie Suter, director of dramatics at North Side has chosen the following cast: Lella Smith, Frances Cook, Durward Allen, Herbert Vigran, Donald Elder, William Schellenback, John McMeen, Bob Brosius and Frank Nicklas.

BOB WALSH, '28, WINS CONTEST CONSTITUTION

Four Contestants Enter Tryouts Wednesday.

PAUL SOMERS GIVEN SECOND POSITION

Walsh To Represent North Side at Next Meet.

Robert Walsh, '28, was given first place at the try-outs for the National Oratorical contest, which was held last Wednesday in our auditorium during the assembly period. Ceres Kelly, Paul Sommers, Margaret Smenner and Bob Walsh contested to represent North Side in the county contest. Paul Sommers and Bob Walsh spoke on the "Present Day Significance of the Constitution," while Ceres Kelly and Margaret Smenner spoke on "The Development of the Constitution." The judges for the contest were Miss Reynard, Mr. Pring and Mr. DeLong. Paul Somers was given second place.

Bob Walsh has had previous experience in public speaking, having participated in speaking contests at Central Catholic in previous years, and he was a member of our successful debating team last fall. Bob has been studying on the "Present Significance of the Constitution" since his freshman year, and his speech showed the fruits of his efforts.

All the students are back of Bob, and are wishing him the best success in his future meets on the Constitution.

Psalm of the Eraser Hound

The eraser is an abomination in the eyes of the teacher—and the business man.

It arouseth to wrath, and it classifieth the user thereof as incompetent, inefficient, indifferent, slothful, if not lazy.

It weakeneth the will and paralyzeth the fingers; it is as shackles on the feet.

It destroyeth the power for accuracy, and putteth the four-wheel brakes on speed.

It inviteth harsh criticism.

Basketball Fans Need Food As Well As Excitement At High School Games

Meats and Potatoes Are Popular, While the Sales of Hot Dogs and Eskimo Pies Soars.

People can't live on excitement alone!

They must eat.

And reports from the cafeteria show that basketball fans have good appetites. Nearly 700 ate in the North Side cafeteria during the sectional tournament. The dining room was open to the fans and to the basketball team and coaches on Friday and Saturday, both at noon and in the evening.

Although a great variety of food was served, the fans chose the substantial menu. Meats and potatoes were the most popular. Two and one-half bushels of potatoes were mashed and one bushel was baked. Baked potatoes were served on the special menu for the teams. Judging from those numbers, several of the fans must have been Irish. But the fans haven't anything on the navy. Fifteen pounds of beans were baked for the two days, and few were left over. No estimate was made of the catsup that was used for flavoring. Forty pounds of roast beef were consumed and 18 pounds of fish were served. Twenty-five pounds of veal, twenty pounds of T-bone steaks, and ten pounds of baked ham were served to the basketball enthusiasts. Peas were the most popular vegetable, and six gallons of them were served. Mrs. Wellmeier said. Macaroni and cheese ran high in the race for popularity, and more than six pounds were prepared.

Many salads were sold, but the sale of bread checked high on the register. Thirty loaves of raisin, eleven loaves of whole wheat and twelve pullman

SIXTEEN TEAMS MEET SATURDAY IN FINAL GAMES

Games to Be Played at Butler Field House

OLD CONTESTANTS AGAIN APPEAR AT STATE

Central and Clinton Play Initial Game Friday at 9

And now for the state!

Next Friday and Saturday 16 teams representing that many regional tournaments will meet in Indianapolis to contest for state honors. The games will start Friday morning at 9 o'clock in the new Butler University field house, when Central of Fort Wayne meets the Clinton quintet. Clinton is a dark dobbie, and comes to the tournament after defeating Greencastle, 25-24.

Just two weeks ago there were 740 teams or 5,920 boys in the 46 sectional meets hoping to get a chance to play on the capital hardwood.

The following week end 640 players from 64 schools in the state fought to carry away honors, and only 16 are left for the meet in Indianapolis.

Many of the schools, who have been playing in the state tournament for several years are scheduled to play again this year. This is the third year for the Central Tigers. Frankfort has been represented by a team for the last seven years. Muncie, the runners-up for last year, and Martinsville, last year's champs are both on the card for this week's games. Kendallville's quintet will again see action at the state.

Basketball Proves King Through Large Ticket Sales For Games

Nine Thousand Ninety-Nine Persons See Sectional Tourney Games at North Side Gym.

That basketball is king of the winter sports is evident from the number of tickets that were sold for the sectional and regional tournaments all over the state. In Fort Wayne alone there were 994 season tickets for the sectional meet sold. Of this number 222 were sold at North Side, 283 at Central, and 261 at South Side. One hundred twenty-five of the season tickets were sold to county schools and the others were sold at the box office at the tournament. Besides this number of season tickets there were 4,129 single admission tickets sold for the games on March 2 and 3.

Figuring that one season ticket carried admits to five sessions, about 4,970 persons saw the games on season tickets. This number added to the sales of single admission tickets makes the total number of spectators for the tourney games mount to 9,099. These figures also prove that the 1928 tournament in Fort Wayne was the largest ever held in this city. Figures from last year show that there were more season tickets and single admission tickets bought by the fans this year.

Each of the season tickets sold for one dollar and a half, which would make the total sale of season tickets amount to $1,491.00; the price for the single admission cardboards was 40 cents, which makes the total for these amount to $1,651.60. Final figures show that sale for tickets alone ran up to $3,142.60. This is the amount of money for only one of the sectional tournaments; there were forty-six held in the state.

According to the plan made by the I. H. S. A. A. for the division of the money all the legitimate expenses, except for the transportation, shall be paid from the gross receipts; the center high school shall receive one hundred dollars; transportation shall be paid; the I. H. S. A. A. shall receive five percent of the third balance; one-half of the fifth balance shall be divided pro-rata among the participating schools, the center school sharing; one-half of the fifth balance shall be divided on the basis of season tickets in the local community.

Tickets for the sale of tickets for the regional tournament in the city was not so large as it was for the sectional.

Important meeting of staff Thursday night.

GUM CHEWING

Chewers are divided into three groups: natural, habitual, and spasmodic.

The natural group includes chewers of grass, hay, red flannel shirts, and the best silk hose. These are tolerated because the Creator placed them here for our convenience.

Habitual chewers are victims of environment. They know not how to use their leisure, spend money judiciously, assume any responsibility, or think and learn. They are of little value; they are pests.

Habitual chewers have no time for mental development. Their only concern is to acquire sweetness, the most effective oscillation of jaws, the most elasticity from their gum. Never are they without it.

The spasmodic chewers are those who fall victim to suggestion. They see a gum chewer and can't resist the temptation to chew. Such chewers are seen predominating at picture shows and basketball games. Yes, even a few more move their jaws lazily while attending church.

Did you ever watch a "chewer" at a show? The jaws move slowly during the news reel and the advertisements. More speed is gained at the appearance of the hero. The villain comes upon the scene dragging the heroine by the hair. Speed on and on, ye jaws! A blur of motion is visible where jaws used to be. The noise increases with the speed of the race. The villain is a short distance ahead of the hero, but, alas, the gum chewer in his excitement has lost his gum. He wasn't an expert. Are you?

CONGRATULATIONS CENTRAL

Now that two Fort Wayne schools have been eliminated, the students of the city schools have adopted the "All For Fort Wayne." It's a grand thing for a school to win the right to play at the state for three consecutive years.

Marion is the only school in the northern part of the state to have carried home the honors of state championship—but this year were wishing every bit of luck for the Central Tigers—so eat 'em up, gang.

As spring approaches it is again time to trim the trees. Perhaps when walking along, you have observed great piles of branches lying under the trees which beautify our streets. Branches which shaded others or detracted from the beauty of the tree as a whole or took too much strength from the rest of the tree were cut out. Often large and beautiful branches were sacrificed for the good of the tree.

Men are like trees in many ways. As a tree has many branches so a man has many activities. We must be our own gardeners and cut out those "branches" which are doing more harm than good. Some of the less important activities often sap time and strength and light which we need to successfully carry on the more important ones.

It often seems a shame to "trim out" activities which are giving us a great deal of pleasure. They may also be doing much harm, however, and after they have been disposed of we will realize the extra strength and beauty of the activities that remain.

You will all be seniors sometime. Perhaps then you will wonder why the underclassmen do not support your activities.

So far North Side's first senior class has had no cause for complaint along this line. Let's everybody "keep up the good work" and support the Senior Play. There is no doubt as to its being worth while. With such a director and such a cost we need not even ask the name of the play to be given to assure ourselves that it will be a splendid production. However, we do know that the play itself is good and will be made just so much better by the talent that will be put into it.

The greatest compliments that can be paid by a departing guest is the assurance that he has enjoyed his stay and has been shown wonderful hospitality. We feel proud that our guests during the recent basketball tournament found us hospitable and enjoyed themselves at North Side.

We enjoyed their stay too, and hope that we will again have the honor of being tournament "hosts."

Cracks Along The Boardwalk

Yes, No.

"Are you carrying a fifth subject?"
"No, just dragging it."

Farmer: "Would you like to buy a jug of cider?"
Tourist: "Well—er, is it ambitious and willing to work?"

Freshie: "For gosh, can you tell me how to find the least common multiple?"
Soph: "For gosh sakes, haven't you found that yet?"

Found on freshman's registration card:
Question "Give your parent's name."
Answer: "Mama and Papa."

Can anyone imagine a North Side girl without her war paint?"

The saddest word of tongue or pen,
It's time to write some jokes again.

Lela S.: "Do you like Geometry?"
Lorena F.: "I'll say I do. I'm stuck on every problem."

'31: "Who in the deuce is Miss Happy?"
'29: "Dunno, why?"
'31: "Well, a sophomore told me to work like Helen B. Happy."

Don Elder will now sing a solo, "The Hurdle Song," to the famous personage, Ed Ford.

"I can't get over a dog like you."

Don E. to Lela S.:
"Say, you'll be good looking when you grow up."
"Trying to be sarcastic"
"No, optimistic."

Vic E.: "Say, John, what have you got that canary on your car for?"
J. McMeen: "Oh, when I get to going fifty or sixty miles an hour the bird starts in singing, 'Nearer, My God, to Thee'."

Mrs. Clark: "I've just taken your name for talking."
Edgar D.: "But I wasn't talking."
Mrs. Clark: "Very well, I'll scratch off your name and you can report to Mr. Northrop for deceiving me."

When thee is nothing more to be said some boob always says it.

"Why do you wear green colored glasses?"
"Cause when I drink milk I think it's pea soup."

Herbie: "What is done with the holes of doughnuts?"
Ed: "They're used to stuff macaroni."

"I've been framed," protested the doomed man.
And he made a sorry picture as he was hung.

"Laughter creates appetite," said the Scotchman, starting to cry at the dinner table.

High school is just like a washing machine; you get out of it just what you put in, only you'd never recognize it.

Blanche: "What makes you so giddy?"
Marcella: "I just came out of the circulating library."

Rex Munsey tells us he is going to call his wife muskmelon because she cantaloupe.

Herbie Vigran is going to call his wife piano because she will be upright and grand.

Charlie Pierce wants his wife like a Bible because it is seldom looked at. And Ralph Ehrman wants one like an almanac because he can get a new one each year.

Betty M.: "Wh't kind of a car have you?"
Charlie P.: "I got a wreck."
Betty: "A wreck?"
Charlie: "Yeah, every time I park it a dozen people come up and ask me if I've reported the accident yet."

You could tell what a smart man he was; he always looked both directions when crossing a one-way street.

Profiles

You may be the world to your mother, but you're just another North Sider to me. That's the popular opinion concerning a certain popular young man at North Side "by the river." This fellow isn't exactly nuts but it isn't his fault. When told that "Uncle Tom's Cabin" was written by Harriet Beecher Stowe, he wanted to know which toe. Dumb guy, I think. But inspite of all his eccentricities he's a nice boy and I like him (when he has money). He comes from a large family. He has three brothers and all of their names is George, except Frank and his is Ernest. I'm going to let you in on a little secret. This isn't Napoleon as he claims to be, he really isn't anybody worth being mentioned, but I'm going to tell you who it is anyhow. It's Bob Walsh, one of North Side's most renowned business men, being the first man, or pardon me, boy, to ever discover which way a flea is going to jump. We all agree that he's just the man to do that. What puzzles me, though, is what he's going to do with the fleas after he has determined the direction of their hop. Here's just an insight in the flea-jumping business by Robert himself.

You see, it's like this: One day I hit a man real hard. And boy, did he run. But no matter how fast he could run I was faster. He never did catch me. It was while I was fleeing thus that I thought of this flea idea, and I discovered that all the fleas sat back on their haunches and had a good laugh. Well, that made me mad so I went to the shoe store to get a handkerchief. You see, I really wear an eight, but a nine feels so good that I wear a ten. The greatest thing, however, that I ever did in the business line was to start up in the rabbit business. I toiled for many years and finally developed the idea of taking logs and painting round black spots on the ends and putting them in the woods. Then when the rabbit sees me chasing him with a gun he runs to the log thinking the black spot to be a hole. After he has bumped his brains out I pick him up and carry him to town. Very simple, eh wot? I mean the plan. I've only been in the flea business for three weeks and already I have made millions.

You may be the world to your mother but you're just another North Sider to me, or maybe I said that before. It's alright to repeat though because I'm a historian and historians have poet's licenses or something like that because they say history, repeats itself. I'm sure we would all be satisfied if history hadn't ever happened the first time let alone repeating itself. Pardon me, I forgot this isn't an editorial but an insight on the lives and customs of these so-called students at our great school. The reason, dear reader, that I can't get down to business, but am giving this dissertation on the life and habits of a morbid hypochondriac (don't look that word up 'cause I may be wrong.) (Ask John McMeen, he knows), is because I am one of those persons myself. I am disappointed. All afternoon I was digging in our back yard. My teacher said there are four quarters in a whole, but I couldn't even find a dime in the one in our back yard.

Who's the littiest, biggest senior in N. H. S. is so, why. Give four reasons (pardon me again, I've had so many tests lately they have affected me.) Can't you guess who Inez is? No? It's Alice Lee Ward, the girl that thinks a cavern is a place where they keep calves. She says in Ing Arthur's time all the boys went to knight school which doesn't prove a thing. Alice is now going to step up to the mike and say a few words to you. (No, I didn't say she was going to step out with Mike.)

Gee, I'm so excited I could crush a grape. Miss Reynard asked me to write a long sentence and I wrote "Life imprisonment." I'm still trying to figure out why I flunked. Besides going to school I write a health column. Someone wrote and asked me what was good for a bald head and I said "plenty of hair." If you have a cold I advise a good stiff dose of sulphuric acid. You will never have a headache again. If your feet get too warm, advise taking a test. Ho hum, I guess I'll be toddling along, as they say in Italy. I saw the dago at sunset, which proves that a freshman's hat is like the school building because it covers a block."

Affectionately,

'TOURNAMENT NEWS' HAS LARGE SALE

Approximately Five Thousand Copies Are Sold.

The "Tournament News", the official publication for the sectional and regional tournaments, which was the product of the staffs of the three city high schools, was a decided success from the standpoints of finance and of popularity. It was the first time in the history of Fort Wayne that the schools have united to put out a paper, and it was the largest that was ever published by high schools in the United States. The work for the first edition, which was composed of twenty pages, was divided among the three staffs, with six from each school working on advertising, editing, wrifgln copy, and selling papers.

More than three thousand copies of the first papers were distributed to the regular subscribers of the school papers, and sold to the fans at the tournament, and to the student from the schools participating in the tournament. Nearly 2,200 copies of the second paper were used. The latter issue had only twelve pages due to the fact that only four schools were taking part in the regional tournament, while there were twelve schools contesting in the sectional.

It was no easy task to get the news from the schools out from Fort Wayne and it wasn't so easy to get the papers delivered to the various towns, but the staffs of the papers were determined to put over something that had not been done before. In a contest to see which could sell the most advertising for the Tournament News,

VICTORY BRICK HAS CHECKERED CAREER

Martinsville Has Possession of Coveted Trophy.

Who will carry home the Victory brick? The brick, which started its career in Richmond, was to become a victory emblem. It was painted red and white, the Richmond school colors, and ribbons to match were tied about the body.

Shelbyville had the first chance to carry the brick home, but Richmond turned them back with the first victory they had known in five games.

Frankfort took the brick out of its trophy case the next fall, and campaigned through six consecutive wins before losing to Muncie, 32 to 28, in an overtime game.

Greencastle had the brick for seven consecutive games until on the last night of the season Rushville won an argument for its possession. Martinsville, state champions, housed it during the summer and fall months.

A report that could not be verified was that the students who stole the brick took it to the Wabash river and tossed it in. We all hope Central will be the one who brings home the victory brick. Among the many trophies in Central's trophy case, just in front of the auditorium is the nickel-plated horseshoe bearing Central's colors.

The horseshoe is to be passed on to the next Fort Wayne team going to the state. That school's colors will be placed on it and it will remain the property of that school until it is won by one of the other high schools. Let's all hope it will still wear the Blue and White streamers.

North Side Praises Team Work of Redskins During Season of '27-'28

Team Has Played Clean, Hard, and Square Game; Two Members of Squad Will Graduate.

Since this is the first edition of the Northerner since the sectional tournament it is the first time the school has had a chance to say anything about the team. As a matter of fact everyone is mighty proud of the Redskin quintet, and in years to come that first basketball team at North Side high school will be regarded as a "whirl." At the beginning of the season the team looked almost "impossible," with so much new and green material. Only Penrod and Marshall were veteran players who reported to Coach Bills.

Those Redskins took on the best teams in this part of the state, and they made them step. But the boys on the team preferred to play those games rather than the easy ones.

M. H. Northrop, principal of North Side, said, "I have certainly appreciated the fine attitude our boys have shown throughout the entire season. To the casual observer the season might not have seemed so successful, if it were considered only from the games won. The big thing is not in winning games but in playing them squarely. Our boys have done this and deserve all the credit and honor that is possible for the school to bestow upon them."

"I am very well pleased with the North Side record for this year. The boys justified our faith in them by going to the finals. Any praise or commendation that we could give should go to our team and Mr. Bills."

Incidentally Coach Bills needs no small credit for the way he has put the team into playing this year, and has taught the members of the squad to play a clean and clever game.

Penrod graduates this year, much to the sorrow of the Redskins. He is a terror to his opponents, and his fast dribbling and clever floor work was enough to scare any team.

Koenig also of the '28 class played grand games during the tournament

In fact he played his best games of the season.

Beverforden, the other '28, who played in the finals gave out all he had during the tournament. Some of his long shots from the middle of the floor were enough to cause heart failure.

As to the juniors they did themselves proud. McVoy was slowed down by a bad foot but played great games at guard. Perhaps no other man on the team has developed any more than Bob. Everyone had a lot of confidence in Bob's playing, and when a few points were needed, Bob was pretty good. He will be a tower of strength to the team next year.

Steve Marshall was an old standby for the team. He played a good fast defensive game and went out only twice during the entire season on fouls. Although sometimes he had hard luck at hitting the basket, he usually made his shots and was high point man for the season.

Kraft is a member of the junior class. This is his first year with the varsity and he has been playing good ball during the latter part of the season. He is a fast tricky player and will probably be a regular next year.

Jack Gordon was the only freshman on the team this year and he played a flashy game at forward. Jack has three more years with the Redskins and in his senior year he will surely be a good player.

Don Chaffin made the grade in both football and basketball and was with the Redskins in majority of their games. Don will be with the team again next year.

Central High School Wins Regional Tournament in Defeating Kirkland

Kirkland Kangaroos Eliminated in Final Game—Score 32-24; Played Brilliant Brand of Basketball in First Half

Central will again represent the Fort Wayne regional in the state finals at Indianapolis. A 32-to-24 victory over Kirkland Township last Saturday night gave the Tigers the right to contest with fifteen other teams at the state capital next week-end.

The Kirkland quintet played brilliant basketball during the first half and was holding a 14-to-12 lead when the half was over. Meanwhile Central was playing mediocre ball.

At the beginning of the second half Central started its rally and soon piled up a big lead. When the Tigers were practically assured of victory they eased up on their flying attack, being content to pass the ball back and forth and try to score only when a good opportunity presented itself. The game ended with Central leading, 32 to 24.

Albert Franke chalked up 11 points to lead the Tiger squad. Central's remaining points were more evenly divided between the team members. Meyers again led his team, this time making seven field goals. Coach Mendenhall used his entire squad of ten men, all of whom performed well.

This game marked the close of the high school basketball season in Fort Wayne.

Central will play Clinton, winner of the Greencastle meet, at 9 o'clock Friday morning in the first game of the state meet.

SOCIETY AND FEATURES

March!

The word alone might be a good synonym for the word "Wind." By the time this month is over we all will have had a chance to test our tempers. Although we too might have a chance to buy us a new hat. However, we begin to feel already that spring is fast approaching. With the tournament over, Senior play under way, spring vacation not far off, it really does not seem long that another semester of our glorious school career has come to an end.

Miss Phyllis Lines spent the weekend in Cleveland, Ohio, visiting friends and relatives.

A surprise party was given recently in honor of Robert Kaade at his home on Northwood Blvd. The evening was spent playing Bunco and dancing was also a feature of the evening. At a late hour a two-course luncheon was served to the guests who were the Misses Mary Jane Scott, Phyllis Lines, Jeanette Popp, Charlotte Latker, Arlyn Taylor, Dorothy McComb, Mary Margaret Vesey and the Messrs. Harold Novitsky, Byron Beaber, John Faucett, Arthur Richards, Edwin Hopkins, Maynard Shifter and the honored guest.

Miss Betty Hutchins entertained with a delightful dinner party at the Catholic Community Center recently.

Central Basketball Team Takes Victory From Bluffton Tigers

Piercetown Team Loses in Overtime Game to Kirkland Kangaroos by Score of 25 to 23

Kirkland and Piercetown were forced to play an overtime period before the Kirkland Kangaroos were able to eke out a 25-to-23 victory.

The Kangaroos flashed a strong attack at the beginning of the game. Piercetown, however, drew within four points of them toward the close of the first half, which ended 14-10.

The second half was played on even terms. Piercetown exhibited a fast passing game, bringing the ball down the floor for short shots. They seemed unable to make many of these shots count. Kirkland held a good advantage near the close of the game, but again Piercetown rallied, until the score stood 22 to 20 in Kirkland's favor.

Shidler let a pretty one fly through the last minute of play. The gun found the score knotted, 22-all.

A field goal and a free throw, overshadowing a lone free toss for Piercetown, spelled victory for the Adams county five.

Both centers led their teams in scoring, Meyers made 14 points, while Shidler account for 12.

Vol. I—No. 20

North Side High School, Fort Wayne, Indiana

March 21, 1928

CONTEST SLATED FOR MARCH 23 AT N. S. HI SCHOOL

Philip Bowen To Represent North Side

CENTRAL TO HAVE CONSTITUTION CONTEST

Bob Walsh, '28, To Be Redskins Representative.

The county contest which is a preliminary contest to decide the best speaker to send to the state will be held Friday, March 23, at 3:30 in our auditorium. Philip Bowen is North Side's representative in this contest and he has been working hard on his speech. Central's speaker is Mildred Torkel. South Side's speaker is Wilfred Horn. There will probably be speakers from other schools of Allen county. The subject for the contest is "Farm Relief" and there will be three judges. Mr. Makey of South Side is county chairman for this contest. Since the contest is to be held at our school and we are again to be hosts to visiting students, this time public speakers, we should act the part of gracious hosts and support our speaker, as well as making the visiting speakers welcome. Let us show other schools what we can do, and all of us be out Friday to hear the contest.

On the following Tuesday, March 27, there is to be the contest on the Constitution. Robert Walsh is representing North Side in this contest which is to be held at Central at 7:30 p. m. Attorney Dan C. Flanagan, of Fort Wayne, is in charge of this contest. The three Fort Wayne public high schools, Central Catholic and a number of the county schools will be represented.

Students Anxiously Await Spring; Roller Skating

The "In-between Season" is rather hard on the temperament of the students.

Everyone is anxious to see lady spring come with her violets, sunshine and warm summer breezes. At the first sight of this, one discards his old winter clothing and arrays himself with a bright, fresh garment. We see little boys with their marbles (by the way, some of our high school boys are guilty of this), and little girls with their jumping ropes.

These hints of spring have even made some of the pupils feel so gay, they have gone back to childhood days, and have started roller skating to school.

The very next day a cold north wind starts to blow, and everyone puts back on his winter clothes and lays his toys away—waiting for another glorious spring day.

Spring Sports Begin Soon Track Team to Be Organized

There has been a lull in the sport world as the basketball season is over, but spring is coming and with it more sports.

Nothing has been definitely decided about the track team, but Mark Bills promises that there will be one.

Spring football has organized and Mr. Bills has given some talks to the fellows in the auditorium. Practice begins the end of this week. This is all of the dope received up to this time, but we all know that Bills has much in store for us.

Art Students Do Interesting Work in Classes As Posters, Etc., Show

Posters, Purses, Handkerchiefs, and Scarfs With Handpainted Designs, and Other Articles Being Made by Students

Many worthwhile and interesting things are being accomplished in the art department. Striking posters illustrating classical and mythical legends are being made. Clever pocketbooks of bright hued leather with painted designs and handkerchiefs and scarfs are being painted. Last but not least are plans for houses and gardens being drawn.

The freshmen are busy working on advertising posters, and some real talent is being brought out by this work. Sophomores are illustrating stories among which are scenes from "As You Like It," "The Oregon Trail," "The Ancient Mariner," "Enoch Arden," "Siegfried," "The Dragon," "Rampungal the Oasis," and "King Arthur's Court."

Juniors and seniors are tooling and painting the pocketbooks mentioned

NORTH SIDE GIVES TIGERS SEND OFF

Mr. Northrop Presents Four-Leaf Clover.

On Thursday morning North Side held an assembly in honor of Central. Mr. Croninger was presented with a four-leaf clover. This was North Side's way of wishing Central "Good luck and Godspeed."

Mr. Tselt was also present from Central and helped us sing "Central, Dear Central," which we followed with "Dear old North Side."

SENIOR PLAY IS SCHEDULED FOR MARCH 28 and 29

Tickets Will Go On Sale This Week

NUMBER 17 FULL OF MYSTERY

Play Promises to Be Excellent Production

It won't be long now! "What did you say?" Oh, you don't know what I am talking about? You must be from the woods, shy and bashful, aren't you? Well, child, here's an introduction for you to the senior play, "Number Seventeen," which will be given in the auditorium, March 29 and 30. This is one of the spookiest plays possible. After you hear the creaking stairs, visit the damp, black cellar, the second floor and its old, moldy cupboards, containing some discarded wigs the mysterious opening of doors, and hands being thrust through windows you will think you have seen "The Cat and the Canary," "The Green Parrot" and "The Hunchback of Notre Dame" melted into one.

In this play the seniors have proven themselves excellent actors as well as typists, orators and students of "trig." We should all back this production because the seniors deserve it for the work they have done and for selection of such a good play for the first senior play at North Side high. They are setting a tradition that will be difficult for the following classes to excel.

The tickets will be put on sale this week. The play is under the direction of Miss Marjorie Suter. The cast is as follows:

Rose Ackroyd	Frances Cook
Nora Brant	Lela Smith
Gilbert Fordyce	Herb Vigran
Ben	Durward Allen
Smith	Donald Elder
Henry	John McMeen
Eddie	Bob Brosius
Ackroyd	Frank Nicklas

Swimmers See Mr. Ivy—Classes to Be Allotted Hours

Mr. Ivy, swimming instructor at North Side, has announced that classes wishing time to practice for the coming inter-class swimming meet, which is to be held April 20, at 7:30, should see him about securing an hour for doing this.

NORTHERNER TO PUBLISH A RAZZ EDITION

Next Week's Paper to Be No-Sense

FOURTH PAGE RESERVED FOR NEWS

Sleuths On Trail of Interesting and Choice Bits

April Fool! Don't believe a word of it! Maybe that's a bit early, but if you believe much of the news in the Northerner you're going to be "pretty foolish," Ray Alter, editor of the paper, said yesterday.

In some of the colleges it's up to the journalistic fraternities and societies to get out a razz issue of some sort. These papers carry names from "Razberry" to "Scandal." Although the North Side publication will appear under the same name a promise has been made of plenty of razzing to suit the most fastidious taste.

Sleuths have been working for weeks on some of the material, and they promise to have a newspaper full of the choicest bits of jokes.

It is planned, however, that page four of the edition be reserved for facts, and no jokes will appear on this page. This has been done because of the importance of some of the news articles for next week.

This will be the final edition of the paper before spring vacation; so everyone will have plenty of time to get over the razzing before strenuous school work is resumed after vacation.

There may be no paper the week following spring vacation as there is not sufficient time to get the material ready.

SOPH & JUNIOR OPTIMIST WINNERS NAMED

Margaret Brudi and Philip Bowen Take First Prizes

GRAND PRIZE WINNER NAMED WEDNESDAY

Central and North Side Each Have One Grand Prize

Members of the four classes in the Fort Wayne high schools have been devoting much time and effort on themes for the best of which the Optimist club has offered prizes.

Winners for the sophomore and junior classes at North Side have been announced. Margaret Brudi's theme was considered worthy of the five-dollar prize. The second prize of three dollars was awarded to Dortha Evans. Philip Dodane won the third prize of one dollar.

Philip Bowen wrote the prize-winning essay of the junior class. Second and third prizes were won by Naomi Fudge and John Stanley, respectively.

Besides giving three prizes to each of the high schools, the Optimist club offers a grand prize of five dollars to the writer of the essay chosen by them as the best from the three schools. Elizabeth Shookman, a freshman, won this honor for North Side. The theme of Helen Dessauer, a Centralite, was judged best of the sophomores. The winner of the grand prize for the junior class will be announced at an Optimist luncheon to be given next Wednesday in honor of the three junior winners.

The senior winners have not as yet been announced. A senior from each high school will be given a scholarship of one hundred and fifty dollars.

LOGANSPOUT PLAYER WINS GIMBLE PRIZE

Muncie Carries Home Championship Shield

McCarnes of the Logansport high school won the Gimble prize at the state finals. This prize has been awarded for twelve years and was first won by Claude C. Curtis in 1917. Members of the Muncie team were given individual awards and the school was presented the championship shield.

Prentice of Kendallville was the only other player in the tournament who has ever won the Gimble prize before. It is given for showing the best mental attitude of any boy in the state finals.

BASKETBALL SCHEDULE FOR '28-'29 IS MADE

Masonic Home Opens Season November 24

ELEVEN HOME GAMES ON SCHEDULE

Redskins to Play Nine Conference Games

With the announcement of the winner in basketball for the state for 1927-28, comes the announcement of the North Side Redskins' schedule for next year. Eighteen games on the hardwood have been planned, nine of them being conference games, and eleven of them being played on the home floor.

The season opens November 24 with a game with the team from the Masonic Home High School of Franklin. This should be a feature game inasmuch as many of the Fort Wayne people are keenly interested in the Masonic Home at Franklin. The team last year won its sectional but this year did not have such success. Other old rivals of Fort Wayne schools as Bluffton, Angola, Laporte, Kendallville and Columbia City appear on the chart, and make it sound exciting and interesting.

The Redskins play their first inter-city game on December 7 when they meet the Central Tigers; they take on the Kellys January 5 at North Side and meet them again in the next to last game on February 16 at the South Side gymnasium. The second game with Central is scheduled for February 2.

Following is the complete schedule:

November 24—Masonic Home High School of Franklin—here.
November 30—Warren—here.
December 7—Central, here.
December 14—Bluffton, here.
December 15—Wabash, there.

Adventures of Hoofers Annotated By Ed

Speaking of enthusiasm what do you think of this? Six fellows, George Kowalczyk, "Charlie" Pierce, Carl Fischer, Harry Schwartz, Richard Ryder and Clarence Horstman hiked to Indianapolis Tuesday to attend the state tournament. They went in groups of two.

When they arrived in Indianapolis they couldn't get a room so the gang slept in the Hotel Severin and American on the floors of other fellows' rooms that they knew. Some of the fellows slept at a fire station.

On Friday morning they ate breakfast at the Troy restaurant. Saw games all day Friday and Friday night they sold their tickets and went to the new Indiana theater. As "Charlie" says, "Friday night about 300 boys including we men slept on mats at the Y. M. C. A. gym for two bits each (class)." Saturday morning about 3 a. m. had a fight with ten pins in gym and also threw dumbbells around."

Saturday morning the boys took their constitutional and walked to the top of the monuments.

They finished up the week-end by attending the game Saturday night and came home with some fellows from Central in a Chevrolet coupe in a rumble seat, plenty warm!

These "hikers" in reality hiked only about 12 miles. Rode in eight different cars and one milk truck at a rate of 10 miles per hour for eight miles. Hi-speed!

As the boys explained some of the cities and villages they passed through were:

Huntington.
Mt. Etna—Big city.
Marion.
Alexandria.
Anderson.
Pendleton—Prison.
Fortville—Wide spot in the road.
Carmel—Six houses and one grocery store.

Date For Spring Vacation Announced

Hip! Hip! Hurray! All ready for spring vacation (More tears from North Side student body.)

Yes, spring vacation begins Friday, March 30 and school begins again Monday, April 9.

MR. NORTHROP REPORTS ON TOURNAMENTS

Regional Meet Net Receipts $2,36.20

1162 SEASON TICKETS SOLD

Each School Shares in Profit Made

A report of the regional tournament has been made by M. H. Northrop, principal of North Side and official host for both the sectional and regional.

According to his statement there were 1,162 season tickets and 2,057 single admission tickets sold for the regional, March 10. This made the total receipts amount to $2,396.20.

Expenses Met.

According to the rules drawn up by the I. H. S. A. A. the expenses of the tournament and the transportation of the teams are to be paid. The expenses other than transportation for the regional were $2983.399. The I. H. S. A. A. according to the rules of distribution of funds received $954.05; while each participating school received $189.822.

Sectional Meet

The expenses of the sectional meet were much greater as there were many more schools entered in the contests for March 2 and 3. The expenses other than transportation amounted to $774.21. The I. H. S. A. A. received $103.22 and each participating school received $81.71 besides a share of the money derived from the sale of season tickets. This money was divided on a pro rata basis.

The other expenses for the tournaments included basketballs, officials and helpers.

CENTRAL TIGERS GET ROUSING SEND OFF

Three Schools Represented in Delegation.

Rah, yea Central!

The Tigers received a big send-off at the station Thursday. Central sang all her songs and yelled all her yells.

South Side had her band there to cheer the Tigers on to victory. Our yell leader, Norman Richards, was there and presented North Side's good luck wish, a large four leaf clover, to Doc Wilkins of Central. The horse shoe South Side gave Central last year was also presented. Of course the whole car was decorated with Blue and White, and, as a good omen, a gorgeous rainbow, which we all took as a good luck sign appeared while we were singing "Central, Dear Central."

Industrial Arts Classes Prove Very Popular With North Side Boys

Two Years of Work Given; Juniors and Seniors Go To Central—Much Interest Being Manifested

Two years of work in Industrial Arts is offered at North Side. Provision is made for Junior and Senior work to be taken at Central, as there are fewer students in the advanced work and this arrangement saves duplication of equipment and teaching.

The 9B work is divided into four parts: mechanical drawing, woodwork, forging and sheet metal. This is intended as an exploratory course, to enable the student to more intelligently select his subsequent work. It is of course, impossible to do very much work in any of the four, but it should serve as a basis for knowing what later courses should be taken.

There are about eighty boys in the Wood Turning classes this term. The shop is equipped with twelve lathes and twelve benches. Ordinarily the 9A boys have worked five days each week on the lathe, but due to the large number in the classes and the gymnasium period, (once each week taken from the Industrial Arts class time), each boy works only two days per week on the lathe. Each class is divided into two sec-

MUNCIE TAKES STATE CHAMP IN FINAL GAMES

Bearcats Win 13-12 Score From Martinsville

GAMES ARE CLOSE AND EXCITING

15,000 Fans Cheer Team On To Victory

It's all over now!

And Muncie took home the bacon.

But that game between the finalists was one hard fought game, and the Pete Jollip five had a tough time to top the Martinsville gang, 13-12. This one point victory, which gives the state championship to the Muncie Bearcats, is the result of the elimination of 739 other teams that entered the sectional tournaments just two weeks before. Sixty-four survived sectional contests, and a week later all but sixteen quintets were eliminated in the regional meets.

That the Muncie and Martinsville teams are most outstanding in the state is rather evident from the fact that last year these schools went into the finals with the Artesians on the long end of the 26-23 score.

The field house was a blaze of colors, purple, white, red, green, blue, black and old gold. Lots of pretty girls and pretty hats. Lots of noise, cheers, yells, groans, jeers and curses.

It was a wild crowd that saw the game at the Butler field house Saturday night. The house was packed—15,000 fans—and cheer after cheer resounded throughout the place until it was almost impossible to hear the referee's whistle. Secrist, the tall center from Muncie sent the house mad with cheers when in the last 30 seconds of the game he blazed away for two points from the middle of the floor, and took the lead from Martinsville. Secrist is a good player. With only one minute to go, and with the Curtismen in the lead, the Muncie center called time out. It was Muncie's fourth rest period, however, and Wooden, captain from Martinsville, was given one free shot from the foul line. The ball hit the hoop and bounced away. Then with every second growing more precious Secrist topped the ball in the following tip-off and caught the sphere as it fell. A lightning turn left him unguarded at the very center of the floor. He hesitated an instant, until he saw that every teammate was guarded, then he threw that ball. The shot arched high in the air and then passed through the hoop almost without touching the net.

Muncie fans went wild!

Many of the games were hotly contested throughout the entire session, many of them being won by one or two points. The Muncie-Anderson game Saturday morning was one of the most exciting of the entire tournament; Anderson losing, 33-37. Some of the best playing of all the games was done in this game.

This is the first year Muncie has won the state honors and it was no wonder 12,000 anxious fans at Muncie were at the station to meet the gang when they arrived home with the trophies.

These sections are alternating on bench and lathe. Just how much can be accomplished with a program of this kind remains to be seen.

The bench groups are building large supply cabinets, benches and other equipment for the shops, while the other groups are practising with the various tools at the lathe.

Beginning with the 10B, the time is equally divided between shop and drafting room. In the shop, elementary work is taken in forging, sheet metal and machine shop, and this is followed by more advanced work in the 10A. In the drafting room elementary problems of drafting are taken up followed by work in orthographic projection, isometric drawing, bolts and nuts, and working drawings of such articles as stuffing boxes, vices, jacks, etc.

This being an industrial age and Ft. Wayne being largely an industrial city it is evident that an increasing number of boys will find it desirable and necessary to take work of this kind.

EDITORIAL

Mr. Croninger, principal of Central high, has published some points on grade-raising. They might be of special interest to North Side students since warning notices have been sent so recently to students. Here are the pointers—read them and raise the F to passing:

To rank from 90-100, a pupil should show these eight essentials:

1. Eagerness to tackle what is difficult.
2. Interest in, and increasing the interest in class discussions.
3. Dependability in taking assignments and "a little more."
4. Completion of tasks promptly, neatly, and thoroughly.
5. Comparative freedom from teacher's corrections and suggestions.
6. Discovery of practical relations and uses for school work.
7. Dependability in getting through difficult tasks.
8. Ability to hold relations and rethink the problem.

To rank from 85-89 the pupil must show:

1. Willingness to apply himself through the class hour.
- Alertness and awareness during the class discussions.
- Attentiveness to assignments.
- Arrival at class with tasks completed in a good manner and with reasonableness.
5. Prompt response to corrections and personal suggestions.
6. Contribution to class discussions occasionally.
7. General vigor in attacking problems with ample curiosity and inquisitiveness when he finds "something different."
8. Retentiveness of general plan and principles of his study course reflectively rather than through memory as a definite project.

These are characteristics of those pupils who drop below "Good Enough" standards:

1. They do their work too hastily or fritter away the time they need.
2. They seem to be listless and inattentive.
3. They too frequently "misunderstand" assignments.
4. Their work is too often fragmentary and careless.
5. They make the same errors over and over.
6. They seldom know anything that "wasn't in the lesson."
7. They are likely to balk at "what they haven't done before."
8. They do hold fragmentary "snapshots" of what they have learned, but seldom display any retentiveness of relations, reasons, etc.

The teacher has many difficult types of pupils to understand and contend with, among them:

1. Parrot-memorizer, who has been falsely trained.
2. Rote-learners, who are lost when one word or step is gone.
3. Visitors (teacher's pets) who get so well acquainted with the teacher that he doesn't like to mark them low.
4. Stellar-lights, who are known by uplifted hands, always.
5. Bold pupils, who can talk without saying much.
6. Timid pupils, who know but can't say it.

March is a month of preparation for spring. Many of its days are cold, rainy, and dark. We look forward to spring and become impatient as winter lingers on. Though we don't see it, spring is at work and flowers and plants are preparing to spring from the earth as soon as warm weather has come to stay. The dark, wet days are necessary to get the world ready for summer.

Our school years are also a sort of preparation for the summer of life. They may oftentimes seem dreary and tiresome and we look forward to the time when we shall be able to do as we please with our time. We cannot skip over them, however. They furnish us with the material we may later use to make our lives more happy and useful. Let us learn a lesson from the flowers and not try to spring into life without first thoroughly preparing ourselves. If we make the most of our time now in the "March" of our lives, happiness lies ahead and will be greater in proportion to the preparation we make for it.

MARCH BIRTHDAYS

February is noted as a month in which famous men were born. March, too can boast of its famous birthday.

March 15, 1767, was the birthday of Andrew Jackson, the seventh President of the United States. James Madison, who became the fourth President of the United States, was born March 16, 1751. Our twenty-second and twenty-fourth President, Grover Cleveland, was born on March 18, 1837. Alexander Graham Bell, inventor of the telephone, also celebrated his birthday in March.

Besides being the birth month of these famous men, March witnessed the birth of our present government under the Constitution, which went into effect March 4, 1789.

Cracks Along The Boardwalk

THE OMEN OF SNEEZING

It is interesting to know that some of our superstitions of today originated many centuries ago, and have been observed in many countries. Among the ruins of ancient Pompeii we find an inscription which says, "Health to you, Victoria, and wherever you are, may you sneeze sweetly." The belief in this prophetic omen, that of sneezing, was of importance in the time of Homer, and has spread throughout much of Europe and Asia. Fifteen hundred years later, in the year of 473 A. D., it was believed in so generally that it seemed necessary for a church council to condemn it. Like many signs it has developed many meanings. In America today some of us still salute the sneeze, but in general we do not believe in the divine source of signs. Nevertheless we can all believe in one Japanese interpretation, at least in part. It says that if you sneeze once, some one is praising you; twice, someone is loving you; three times, someone is blaming you, and four times, you have a cold in your head.

Even in an ideal school like North Side there are love affairs, troubles in making passing marks to please our parents and teachers, and even in knowing who to start a Ford on a cold morning. Your hardships are now at an end. The Northerner has secured for your aid a wise North Side philosopher, Mike. Miss Mike will answer all your questions every week in this column. Just drop your letter in the publication office at any time and Mike will guide you along the "straight and narrow way." (Even better than a kid brother.)

These are the questions and answers for the week:

Question—Dear Mike: My boy friend thinks I'm the nicest girl in town. Shall I ask him to call?—Alta McC.

Answer—No, Alta, let him keep on thinking so.

Question—My Dear Mike: Every time I go out with a pretty girl, I have half a mind to kiss her. What do you advise?—Rex Munsey.

Answer—If you have a whole mind you'd a done it long ago.

Question—Dear Mike: Where is the best place to hold the world's fair?—Bob Kaade.

Answer: Around the waist, Bob, around the waist.

Question—Dear Mike: Is it fashionable to be sunburnt?—Jane Korn.

Answer: Well, it makes the face smart.

Question—Dear Mike: How many people can a Ford carry comfortably?—Virginia Fredricks.

Answer—None.

Question—Dear Socrates, Jr.: Now I've got you. Answer this one if you can. Is there anything more useless than an "F" on a test paper?—John McMeen.

Answer—Certainly. An index to a dictionary for example.

Question—Who said, "We'll fight it out if it takes all summer?"

Answer—The trans-Atlantic fliers.

Rain: "Haint Sheese Cweet."

A Malden's Prayer.

Please, dear Lord, help me to be as popular as a dog in the study hall.

A sophomore is an individual who waits for a freshman to come along and push open the door.

"You've heard the sheep song?"

"No, what is it?"

"Wool you be mine?"

"No, no. 'All I want is ewe."

Ted Mc: "I'll beat you to a jelly."

Vic E.: "What flavor?"

"What are you buying that oleo for?"

"For butter or for worse."

Lela: "Ever read the Pickwick Papers?"

Pearl: "Naw, what do I care what goes on in these hick towns."

"I'm going to throw out this radio set. I always hear three stations on it at the same time."

"Why don't you sell it to a Scotchman?"

"How old are you?"

"Same old story."

Speaking of habit, our idea of a complete relapse is a man out on a desert who carefully folds a newspaper vertically before reading it.

Profiles

Well, now since the unfortunate tournaments are over, I guess I'll have to get down to interviewing the elite. And I meant to say, as I look into your bright and shining faces this morning, that it certainly is no mean pleasure to be back again knocking the old gang. Basketball is over but it's not forgotten. No, I should say not. Well, it is with one of these basketball victims that I want to talk of. As the saying goes, you may be able to kid gloves but you can't string beans.

This basketball idol is a personal friend of the writer's and therefore it is possible to reveal many little secrets which would otherwise be unknown to his beloved public. I want to say that this boy's a mean player, and when it comes to shooting fouls he makes a plenty good blackguard. Which all goes to prove that the early bird loses a lot of sleep. Now, ladies and gentlemen, Ed Ford included, Arthur Peppod, himself is going to talk to you. Come on, Art, don't be bashful. You see ever since Mr. Tarkington wrote the book about Peppod and Sam he's been bashful.

"Unaccustomed as I am to making public speeches, this interview will have to be short and brief. The shorter the briefer. I don't like this idea of being so darn popular and good-looking. You see all the girls run after me. Oh, my yes. As they say in French, "Cherchez la femme." I think that means "have you tomatoes" because I said that to a Frenchman and that's what I got (rotten). They were cowardly tomatoes. The kind that hit and run. Will close with the words of the man who died in the electric chair, "Perfectly shocking" and when they gave him the electricity he made light of it.

One of my understudies went out to do a little interviewing for me while I was very busy last week, and guess who I tackled. I didn't say I'd tell you I said guess. He calls her a demure little lass (I bet Art thinks differently). Well, I suppose, there's no harm in telling you that she is quite infatuated—in fact you waited with one-fifth of the team. He's quite an athlete, having played ball for three years. But he had to give it up. He lost the ball. Getting back to Lella—Oh, gee, I tol dyou—well, it's alright. I was coming to that anyway. She said, "No, you're not." She wears a size three shoe, but says if you're going to publish this you'd better say three and one-half so people won't think I am tight. She also makes the clean confession that she washes her face whenever her mother makes her, but what's the use of me telling you, let her speak for herself.

I may be bashful but I scrub my teeth two times a day (three times on Sunday, holidays included). Oh, yes, I almost forgot, I am very good looking, and I adore Frenchmen with curly hair. Oh, you know the kind that say pretty things. But he left me and I'm through with men (at least for this week). Goo-by.

L. Otto Slush wishes you all a merry Christmas and a happy New Year, and takes pleasure in saying that he will be on the air (not full of air) again early next week. Ta-ta, regards to mama and papa.

The Most Conspicuous Service An Individual Can Render to His Community

(By Margaret L. Brudi)

Achievement! Fame! Glory! Honor! Recognition!

Everyone tends to strive and clamor for these golden fruits. It is a human trait. Yet only a few are successful in obtaining them.

The most prominent question arising then is: "By what means can an individual secure these valuable ends, and how are they determined?"

For answer, some would consider the staging of some novel feat as conspicuous. Others, the holding of some important office; still others, the sponsoring of needed and beneficial improvements for the community.

There are numerous angles from which one may consider this question. For instance, the religious activity of a person and his duty to the community and government, all of which helps to make that person a better citizen, thus — indirectly performing his service in his sphere.

After all these phases have been contemplated there still remains one that has been overlooked, which to me seems the keynote of all the rest—that is the sacrifice of unselfish service.

From the financial standpoint a person endowed with great the true meaning of service. Of wealth often times cannot know course he may contribute to this:

and that worthy cause, and the contribution be appreciated; but he who is willing to sacrifice his valuable time unselfishly to his community is truly sublime.

Although this service, while in progress, may not seem at all outstanding, for it may extend over such a large area that it cannot be wholly grasped; nevertheless in my estimation this generous service will outlast the rest and finally receive its true reward and recognition.

This can be illustrated in the following lines taken from Lowell:

"He knoweth to bide his time,
And can his fame abide,
Still patient in his simple faith sublime,
Till the wise years decide.
Great captains, with their guns and drums,
Disturb our judgment for the hour,
But at last silence comes;
These all are gone, and, standing like a cower,
Our children shall behold his fame."

Only two of the contestants who met in the state tournament this week-end have carried away state honors.

AERONAUTICS GIVEN IN HIGH SCHOOL

New Plan Furnished for Course in California School.

A course of aeronautics is being taught in the Galt California High School.

The credit of learning aeronautics belongs to Mr. Rutherford, principal of the high school.

Mr. Rutherford was the flying schoolmaster, and in order to sell his idea of teaching aeronautics to the high school trustees, also to the United States Naval department for the interest shown in donating planes and equipment.

Mr. Rutherford overcame the question that arose there that his school was not a university or accredited aviation school.

The following outline shows what the four-year course offers: 1st year, General physical geography, elementary principles of aircraft design; second year, Weather and meteorology study, engine study and operation; third year, Weather forecasting and meteorology, principles of aerodynamics, aircraft, design and construction; fourth year, Advanced airplane design and construction, engine operation, one full year of navigation, principles of flight, dual control flying.

It is the best furnished aviation school, "even" better than the larger private aviation school.

One machine is used for flying, while the others are used for ground work, and are subject to being torn down for assemblance work.

The flying plane is a new 90-horsepower Eaglerock biplane. Its radius is in excess of 500 miles. January 18, it reached an altitude of 10,600 feet only to be forced down because of bitter cold.

The Spirit of Gald High has that praise for a plane of that type.

It has never had an accident, when a plane lands, the students check all details and record them on sheets for inspection.

Upon graduation along with vocational training students are qualified as cadet flier in the army or navy.

Many Students Report For Spring Football Practice At North Side Hi

Squad to be Cut Shortly; Juniors to Report Soon—Probable Team For Next Year Then Selected

Coach Bills started spring football practice for the Freshmen and Sophomores last Monday evening by giving them a short talk on the fundamentals of football in the session room. Practice was discontinued owing to Coach Bills' illness and was started again Monday. Talks will be on the program for the rest of the week and outdoor practice will begin next week and continue for a period of two weeks. The squad will then be cut and the Juniors will come out. Those who are not cut will practise with the Juniors and a probable team for next year will be selected.

Already about 77 men have reported for spring practice, but this number will soon be cut. This number is made up mostly of boys who have no previous experience on the football squad.

Practice is being started early to get the team ready for the opening game in the fall which will be September 15 when the Reading, Michigan, team invades the Redskins' camp. Reading played the initial game for North Side and won by one touchdown.

As a Cannibal Sees His White Brother

The naked cannibal was puzzled. He told the visitor to the South Seas that he could not understand why the whites dress in the daytime and undress at night. "In the night, when it is cold," he said, "we people put on our clothes; and in the daytime, when it is hot, we take them off." It sounded very logical. In a word, Jack McLaren, the traveler, tells us in the continental edition of the London Daily Mail, the white man is just as peculiar to the savages as the savages are to the white man. Mr. McLaren continues his chronicle of what strikes the islander as queer in the Europeans and Americans:

In a remote Solomon Islands village, close to where the murder of two white men took place, a man asked me was it true, as he had heard, that in white man's countries the people quarreled and stole so much that strong men called policemen continually walked the streets to keep the peace.

In his own village there was little quarrelling except with other villages or with intruders—and hardly, any stealing at all. He said that he thought that white men would know better than to behave like that.

Another savage thought that it was strange that white men rejoiced and made holiday only at specified times,

The Value of Service Clubs to Fort Wayne

By Philip H. Bowen

Service is the basis of our civilization. Before Christ took up His life work, He went out into the wilderness for forty days and night to plan His work. Three methods of gaining a large following suggested themselves to Him: first, to become a great military leader, and gain them by conquest; second, to be a very wealthy man; and third, to win their approval by performing miracles. He rejected all three plans and set out to "win the people by love." His was a "life of service," and the greatest thing that may be said of Him is that "He went about doing good." Christianity is, therefore, founded on service; our society is dependent upon it. What would society be if the principle of the Golden Rule were not everyday applied?

But our religious and social sides of life are not all. There is a third part which is everyday becoming more and more important; business dominates our whole life; without it we could not live. However, business has passed into a new stage of development. The old days of "soulless corporations," "gettin' while the gettin's good," and "the more the merrier" are past. No longer do we read of business feuds waged between neighboring firms; no longer do business men say "caveat emptor," let the buyer beware; those days are passing. Modern such as Christmas and Easter.

His people, he said, jubilated just whenever they felt like it, which, incidentally, was very often indeed. He thought that our capacity for enjoyment was extremely limited, in that we had to have special times and arrangements for it.

—From a magazine article.

business is based on service, courtesy, and quality. This is a new era. Why? Much of this change has been due to such clubs as the Optimist, Rotary, Kiwanis, Lions, and Exchange. These clubs, many of which are international, have pledged themselves to unselfish service, as may be clearly seen from such mottoes as "He Profits Most Who Serves Best," "We Build" and "Unity for Service." They have promised to foster a spirit of co-operation among the various firms represented in the clubs. They have promised to further education, to "give a square deal to the underprivileged child, our future citizen." They have not only promised these things, but have done them. They "practice what they preach." Optimism permeates all. What could be better than a city full of optimistic workers, religious, social, industrial, all acting in co-operation for the common good, making it possible for us to realize "the pursuit of happiness?" What is more valuable to the city of Fort Wayne than a group of clubs that bring about this situation?

"Even as ye have done it unto the least of these, ye have done it unto Me."

NORTH SIDE HI TO HAVE TRACK TEAM IN FUTURE

No Schedule For Year Has Been Made

PRACTISE HELD ON OWN TRACK

Boys Report For Rifle Team Practise

North Side will have a track team, according to recent plans announced by Coach Mark Bills. So far, however, no meets have been scheduled, but there will be some scheduled in the near future.

Practice will begin the middle of next week, Coach Bills said, and this will give time for practice before the first meet which will probably be held near the middle of April. The workouts will be held on the North Side field.

All boys who are interested are expected to report immediately.

Another sport that is taking a great deal of attention of some of the Redskins is the rifle team. Several boys are working to be crack marksmen.

SOCIETY AND FEATURES

FORENSIC PINS AWARDED TO WRANGLERS

Small Keys Are Given To Six Members.

HIGH SCHOLASTIC STANDING REQUIRED

Only Those Who Earn Honor Can Wear League Key.

Awards to debaters as well as to athletes have been given out at North Side high school.

Sometime ago the announcement was made that the Redskin debaters had been granted a chapter in the National Forensic League. The pins for these members have come and have been given to Miss Cromer and five of the students who are Durward Allen, Philip Bowen, Carl Jacobs, John McMeen, and Paul Somers.

The pins are small keys that have the letters N. F. L. engraved upon them to represent the league. In one corner of the key is an eye that represents alertness of mind and keen observation. At the opposite corner is an old fashioned lamp which stands for knowledge. These keys are of sterling silver and have the names of the students engraved on the back of them. No other student can either wear or claim the pin; it is a rule of the league that only those who earn them can wear them.

The league requires a high scholastic record as well as a speaking record for membership. Mr. Northrop must certify that each debater ranks in the upper two-thirds of his class before he can wear a key.

The debaters are to be congratulated for receiving such a high honor in getting membership into the organization.

MISS SINCLAIR TALKS AT ART CLUB MEET

"Application of Art Knowledge" Is Subject.

Various ways in which an art student can apply his art knowledge, was the theme of an interesting lecture given by Miss Sinclair to the Art Club, Monday afternoon. Not only can it be turned into a money making channel but it can be used in making one's surroundings more beautiful, his person more pleasing to others, and in furnishing himself with enjoyment in his surroundings. Nature is full of beauty. An art education should open one's eyes to this beauty.

Other features of the program were a reading by Velma Kimball and a vocal selection by Denton Habecker. The club meets the second Monday of every month and its members are always glad to welcome visitors.

Girls Make Plans For Swimming Tournament

Final plans for the girls division of the inter-class swimming meet to be held April 20 are being completed. Each girl is urged to sign up as soon as possible with the following girls: Seniors, Dorothy Meyer; Juniors, Jane Woodard; Sophomores, Helen Ballou, and Freshmen, Catherine Shreve. The same list of events are scheduled as those which were used in the school swimming meet.

Lowly Frogs Are Source of Interest To Biology Students At North Side

Students Observe Metamorphosis of Frog in School Aquarium—Other Students Asked to Come to Botany Room

Students of biology at North Side have had a wonderful opportunity to observe metamorphosis of the frog in the aquarium in the botany department. Several weeks ago three tadpoles were placed in the aquarium and now two of them have transformed into frogs. At the present time they can be found sitting on a floating shingle on the surface of the water in the aquarium while their mate, a little slow in its metamorphosis, is still seen resting on the bottom of the aquarium.

Other students who are interested in seeing the young frogs and the one remaining tadpole are asked to come to the botany room to observe them.

A description of metamorphosis follows. Most of these changes were observed by the students in the last six weeks.

At the time of hatching the tadpole is a fish-like creature, having a long, vertically flattened tail, by means of which it swims through the water. The sides of the tail show the markings of the muscle segments through the skin. The flattened expansions of the skin on the upper and lower sides of the tail are thin and nearly transparent, so that one may easily observe with a microscope the blood flowing in the capillaries.

The external gills grow rapidly after the tadpole is hatched. Three pairs of external gills are developed. The gill slits grow about the time the mouth is fully formed, and the water which is taken in at the mouth is passed through the gill slits to the exterior. The internal gills develop a little later. Both external and internal gills receive an abundant blood supply. The oxygen is taken into the blood from the water as it passes over the gills, where only a thin wall separates the blood from the water.

The hind limbs, which are the first ones to appear, bud out as small papillae on either side of the base of the tail. They gradually increase in size, become jointed in structure, and later bud out the toes at the distal end. The fore limbs develop in much the same manner.

Toward the end of the larval period the tail begins to disappear; its tissues break down and are resorbed, serving, doubtless, as food material for building up the other organs of the body. During the transformation of the tadpole into the young frog, the mouth becomes wide, the tongue increases greatly in size, the legs grow rapidly, the round body changes in form, and the gills become resorbed; the lungs then develop rapidly, and the tadpole frequently comes to the surface for air.

The food of the tadpole is mainly vegetable matter. Spirogyra and other algae are common articles of diet; animal food, however, is greatly relished. Tadpoles will feed eagerly on decaying insects, earthworms, or almost any kind of meat. They will also eat bread.

The length of time the frog remains in the larva or tadpole stage depends upon environmental conditions, especially food. The tadpoles that are in the aquarium all winter where there was plenty of food and a favorable temperature. Had they remained in the pond they would not transform before the second summer.

G. A. A. HAS FROLIC IN GYM

Mock Wedding Given By Girls—100 Pointers Took Oath

The G. A. A. held a frolic after school Tuesday in which all members with one or more points attended. All girls having more than 100 points were initiated. The G. A. A. was officially wedded to North Side. Maxine Salsar, a blushing bride represented the G. A. A., and Louise Shreve, the happy groom, represented North Side. The bride was attended by Margaret Erwin and Oral DeLancey. All were stunningly attired. The Rev. Esther Nobles performed the ceremony. A certain group of girls were banded into the "Wearers of the Green." More will be seen of these girls later. The members with more than 100 points took the oath to support the G. A. A. and its constitution. Upon leaving all the girls declared they had a "great" time.

YOU NEVER ARE AT PERFECT REST

So Says Science Editor of Papers

David Dietz, science editor of the Indianapolis Times has figured out a scheme that human beings are never at rest. Regardless whether you're in 212 or at home, now what's going to be the use of asking time out for a rest period.

Here's how the Scripps-Howard Science Editor has it figured:

We will assume that you just have finished your dinner and have settled down in your favorite easy chair by the living room table to read The Northerner.

We are going to ask you to take out your watch and count the seconds.

Tick-tick, a second has passed. You are perfectly at rest, you think. But let us see if you are.

Your heart is not at rest. It is busy pumping the blood through your arteries. Your lungs are not at rest. They are busy drawing in the oxygen without which life is not possible.

You hear the ticks of your watch. That is because sound waves set up by the watch have struck your eardrums and set them in vibration. Those vibrations are carried by the nerves of your head to your brain, where they are interpreted as sounds.

Light waves, traveling with a speed of 186,000 miles a second are entering your eyes. That is why you are able to read what is written here.

Your body, like all other physical things, is made up of molecules. These tiny particles are in continuous vibration.

Molecules in their turn are made up of atoms. Atoms are made up of electrons, which whirl in orbits at a speed of more than 50,000 miles a second.

But you will say that these things are all internal and externally you are at rest. Let us see.

The earth is rotating on its axis. That means you are being whirled around on the surface of a sphere 8,000 miles in diameter.

The earth is revolving around the sun with a speed of eighteen and one-half miles a second. Tick-tick. In that second you moved eighteen and one-half miles around the sun.

The sun itself is dashing through space with a speed of 200 miles a second. The earth and other planets are, of course, carried along with the sun. Tick-tick. In that second you have moved 200 miles through space.

The sun is moving through space in the general direction of the constellation known as Draco, or the Dragon, a constellation not far from the Great Dipper.

Each second we are 200 miles nearer that constellation. That is something for you to think about as you sit in your favorite easy chair—"at rest."

The Martinsville team has been the champs two times, in 1924 and in 1927. Frankfort is the other team, carrying away the honors in 1925. Marion is the only northern city to have won the state championship at any time; however South Bend, Muncie, Gary and Kokomo have been runners-up at various meets.

Joe Miskel Gets Life Sentence North Side Dismissed

Principal Northrop Goes On Extended Fishing Trip
—Others Leave On Their Vacations.

N. S. Principal Goes Out to Dig Worms

Mary Cromer Goes Into Ecstasy Over Vacation and the New Ford.

School will be closed next Friday not only for spring vacation, but for an indefinite period, according to an announcement made by Milton H. Northrop. This announcement the principal made over his left shoulder as he left the building with a fish pole in one hand and a can of bait in the other.

"Atta boy, Milt, now I can ditch these contests," Mary Cromer yelled as she threw away her brief case and scattered the papers all over the hall. "Hey Hilda," she called to Miss Schwehn, "now we'll have time to learn to drive those new Fords." And she was gone, hopping and skipping down the board walk, swinging her hat in one hand.

Spring fever, (all the excitement started last week when A. G. Cleaver and Mark Bills returned from fishing after last week-end. A special auditorium was held early Monday morning to tell the students of the 12-pound bass and the 6-inch blue gills the sportsmen caught. To verify the stories slides were shown on the screen and snapshots of the two were passed around. Snapshots were sold also at the door for twenty-five cents each.

Excitement Runs Wild

The slides were too much for Northrop, who bolted wildly out of the auditorium, threw up his hands, and yelled, "What's the use of school. It's criminal to hold them boys and girls here in the building, we'll just let 'em out."

"Excitement ran wild as the principal in strong ejaculations built his air castles, and explained how much safer it would be to travel the roads to the lake now than in the late summer. "This safety in numbers is all the bosh," he said, and then grabbed his hat.

No plans for the re-opening of school have been made, but Northrop is said to have made a few straggling and disgruntled statements about school while he was out digging fish worms.

About the only thing his friends could understand was, "It just depends on how the fish bite."

Beat Bluffton.

Some say Central is going to win by twelve points, others have the opinion that South Side is going to come out ten points ahead. Who knows? Everybody who doesn't go to Bluffton go out to South Side and find out the answer.

Joe Miskel, notorious backer of the great crime wave at North Side, was given life sentence and 99 years for murder and embezzlement by Special Judge Bob Walsh yesterday afternoon in the court room at Riverview.

Walsh wept as he read the sentence and then yelled, "It don't seem right. We all knew Miskel was a cutthroat, bootlegger, and a crook, but where will we get our kick now."

Miskel jumped up clapped his hand and hysterically shouted, "That's all right boy. I'll have a big time. There ain't no worms in jail."

Miskel's sentence comes after a long drawn out and nerve-wrecking trial. The convict seems to have stood the ordeal better than most anyone else. Nancy McKay, who filed the embezzlement charge was hysterical and had to be led from the court room by Evelyn Jeurgens and Ted McNelly to Paul Haberly's car, which was waiting outside.

When asked whether he had anything to say Miskel said he thought it would be quite athletic because he could be assured of a nice long life and 99 years—and he could lick postage every day for Lucille Titus.

Miskel was arrested several weeks ago by Police Sergeant Bill Borgmann who caught the culprit sneaking down a dark street after eight o'clock without any chaperons. At first Miskel made a firm denial of all the charges, but when cross examined by Chief of Detectives Harold Korn he made a written statement that in going down the street he had stepped on and brutally killed a worm. Immediately a charge of first degree murder was filed. While this suit was pending Nancy McKay, Hupmobile occupant, filed charges against Joe. Nancy claims that on February 6 Bill Borgmann bought her a jolly-pop and that she gave it to Joe for one minute's use, and that in that time he embezzled the entire refreshment. Miss McKay claims she would not have pressed the suit if it had not been for Scheiman, who feels that he has squandered a nickel.

North Side Crew All Set For Big Regatta To Be Held In St. Joe River

Yale, Harvard and Princeton Enter Teams Against Local Crew; Famous Universities to Compete.

Yale, Harvard and Princeton! That is the kind of teams North Side is going to compete with in their first annual regatta held on the St. Joe River the first of May.

The Redskins are the only Fort Wayne team who have a chance to beat the big three and Onceover has them doped to take the day.

The Billsmen have been keeping strict training and are in fine shape. Mr. Bills has insisted this season that the boys smoke at least six packages of cigarettes a day, two cigars and always have their pipes with them. He also told the boys to drink as much as they could hold and to use only boiled water or condensed milk.

The night before the race Pete Hagerman will give a party for the boys and none of them will be allowed to go home before three a. m., according to Mr. Bills.

Just before the last big race the coach sprung a surprise on the crew by giving them each a hot dog.

They had their picture taken sitting in the shell puffing away at their pipes.

Quite a rumpus was created last week over the stroke of the team. It seems that the place had been assigned to Harry Leeper, who didn't show enough pep, so the place was taken from him and given to Bill Scheiman. Scheiman was granted the position on account of his vivacity and enthusiasm. Paul Haberley, who recommended this, promised to bring him from the Turkish bath house just before the crack of the pistol for the races, and guaranteed to have him wrapped in elder-down blankets.

Harvard and Yale haven't been going so hot this season while the North Side crew have been plenty good. In order to insure the local team of winning, mines of entanglements have been set in the river so in case any one gets ahead Milton H. Northrop can signal to R. P. Chambers, who works the nets, to entangle the shells. Everything around school must give way to the crew, Northrop said and for this reason no one is to venture on the first floor, where the boys are skating on the circle.

SWIMMING MEET TO BE HELD IN ST. JOE RIVER

North Side Natatorium Goes Dry.

MYSTERY SHROUDS STRANGE OCCURRENCE

Mr. Ivy Spellbound on Unusual Event.

Wuxtry! Wuxtry! This is worse than the California flood, and by no means don't tell me I'm all wet. It gives me great sorrow indeed to inform you—no, I can't do it. It brings eyes to my tears—Oh, all right, go ahead and break my heart. Children, the millennium has come. Our Pool-Has-Gone-Dry. And may tears fill it again. We can't wait for that, however, so Mr. Geake has very kindly consented to put at our disposal 300 feet of the St. Joe river directly in front of the school. Not only has he done this but he has also persuaded congress to appropriate $55,000,000,000 to put in a tile floor so the swimmers will feel at home.

While the workmen are busy getting the river in shape we will try to discover a reason for the apparent dryness of the pool. Could it have been prohibition? Not according to a report given out by Mr. Ivy the night of the tragedy. "That afternoon I took my little boys in swimming and everything seemed O. and K. That night when I went to bed the idea came to me that I may have left the faucet open and when I arrived there was all the water running in the river. Oh, it was horrible! Just then Charles Pierce, who played the part of the lifesaver in the Johnstown flood threw off his necktie and dove. One-half hour later he emerged with Effie in one hand and some gasoline in the other. The crowd cheered wildly but Charles being such a modest chap bolted for freedom. Let's see, what was I talking about. Oh, yes. Well, now that the workmen have the tile floor and walls put in the river the contests will start. After they are over I again will give a report of the struggles. These will be found elsewhere in this edition."

The North Side band thinks it's pretty good — too bad — so they've been practicing for the Regatta. Some of the numbers they render will be "Muddy Waters," "Asleep in the Deep."

HORSE SHOE MEET ENDS IN FISTIC BRAWL

Social Blow-Out Proves to Be a Failure.

FACULTY INVOLVED IN NASTY QUARREL

Merton Kimes Starts Riot at Meet.

What might have been a social success turned out to be a nasty quarrel Monday at the North Side athletic field when the faculty athletic contest turned into a brawl.

Merton Kimes, history dictator at the North Side school started the whole rumpus, and it was a dirty mean trick he played. Teams had been picked with Merton and Sam Mosher as captains. Hot arguments had been waging between the two captains for a week, in fact, the two men were forbidden to walk on the same side of the street for fear of fist fights. Late Monday afternoon, Principal Northrop was called out to help Sam, who had been chased up a tree by Merton, (who was standing on the ground under the tree.)

"I don't care if I am sunburnt," Kimes said, "I'll get that dirty greaser up there." There was fire in his eyes when he said it. Northrop calmed him down by saying Miss Nelson was approaching and such language was not becoming to a man of his type. Kimes made a few oaths under his breath, greeted Miss Nelson jumped in his new car and dashed madly down the street.

But back to the contest. It had been a keen battle. Referee Charley Dickinson had been calling fouls closely when he was looking, but he had been chattering most of the time with friends on the "Best Book of the Month."

Suter Entry, Backfire, Wins Big Stakes At The North Side Derby

Hay Fever and Asthma With Jockies Richards and Novitsky Up Takes Second and Third.

One of the most thrilling events of the season was the Hobby Horse race held at North Side. Contestants came from all over the country and a few from abroad were there.

There were many favorites—among the horses. The most popular was the Irish entry, St. Patrick. He was ably backed by McVey, McNelly, McKay, McBride and McComb. Carl Jacobs riding Thunder was considered the likely winner but Mr. Suter and his horse Backfire (back-fire) and Effie, were brother and sister, took the day. Richards and Runt Novitsky up took second and third places respectively.

Backfire came from the Risk stables and his ancestry dates back to Louis XIV. Mr. Risk when questioned admitted that it was only through Suter's wonderful riding that his stable took the grand stakes of three cents.

Principal Northrop said that he wanted to make the race a grand success so he wrote Baron Lamy of Tia Juna and got a few pointers on how to run a race. He was informed that no race could hope to succeed without peanuts, pop, candy, chewing gum and balloons. Mr. DeLong also said that he would have to hire someone to keep the paper off the track as strong bits of waste frightened the horses.

The day of the big event found Miss Alexander peddling peanuts, Mr. Ivy vending pop to the thirsty — Miss Cromer selling chewing gum and candy and Rollo Chambers supplying the grandfathers with gas balloons. Glen Smith acted as track manager kept the course clear of paper with the aid of the North Side janitorial force. It was quite exciting to see Miss Smith dash across the track to pick up some stray candy wrappers or a tinfoil from chewing gum.

Roulette wheels and all kinds of gambling devices were found around the place, but to protect the young and innocent from betting Miss Frances Cook had been hired as plain clothes police matron. It was she who discovered that McVey was cheating before the race began. McVey was found tying three lumps of sugar in a bag two inches above the horse's nose. A quick arrest followed and Miss Cook rode off with McVey in the police wagon and was not seen after. Margaret Smenner who served as her assistant, said that it was another example of France's noble and outstanding work. "She's so sympathetic," Margaret sobbed, "I wonder why she didn't take me along."

Official Notices From the Principal's Office

It is necessary to bring to the attention of pupils the following points made by Mr. Northrop.

1. Freshmen and sophomores may not take more than four subjects. Juniors with an average of B or better may take five subjects with permission. Only in cases of necessity will a senior be allowed to take extra work.

2. Credit for one semester's work is given in only a few subjects. Therefore a second semester should be elected to follow the first. This is especially true of freshmen and sophomore courses. (Teachers who are teaching courses that must be continued should tell pupils what to elect.)

3. Much care should be taken in numbering courses. The first semester a course is taken the number is 1; that is, the first semester's work in Algebra is Algebra 1, the first semester's work in Chemistry is Chemistry, the sixth semester work in English is English 6, etc.

The following subjects may be taken for one semester and the pupil will receive credit: English 5 and 6, Algebra 3 and 4, Geometry 3, trigonometry, Latin 5, 6, 7 and 8; French 5, 6, 7 and 8; Commercial Geography, Music History, Public Speaking, Home Economics 3 and 4. (Public Speaking 2 will be offered if a sufficient number of pupils enroll.)

The following subjects must have two full years' work before credit can be given: Any language, shorthand.

All other subjects must be taken one year.

4. All 10B's should elect History 1.

5. Anyone below an 11A may elect a language. Juniors not taking the commercial course may elect shorthand and typing with permission.

6. Botany and Physics are Junior

PURDUE BAND TO APPEAR AT NORTH SIDE HI

Old Gold and Black Musicians Come Saturday

COLLEGIANS WILL GIVE TWO CONCERTS

Organization Boasts of An Unusually Large Drum.

"The varsity drag"

Maybe that's what will be heard around North Side high school Saturday when the highly touted Purdue University band appears in the auditorium for two concerts—one at 3:30 and one at 8:30.

One hundred strong the Old Gold and Black musicians will come to play their program sponsored by one of the Fort Wayne churches.

Somehow there's something about the aggregation from the engineering school that peps up everyone on the football field. It inspires many a team as well as awes many opponents. Anyone who has seen this group of musicians parade before a game will never forget the strut of the drum major nor the big drum. The one drum used in the band is so large that it is necessary to push it around on some kind of a two-wheeled contraption, (if the school will permit the vehicle to be called thusly). This said drum was supposed to be the largest in the United States, at least it carried the honor, until about four years ago, when the Chicago University band acquired complete new outfit of musical instruments, and the new drum for the Maroon school was one inch larger in diameter than the Purdue drum.

Several new and unusual instruments have been added to the Purdue band—and most of the boys song. So after all is told, they should give a pretty good concert. At least it will be collegiate.

One of the strongest sections is the clarinet section, and it is supposed to be one of the best of any of the college or university bands.

MISS SMENNER WINS AWARD IN CONTEST

Subject, "My Impressions of the Optimist Creed."

AWARD IS $50 AND A SCHOLARSHIP

Indiana University Co-Operates With Optimist Club.

Margaret Smenner has turned out to be the "lucky senior". She has taken first place in the Senior contest for the Optimist Essay. The subject for the contest was "My Impressions of the Optimist Creed," and the prizes for the contest are a $50 scholarship from the Optimist Club, and a $100 scholarship from the Indiana University Extension Division.

If the winner of the contest prefers to stay in the city she is entitled to the Extension scholarship, but if she goes to any other college she is entitled to the Optimist Scholarship only.

We congratulate you, Margaret, and hope your college experience will be successful and happy.

"Trial By Jury" Makes Big Hit At North Side High Auditorium

Student Actors and Singers Win Praise From Students; Don Elder Sets New Example in Dealing Out Justice.

By Evelyn Juergens

Did you all see the operetta, "Trial by Jury"? Didn't you enjoy yourselves? I did!

Donald Elder was a grand old judge, wasn't he? And didn't he make a hit with Jean Pitts? He certainly did fall for her. We all hope Don likes his chosen profession. And hope he continues to be so kind to poor forsaken girls, but, of course, he couldn't marry them all. If we were brought into court under Don's jurisdiction, I am sure he would deal with us as he would like to deal with.

Poor Jean! We're hoping her second matrimonial experience will turn out happier than did the first. She is more fortunate than most girls to land a judge. Even though she was desperately in love with her fiancé, it didn't take her long to change her affection. Didn't Jean make a darling bride? Wasn't she divine?

I never knew Harold Walker could

KING CANDIDATE FOR CORONER

School Trainer Enters Primary Race.

Dr. Everett A. King has announced that he will be a candidate for coroner in Allen county on the Republican ticket in the primary elections which will be held in May. For several years he has been the athletic trainer at Central and this year added North Side to his list. In his work Dr. King has made many friends, both with students and patrons.

FACULTIES TO MEET IN GOLF MATCH IN MAY

North Side Challenged by South Siders.

DATE IS SET FOR MAY 12 OR 19

Redskins Play "To Hang One on" the Kellys.

They're at it again! Now see who can tell the biggest one!

The men from both North Side and South Side! And it's going to be too bad for the Clear Lake golf course when the eight men from the two local schools meet on May 12 or 19.

Here's the way the story goes. It seems that at a conference (or maybe it was just a get together) the men from the faculties got to bragging that they had made "it" in a 78 or a 92 or what have you. Maybe the North Side faculty was talking about the first hole, but the South Side pedagogical force took the Redskins yarn seriously. Then Davis of South Side called in the Kellys and the result was a challenge from the South Siders to the North Siders.

R. P. Chambers received the letter and not to be outwitted by the opposing team accepted the challenge. Already the North Siders are beginning to practice pivoting so they'll be in form for the contest. North Side is going to hang one on South Side, according to some of the North Side entrants.

Although each team will be represented by eight playing members, a number of other faculty members may "act" as caddies. Some outsider has hinted that it might be a time saver for some one to take along some adding machines.

Those who will represent the North Side school are R. P. Chambers, Mark Bills, Hyrle Ivy, M. H. Northrop, Walter Pring, A. G. Cleaver, Pennington and Sidell.

South Side will be represented by R. Nelson Snyder, Davis, Schaefer, Gilbert, Welborn, Hull, and Suter.

Miss Cromer Judges Forensic Contest

Miss Cromer has been the judge for several contests held recently. On Friday, April 6, she judged the county oratorical contest at Columbia City. Monday, April 9, she judged the Andrews vs. Warsaw debate, and on Thursday, April 12, she judged the discussion contest for the American Institute of Bankers, held at the First National Bank.

EXTEMP MEET TO BE HELD ON APRIL 25th

Elimination Contest to Be Held Thursday

SEVERAL CONTESTANTS ENTER DISCUSSION

"Presidential Possibilities" Selected as Subject for Speakers.

The Extemp contest will be held during the assembly period next Wednesday, April 25. Miss Cromer is sponsoring the contest, and she is expecting quite a group of students to take part. A meeting will be held next Thursday for the elimination contest.

The subject for the contest will be "Presidential Possibilities." In this the contestants will make nomination speeches for candidates. This is a timely subject; it will be a very interesting and easily understood.

At the present there is a deficit in the debating fund, and because of this there will be an admission fee of 5 cents to make up this deficit. Let us help these students make their speeches by being there. The debating needs the 5 cents and we should help by giving our nickels. The debaters have done all they can for us, now let us show our support.

FORENSIC CHARTER ARRIVES N. S. DEBATERS

Six Members of League Are in School

CHARTER TO BE HUNG IN FRAME

High Scholastic Standing Is Required of Students.

The charter for the National Forensic League has arrived. It will be framed and put in a prominent place. It is for the establishment of a chapter of the league in North Side high school. The charter members are Carl Jacobs, Paul Somers, John McMeen, Durward Allen, Philip Bowen, and Mary E. Cromer. The chapter number is 218, and on the charter is the gold seal of the order and the signature of the national officers.

The National Forensic League is an organization to which the debaters belong. It requires a high scholastic standing for membership and it has given our debaters, "keys" to wear. North Side has surely made much progress in her first year, and the debaters have made splendid progress. Let us hope that in future years in debating will lead us to greater victories.

LORENZ ORCHESTRA PLAY SOPH SHUFFLE

Earl Gardner Appearing at Community Center.

Stewart Lorenz' orchestra will play the program of dances at the Sophomore Shuffle on Saturday night, Maurice Cook, president of the two-year people, has said.

The class made two choices, Earl Gardner and Lorenz—but Gardner's orchestra had a previous engagement made for the Catholic Community Center. Lorenz orchestra has played for many of the big dances in the city and have "always been asked back", which means they're good. The orchestra recently returned from Michigan where they had several engagements, many of them being at the University of Michigan.

LOVING CUP FOR ENGLISH GIVEN TO NORTH SIDE

Person Who Donated Cup Is Not Known

AWARD IS TO GO TO OUTSTANDING SENIOR

North Side Only City School to Have English Cup.

Another cup has been given North Side by a generous admirer of the school. It is one of the most beautiful that North Side has received. Engraved upon it are the words: "For Excellence in English. This is a unique idea since neither Central nor South Side has an award, while North Side, through the giver of this cup, has set the first honorary standard in English.

Each year the name of one senior who has been outstanding in English during the four years, will be engraved upon this cup. The method of choosing the honored student will be most careful. A group of seniors who have the highest averages in English for four years will be given a test. It is hoped that the test will determine which student really deserves this honor.

A freshman can make extraordinary grades in the first year, but as he carries on his high school career, his English may gradually decline. Which on the other hand, another student may make poor grades while a freshman, but gradually improve through the four years. These averages might balance, but undoubtedly the person who had improved would be the better English student.

At the present time Mr. Northrop is hunting through the grade of the seniors to find those with the highest averages in English. These students will take the test, and the one who writes the best paper will have his name engraved upon the cup.

We wish to thank the unknown giver for the whole school. This award should encourage freshmen to work faithfully from the very beginning of their high school work in English. English needs to be encouraged among the younger students and this cup will surely give them something to work for. Once more we thank you Mr. Giver, and hope that the work of the students in future years will again and again show your appreciation.

Parking Field To Be Inaugurated For New Drivers of the Flivver

Epidemic Seizes Ladies of Faculty; Disease Is Spread by Miss Mary Cromer.

A regular parking field will have to be inaugurated at North Side if this epidemic of flivver buying doesn't cease pretty soon. At least a "stop" and "go" sign will have to be erected by the city in order to safeguard pedestrians as well as students.

Miss Mary Cromer, head of the English department, got the dread disease somewhere and it seems that she wasn't put under quarantine, so she spread the whole epidemic.

Now it's too bad that Fords aren't built in a day, but they're not, and Fords aren't to be had any day so every morning each member of the teaching staff greets the other members not with "Good morning" but with "Did yours come?" And in the

SOPHOMORE DANCE TO BE A GALA AFFAIR

Artistic Decorations Planned For Ballroom

SHUFFLE SCHEDULED FOR SATURDAY NIGHT

Peppiest Orchestra in the Country to Play Program.

Balloons, serpentine paper, soft shaded lights, moonlight dances, the peppiest orchestra in the country and a mighty slick gymnasium floor are just a few of the many things that have been promised for Sophomore shuffle for Saturday night.

A gala affair it will be—and it will be the first dance in the huge North Side gymnasium—a most attractive place for such a spring dance. With the place decorated as plans have been made, the ballroom will be a most artistic place and in its glory will correspond to a college Sophomore Cotillion.

The North Side Sophomore class, with Mr. Dickinson and Miss Aumann in charge, have outdone themselves and everyone else on plans for the dance, and it will be one of the most outstanding social events of the spring season for high school students. Mr. Northrop, principal, and Miss Reynard, dean of girls, have heartily endorsed the plans made.

A riot of fun and a good time for everyone who comes—is the slogan adopted by the industrious Sophomores. There won't be much left anyone could ask for. Maurice Cook, president of the class, said. There will be plenty of noise makers besides the orchestra. The committee in charge is up in the clouds in enthusiasm, and although they won't divulge all the secrets and plans for the affair they do say there never was one like it before.

Nothing could be more intoxicating than a peppy orchestra, a beautiful ballroom, a good partner, and a crowd of good friends. Anyone who misses the dance will miss a good time, so the Sophs are urging everyone in school to come. Tickets will sell for seventy-five cents a couple and stags will be charged fifty cents.

HISTORY CLUB HAS INTERESTING MEET

Large Number of Students Attend Meeting.

The newly organized History club met in Room 314 last Friday night for a very instructive, as well as entertaining meeting.

The president of the club, Erwin Bieke, was in charge of the meeting and was assisted by Mr. Mosher. Miss Vonclle Mosely gave a very amusing reading. The farm relief question and the McNary-Haugen bill were explained by John McMeen. After a fine piano solo by Mary Steiner, Mr. Mosher discussed the policy of the United States in Nicaragua, explaining that the United States is interested in Nicaragua because of canal rights she possesses there, and also wishes to prevent countries of the eastern world from interfering in Central America.

A constitution for the club was read and accepted. About twenty-five persons were present in spite of the bad weather. This was the best meeting the club had yet had and pointed to a very successful future.

Miss McKeehan, the librarian, has announced that over 300 books, mostly fiction, are expected next September, at the opening of school.

ACTIONS SPEAK LOUDER THAN WORDS

None of us would walk through town shouting, "North Side is a poor school, nothing worth-while is taught there. We advise everyone to shun it." Yet we sometimes do that very thing, for "actions speak louder than words."

Whenever we are discourteous to older people, whenever we disturb others by boisterous and disorderly conduct, whenever we disregard an opportunity to do a kind deed we dishonor the name of our school. No matter how great its name may become through victories in the fields of scholarship and athletics, if people have reason to dread meeting some of its scholars or street-car companies and store owners fear for their property when its pupils approach no one will be proud to be associated with it.

It takes a great many good deeds to eclipse a few bad deeds. People are always quick to notice and to remember bad behavior, while good conduct is to be expected, not rewarded. If when we did wrong, we and we alone suffered, no one else would have a right to complain. Misconduct as all other evil-doing, however, always injures more the one who did the wrong. When we do not act as we should we inevitably tarnish the bright name of our school.

Since we do more harm than we realize by misconducting ourselves let us resolve to tune our deeds to shout, "North Side is deserving of great praise. Her students are respected and liked wherever they go."

ENGLISH CUP AWARD

Modern high schools have again and again been accused of emphasizing sports such a degree that scholarship is lost sight of.

In refuting these complaints we might state that passing grades are required of anyone who wishes to participate in sports. An argument which carries much greater weight with it, however, is that excelling in scholarship is being encouraged wherever possible.

An outstanding achievement in sports is often rewarded by the presentation of a cup or the honor of having one's name engraved on such a trophy. Several cups for this purpose have been donated to North Side by liberal citizens of Fort Wayne. At the same time, extraordinary achievements in scholarship will not go unrewarded. Unknown honors have added two silver cups for our trophy case. One will have engraved on it each year the names of valedictorian and salutatorian of the graduating class. The other is for excellence in English. To be able to speak correct English is one of the first requirements for a man who wishes to be successful in this world, therefore, this subject cannot be emphasized too much.

We are sincerely grateful to the friends who thus showed that they are interested in our work. Besides valuing the cups we value encouragement given us by the thought that others are noticing and commending our work.

Another honor has been added to the long list of those already won for North Side in the one short year of her life. Lorena Fann's essay on "What is a Good Citizen" won first place in the district constitutional contest. Lorena's essay will be sent to the state to compete with other winning essays.

We all offer her congratulations and feel that we, too, share in a measure the honor she has gained, for it has added much to the name of North Side.

JUNIORS MAKE PLANS FOR BIG PROM IN MAY

May 26th Is Date Set for Big Event.

EARL GARDNER'S ORCHESTRA TO PLAY

Committees Working on Plans for Affair.

Plans are being completed for the Junior Prom, to be given in the high school gym May 26. The decorating committees are working on an idea for decorations. Several novel ideas have been submitted. The prom is for all the classes of North Side, South Side, and Central. The admission will be $1.50 per couple. The juniors are sparing no efforts to make this dance a success, as their previous dances have been. Earl Gardner's orchestra, one of the most popular in northern Indiana, has been engaged for this affair. Anyone wishing to sell tickets may procure them from Maxine Salzer.

The committees in charge of this affair are:

Refreshments — Catherine Miller (chairman), Marian Weinstein, Helen Krueper, Margaret Erwin.

Music — Harold Korn.

Tickets — Max Salzer.

Decorating — Shreve, chairman.

Advertising — Ed Neuroth, chairman.

ART CLUB DOES INTERESTING WORK

To Send an Exhibit to Arts Association.

Interesting textiles of modern designs are being made by the 9A Art classes. The North Side high and buildings seen from its windows have furnished some of the motifs. Sky scrapers, boats, mountains, children's toys, locomotion, and parties are others. In fact there are as many as there are students.

Illustration of stories preceded this problem, "Flandersfield," "The Yankee Clipper," "Cinderella," "We," and "The Ancient Mariner" were voted the best. Others that have attracted attention are "Treasure Island," "The Dutch Boy," "Ben Hur" and "Egypt."

The Art department is planning to send an exhibit to the Western Arts Association convening at Indianapolis during April. Still life, textiles, lettering and illustration will probably make up the exhibit. The following 9A students have had their work selected: Philip Dodane, Oulna Gille, Marie Greer, Dorothy Meyer, Velma Fitzgerald, Kathryn Doyle, Floyd Lash, Paul Bendele, Richard Taylor and Iola Kikley.

An exhibit is to be hung in the near future in the Woman's club of the new Chamber of Commerce.

Cracks Along The Boardwalk

That's all—this stuff is dedicated to whoever goes to the State.

Notice in Virginia paper: "Mrs. Sarah Allen is sick at her home in Bayley's Neck and her sons request that people do not come to see the big hog until she improves. They will notify you when she does."

Prof in Botany class: "What is the fruit of a potato?"
Brilliant Student: "Potato chips."

Jim—"Who's the woman with the little wart?"
Bim—"Not so loud, thass her husband."

"Sir, your daughter has promised to be my wife."
"Well, don't come near me for sympathy. I knew something like that would happen to you hanging around the house five nights a week."

"Would you like to dance the next one?" asked the poor dancer.
"Certainly. Would you mind finding a partner for me?" replied the fair lady.

Customer: "Why, it goes 'tum-tum-tumkety-tum.'"
Clerk: "Oh, you mean 'The Lost Chord.'"
Customer: "Aw, that's it."

Fond mother (to offspring hanging out third story window): "Jump down, darling."

A mule and a lord are said to have met on the highway.
"And what might you be?" asked the mule.
"An automobile," answered the lord, "and you?"
"I'm a horse," replied the mule. And they both laughed.

Girl: "No, Lerdie, I can't marry you, but I'll always be a sister to you."
Lella: "All right. That's fine. We'll start right now. I'll just borrow this five bucks out of your bag (click) and now fetch me a fresh handkerchief (snap) and why the devil don't you get a marcel? You sure need one. I guess I'll go out and see Ethel now, sokissayourbrother good night (smack) and help him on with his coat and tell the folks not to wait up for me (shuffle) 'cause I'm going out and won't be home early (slam)."

"What insect lives on the least food?"
"The moth—it eats holes."
"They all fall for me," said Maggie Berghoff, as the contents of her locker lay on the floor.

Grocer (rushing in to a newspaper office): "See here, you've published an announcement of my death by mistake. That's got to be fixed right away."
Editor: "Well, we never contradict anything we have published, but I'll tell you what I'll do. I'll put you in the birth column tomorrow and give you a fresh start."

The light bill should be much lower since the windows are washed.
I stood upon a mountain,
I looked down on a plain,
I saw a lot of green stuff,
It looked like waving grain;
I took another look,
I thought it must be grass,
But goodness! To my horror
It was the freshmen class.

Many a true word has been spoken between false teeth.

There is a bright side to everything, including last year's suit of clothes.

Lady—"I want to buy an easy chair for my husband."
Salesman—"Morris?"
Lady—"No, John."

Mr. Kimes—"I take great pleasure in giving you A."
John McMeen—"Aw, make it A-plus and enjoy yourself."

With the Classes

In Spain when a girl marries she doesn't have to worry about regaining her maiden name by divorce, for it is conveniently preserved for her use after marriage. In signing her name to legal documents she puts her maiden name first and there, of who ever she marries. This is rather a pleasant arrangement, especially for any person who desires frequent changes in these circumstances. She may cease to use her husband's name if she wishes and quietly escape talk and divorce and—alimony.

This interesting fact was discovered by Miss Gross' Spanish class.

William Hagerman who took Latin four from Miss Lucasse last semester has recently completed a very clever illustration of the manner in which Caesar's bridge across the Rhine was built. The structure is about ten feet long and six inches wide. It is very closely copied from the original picture, and reveals much labor spent on it. It is now set up in Miss Lucasse's room, 326.

Paul Stein, a pupil of Miss Beilerlein's 10-A Latin class, became subject to a similar inspiration a short time ago and has appeared with a model of one of Caesar's camps. The base, painted green to represent grass, is about one foot square and on this the walls of the fortress are built. The wall is made of twigs broken into one inch lengths and closely bound together. On each side of the walls there is a gate made in Caesarean style. The whole is very cleverly done and is on exhibition in Miss Beilerlein's room, 224.

Miss Huffman's class in Caesar has been working on charts which are to represent the ascending and descending action in Shakespeare's well-known play. This is done in various ways, all of which are very attractive and interesting.

Philip Dodane has recently completed a beautiful painting of Julius Caesar. Philip is well known for his cartooning, but this demonstrates ability in other works of art. It is well worth seeing and may be seen in Miss Huffman's room, 334.

Mr. Mosher and Mr. Kimes of the history department and Mr. Pennington of the mathematics department were the judges of the oratorical and discussion contest held at Spencerville high school, DeKalb county, on Friday night, March 30.

Profiles

Coming home the other night, in my car (the State street car), I heard a man who was hanging on to a strap say: "North Side is going to the Bow-wows." This set me thinking, and I was glad it did because I am being paid (?) by this paper to think once a week, and it is wearing.

Some days I never think from morning till night and those who know me will stand behind that statement.

I think that man was wrong. The students are not going to the dogs. He had better say they are going with the dogs, and I speak from my own personal experience. But this is not to be a treatise on dogs and their companions. It is something entirely different. It is a personal glimpse into the lives of North Siders, who help make this school a big (flop) school.

Last week I was full of spring (along with a bunch of other stuff), but this week I haven't got it any more. No, I'm so happy it's all over now. I got the flu. That's the way it is. Life is one fool thing after another and love is just two fool things after each other.

A very startling statement came out in the papers recently. It said that they were not going to make pencils any longer. The article went on to say that they are long enough now.

But this is neither getting here nor there. It is my duty to interview someone for this paper and I'm going to do it or bust (preferably do it).

This specimen which you see before you is absolutely guaranteed not to rip, tear, shrink, run down at the heels or wear off at the elbows. Satisfaction guaranteed or your money back. After much long and careful study and deliberation I have chosen this boy to interview because of his wonderful ability to skip rope and play mumble peg.

Aside from these athletic qualities he is, an actor. But why should I use up this good ink telling about him. Here he is now. Let him speak for himself.

Yes, you are right, Mr. Slush, I am a great actor. I have played the part of a life saver in the Johnstown Flood, I have been a fairy in "Midsummer Night's Dream" and I was one an end (choice of ends) of a camel in a pantomime. I have had other parts, too, such as "a voice speaks from within" or "a noise is heard without." I played as a noise for seven nights before a crowded house. But hark! Here comes my director and I must "beat it" as the saying goes. Ask her about acting. She knows her P's and Q's along with some 24 other letters of the alphabet.

With that Steve Marshall left me to my fate and his directress.

"How do you do," quoth I. "The same to you," quoth she. "Where are you going?" quoth I. "None of your business," quoth she.

By that time I knew that she was one of those hefty vivacious girls who is not to be trifled with. Far be it from me to trifle with a girl like that. Especially when I can't run fast.

Well, to make a short story long, after I had tamed the Shrew, I persuaded her to stay with me.

I am not so much of an actor as I am a playwright. Yes, I wrote, "Why men leave home," in three parts, and I wrote "The Egg" but it was rather rotten. When I submitted one of my plays the editor glanced at it and said, "Where is the action of 'this laid'?" "It is laid," I answered, "in the main sewer of a great city." "Good night," he said, "Keep it there." With that Helene Grummons walked off.

Athletic Carnival Scheduled For North Side High School

Boxing, Wrestling and Marked Games to Feature Program; Events to Be Reviewed by Parents.

On the evening of May 20th the mothers and fathers who ask "Why do you take gym?" are to be shown why. This is going to be accomplished by means of an athletic carnival. Mr. Bills, director of physical education at North Side, has charge of the program. He has promised to make it as interesting as possible and everyone is invited to come.

Some of the events will be wrestling matches, boxing, masked boxing and a few other stunts.

Coach Mark Bills, who has charge of the affair, is anxious that all patrons attend the event.

Mr. Mosher of the history department lectured to the members of the Woman's Reading Club at the home of Mrs. Frank Bohn recently. The subject was "The Policies of the United States in Nicaragua."

This and That

North Side was honored by a visit from the Dennison Glee club last Monday afternoon. The members of the club and their advisors were shown around the school and many compliments were given our fair school.

The long awaited operetta was given yesterday in the auditorium and judging by the number of students who attended, it must have been good.

Purdue University band will play at North Side, in the afternoon at three and in the evening at eight-thirty on April twenty-first. The program will probably continue for an hour and a half.

Sophomore Shuffle to be given April twenty-first will be the first dance to be given in the main gym. The Lorenz orchestra will furnish the music for dreamy waltzes and peppy fox trots.

Which class is going to be the first to have their name engraved on the Fletcher swimming trophy? This will be decided at the swimming meet, April 20th.

The mid-semester grades went out last Wednesday. Are you satisfied with yours? If not, what are you going to do about it? Work is the only way to raise grades.

One of the noticeable effects of the spring weather is the large crowd which lingers just outside the doors during the lunch periods.

There have been a number of visitors at North Side High School the past week. Leonard Schele and his roommate, and Byron Novitsky, from Michigan U., and Dorothy Benner, from Indiana, have been haunting Miss Cromer's room.

INTER-CLASS MEET PLANNED FOR REDSKINS

All Boys Eligible to Enter Track Events.

FIRST ELIMINATIONS TO BE HELD NEXT WEEK

North Side May Enter Sectional Meet.

North Side is to have an inter-class track meet under the direction of Mr. Bills and Mr. Chambers. Any boy is eligible to try-out for his class team and if there are any likely track men in the meet they will probably be entered in the sectional.

All boys interested are asked to report to Mr. Chambers Wednesday. Practice will be held on our own field and the participants will have to furnish their own suits and equipment.

This meet will probably be held in about two weeks. Eliminations will be held at the end of the first week. Events will be announced later.

PHYSICAL EDUCATION MORE THAN SPORTS

Variety of Activities Is Introduced for Efficiency

SPORTSMANSHIP AND SKILL ARE ESSENTIAL

Program on May 24 to Demonstrate Work.

Physical efficiency is the one big aim and excuse for physical education. All of a hundred or more other so-called "aims" must relate themselves to the one considered primary and all-compassing health teaching, skills, courage, sportsmanship, all fall within the scope of improving physical efficiency.

We are not essentially interested in gymnastics as such although we must open that field for inspection and introduce its content in a fundamental way. Formal work, once the backbone of nearly all physical education, must have only the small portion of time

Eighteen Redskins Pass Elimination In Spring Football Tryouts At N. S.

Juniors to Report This Week For Tryouts—Good Material Found; Team Expected to Make Mark Next Year.

After nearly two weeks of hard practice sessions the football squad consisting of freshmen and sophomores was cut last Monday and aspirants from the junior class have been added to the squad this week. This squad will "show its stuff" with the pigskin for probably two weeks more, and after that spring football will be abandoned. Seniors do not come out for spring practice. The lower classmen have shown some good football during their workout and a valuable crop of material for next fall will probably be secured from this squad, Coach Bills said.

Some of the boys who have been showing unusual ability have only freshman standing in school. This means that Coach Bills has scouted out material not only for this next year but for at least three years to come. Some good linemen have been found for next year.

The eighteen boys who remain with the squad after eliminations are Glenn Brendel, Fred Mansfield, Paul Faylor, Mark Nelson, Jerome Thinnas, Harry Stewart, James Nichols, Denver Carpenter, Oscar Beer, Earl Beer, Jack Christie, Harold Bolds, William Barley, Francis Geyer, Benny Stiegler, Jack Deely, Ralph Lindemuth, Frank Meek.

Any boy who expects to play on the regular squad next fall is expected to be out now for practice, Coach Bills said.

that its results warrant.

A properly balanced program will contain more than gymnastics and formal types of exercise. Games ranging from the lesser-organized group to the most skillful team competition must be regularly played. Inasmuch as a two-period-a-week program will allow, we are introducing physical education in its comprehensive variety of activities. Normal expansion and gradual addition to such a program is a goal.

It is our purpose to use the evening of May 24 to popularize certain phases of our young program, and try to demonstrate in an interesting manner some of the methods used in the regular instruction.

Girl Reserves To Have Big Splash Party Soon

On April 19 the Girl Reserves will hold a splash party. After the party there will be a grand feed which promises to be very good.

After the lunch Miss Reynard will give a talk to the girls.

Only those who have paid their dues are eligible to come. If you haven't paid your dues yet, bring your twenty-five cents and join the fun. A good time is promised to all.

Central and South Side Highs Lose Opening Track Meets of Season

Marion Giants Defeat Tigers by Score of 61 to 20; Kendallville Captures Triangular Meet.

The Central track team was defeated in their first meet this year at Marion by the Marion Giants, a score of 61 to 20 being the result of the final tally. Four events were omitted because of the high wind.

The Tigers were only able to capture first place in two events while the Giants led in seven events. Brockal finished third in the shotput. Dornte and Babb took first place in the high and broad jumps. Buggs and Reim also added a few points to Central's score.

Marion furnished the star of the meet in Stickman, who scored 13 points, winning the 100 and 220-yard dashes and coming in second in the shotput. The low hurdles and the 440 were carried by Marion.

John Miller, of Anderson, was the starter. The summary: 100-Yard Dash—Stickmann (M); second, Vollet (M); Buggs (C). Time, 10.2 seconds.

220-Yard Dash—First, Stickmann (M); second, Stambaugh (M); third, Buggs (C). Time—23.6 seconds.

440-Yard Dash—First, Duke (M); second, L. Wysong (M); third, Pollock (M). Time—62.4 seconds.

SOCIETY AND FEATURES

The shrieks of joy from little children as they find their brightly colored treasures left for them by the Easter bunny seems to rouse the whole earth. From this time everything seems changed.

The really first hints of spring are the song birds. Their sweet notes and jolly tunes seem to awake the trees; they burst forth with new buds. The little plants wind their way blindly up to the light. The warm summer breezes seem to lull us to sleep. Soon we begin to see that there are many absences from our classes—this is a sure sign! Students have a toothache, headache, and every other kind of an ache. But the peculiar part of it is, the only medicine that is any good for thisache, is a nicleongride in the country, a game of tennis or a nice swim.

The Misses Freda Withers, Charlotte Stier, and Virginia Traxler have returned from Indiana University to spend the spring vacation with their parents.

Miss Mary Jane Scott spent the spring vacation in Indianapolis visiting friends and relatives.

"Trial By Jury" Makes Big Hit

had they had the chance. Harold, you would make a good lawyer; why not try?

Bill Schellenbach, the counsel for the defendant, took his part fine, his client certainly needed his support and legal advice, didn't he?

The clerk, John Stanley, was fine. It seems that he hasn't been hurt by the judge's ink bottles and pens. We hope Don doesn't get so violent again so soon.

The chorus consisted of jury, bridesmaids, and spectators. The jury members are Warren Drumm, Clyde Wilkinson, Richard Hobson, John West, Glenn Elder, Harold Burger, John Walter, Don Youse, Clifford Willette, Paul Stein, Melvin Guillaume.

Paul Stein did his jig very nicely and seemed quite surprised to find he was all alone and that all of the jury-men had forsaken him.

The bridesmaids are Mildred Anstette, Mildred Ehlers, Virginia Fredericks, Helen Harper, Glorvina Young, Phyllis Lines, Evelyn Juergens, Charlotte Latker, Marian Ringle, Betty Rose, Alice Ward.

Wasn't their dance cute? Boy! those colors! All of them! Just like a rainbow. That dance looked like some of the chorus girls of Mr. Ziegfeld. Are any of you girls thinking of going into the business?

The spectators were the remaining part of the chorus and are Fitzgerald, Mildred Good, Doris Hutchinson, Thelma Jonson, Langard, M. Meyer, Lucile Wilson, Winter and Mary Grimme, LeRoy Blough, Ew Saxon, George McComb, John McComb, and Adric Good.

On the whole the operetta was a huge success, thanks to Mr. Mathews, Miss Huffman, Miss Reynard, Miss Schwehn, and the cast. They all worked hard, and deserve all the credit that can be given them.

Mr. Berkmeier To Talk To Art Club

Mr. Berkmeier of the Bond Engraving Company will give a talk on Art in general at the Art Club April 16th at 3:15 in the cafeteria. The process of etching will be explained by Miss Zook and illustrated by plates and tools used in the process. She will also show some of her own etches as well as some made by Mr. Berkmeier.

NORTHERNER STAFF PLANS OPEN AFFAIR

Ed Says Its Not Hay Fever Season.

"It all depends on the weather." If it's nice they will, and if it isn't, they won't.

That's the way the plans are made for the Northerner staff party for Thursday afternoon. Just to be starting something the staff decided to inaugurate out-of-door parties for the season. Anyone who has worked on the staff this semester is eligible for the party, and anyone who wants to can bring along a friend if he'll pay the extra two bits which is the amount assessed each member.

When asked if it weren't a bit early for out-of-door parties, Ed Ford, financial manager and exchequer of the publication said that it was essential that the social events be out of the way before hay fever season.

Anyone who is planning to go is asked to sign up with Ed Ford or with Miss Hurst by Wednesday night. Ford also promised to give back the quarters if it rained or snowed or blew on Thursday.

EXTEMPORANEOUS CONTEST TO BE HELD TODAY

Twelve Speakers Try Out in Preliminaries.

FIVE CONTESTANTS ENTER DISCUSSION

Name of Winner to Go on Koerber Trophy.

The Koerber cup is up again for honors, and the lucky person to have his name engraved on the trophy will be decided this morning.

That all means that the second, extemporaneous contest of the year will be held this morning in the auditorium. Five speakers will vie for the honor; they are Durward Allen, Philip Bowen, Carl Jacobs, Paul Somers and Robert Walsh.

These speakers won the right to speak by surviving the preliminary contest which was held last Thursday afternoon. At that time twelve speakers tried out. Others who appeared at that time, besides the five who will talk this morning were Joe Bowen, Clayton Dunton, Lorena Fann, Loy Henderson, Franklin Ivins, Ceresse Kelley, and Flossie Stuber.

The contest this morning almost will be turned into a political affair as the speakers are going to make nonpartisan speeches for Democratic and Republican candidates for president of the United States. It has been necessary for the students to prepare to talk on any of the persons who loom up at the present time as candidates, as they will draw for the person they are to talk on only a few minutes before the auditorium period.

Philip Bowen won the honor of having his name on the Koerber cup for the first semester.

A charge of five cents admission will be made, as there is a deficiency in the debating fund at the present time.

Franklin Ivins is general manager for the contest and Ceresse Kelley will act as chairman. Three teachers will be selected as judges.

The public speaking people in every line of work at North Side this year have been most successful and deserve the support of the entire student body.

G. A. A. BANQUET PROVES SUCCESSFUL

First Annual Banquet at North Side High.

The first annual G. A. A. banquet was given in the cafeteria Wednesday, May 20. About fifty girls attended. Louise Shreve was toastmistress. Toasts were given by Maxine Salzer, Oral Delancey, Esther Nobles, Helen Ballou, and Reba Dale Bannister. A canoe, paddle, peace pipe totem pole, and tomahawk were presented to Miss Reynard by these girls. Dorothy Helling played a selection on the piano, and Jean Pitts sang "Indian Love Call." The violin obligato was furnished by Marie Rieber. Velma Mason also danced. The guests were, Mrs. Clark, Miss Reynard, Miss Gross, Mrs. Winslow, Miss Starr and Miss Schweh.

Sophomore Shuffle Goes Over Big At North Side High School

Merrymakers Enthusiastic About First Prolific of Sophs in Large Gymnasium.

The Soph Shuffle was a huge success. No question about that judging from the reports made by everyone there.

It was the biggest dance of the season, and it was the first dance to be held in the large gymnasium. No other room could have accommodated the merrymakers—for a capacity crowd was there.

The decorations transformed the gymnasium into a beautiful ballroom—lattice work with wisteria were used around the entire room; in fact, the place was a veritable flower garden. Many out-of-town guests besides many students from the other schools attended the affair.

Mr. Dickinson and Miss Aumann, sponsors of the class, are to be congratulated on the huge success as well as the "big hit" with the students. Serpentine paper, balloons, all sorts of noise makers "a-plenty," and a pep orchestra all helped make the dance a huge success.

Here's what some of the people said about the dance:

Jeannette Pitts: "I think the Soph Dance was quite a success. The hall was decorated beautifully and the music was plenty

FROSH FINALE TO BE HELD MAY 4

Rhythm Kings to Play For Big Dance.

Friday night, May 4, the Fresh men will give their Fresh Finale in the cafeteria. The Rhythm Kings eight-piece orchestra will play for the dancing which will last from eight till eleven. Admission will be sixty cents a couple, and thirty-five cents stag.

MOTHER-SON MEETING FOR TORCH CLUBS

Sixth Annual Arranged by Three Clubs.

REV. PAUL KRAUSS TO DELIVER ADDRESS

Meeting Scheduled For Y. M. C. A. May 1.

The Torch club will hold its sixth annual mother and son banquet on May 1. The meeting will be held in the banquet room of the Y. M. C. A. for the boys and their mothers. The banquet is expected to be a huge success and about 60 boys are expected to attend the affair.

This will be a combined event of the three high schools, North Side, South Side and Central. The program will be divided among them as follows: North Side will have charge of the speaker and toastmaster; South Side will be responsible for the distribution of invitations to the various boys, and providing for the special favors which will be given to all. Central High has accepted the responsibility of providing for the programs other than the speaker. The program promises to be very interesting and of great benefit to those present.

The Reverend Paul Krauss will be the main speaker for the evening. These banquets have proved to be a very successful way of entertaining the boys and their mothers as is signified by the excellent attendance at each of the affairs.

The general committee in charge of the feast is as follows: Carl Doherty, Wilbur Dewise, William Roberts, Jack Koegel, Ross Doemler, Charles Hall, Estel Goshorn, William Lipkey.

Tennis Teams Organized 13 Boys Are Signed Up

It looks like tennis is going to create quite a racket (racket) this spring. Tennis, that ever famous sport, has roped quite a few North Side enthusiasts in its nets.

Practice will be held every week under the supervision of Mr. Bills.

Among the boys who have signed up are: Harold Korn, Howard Kraft, Art Penrod, Ted McNelly, Earl Schmitt, Bob Beverford, Ralph Ehrman, Norman Richard, Clue Ferguson, Max Laub, Edwin Hipkins, George Branner and Bob Walsh.

peppy! I hope the Commencement Dance goes as big."

Steve Marshall:

"The Sophomores surely did put over one successful dance. Sure, I had a good time. Wouldn't have stayed if I hadn't thought it was plenty good."

C. B. Risk:

"To me, the dance seemed to be a great success. The decorations in the gymnasium appealed to me, and was the best piece of decorating I have seen for some time. The music was exceptionally good and I believe everyone had an enjoyable evening, spectators included."

Ed Ford:

"The Sophomore Shuffle was great. The decorations were beautiful. I had a good time, but I felt sorry for Herb Vigran, who had his two rivals on deck."

Mr. Ivy:

"That Soph Shuffle was the best dance of the season. Absolutely. It was most successful, and the room was beautiful."

Miss Aumann:

"Now that the dance is over and everyone had such a good time, we can be mercenary. The dance was a financial success."

North Side Juniors Win First Inter-Class Swimming Meet of Season

Fischer, '29, Is High Point Scorer for Tank Contest; Large Crowd in Attendance at Meet.

The first inter-class boys' and girls' annual swimming meet was held last Friday night in the school pool.

A large crowd of student class boosters was in attendance. The freshman class seemed to have the largest following.

The juniors won the meet and will have their class name engraved on the beautiful new cup presented by the Patterson-Fletcher company. Carl Fischer, a junior, was high scorer. He scored 15 points for his team.

Catherine Shreve, a freshman, was the girls' high scorer with 14 points.

In all the events there was exhibited not only aquatic skill, but a fine sense of sportsmanship.

Jack Gordon, freshman, executed some graceful and clean-cut dives. The officials of the meet were Mr. Northrop, Mr. Ivy, Miss Schwehn, and Mr. Chambers, and Mr. Bills.

Results of the meet were as follows:

Boys.

SENIOR CLASS TO PUBLISH FINAL PAPER

Unusual Features to Appear in Paper.

JUNE 1 IS SET AS PUBLICATION DATE

Pictures of All Seniors to Be in Northerner.

The Senior class will edit the final edition of the Northerner this year, Melvin Koenig, president of the '28 class, announced yesterday. As the class did not sponsor an annual this year they are planning to have the paper tell all about the seniors, naming their activities. It is possible that there may be a short paragraph about each member of the class.

Another feature of the paper will be an individual picture of each member of the class.

The paper will be published on Friday, June 1, which will be the last day the seniors will be in school. The reason for the Friday publication date is that there will be no school on Wednesday, May 30, which will be Decoration day.

The final paper will be made up of eight or ten pages.

MATH-SCIENCE CLUB TO MEET ON FRIDAY

Mary Erwin in Charge of Interesting Meeting.

There will be another interesting meeting of the Mat-Science club on Friday evening. Everyone who was at the last meeting knows what an excellent program and good time was had. The universal comment was that the meeting was the "best yet."

Mary Erwin (chairman) and her committee consisting of Dorothy Mills, Leo Beaman and John McComb with Mr. Risk and Mr. Pennington, as faculty advisors are now working on another good program. Lyle Turner (chairman) and Marjole Hunte and Mr. Hewitt are planning the "eats" and Ted McNelly and Donald Yousse are attending to the advertising.

The final meeting of the year will be a picnic. All who have paid their dues will be eligible to come. Come this Friday and pay your dues if you have not previously done so and you will then be "all set" for the picnic in May.

CENTRAL-SOUTH SIDE MEET IS CALLED OFF

BOYS URGED TO JOIN C. M. T. C.

Colonel Dougherty Gives Interesting Talk to Boys.

Thursday morning at 10:45 an assembly was held for all of the boys. Colonel Dougherty came from Indianapolis via airplane to talk to the boy students of North Side High School on the Citizen's Military Training Camp. This system of training camps is conducted by the government throughout the country at the various government forts for boys from the ages of 17-20 inclusive.

The camps are absolutely free of charge including transportation to and from the camp. No military obligation are incurred by attending one of these camps. Uniforms, including hat, shirt, breeches, leggings, tie, and shoes, along with raincoats and other accessories of a soldier are furnished.

Colonel Dougherty was introduced by Earl Moss, a reserve captain and chairman of the Allen county quota for C. M. T. C.

He said, "The only way a boy may be punished at a C. M. T. C. camp is to be sent home. Very few cases of incorrigibles occurred last year."

Major Banks told the students to apply for further information to Mr. Moss whose address is 1010 Lake avenue, or to his office, 810 First National Bank building. Meetings are being held in room 1 Central High School Building every Wednesday at 7:30 p. m.

Arthur Hofer and John McMeen and several other fellows attended the camp last year at Fort Benjamin Harrison. They will give you any firsthand information you desire. The Allen county quota is only 72 this year so hurry up and get your applications in now.

Popular Game of Indoor Golf is Inaugurated By N. S. Teachers

Exercise Room 1 Turned Into Regular Golf Course; Epidemic of Golf Expected to Run Course.

A golf course for North Side. That's what the faculty has inaugurated.

It seems it's just one epidemic after another. First it was the flivver and now it's golf—what next?

The men of the faculty started the affair by spurring on the South Side pedagogues to make a challenge. Evidently the sight of the North Side faculty men leaving the building every night with golf clubs was too much for the Collets of the North Side faculty, who rose up in rebellion and demanded that something be done

TENNIS PROVES POPULAR WITH GIRLS

Indoor Practice Sessions Being Held Daily.

The girls tennis classes under Miss Schwehn are proving to be of great interest. The girls at present have learned strokes, serving and the rules of tennis. The court marked off in the gym has become exceedingly popular, for it gives the students a chance to get a much needed practice before the public courts are ready for use. There will also be a girls tennis team this year. Girls who wish to try out for this team must see Miss Schwehn.

about the 'whole affair. It was taken up with the committee, so to speak, and the result was that a golf net was bought by the teaching staff. The net has been placed in exercise room 1, and the members of the faculty can practice anytime during the day.

Not to be outdone by the women of the faculty, the men decided to join the group to get some practice. It seems that there are no eligibility rules for the South Side-North Side match, so the Redskins are going to train to be in tip top shape for the contest.

ACHIEVE THE HONORABLE

What is your grade in high school spiri? If you wish to know, check yourself on the following interpretation of "Achieve the Honorable," which means:

IN THE CLASSROOM. Honest work representing your best efforts; courtesy, respect, and co-operation.

AMONG YOUR FELLOW STUDENTS. Generous comradeship; democracy and helpfulness; absence of snobbety and criticism.

THROUGHOUT THE BUILDING. Respect for public property; respect for the rights of others; orderly, quiet conduct.

ON THE ATHLETIC TEAMS. Your very best for North Side High School; no unfair or unsportsmanlike word or act; your fullest co-operation with teammates.

IN THE ROOTERS' SECTION. Carefully follow yell leaders' directions; your best to inspire your team; no word or act that is unsportsmanlike; generosity to opposing teams' rooters.

IN ASSEMBLIES: Your full attention to speaker or musician; no word or sound to disturb others; generous applause when merited.

STUDENT ACTIVITIES: Your enthusiastic, generous aid and support; assume your full share of responsibility; full co-operation with appointed leaders.

IN PUBLIC. Dignified, courteous, self-possessed, loyal but not boastful; conduct such that you are a good advertisement for North Side.

Since there are eight items in the list, grade yourself on the basis of 12½% on each and see if you get a passing mark.

In a few weeks about sixty boys and girls will graduate from North Side into a vast unknown world, which often gives man just the opposite of what he expects from it.

No one can say definitely just what he expects to do during the next few years of his life. So many things may turn up to upset carefully made plans. However, most of the seniors do have plans of some sort. Some will continue their studies in college, some will enter the business world. No matter what situation one finds oneself in during the next few years, graduation from high school should not mean cessation of study. Those who attend a higher school will, of course, continue to study very much as they are doing now. Those who cannot pursue knowledge in this manner will have many other opportunities of doing so. The value of a high school training lies not altogether in the actual knowledge gained, but just as much in the fact that it teaches one how to find knowledge. What one learns in high school is just enough to arouse one's curiosity and desire to seek further. One learns to distinguish worthless things from those of great value.

If a lecture is given on a subject which one knows a little something about, one usually enjoys it much more than a talk on an entirely unfamiliar topic. High school has given us a little knowledge of many things. This should cause us to enjoy hearing and learning more about them. We will profit much by hearing good lectures and attending good musical programs. The library is a treasure chest filled with many gems of knowledge, and we should enrich ourselves therefrom.

Cracks Along The Boardwalk

Bright Boy—"In Indiana they don't hang a man with a wooden leg."
Not So Bright: "Why not?"
Bright Boy: "They use a rope."

Tit For Tat.

A husband found some holes in his socks and said, "Wifie, dear, why haven't you mended these?"

"Hubby, darling, did you buy me that coat you promised?"

"N-no!"

"Well, if you don't give a wrap, I don't give a darn."

A sign on a hot dog stand in Anderson, Indiana, reads thus: "We sell near beer here, because there's no real beer near."

Flapper—"I'd like to try on that rose dress in the window."

Salesman: "Sorry, miss. That's a lamp shade."

Matrimonial Agency

Young Man—with a good reputation and garage, would like to marry some lady who wants a good home; must be a Methodist and vote the Democratic ticket. Age and looks make no difference to me. Just want an honest, up-right woman with a car.

—Bob Walsh.

Lady Wanted—I want to get married just for a pal. I get so lonesome by myself. I am a ladies tailor by profession, also play the piano. Prefer lady rather older than myself (I'll never tell my age) and one who could help me work. I have no bad habits and have a beautiful soprano voice. For amusement I love to crochet and play casino.

—Don Elder.

Wife Wanted—Would like to hear from lady who wants a good man. Am an extra special street cleaner with forty years experience in the high rent zones. No bad habits except to snore. Want a cultured lady who would not object to my drinking coffee from the saucer or eating peas with a spoon. Have big blue eyes that almost speak when spoken to. Love to sit around home.

—Steve Marshall.

Wife Wanted—Am native of Hicksville, born and raised in Arcola. Am good horse doctor and landscape painter. Want lady with money and no heirs. Invalids over fifty preferred. Send railroad fare in first letter.

—Philip Bowen.

"Bob Kaade has a swelled head today."

"Did he get a medal, or what?"

"No, he's got a toothache."

Teacher: "Do not hurry through your exam and forget half you know."

"Is it true they hurried poor Casey to the grave?"

"It may be so, for he arrived there in a breathless condition."

"What we want in politics is good men."

"Yes, and we need them bad."

Ed—"So you're going to the funeral?"

Herb—"Sure I am, if you don't go to people's funerals how can you expect them to come to yours?"

Betty Moyer—"Look! She's wearing a hat just like mine."

Friend: "Yes, doesn't she look an awful sight."

Why teachers go insane:

Shall we write on both sides of the paper?

I didn't hear the question.

I studied the wrong lesson.

I had my theme all written, but I left it at home.

May I be excused from giving my speech today?

I didn't get that far.

What will our test cover?

The other class doesn't have as long lessons as we do.

May I borrow some paper?

I haven't a pencil.

What is the lesson for tomorrow? I forgot.

Brotherly Love.

Some small children were fighting over an apple.

"No," cried the little girl, "I won't give you a piece of my apple."

"Oh, don't be mean," cried the brother, "Remember, I broke the piano so you wouldn't have to practice for a week."

Real Estate Agent—"This is a very quiet house. Why, the last tenants were murdered in broad day light and no one heard a sound."

An Easy Operation.

"Well, what's wrong with your husband?"

"I think, doctor, he is worrying about money."

"Ah! I think I can relieve him of that."

Battle him of the republic:—

Dempsey and Tunney;

Miss Hurst and Ray;

Lucile R. and Ed Ford.

Comrade in Distress.

The professor was giving his class a lecture on charity.

"Dale," he said, if I saw a boy beating a donkey and stopped him from doing it, what virtue would I be showing?"

Dale (promptly): "Brotherly love."

"Have you done any public speaking?"

"Yes, I once asked a girl to a dance, over our party telephone."

Lorena: "Oh, Ed, did you spill that ink?"

Ed Ford: "No, my fountain pen had a hemorrhage."

Famous Firms:

Ehrman & Reichle

Ford & Standley.

Korn & Fredericks.

George K.: "Wasn't that a terrible earthquake?"

Charlie P.: "I didn't notice it. I was in my Ford."

"See if you can laugh that off," said the fat man's wife, as she wired a button on his vest.

Teacher: "What are the five senses?"

Herbie V.: "Nickles."

Joe Miskell: "How can I drive a nail without hitting my finger?"

Harold Gumbert: "Hold the hammer with both hands."

First Flea: "Been on a hike?"

Second Flea: "No, on a tramp."

He: "Come see the mole I just caught."

She: "I didn't know moles were contagious."

Fairy Story A la Mode

Once upon a time in the kingdom of Zatsayourman there lived a king by the name of Rullem. Now this king had a daughter who was the most beautiful damsel in the country. She had won all the beauty prizes from the village of Ujudgit to the international contest at Atlantic City. Her name was—but never mind, we don't care what her name was. She was also a blonde and gentlemen preferred her, so did all the other young men, and old, too.

One night as Rullem's daughter was slinging a big party for her boy friends, who were teaching her the Black Bottom to the tune of "Muddy Water", the queen appeared before the king, and spoke in this manner: "Rullem, you rule 'em, but you're too easy. How do you expect me to win the Cleaner Castle Campaign contest with all the young squirts dropping their cigarette ashes on my Brussels carpets? Something must be done and with expediency."

Rullem's high-powered brain grasped the critical situation at once. Greatly fearing an attack from the scullery gallery in the form of a rolling pin, he spoke, "Egad, my dear, didst ever I fall you in material or moral support? The matter will be adjusted, rest assured." Having dismissed her with the utmost diplomacy, he sat down and pondered. He had just about decided to having the rugs removed as the easiest way out of the difficulty when he thought of a more brilliant plan. Indeed, it was quite unique and one that only a great king as he could conceive. He would get rid of his daughter and whither she went the rest would follow.

The next day the whole country was flooded with literature and signs. There was one in every office, home, and filling station. They read as follows:

To whom it may concern, and to others:

Greetings, and may ye know that to anyone who can relate to me a story without end, I will give my daughter.

No Terms,

Apply at once,

(Signed) King Rullem.

Promptly at ten o'clock that morning a handsome youth presented himself at the royal court and demanded audience with the king. At once he introduced himself. "I am Heretogther, the efficiency expert for the Noveralip Toothpick Company, formerly with the Holdem Garter Company, which was forced to liquidate on account of lack of business. In reply to your ad of the 13th I desire to state that I have a tale which might interest you. As your time is valuable I will be as brief as possible.

"Once upon a time there was a man by the name of Henry. Henry built a Ford, and he built another Ford, and he built another Ford, and he built another Ford, and he built another Ford, and—"

"Ye gaberline!" cried the king, tearing his wig. "Willst never cease? Take her and beat it. I'll have you to know I drive a Packard."

Ten years later Heretogther received a telegram sealed by the Royal Seal of Rullem. Upon further examination the contents disclosed the following information:

"Am instituting suit against you for the divorce of my daughter, Iona Ford. Henry couldn't get his new Ford on the market in time and meanwhile General Motors sold everyone Chevrolet. Send your wife home by return truck.

Profiles

Do your Christmas shopping early. At least that's what I hear, so I have undertaken to search 'till I find out who made that slogan so popular. While searching for this I happened to run across some dusty, ponderous volumes on philosophy and found the following excerpt probably written by Aristotle, Caesar, Lindbergh or Coolidge, "This Santa Claus business is played out. It's a sneaking, underhand method, and the sooner it's exposed the better. For a parent to get up under cover of the darkness of night, and palm off a ten-cent necktie on a boy who has been expecting a ten-dollar watch, and then say that an angel sent it to him, is low, undeniably low."

Not being satisfied, however, with the opinions of such inexperienced men I decided to call on a few of the intelligentsia of North Side "by the river."

The first one I ran across was Ted McNelly. When he saw me coming his jaw fell with delight. When asked if he believed in Santa, Claus he promptly replied: "The harder you shove a bicycle the faster it will go. This is because of natural science."

Bob McVey was so delighted when he saw me coming that you could see his face crack up with pleasure. When asked why does Santa wear red and green suspenders he snapped back, "If you put your thumb in between two cogs it will go on and on, until the wheels are arrested by your suspenders. This is machinery."

John Robinson being naturally quiet and slow of speech said, "Santa brought me a wooden whistle but it wouldn't whistle."

No changing the subject but I heard Miss Reynard say that all the seniors were lambs which reminded me of a poem about Mary (Grimme).

What makes the lambs love Mary so?

The smiling teacher cried.

'Cause Mary loves the lambs you know

The pupils all replied.

Oh, my goodness, I've almost forgotten to tell you about the charming interview I had yesterday with the girls. Oh, they were lovely (I mean the interviews.)

"That's a new one on me," she said, as she scratched her head. "Really, if you insist I'll tell you about my experience as a business woman. It began 'way back in days of old when men were bold and knights they wore tin hats. They had to go to bed with a can opener and pay $1.50 for a shine because it went all the way up. Of course, some times they had sales and you could get two for $3.00 or three for $4.50, but anyway, nobody worried about the high cost of grape juice because nobody drank grape juice. You see I was a prize fighter in California. Yes, I used to box oranges.

When I left I thought to myself, "What a heck of a singer Mel Koenig turned out to be. I should have said before that the next speaker will continue without any further interruption."

I am an electrician by trade so I will begin with a definition of electricity. Electricity is of two kinds, positive and negative. The difference is, I suppose, that one kind comes a little more expensive, but is more durable; the other is a cheaper thing but the moths get into it. This may sound perfectly shocking to you but it's only one more alternating current to me. I will say in closing that if you think I am Steinmetz or Edison you are wrong. And don't insult me again like that, I am Frank Nichols.

Forty Redskins Report For Track Try Outs at North Side High School

Class Eliminations to Be Held Soon; Class Meet in Two Weeks; All Classes Eligible for Try-Outs.

Forty North Side boys have reported for track, according to a statement made by R. P. Chambers, who is supervising the sport.

Any boy in school has been eligible to come out for practice and to enter the events, the coach said, but class eliminations will perhaps be held some time this week, he said. The inter-class meet will be held within the next two weeks. Average material has been found in the group reporting each evening after school, Chambers said, although the boys have had no real chance to prove their ability as the track has not been in good condition. Most of the boys who are reporting are inexperienced.

Mr. Chambers is planning to have some of the North Side team enter events in the section meet and also and also in the North Eastern Indiana Conference meet.

Following is a list of boys who have reported for tryouts and the events they have entered:

100-Yard Dash—William Schetman, Robert Brosius, Neil Shober, E. Saxton, S. Motherwell, Leonard Eby, Herbert Smith, R. Lindemuth, W. Brueckner, A. Penrod, Lee Roy Blough, Robert Hines, Virgil Brower, M. Brosius, Carpenter.

220-Yard Dash—D. Chaffin, Leonard Eby, Charles Berghoff, Herbert Smith, R. Lindemuth, Robert Walsh, Virgil Brown, Joe Bowen, M. Brosius, Richard Smith.

440-Yard Dash—D. Chaffin, Bob Anderson, Robert Hines, Virgil Brown, Robert Baker.

Three Words

There are three words, the sweetest words

In all of human speech—

More sweet than all the songs of birds,

On pages poets preach.

This life may be a vale of tears,

A sad and dreary thing—

Three words, and trouble disappears

And birds begin to sing.

Three words, and all the roses bloom,

The sun begins to shine,

Three words will dissipate the gloom

And water turn to wine.

Three words will cheer the saddest days;

"I love you?" Wrong by heck!

It is another sweeter phrase,

"Enclosed find check."

Baseball and Track Hold Interest of North Eastern Indiana Conference

Plans Made for Track Meet at Garrett; Basketball Champion to Be Named by Association.

The Northeastern Indiana Conference has been quite active in making plans for the two spring sports, track and baseball.

The conference track meet has been scheduled to take place at Garrett on May 5. Mr. Schwan of the local Y. M. C. A. will act as referee for the meet.

The meet will begin at 9:30 in the morning, and it is planned for all the preliminaries to be held in the morning, and the finals will start at one o'clock. A championship banner and a loving cup will be given to the winning school. The cup will belong to the conference and given to the winner of the meet each year. When a school has won the cup three times, it will belong to that school. Ribbons also will be given to the winners in each contest. Pennants will also be given to the winning relay teams.

In basketball the conference is divided into two parts, Northern and Southern. The Northern division is made up of Auburn, Angola, Columbia City, Kendallville and Garrett. The Southern division includes South Side, Central, Decatur, Bluffton, and Huntington.

A Champion in each division must be declared prior to May 26th. The champion will be determined upon a percentage basis. Games in each division are the ones that count in the final standing.

The two champion teams will meet at the South Side Stadium on May 26 to determine the Conference Champion. The final game will start at 1:30 with Bruff Cleary umpiring. A base umpire will also be on the job.

A banner and a loving cup will be awarded the winner. The cup will be a conference cup to be held one year by the winner, and passed on to the next winner. The first school to win it three times will get permanent possession of it.

They strolled in the twilight together, The sky was blossomed with stars; She paused for a moment in silence, As he lowered for her the bars.

She cast her soft eyes upon him, But he spoke no loving vow; For he was a rustic laddie, And she was a Jersey cow.

SOCIETY AND FEATURES

It's just too bad the calendar couldn't have a few more days added to it so we North Siders could get in a few more social functions.

As it is now, nearly all our time can be taken up by attending school affairs.

After we all saw the Sophomore Shuffle (and they are good shufflers, too) now we must all hear our speakers in the extemp. contest this morning. The people on the Northern staff mustn't forget their outdoor party. Then we all want to see some of our faculty members make a hole in one in the golf match with South Side. And oh, yes don't forget the Junior Prom! This will be one of the most outstanding events of all.

Note, we saved the best till last, the commencement dance!

Of course, we couldn't mention all the events in this one little space, but watch the paper and you'll find plenty of places to go—and things to do.

Miss Margaret Erwin recently returned from Grand Rapids where she was the guest of friends.

The Misses Helen Harris and Margaret Erwin spent the week-end at Harlan where they attended the Harlan High School's senior play.

Miss Harriett Derck spent the week-end at Lima, Ohio, where she attended the Stroller fraternity dance.

Miss Helen Dills entertained recently with a delightful bridge party at her home on Harrison street. Later in the evening a lovely two-course luncheon was served to the guests who were the Misses Marjorie Reeves, Corine Hall, Louisa Fredericks, Florence Kendrick, Alice Elders, Mary Hughes, Margaret Smenner and the hostess.

Miss Jane Emrick entertained with a lovely dinner party Saturday evening at the Catholic Community Center. Those present were the Misses Mary Margaret Vesey, Mary Jane McMillen, Kathryn Bash, Virginia Blosser, Betty Van Arnam, Betty Carlson, Frances Cook, Esther Lowry, Madeline Cromwell, Helen Dessauer, Betty Granger, Mary Granger, Virginia Holden, Hazel Menefee, Wilda Bowser, Ruth Miles, Jeanette Popp, Betty Ray, Luella Rogge, Virginia Seemeyer, Mary Weaver, Judy Wilson, Mary Ellen Heit, Charlotte Latker, Nancy Porter, Dorothy Smith, Phyllis Lines, Harriet Hiester and the hostess.

Miss Virginia Wagner entertained with a lovely dinner party at her home in Wildwood. Those present

LECTURER GIVES TALK AT N. S.

Large Crowd Attends Sunday Afternoon.

William Duncan Kilpatrick, C. S. B., of Detroit Michigan, delivered a lecture Sunday afternoon, April 22, entitled "Christian Science; God's Answer to Humanity's Cry for Freedom" before an audience that nearly filled the high school auditorium.

Mr. Kilpatrick is a member of the Christian Science Board of Lectureship of the Mother Church, the First Church of Christ Scientist, Boston, Massachusetts.

He was introduced by E. D. Spahr, member of the local Christian Science church, under whose auspices the lecture was given. A partial report of the lecture follows:

"But," someone may say, "What about this material—the material universe, the material body, et cetera? If God did not create them who or what did?"

One of the most startling assertions and admissions from the pen of a physical scientist that I have seen, appeared in an article in the London (England) Observer, of Sunday, November 26 1925. The article headed, "The New Outlook of Science," was a review of a book entitled, "The Domain of Physical Science," by Professor Eddington. Because of the radical, broad, and, more or less, revolutionary statements attributed to the learned gentleman, I took occasion to ascertain just who Professor Eddington might be. The professor, I found, holds an important chair of science in the University at Oxford, England, and is considered, and is considered one of the leading, if not the leading, physical scientist in Europe, and possibly in the world to-day.

were the Misses Hazel Warning, Phyllis Toothill, Marjorie Horstmeier, Mary Elizabeth Hughes, Margaret Smenner, Marjorie Reeves, Mary Hills Miles, Mary Jane Scott, Alice Miller, Janet Egly, Dorothy Troendel, Mary and Mathena Brothers, Louisa Fredericks, Betty Moyer, Mary Helen Putman, Betty Huffman and the hostess.

Miss Mary Jane Scot entertained several of her friends, at an informal tea at her home on Florida Drive last Friday afternoon.

This, briefly, is what the learned professor has given to the world in his book: "Of the intrinsic nature of matter, for instance, science knows nothing and never can know anything. Of what matter is science tells us nothing. . . . For all we know matter may itself be mental. . . . the old view, therefore, that atoms or electrons are the ultimate reality, and that, by interacting on one another in accordance with the laws of Nature, they produce our minds, with all their hopes and aspirations, has no longer any scientific basis. . . . Another bugbear that many artists and religious people have found so repressing, the 'iron laws' of Nature, also acquire an entirely new status as the result of recent scientific work. It can be shown that these laws are the results of the mind's own action. The laws of Nature are not something imposed on an independently existing universe from without. Indeed not only the laws of Nature, but space and time and the material universe itself, are constructions of the human mind. . . . To an altogether unexpected extent the universe we live in is the creation of our own minds. The nature of it is forever outside scientific investigation. If we are to know anything of that nature it must be through something like religious experience." And that, my friends, from one of the foremost material scientists in the world. When Mrs. Eddy first penned those immortal words (Science and Health, p. 468) "There is no life, truth, intelligence, nor substance in matter. All is infinite Mind and its infinite manifestation, for God is All-in-all," the world laughed her to scorn. And now within the span of a brief half century it bows its head and is beginning to follow her.

To be sure, our scientific friends have gone only part of the way. They have just discovered what Mrs. Eddy discovered over sixty years ago, namely, that the material universe, with all its sickness, its sorrow, its poverty, its want and its woe, is the product of the carnal or mortal mind. But there they stop. They have, to be sure, gone full many a league in the line of right thinking, but Christian Science takes us still farther and instead of leaving us with a universe of misery created by the carnal mind, with no possible means of escape from all that this implies, Mrs. Eddy discovers that the real man and universe

My Impressions of the Optimist Club

By Margaret Smenner

Through all the walks of life and every milestone that we pass, though they seem crowded mostly with sorrows and disasters, still there's happiness awaiting just around the corner—a corner that so many of us forget to turn, and thus in our blindness we grope about finding only the hardships and cruelties of life. As, after the torrents of rain and the bolts of lightning, beams the sun and perhaps a gorgeous rainbow, God's peace offering, so after some seeming misfortune or disappointment is found beatitude—or the realization of the optimistic side of life. To a true optimist comes the reward of "life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness,"—a recompense that we all are entitled to and should strive for.

When I first read the "Optimist Creed," I tried to grasp the significance of using the creed daily. If each one of us could apply one phase in our routine—what an enjoyable, old world this would be! Yet, to be a true optimist, all phases of the creed would be involved, and each would be a keynote to complete optimism.

"To be so strong that nothing can disturb your peace of mind." How often do we let petty agitations corrupt our peace! To eliminate these corruptions, occupying the mind with the of God's creating, the man and universe whose origin is described in the first chapter of Genesis, are creations of the divine Mind, which is God, and have existence as divine ideas, and that mortal man's salvation or freedom from mortal bondage lies in substituting divine ideas for carnal beliefs.

With the Classes

Mr. Chambers Physics class is now studying electricity, its origin, and uses, and they are making experiments in laboratory.

Miss Alexander has announced that she expects some frogs' eggs the first of this week. Her classes will study them as the tadpoles come out of the shells, and watch their development into frogs.

Mrs. Winslow's 10A English class, studying Franklin's autobiography are now working on essays of that subject. This work is very beneficial and interesting and will be a great help in acquainting the students with the kind of work required in the last two years of English.

Miss Alexander has a mastodon's tooth on exhibit in her room 112. This is a very rare specimen and affords much room for speculation as to its owner. Judging from its size the former possessor was a prehistoric animal of immense size, perhaps three or four times that of an elephant.

PROGRAM OF SOCIAL AFFAIRS FOR 1928 - 1929

Class Parties And Dance Dates Are Set.

SENIOR DANCE ON COMMENCEMENT DAY

Tea Dances to Find Place on Program Next Year.

North Side will have enough social activities next year to make the terms highly interesting to the students. Already various organizations and classes have scheduled dates for dances and parties with Dean Florence Reynard.

The Senior class will start the activities of the year with a party on Friday, September 28, and the third year people have slated a Fall dance for Friday, October 26. It would be no surprise if the Juniors of next year had not already begun to make some plans to the event. The class has made a decided reputation for themselves in parties. The Sophomore class will start their social life with a dance on December 14. Their second dance will be on April 12, 1929. Although no organization for the Freshmen of next year will be made until several weeks after the beginning of school, a party for the first year people has been slated for February 15, 1929, and another one for May 3.

Even the dances and parties, including the Junior Prom and the Senior Dance, for the second semester of next year have been scheduled by Dean Reynard. The Senior dance next year will be on the night of commencement, and the Junior Prom is slated for May 24th.

Tea dances, which were introduced by Dean Reynard at North Side this year, will find a place on the activities program again next year. North Side is the only school here to have adopted this tea dance.

Following is a list of the dates of tea dances and the organizations in charge of them:

- Friday afternoon, September 21—Juniors.
- Friday afternoon, November 2—Seniors.
- Friday afternoon, December, 7—Freshmen.
- Friday afternoon, January 11—Sophomores.
- Friday afternoon, February 1—Boosters.
- Friday afternoon, March 1—Girl Reserves.
- Friday afternoon, April 5—Seniors.
- Friday afternoon, May 10—Girls. A. A.

Miss Sinclair Talks at Math-Science Club Meet

The Math-Science club held its meeting last Friday evening.

Miss Sinclair gave an interesting talk on color. She told of the different names and numbers that colors have.

Donald Youse explained the gyroscope. He said it was used extensively in connection with compasses on ships.

Katherine Miller also gave an interesting talk on plants. She told of the characteristics that distinguish some plants from others.

Later on in the evening games were played and delicious refreshments were served.

Radio Sets In Physics Department Prove Successful At North High

Your Favorite Receipt or "What Have You" Heard On Air; Experiments Prove Practicability of Wireless.

"The West bids three hearts" turn a little bit further, "we serve the best chocolate sundaes", still a little further, "the market report from the New York exchange" and get a little further, "song will be—". This is what you would probably hear while visiting Mr. Chambers in the radio room. Here on one table we find a "World Record", 8-tube super-hetrodyne set. On this one Mr. Chambers has gotten stations from coast to coast. On another we find a "Aero" 3-tube short wave length set.

Most of the European stations operate on short wave lengths, and because the short waves travel higher up than those of lower frequency there is not so much interference, this enables radio fans to bring in stations of a great distance with this type of set.

The juniors of Central High of Evansville are making an effort to standardize the senior rings for the high school. Two bears will be engraved on the band on each side of the emblem if plans of the junior committee are carried out.—"The Centralian",—Evansville, Indiana.

STUDENT PRINCE OF CITY SCHOOLS TO BE SELECTED

Strand Theatre And News-Sentinel Sponsors

PRIZES TO BE GIVEN WINNERS OF CONTEST

May 9th North Side Night at Theatre.

Who is the "Prince of Students" in North Side High School?

In other words the News-Sentinel and Strand Theatre are conducting a contest to determine who is the most popular student in the four high schools of Fort Wayne. Each day the News-Sentinel will print a ballot in the columns of its paper for students to vote with. These clipped and placed in the ballot box at either the News-Sentinel office and Strand Theatre will determine the most popular student.

This contest is run in connection with the showing of the motion picture "The Student Prince in Old Heidelberg" which comes to the Strand for one week starting Saturday, May 5. The contest is open to everyone of the pupils in North Side, South Side, Central and Central Catholic High Schools. There is no red tape connected to it. Just pick your favorite and push him for your school. Vote as often as you like.

There will be three grand prizes and theatre-tickets for the runners up. Contest closes at midnight on Thursday, May 10th, and winners will be announced Friday night in the News-Sentinel. The first prize is a handsome fifty-dollar Hamilton wrist watch; and the third prize a ten-dollar pen and pencil set. These prizes were all purchased from the Baber Jewelry store and are now on display in his window.

The management of the Strand has designated Wednesday night, May 9th as North Side night at "The Student Prince." The theatre will be decorated in North Side colors and fifteen minutes will be turned over to the students at nine o'clock for cheering and singing of the school songs. There will also be printed ballots on hand at the Strand where students may vote for their favorite.

BANQUET FOR MOTHERS HELD

Hi-Y Clubs Have Sixth Annual Meeting.

The sixth annual mother-son banquet was held at the Y. M. C. A. on May 1. The meeting was a big success and the three high schools combined in providing the entertainment, eats and speakers. The Rev. Paul Krauss delivered a very interesting address and Mrs. Richard acted as toastmaster.

The Hi-Y organizations from the three schools attended the meeting.

Senior Class Wins Interclass Track Meet At North Side

Juniors Place Second With 24 Points—Material Is Good; Eby, Sophomore, Is High-Point Man.

The seniors won the track event which was conducted among the four classes last Monday. The juniors took second place with a total of twenty-four points which was surpassed by the seniors score of twenty-seven. The sophomores captured third place with their twenty-one points giving them this position in the final count.

The sophomores also won the distinction of having the high-point man of the day's events, come from among their ranks in the person of Eby. Eby came through with two first places and one of each of the second and third counters.

An important factor of the meet was that its results decided for the most part, the men who who will carry North Side's hopes to the Garrett conference meet next Saturday. North Side will be entered, together with Central and South Side, Fort Wayne's other entries, to compete with the high school teams of several other northern Indiana cities.

Monday's results show the product of good coaching on the part of Rollie Chambers in the way of rounding his men into form, although in several points the athletes showed some signs of weakness in their first exhibition.

Following are the complete results of Monday's meet:

- 100-yard dash—First: Scheiman, senior; second: Eby, sophomore; third: Brosious, senior. Time, 11.
- 1 Mile—First: Walsh, senior; second: Scott, freshman; third: Stein, junior. Time, 5:35.

BOWEN WINS CONTEST FOR SECOND TIME

Political Nominations Is Subject For Talks.

North Side experienced a heated political contest last Wednesday. Extremes speakers nominated men for the high honor of serving as candidate for president for either the Democratic or Republican party.

The Democratic party was represented by Durward Allen, speaking for Senator Walsh and Robert Walsh nominating Al Smith. Philip Bowen spoke on Senator Lowden, Carl Jacobs on Charles Dawes and Paul Somers on Herbert Hoover, for the Republican nomination.

First place was awarded Philip Bowen. Durward Allen won second place and Carl Jacobs was third.

As winner of this contest Philip Bowen will have his name engraved on the Koerber cup. Since Philip won the contest held last semester this will be the second time his name appears on the cup. If he should again be successful in winning an extemporaneous contest, he will be given a small cup exactly like the large one which is to remain in the possession of the school.

GIRL GRADUATES AT STYLE SHOW

Paris Shop Entertains at Tea and Style Show.

In the spring a young man's fancy turns to love, but a young ladies turns to clothes!

So that the girls could have a better knowledge of the really fashionable styles of the season the girls of the graduating classes of the three high schools were guests at a spring style show given by the Paris gown shop, at the Fort Wayne Woman's club home Wednesday afternoon. Following the show, in which girls from the high schools were models refreshments were served at small tables, centered with a bud vase holding a single Premier rose. The models, selected by the deans of the various schools included: North Side, Margaret Berghoff, Maxine Salzer and Marjorie Shyrock; Central, Hazel Warning, Katherine Koenig, Ruth Burhof, and Mary Martin; and South Side, Gertrude Fawley, Catherine Danner and Jane Walker.

The vocational department of Auburn High School are to have representatives at the Annual Boys' and Girls' Roundup to be held the first week in May at Purdue University. The girls will be under supervision of Miss Smith and the boys under Mr. Hornaday.—The Chatterbox, Auburn, Indiana.

One hundred junior high students will present an operetta, "Hansel and Gretel," in the Roosevelt High School auditorium Thursday and Friday, May 10 and 11, of National Music Week, under the direction of Miss Margaret B. Henrichs and Mrs. Lydia Banghama. Roosevelt Times, Dayton, Ohio.

Margaret Umbach has been named valedictorian of the first Senior class of North Side High School. Mary Steiner has won the honor of being salutatorian.

Both Margaret and Mary are prominent members of the class of '28 and have taken an active part in the school activities. For three years the girls were enrolled at Central high school.

At the present time Margaret Umbach is editor of the Northerner, a member of the History Club, English Club, and Math-Science.

Mary is copy editor of the Northerner and is a member of the Girl Reserves, Math-Science, History Club and English Club.

PUBLIC SPEAKING CLASSES DEBATE

Vocations And Colleges Are Popular Subjects.

Under the direction of Mary E. Cromer, head of the English department, a series of debates will be conducted. The question is: "Resolved that Fort Wayne should oppose the council plan for Daylight Saving Time."

The members of the advanced class are making a series of speeches on subjects of special interest to seniors such as vocations, teaching and law. Another subject for discussion and speeches is colleges and universities, whether state universities, denominational or otherwise, proved the most popular.

HOME EC. CLUB MEETS IN APARTMENT

Miss Gorrell to Give Talks to Girls.

On Monday, April 23, the Home Economics club held a business meeting in the apartment. Plans were discussed for the remaining meetings and outside activities of the club.

Miss Gorrell is to speak to the club and also all girls who wish to attend, on Monday, May 7, at 3:30 o'clock in the apartment. This is a rare treat and all girls should come, because Miss Gorrell is a very delightful speaker.

Seniors Give Viewpoints

On Leaving High School

Most Graduates Hate to Leave Academic Work and Fun; Northrop Is Popular With Student Body.

Very soon the seniors will be thinking of leaving their "dear old North Side High." know they all have some feeling of regret, no matter how glad they will be to be free of study.

There are many reasons why they would hate to leave our beautiful school. If our school were old, and overcrowded, it would not be such a pleasure to stroll through her halls. Another reason is her students. Our student body seems to be one big family. Every one of them is very friendly, thus making all of the new students feel at home. One of the big reasons is "Dad" Northrop. He certainly lives up to his name. He treats us just like a dad. Another big reason is our dean. She is every girl's friend in North Side. Every girl considers Miss Reynard her friend.

Many of the seniors will go to college, while others will stay in town and work. No matter what they do after they graduate, they will hate to think of leaving all of their friends. Those that go out of the city will regret it more than those remaining in the city.

The subject of leaving North Side was interesting and resented such a wide scope that I did not feel that I could complete the subject so I interviewed some of the seniors. This is what they have to say:

ACTIVITIES FILL CALENDAR FOR CLOSING SEASON

Seniors Have Only Five More Weeks in High School.

GRADUATES TO LEAVE ON FRIDAY, JUNE 1ST

Commencement Dance Is Scheduled For June 6.

Just a few short months ago everyone was looking forward to the opening of school at North Side and now the story is changed — everyone is looking forward to the series of activities that will take place at the end of the term, as a climax to a most successful year with Principal M. H. Northrop and Dean Florence Reynard.

There are only five more weeks for the seniors. They have the privilege of getting out on Friday, June 1 before commencement on the following Tuesday. Even though they will be "out and gone" after they have received their diplomas on Tuesday, they will all return for the big Senior dance on June 6. ## HAPPINESS

Have you ever known a person that gets all the bumps in this life? Are you such a person? If so, how do you take these bumps? Do you put on the shock absorbers of pleasantness and disregard or do you allow your finish to be marred by the scratches of bad temper and ill manners?

I have in mind two friends of mine. They represent two different types. One will permit anything provided the limit is not reached, and the other will not allow his fur to be rubbed in the wrong way. If an innocent joke is cracked about the latter, immediately he becomes angry and says and does things very much unbecoming a high school student. He frets around and makes cutting remarks about the joker. While on the other hand, if the same thing is done with the former, he only laughs and takes it in the spirit in which it is given. This is true not only of jokes but of more serious things. When things in general go wrong I like the man that can grin and bear it, for "The man worth while

Is the man who can smile
When things go along
Like a popular song."

This idea of smiling one's way through life can be overdone, but if the man that does all he can to keep things right and then, in spite of his efforts, gets all the tough breaks can smile, you can feel assured that he is made of the right stuff. I like the person that is happy and carefree in spite of all his troubles. He makes you only see the bright side of life and if he knows any unpleasantness he keeps it to himself. Much of the happiness of your life and mine depends upon the other people's attitudes. If your associates are bright and sunny instead of gloomy and grouchy life as a whole will be better and happier for you.

So, if I were asked what qualities I admire in other people I would say that foremost I admire happiness, gladness, and smiles. I admire people with personalities, for anyone who has a charming personality is sure to be pleasant. Of course, there are many other qualities that I also like, but as I have said before, one of the outstanding is happiness.

We are often inclined to think that what we learn in school is something apart from the world of business. We consider our lessons merely tasks given with the idea of keeping us busy, at something. The talks given by various Fort Wayne bankers last week showed clearly that what we are taught in the classroom are the things that men found out through long experience. Many of their statements were in content the same as those found in our textbooks.

In this and many other instances we are brought to see that what we learn in school we may put to practical use after we leave school. This knowledge should encourage us to make the most of the knowledge offered us here. If we fail to do this we will have to make up for lost time later, while others who were wiser in this respect than we are studying further and advancing in success and prominence.

In his book, "The Prince of India," Lew Wallace describes an organization called Epicureans whose motto was, "Patience, courage, judgment." Mr. Wallace reflects that these words might stand for a world of good, but also stand for several worlds of bad.

If patience, courage and judgment are used to follow a rightful cause, and to bring happiness to fellowmen, the world will benefit greatly. All of the world's great heroes have possessed these qualities and have used them to further the cause of justice and of peace.

Had the Epicureans stated their motto in its entirety, however, it would not have seemed so praiseworthy, for it was "Patience, courage, judgment in the pursuit of pleasure." Thus these qualities, so fine if properly used, might become extremely dangerous. Though it seems strange, people will suffer much and brave many dangers just to obtain a much desired object, or to enjoy a day's pleasure. They stop at nothing to get what they want. Other people's rights and other people's comfort are rashly and cruelly disregarded.

If a small part of the courage and patience we often waste for selfish pleasure were used to lessen the suffering and increase the joy of our fellow men we would soon realize that to bring happiness to others makes us far happier and contented than selfishly gained pleasures do.

First Fort Wayne Newspaper Was Published in June, 1874

Contained Four Columns, Had News By Telegraph From Foreign Countries, and News of Sunday Evening Races.

When you read the Northerner, or other newspapers, do you ever wonder what a newspaper looked like when it was first published? Take, for example, the Daily News, a paper which has now merged into a larger corporation. The Daily News first appeared in Fort Wayne as a four-column newspaper in 1874. The first issue was published June 1, of that year. It was sold at two cents a copy or twenty-five cents a month. Classified ads were given prominence on the front page and were sold at a rate of fifteen cents for four lines, and four cents for each additional line.

The first column contained the news by telegraph of foreign countries, and the police court news. The next column contained an article called "Persistent Pedestrians," and told all about the mailmen. They received the "magnificent sum of $50 per month." There were six mailmen at this time, each of whom averaged more than twenty miles per day, on foot.

The third column contained local news and related happenings, among which were the following, "Nails protruding from the street crossings are becoming a nuisance to pedestrians. Won't the proper authorities give them their attention?" and "Sunday evening races, on Berry street, are becoming quite popular with our young bloods. There are people who think this kind of thing might be omitted on that evening." Also, "The Citizens Street Railway of Fort Wayne has as fine horses and cars and is altogether better managed than any street railway that we know of." The fourth and last column contained the classified ads.

Stenographer Is Not a "Machine"

The opinion that "anyone can become a typist and stenographer" seems to be universally prevalent among those outside the stenographic and industrial professions.

If a high school student cannot, or will not, carry the regular prescribed course, there seem but two ways in the minds of the average parents and in many cases in the teacher's mind as well, to settle him for life—either to put him to work or enter him in the typing and shorthand department. These two departments have become the dumping ground for the lazy, as well as the hazy-minded, of our schools.

It is not meant that all who enter the schools of commerce are either lazy or dull-witted. Many come because they already have chosen carefully their lives' work and find that these two branches of learning are the tools necessary with which to begin this chosen work. However, due to the erroneous idea that brains and application are not necessary to a typist and stenographic career, many who are lazy and dull-witted are shoved off on the hands of commercial teachers by other teachers, as well as despairing parents, who have lost all hope of making anything else out of the material at hand.

Being purely muscular, it is possible for even a moron to learn typing, but his work is limited to that of a mere copy-typist. The perfected copy is placed before him and all that he is required to do is to reproduce it.

The Uhl test has placed shorthand in the rank of the languages. And so high are the requirements that only the peculiarly fitted and thoroughly trained can hope to meet with complete success.

One must begin training when young. The achievements of young writers in various shorthand contests have proved clearly that the highest mechanical shorthand skill is acquired while one still is young.

One must be a good grammarian, a proficient speller, with a wide acquaintance with the art of letter construction and punctuation. And above all else, he or she must have a wide knowledge of the correct choice and use of words. It is said that the vocabulary of the average high school entrant is 600 words, the average uneducated business man expresses himself within the scope of 850 words, while the employer enjoying a college education uses 2,400 words. It is beyond expectation or possibility that a stenographer can take correctly in shorthand, or intelligently translate, words of which she does not know the meaning, much less cannot spell.

To take notes quickly, to translate, spell and punctuate correctly are essentials but are not enough for the one who aspires to become more than a good stenographer.

Stand By Your School

If you think your school's best
Tell 'em so.

If you think it leads the rest,
Help it grow.

When there's anything to do,
Let the fellows count on you—
You'll feel bully when it's through.
Don't you know.

When a stranger from afar
Comes along,
Tell him who and what you are—
Make it strong.

Needn't flatter, never bluff,
Tell the truth, for that's enough;
Join the boosters—they're the stuff—

If you're used to giving knocks,
Change your style;
Throw bouquets instead of rocks
For a while.

Let the other fellow roast,
Shun him as you would a ghost,
Meet his knocks with a boast
And a smile.

Profiles

The lives of great men occupy a large part of our literature. The great man is certainly a wonderful thing. He walks across the country and leaves the marks of his feet all over it, ripping out the dates on his galoshes as he passes.

Now the lives of great men are doubtless interesting, but it seems to me that the ordinary man is entitled to be interviewed, too. For this reason I have chosen Herbert Vigran, a man neither good nor great, but just the usual, everyday homo like you and me and the rest of us.

From his earliest childhood, Vigran was marked out from his comrades by nothing. The marvelous precocity of the boy did not astonish his preceptors. At the close of his childhood there was nothing in his outward appearance to mark the man of genius. The casual observer could have seen no genius concealed behind the wide face, the massive mouth, the long slanting forehead, and the tall ear that swept up to the close-cropped head. Certainly he couldn't. There wasn't any concealed there.

It was this person who is so much like the rest of us that came to me. I can best say what he said by recording his own commonplace words.

"Otto, I have a confession to make. Many semesters ago, I came upon a school called North Side (by the river). I entered this school. It was the turning point of my life. Since then my life has been one equation after another. If I'm not sweating over civics, I'm perspiring over English. In other words, I'm all wet. Here is my confession, Otto, I have been reaping glory that does not belong to me. I have been a thief, Otto, a cheat. Oh, it's hard for me but I'm going to tell the truth. It is your glory, Otto, that I have stolen. Your wonderful writing entranced me. I was thrilled. So it was only natural that when people would say, 'I think you are L. Otto Slush, what could I do? I had to confess. Please forgive me, Otto. Give me time out while I break down and cry. Oh, now I feel better. At least my face is clearer. Goodbye, my hero, please don't be too harsh with me.'"

Poor Herby! I think he suffers from a delusion. If he knew how I have to struggle to earn my daily bread he would not envy me. I do know the boy pretty well, however. I was with him when he was born and I expect to be with him when he dies. Now this girl that I interviewed. She says: "Did you all ever hear of Sadie Greene or the lady called Louisville Lou or anybody that hails from the southland. Well, that's where I hail from, way down south where you can raise a good crop of whiskers and go barefooted. I think it's great up here at North Side but there are three things wrong with me, namely: viz.: 1. a.—these are they: Ralph, John and Herby. It's just too bad I'm not trip-lets. Now I bet you all know who I am. Well, it's no secret. Go on and tell. If a catbird won't a whip-poor-will. Before I leave I want to say that a sausage as good but I like a weiner wurst.

Well, I'll be darn, every one of you guessed right. Yep, that was Lucille Reichle, reporter, journalist, actress, cripple, blonde (supposedly.)

Now, as the little boy with candle in his hand said, "I guess it's time to put on a tire."

The biggest liar in three counties.

A Two Center

I'm a stamp,

A postage stamp,

A two center;

Don't want to brag,

But I was never

Licked

Except once;

By a gentleman, yool

He put me on

To do a good thing.

It was an envelope,

Perfumed, pink, square.

I've been stuck on

That envelope

Ever since;

He dropped us,

The envelope and me,

Through a slot in a dark box,

But we were rescued

By a mail clerk;

More's the pity;

He hit me an awful

Smash with a hammer.

It left my face black and blue.

Then I went on a long Journey

Of two days

And then we arrived,

The pink envelope and me.

WE were presented

To a perfect dream of girl.

Well she mutilated

The pink envelope

And tore one corner

Of me off

With a hair pin,

Then she read what was inside

The pink envelope.

I never saw a girl blush

So beautiful.

I would be stuck on her

If I could.

Well she placed the writing back

In the envelope,

Then she kissed me.

Oh, you little godlets!

Her lips were ripe

As cherries

And warm

As the summer sun.

We, the pink envelope and me,

Are now nestling snugly

In her bosom.

We can hear her heart throb

When it goes fastest.

She takes us out and kisses me.

Oh, say, this is great—

Kellys In Good Shape For Big Meet Scheduled At Clear Lake

Redskins Not So Confident Of Victory In Coming Golf Match; Inexperience To Handicap North Siders.

Things don't seem right! Indeed they don't! And those first few strokes of the golf club in the earlyspring aren't always so good.

When orth Side faculty first accepted the challenge of the South Siders for a golf match, the Redskins were confident they could "hang one on the Kellys"—but now, it seems, the Redskin pedagogues are getting a bit "leary" about the whole proposition.

Just try to keep something quiet—even men talk with much stress on even), unless their wives have told on them—which is not highly improbable. But anyway it has leaked out that the Kellys have been taking lessons daily with some professional. And furthermore it seems that with much practice the daily dozen has developed the players into nothing less than, the professional class. R. Nelson Snider could even take on Walter Haged at his present pace of the game. Those are just a few of the rumors that are terrorizing the Northsiders.

But not to be outdone the North Side men started out for a practice Saturday and evidently the results weren't so gratifying. It was a forlorn looking

BANKERS TALK TO CIVICS STUDENTS

Pointers On Finances Were Given the Class.

A series of talks conducted by prominent Fort Wayne bankers was given for the students of the Civics and Economics classes at North Side High School last Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Friday afternoon, the eighth period. The purpose of the talks was to give a clearer insight to the students into the practical business of banking and its worth to the community.

Monday, Mr. Dannenfelser, of the Peoples Trust company, gave the first talk explaining wills and the probating of wills. It was an interesting explanation and planned to assist in later life when we should decide to make our wills. He interpreter many technical terms. A person that dies intestate dies intestate dies without going through the procedure of making a will.

Tuesday, Mr. McDonald, of the Lincoln National Bank, spoke on the "Federal Reserve System of Banking in the United States." Very carefully and in detail he showed the improvement of this system over the former state bank organization and its facility for reserving funds for the fluctuation of currency which makes money scarce in one district and plentiful in another.

MATH-SCIENCE CLUB HOLDS MEETING

Miss Sinclair Gives Interesting Talk to Members.

The last indoor meeting of the year for the Math-Science Club was held last Friday evening. There was a very good attendance of both students and faculty, and everyone reported a good time.

Miss Sinclair talked on the "Measurement of Color" and the rest of us found that there was more connection between Art and Math and Science than we had supposed. Miss Sinclair illustrated the need for the measurement of color by the standardization of sound. In the field of music certain sounds have been selected and given names, the infinity of other sounds that might have been selected are not used. The reason for this standardization is that a composer can write a song and know that any musician will know just which sounds to select in singing or playing the composition. There is the same need in color. Violet, orange, etc., do not mean the same to all of us. Miss Sinclair showed how by graphs effort is being made to have charts of color, so that we can describe a color and have it bring the same hue to the minds of all of us.

Donald Yousse gave a short but interesting talk on the gyroscope. Perhaps some of us did not know that the earth was a huge illustration of a gyroscope and that a spinning top is a small example of one. He told us of some of the practical uses of the gyroscope.

A complete outline of the divisions into which plant life is divided was sketched by Katherine Miller. The talk was illustrated by an interesting group of "mounts" which she passed around for us to enjoy.

We found that the club has talent along musical lines too. For Harriet Derck and Ina L. News entertained us with some selections which were much appreciated and received strong applause.

By this time the entertainment committee thought that we had been sitting in our seats long enough and so the rest of the evening was spent in a hilarious good time with some games. No one received any broken bones, but we will not say that no one fell down. The "eats" committee brought in popcorn crisp and apples, which we all enjoyed.

WITH THE CLASSES

Miss Alexander's 9A biology class has been studying various kinds of butterflies. The students worked on their collections last summer and they now have very interesting boxes.

Miss Miller has announced that she will give a test to her 10A geometry class, at the end of this semester. This examination will be similar to a college entrance exam, and she said that it will be given more with an idea of providing the students with an idea of the type required of them than for grading.

Miss Beierlein's 10A Latin classes are making a voyage to Britain, the first ever made from Gaul, and they are performing this remarkable feat in the war galley—"Caesar in Gaul." The sea is rough and they know so little about the tide and winds that Caesar is doubtful as to whether they can make it safely. However, they are struggling valiantly and hope to complete the journey and land on the opposite shore about June 8, with an A.

Class Investigates Sound

The classes in physics, Billings (Mont.) high school, are now experimenting with sound. They spend their laboratory periods outside finding out how fast sound travels. This involves an anvil, hammer and field glasses, as well as strong muscles.

Pupils Attend Church

Through a survey made by the H-Y Club, at the request of the Huntington (West Virginia) Ministerial Association, it was found that out of 1,291 high school students, 994 are members of churches and 1,110 attend Sunday school.

SOCIETY AND FEATURES

May is here!
She has come bringing with her but tercups, daisies and all sorts of wild flowers. With the aid of her old friend, April, May will be able to give the joy that the world has looked forward to, all these dark months of winter.
May also means something very definite for the seniors. It means just one more month of high school days!
Their calendar of events is so crowded
now, and with their many lessons,
May will be over before they know
it. (Tears at this point.)
But such is the way of the world!

Miss Harriett Lou Derck entertained with a lovely bridge of charming appointments at her home, on Columbia avenue, recently. At a late hour a delicious two-course luncheon was served to the guests at the small tables, which was centered with low bowls of Columbia roses. Those attending this delightful affair were the Misses Hazel Warning, Margaret Smenner, Mary Helen Putman, Hollis
Lindemuth, Eleanor Vail, Viola Vail,
Joe Dinklage, Catherine Fry, Nina
Lewis, Margaret Berghoff, Martha Lee
Vail, and the hostess.

Miss Viola Vail has returned to her home on Edgewater avenue after spending the weekend at Lafayette,
Ind., where she attended the Junior Prom at Purdue University.

Miss Betty Payne, of Cleveland, O., was the weekend guest of Harriett Derck.

Miss Betty Van Arnam will entertain with a dinner party Saturday evening at her home on West Wayne street

Miss Margaret Jones, of Downing avenue, entertained with a lovely dinner party recently at her home. Those present were the Misses Martha Anne Burket, Anne Barrett, Jean Hayden,
Mary Shields, Mary Thayer, Suzanne Ivins, Nancy McKay, Dorothea Wilkins, Helen Hilgeman, and the hostess.

Miss Glorvina Young entertained a few of her friends recently at her home on Lawndale avenue. At a late hour a lovely luncheon was served to the guests, who were the Misses The-ma Scoles, Norma Johnston, and the hostess, and the Messrs. Ted McNelly,
Bob Beverforden, and Don Elder.

I Wish I Were a Freshman

Days are now so quickly passing,
Just like fishes stranded, gasping.
June will come with all her flowers,
April first must have her showers,
If you will kindly lend your ears,
I'll tell my tale of passing years."

I, a Freshman! timid and green,
Freshman! Oh yes! 'twas plainly seen.

Spent all my time in studying,
Warning notices never suffering.
Latin was my chief assailant,
Music was my entertainment.

I, a Sophomore! right on the scene,
I "hoped" that it was plainly seen,
Watching the new Freshies being tricked,
Latin! I thought, was badly licked.
Now 'twas Music and sport combined

ART CLUBS STUDY PRINCIPLES OF DESIGN

Art Room Is Used As Display Room.

If anyone should just "happen in" the Art room, he would see designs of all shapes, sizes and colors. In fact all the walls are placarded with novel and interesting designs. The posters could be used as magazine covers, designs for cloth, wallpaper and book covers.

Any student in school is missing a rare treat if he does not visit the art department.

Knowledge of the principles of Design is very important in the Art of today. The elements of design are line, dark and light and color. Color is not such a simple matter in Art as one might think. There is a great deal to be learned and only constant practice can really make one adept in its use. While the skilled artist may never think of color combinations, it is as necessary for beginners to know the color harmonies as of a reader to know his ABCs.

Therefore, the 9Bs have been working for the last couple weeks on color harmonies and on value and intensity in color which are also necessary. As their first problem in design and as an application of their knowledge of color, they have taken their inspiration from Persian design and have designed interesting plates.

The 9As are making wall hangings on Japanese gold paper which, like the Japanese hangings, have to be glued to cloth. They are also engaged in making borders inspired by Japanese motifs and views from their class room windows. Several projects are also being worked out which they hope to finish before the close of school.

That seemed to take up all my time.

I, a Junior! what did it mean?
Yes, I was just barely seen.
To many, I was quite a laugh,
Even up in the upper half.
Latin was gone—but not my crime,
Another victory was mine.

I, a Senior! tall and serene,
Alas! It was too plainly seen.
I wished that I was just pretending,
Instead of meetings then attending.
I wanted the old days again!
Gee! I wish I were a Freshman.
—Jeanette Pitts.

It may be Leap year but ask now.

Don't forget the date of the Junior Prom!

FROSH TELLS HOW HE SPENDS VACATION

Romulus Aids North Siders in Frolic.

Dear Bob:
How are you? Last week we went to the lake and stayed all week. I will have to tell you about it.

We started for the lake Sunday morning at 6 o'clock in Romulus which is the pet name for our four-wheeled steed.

There were three of us in poor Romulus which is a very heavy load for him. We started out at the fine fast gait of 35 miles per and Romulus was hitting on all four half of the time but the other two of them were taking a rest.

It is now understood that Romulus is a very fast and noble steed, which I have poor from my other two co-pilots of Romulus. We passed Packards, Cadillacs, Rolls-Royces, etc. (not saying how many passed us.)

We at last arrived at Rome City in the record time of one and one-half hours (with Romulus only bolting).

We arrived at the cottage which is on the spring beach side with Romulus about to blow up. We then started to clean up the cottage and build a dock.

I will have to tell you about the hard time we had in building this said dock. It took us about three hours to build it—when we finished, well—it wasn't very straight.

That afternoon we started for the large city of LaGrange in Romulus. It was only 12 miles up there. While we were up there we met three of the weaker sex—girls. Well, here is where the trouble started—not with the girls but with Romulus. I didn't know that he was so jealous—but we forgot to get him a tin liz.

The first thing that happened was that he wouldn't start but we fixed that, but on the way home we had to fix 4 tires, it wasn't this we cared about, but—we didn't have a jack. I'll be seeing "ya."

Finis,
BILL, ED & FRITZ.
(Unincorporated.)

P. S.—Only fixed 10 tires in four days. Not bad.

MISS ZOOK TALKS TO ART CLUB

Students Hear Interesting Talk on Etchings.

Miss Zook of the Art department talked on "Etchings" at the last meeting of the Art club.

A good crowd attended the meeting, in fact the Art club has been well attended all year, and the students have been most enthusiastic about the club.

Following is a short summary of the talk Miss Zook gave:

Have you ever seen pictures in the newspapers that looked as though made with pen and ink and were called etchings? These are reproductions of pictures printed from a metal plat upon which the lines have been etched or deepened by acid, hence the name "etching."

The plate is of polished copper or zinc about the sixteenth of an inch thick. To protect the plate from the acid, it must be covered with a protecting substance called "ground." This is made of wax, asphaltum and pitch which are melted and rolled thin onto the hot plate. When cold, this thin covering forms a smooth hard surface through which lines are drawn with a sharp steel point called a needle.

As the lines are only drawn through wax, they must be made permanent in the copper. A bath of nitric acid and water is prepared in a porcelain or glass dish and the plate submerged in it. The acid at once attacks the copper wherever the needle has laid it bare. Little opalescent bubbles form and crowd each other off the lines as the lines are eaten into. The plate may be left in the acid two minutes, more or less, when it is lifted out, washed in clear water and dried. The lines desired lightest are now covered with stopping out varnish and the plate returned to the bath. This process is continued until all the lines have reached the desired depth. The ground is now removed and the plate is ready for printing.

The paper to be printed must be dipped in water and placed between

The Disadvantage of Being Healthy

Writer Wonders What's the Use of Being Healthy.

Having gone from the third grade in common school to the senior year in high school without one whole day's absence on account of being ill, I think I should know, if anyone should, the real disadvantage of being healthy.

In the first place, I never have the chance of remaining abed after the alarm rings, so that I never get my breakfast served to me in bed.

My friends who have the acquired habit of getting ill at least three or four times a year never have the privilege of repaying me by sending me flowers, fruits, or of paying me a visit.

When folks talk about their ailments and what their friends sent them while they were ill, I have to take a seat in the back row and stay set throughout the entire gossip bee.

Next, my teacher never excuses me for not making good grades because I'm always in class and never miss any class explanations as do the pupils who are absent now and then. They accordingly arouse the sympathy of the teachers when the grades are made out and march triumphantly off with good grades, while poor I have to take the grades that remain, which are usually not so good.

Then last but not least, when those nice spring breezes blow, and old sol is doing double duty, something tells me that I would sooner go to the lake with some of my friends than go to school and study; I know that Mrs. Clark knows that I am never absent on account of illness; so that puts a hoo-doo on that,—so I ask you, what chance has a person when he is strong and healthy?

blotters. With a dabber or roller, thick ink, especially made for the purpose, is forced into the lines, the whole plate becoming solidly black. With cloths and the bare hand extra ink is removed. The plate is then heated and laid on the iron plank of the press. Over it is placed a moist sheet of paper and over this several fine white felt blankets. The plank now passes between two heavy steel cylinders, exactly as clothes are fed into a wringer, coming out and stopping on the other side.

When the blankets are lifted and the paper peeled off the plate, upon the paper are left ridges of ink that filled the etched lines together with any ink left on the plate. A plate must be reinked for each printing. Naturally the copper soon wears off so that only sixty good prints can be made from a plate.

Dry points are not etchings because their lines are not etched with acid but cut directly into the copper by sharp steel needles. No acid or ground is needed. The needle throws up a bur exactly as a plow turns up a furrow in the soil. This holds the ink. The lines, however, wear down quickly so that only a few prints can be made.

There are many other kinds of prints. One is the soft ground which looks exactly as if made with a pencil. Another is the aquatint which gives different tones. Then there are mezzotints, woodblocks, engraving, etc.

Rembrandt is the most noted of all etchers. Others are Goya Haden, Whistler, Pennell, Cameron and Zorn.

The lecture was illustrated by use of plates made by Miss Zook, by her prints and by materials used in the different processes.

SENIORS TAKE EXAMINATION ON ENGLISH

Twelve Members of Class Compete For Honors

NAME ON ENGLISH CUP IS COVETED HONOR

Eight Girls and Four Boys on List Eligible.

Mr. Northrop has made a decision of the twelve seniors who have the highest averages in English for the four years. These twelve lucky seniors are Lorena Fann, Thelma Henderson, Norma Johnston, Melvin Koenig, John McMeen, Rex Mounsey, Margaret Smenner, Lella Smith, Mary Steiner, Margaret Umbach, Herbert Vigran, and Alice Lee Ward.

These students took a test Monday night, and the student with the highest average has not yet been announced. The winner of the contest will have his name engraved upon the cup that has been given us by an unknown person.

It is a great honor to get one's name upon this cup and it is an honor for these twelve students to have the highest averages in English. Students, we congratulate you!

STAFF TRIES FOR PICNIC ONCE AGAIN

Classes and Clubs Plan Outdoor Meetings.

"There will be picnics and rumors of picnics"—and maybe wars and rumors of wars, Ed adds as he contemplates the Northerner staff picnic.

At the recent time almost every class or organization at North Side is planning an outdoor meeting before the school season closes. At just this time of year there is an added glamor about parties of all sorts. Someone has said that at the end of school there is no pep or enthusiasm left for anything, but there can't be much credence in that, as students seem to have plenty of vim for spring parties.

Ed still maintains that the Northerner picnic must be held before the hayfever season, even though rain did interfere with the party as it was planned previously.

The date won't be announced yet, Ed says, so if the weather man has anything against us, he won't order rain for the occasion.

The plans that are at present being made by Ed Ford, business manager, Margaret Umbach, editor, and other members of the staff are for a much larger party than the former one. It will be necessary for anyone who expects to be "in" on the party to do some good work on the staff on the regular Northerner. Only two more editions of the paper will be published as the seniors have planned to edit the final issue.

MISS GORRELL TALKS TO HOME EC. GIRLS

"Charm of Health" Is Subject of Talk.

On Monday, May 7, Miss Gorrell, the school nurse, spoke to the Home Economics Club on the "Charm of Health." This was a rare treat and an open meeting for the girls in school who attended. May 21 the club will hold a business meeting at which they will make plans for their picnic, which will be held at one of the parks. It has not yet been announced just what park it will be. They will have the picnic the latter part of May, probably May 28.

Large Corps of Musicians Wanted Next Year At North Side High

Mathews Makes Call For Both Band and Orchestra; Several More Instruments Needed in Both Aggregations.

Our band is going to be built up for next year. We now have 30 members, but Mr. Mathews says he has several instruments he would like to put to work. If there is anyone that would like to come into the orchestra, he should so at once. The instruments he has to be put into use are: One oboe, one cello for orchestra, two baritone horns, one alto horn. He may secure others. He wants those who want to try out to come in this spring in order that such student be ready to start a real work next fall.

The present instrumentation of the band is as follows: Eight trumpets, 3

SENIORS DISCUSS PLANS FOR JUNE COMMENCEMENT

White Shoes To Be Worn by Senior Girls

FORMAL OR INFORMAL DRESS FOR DANCE

No Large Corsage To Be Worn By Girl Graduate.

The all-important question of proper dress for commencement activities was discussed at a meeting of the senior girls at which Miss Reynard and Miss Schwehn presided.

First of all, white shoes and stockings were chosen for commencement and baccalaureate exercises. The girls were advised not to wear good dresses under their gowns as there would be some danger of spoiling them. It was considered altogether improper to wear a large bouquet of flowers at commencement. Many favored wearing just one flower, so a committee was chosen to visit various florists and estimate the cost of having each senior wear one rose. After the price is known the girls will decide whether they want to wear one or not.

Social emphasis was placed on the fact that informal and formal dress will be equally appropriate at the commencement dance. The main object of this dance is to have everyone enjoy himself. No one need feel out of place because he does not have formal clothes to wear at the affair.

An Appreciation

By Philip Bowen

The study of "Westward Ho!" was both pleasurable and profitable to me. History deals with facts, but "Westward Ho!" weaves around these facts an exciting, rollicking story of adventure on the sea. This kind of story is particularly liked by most boys. It takes these facts, which many of us, no doubt, thought drab, dull, and colorless, and paints them with brilliant colors, enlivens them with action, and fills them with living beings: heroes, heroines, villains, lovers, and loved ones. After reading this book I think that I understand why England defeated the Armada, why Spain instituted the Inquisition, I think I understand about the terrors of the Inquisition. Most important of all I believe that now I understand the spirit of conquest and adventure, of loyalty and patriotism that actuated the people of those two great nations. To accomplish its purpose history should not only give the facts, but should show the "why" of those facts. Facts alone cannot do this; neither can fiction. But from the two together one may take what he desires. That is why "Westward Ho!" was profitable to me. I need not comment on its pleasures; they are very evident. Who of us does not enjoy a story of romance?

Special Assembly Programs Are Planned For Next Year At N. S.

Class of '29 to Sponsor Six Outstanding Events For Year; Students to Have Much Responsibility.

Through the efforts of Mr. Northrop, an exceptionally fine School Assembly Lyceum has been secured for next year.

These programs will include forty-minute talks by men who have proved themselves most capable in their professions. The Seniors will have charge of the assemblies, which will take place once a month.

Six men have been engaged in this School Assembly Lyceum system, which has proved very successful in many of Illinois' foremost high schools. Their lectures will comprise six assemblies to be given next semester. A prominent athlete is on the list.

One of the speakers is Dr. Hilton Ira Jones, the well-known scientist. Dr. Jones is a fellow of the American Association for the Advancement of Science; the Chemical Society (London); a member of the American Chemical Society; and is a research worker of marked ability. Dr. Jones features two lectures, one—"Science and the Future"—tells of the tremendous progress of industry when aided by science and is accompanied by many interesting platform demonstrations; the other—"Self Management"—gives an absorbing account of the discoveries of modern science with reference to the chemistry of the body.

The prominent athlete scheduled is Charles M. Paddock, the famous track star, and holder of thirteen world's track records. His discussion is a subject vital in every school—Clean Sportsmanship—is as interesting to boys and girls as his international fame as an athlete is thrilling to them.

Another assembly will consist of a program by the Tatterman Marionettes. In voice work and in skillful handling of the marionettes, the Tatterman performance reaches a high point of art in the theatre. The Tatterman Marionettes will present The King of the Golden River or Aladdin and His Wonderful Lamp, plays especially adapted to high school audiences.

Ralph P. Robinson will appear on one program. He is a noted explorer and naturalist. Mr. Robinson has accompanied Commander MacMillan as his mate and chief assistant on five trips to the Arctic, beginning with the Baffin Land Expedition in 1921. His lectures tell the story of the MacMillan expedition in the Arctic and are illustrated by moving pictures and stereopticon slides.

Eugene Laurant, a talented magician, will be featured on another program. This holds double interest, first because of his unsurpassed skill, and second, because his performance of a seemingly impossible trick is followed by a dramatic explanation.

Commander Fitzhugh Green, United States Navy, retired, commissioned by Colonel Lindbergh to collaborate on the book "We," speaks on "What Next in Flying?" Commander Green first flew twenty years ago. His interesting performance is ably assisted by a four-reel film showing the progress of aviation from the old Curtiss planes of twenty years ago down to the present time.

The surprising feature of these performances is the low admission rate to be charged. This is only ten cents for each assembly.

Marion Band Pleases North Side High School Students With Musical Program

Last Year's State Winners Give Interesting Musical Program in Fort Wayne.

How did you like the Marion band yesterday? You certainly didn't miss it, did you?

Marion has one of the best high school bands in the state. Indeed, it is not necessary to qualify with "high school," for this band is superior to many college and university bands. Marion has an enviable record, it won the state contest last year; has an excellent chance to win again, having won the central district contest a week. Last year it took part in the National High School Band contest and was well up among the leading bands.

Few people realize what is really being accomplished among the better high school bands recently. Many are becoming real musical organizations of merit, not mere bands. They have complete instrumentation, including alto and bass clarinets, bassoons, oboes, French horns, etc.

Through the courtesy of Mr. C. R. Tuttle, the director, it was possible for us to have this rare treat. He made it possible for them to stop at our school long enough for us to have and enjoy the wonderful concert. They were on their return trip from an engagement Monday night at Kendallville.

The admission was a very nominal fee in order to cover the slight cost of the band's stop here.

NORTH SIDE MAKES SECTIONAL ENTRIES

Redskins To Make Second Appearance at South Side.

North Side's track men will again perform Saturday at the sectional track meet at South Side. This is their second exhibition in interschool contests since they were organized into a team by Coach Chambers. Chambers has announced the probable list of men who will be entered in the various events of the meet next Saturday. The North Side team has done well enough so far, in spite of the fact that it has not yet been able to place in any of the events.

The exhibition of the Redskins team in the tryouts and finals of the conference meet last Saturday show good possibilities for the future chances as well as a strong determination to come through, which is always the characteristic of a winner.

The entrants for next Saturday are as follows:

100-Yard—Bowen, Eby, Scheiman.
220-Yard—Bowen, Eby, Scheiman.
440-Yard—Chaffin, Eby, Bolds.
880-Yard—Stein, Walsh, Miskell.
1 Mile—Miskell, Stein, Walsh.
Pole Vault—Eby, Penrod, Bolds.
Shotput—Baker, Marshall, Pierce.
Broad Jump—Eby, Miskell, Scheiman.
High Jump—Chaffin, Marshall, Hebecker.
Low Hurdles—Marshall, Eby.
High Hurdles—Marshall, Eby.

Miss Sites' trig class has been divided into two teams. Donald Youse heads one and Philip Bowen the other. The contest is conducted much as a spelling match and so far the teams have been pretty nearly tie.

FORENSIC CLUB TO HAVE DINNER MEET

Domestic Science Classes To Serve Meal.

The North Side chapter of the National Forensic League will have a dinner meeting in our own school apartment on Thursday evening at 5:30. The domestic science students will serve the dinner to Durward Allen, John McMeen, Carl Jacobs, Philip Bowen, and Mary E. Cromer. Those named are the charter members of the League and this dinner is for the purpose of organizing. Plans for future activities will be made.

C. H. S SENIORS TO PRESENT POPULAR PLAY

Play To Be Given in North Side, May 17, 18

MARY SHIELDS HAS LEADING CHARACTER

Much Talent Is Found in Cast of Play.

"Polly with a Past," a three-act comedy, to be presented by the senior class of Central high school under the direction of Miss Marjorie Suter in the North Side auditorium May 17 and 18, has the recommendation and high compliments of the New York producers as a most ingenious and entertaining play. It was given for some 300 consecutive performances in the Belasco Theatre in New York and a like number in the European countries. During this time it established the reputation of being one of the most thrilling, exciting and clever comedies ever produced on the stage.

The senior cast, composed of seven boys and five girls, has displayed exceptional talent in the practices which are being held every day. "Polly," a demure and vivacious character, is portrayed by Mary Shields. William Crane, leading male character, plays the part of Rex Van Zile, a very dignified man well in years. Sol Rothberg as Petrowski, Maurice Glick as Harry Richardson and Wayne Link as Stiles will present the most enjoyable and thrilling situations.

Tickets for the annual production can be procured from Melvin Koenig, senior class president at North Side, at any time. The 75-cent duets can be reserved at Robert Koerber, Jeweler, after May 14, while the 50-cent tickets cannot. Those buying the reserved tickets are assured of the best seats in the house. Anyone selling twenty-five or more will be given a complimentary for the rollicking good comedy.

The goal for the ticket campaign has been set at 1,000. With the help of North Side and South Side, the Central executives expect to establish a new mark for the other classmates to strive at.

If to the Senior Play you'll come, We'll guarantee a lot of fun; It's good clean thru to the very last—They call it "Polly with a Past."

She's not a gypsy fortune teller, But just an ordinary stylish girl; But at the play by the Senior Class (Continued on Page 4)

Indianapolis	3,994.10
North Side	3,142.60

North Side, being a center school, received $594.23 for holding the tourney from the division on the basis of season tickets sold, and from the pro rata division.

The gross receipts in the regional tournaments also placed North Side fifth. Other schools higher were:

Anderson	$4,654.39
Vincennes	3,982.80
Muncie	3,647.80
New Albany	3,169.40
North Side	2,396.20

As a center school in the regional North Side received $489.82 on the same basis as in the sectional.

In the sectional tournament there were sixty-four center schools, and in the regional sixteen centers.

In the final tourney at Indianapolis the gross receipts amounted to $40,621.44. Out of the final tournament the Indiana High School Athletic Association received $32,240.96. The net amount would be $10,000 less, due to rental for the Field House in which the tournament at Indianapolis was held.

FROSH FUN-ALY GOES OVER BIG

Pep and Fun Main Features of Dance.

I came, I saw, I was conquered—by the much advertised Frosh Funaly.

The first thing I heard was the peppy strains of "Is She My Girl Friend?" but when I rounded the corner and gazed into the cafeteria, the beauty of the Frosh Funaly burst full of radiance upon me.

The ceiling was hung with beautiful pastel shades of spring colors. In the center of the spacious hall stood a lovely Maypole with shiny balloons, also in pastel colors, hanging from the center of it.

The hall was cleverly lighted by a concealed lighting effect which threw beautiful colors on the dancers gliding on the floor.

The Freshman class officers are to be congratulated on the cleverness of the manipulation of their class dance. They pleased the large crowd of students present from all three high schools by giving them clever favors of little horns of all shapes and kinds, novelty balloons, tag dances and many other novel features.

In short everyone claimed they had a rousing good time and went home in high spirits from a good dance, long to be remembered.

Introducing Effie Jr.—Effie Jr. North Side Says "Hello"---

Deluge of Fords Take Parking Space at North Side; "New" Lizzies Take Place of Old "Effie".

In the spring a young man's fancy used to turn to thoughts of love—but alas, dear girls, it now turns to—cars, or shall I be more accurate and say—cans?

Just a few weeks ago we were mourning the death of our dear friend Effie—now gone but not forgotten. Today Effie Jr. is taking her place in the affection of the North Side faculty and student body.

Effie Jr. is a very luxurious and expensive car. One of our fellow students, Mr. Charles Pierce, the school "he" man, bought her for twelve dollars and fifty cents ($12.50) from a farmer. The fond owner very proudly informs us that Effie Jr. is equipped with a self-starter and lights (also a top).

We all wish Effie Jr. a very successful career, and assure her that she shall have the support, for she needs it, of the North Side student body. But Effie Jr. is only one of the newcomers, for North Side can boast of quadruplets of Fords. Most any stranger would think that he were happening in on the fire department or the police force to see the string of red fivers parked around the opening building. There's the McCoombs car, the Stiegler chariot and the Joe Miskell "Body by Fisher" buggy.

With accommodations in these four vehicles for just a few less than fifty, fear for the success of the interstate buses is seen. Just the other day when traffic was crowded eighteen piled in one of the said cars.

With all the rubber-tired buggies, it's almost necessary to get out some decorated hats to make it seem right. "If you don't believe we have a swarm of Fords, just step outside and listen," is Ted McNelly's comment on the deluge of fivers.

NATURE'S OFFERING

As spring advances we find many activities going on around us. The return of pleasant weather allows us a large number of enjoyable things to choose from.

In our search for a good time many of us are likely to overlook the greatest pleasure spring brings with her. Indoor activities are often worthwhile, but the greatest gift of spring is the opportunity she gives us to observe the wonders of nature. No pleasure can surpass that of getting out into a real woods and experiencing the thrill of finding beautiful strange plants and flowers or seeing again our much-loved old friends in the plant kingdom.

For centuries man has been attempting to copy from nature. Artists have painted beautiful pictures of field, forest, ocean and sunset. Composers have written sweet music descriptive of the songs of birds, the flow of a stream, the murmur of breezes and other of nature's melodies. Only a true love of nature could inspire the work of great artists. After all, however, these things are only copies, and serve but to make us long for the original which is a thousand fold more wonderful.

Where wild things are growing one can forget worldly cares and troubles, pleasure and wonder leaving little room for dreary recollections or forebodings.—Margaret Umbach.

SPRING FEVER

The term "spring fever" suggests listlessness and a disinclination to work. If one allows this feeling to come over him he loses much valuable time during the season when all nature is working hardest. It seems as though people would feel ashamed to be lazy, when all around them they see nature so busy.

School work should be more interesting now than at any time. We have gotten far enough into all our subjects to feel a great interest in them. Only a few weeks more and the pleasures as well as the work of school life will be over, for several months to some, forever to others.

After a person has been through the experience of having nothing whatever to do for a length of time, he realizes that to have nothing to do can be far worse than to have much to do.

This little globe, which is but a mere speck, travels through space with its fellows, lost in immensity. Man, a creature about five feet tall, is certainly a tiny thing, as compared with the universe. Yet one of these imperceptible beings declares to his neighbors: "Hearken unto me. The God of all these worlds speaks with my voice. There are nine billions of us wee ants upon the earth, but only my ant-hole is precious in God's sight. All the others are eternally damned by Him. Mine alone is blessed."—Voltaire.

Nothing is true forever. A man and a fact will become equally decrepit and will tumble in the same ditch, for truth is as mortal as man, and both are outlived by the tortoise and the crow.

To say that two is company and three is a crowd is to make a very temporary statement. After a short time satiety or use and won't has crept underlingly between the two, and, if they are any company at all they are bad company, who pray discreetly, but passionately for the crowd that is censured by the proverb.—James Stephens.

The object of a school is to teach one about as many phases of life as possible. The series of assembly period lectures planned for next year will further this object very much. These lectures will cover many different fields. Of course, everyone has his own field and will enjoy especially hearing the talk on that particular topic, but all of the discussions promise to be immensely interesting to everyone, whether they treat with his own hobby or not.

Blessed are they who have the gift of making friends, for it is one of God's best gifts. It involves many things, but above all, the power of going out of one's self, and appreciating whatever is noble and loving in another.—Thomas Hughes.

Luck means the hardships and privations which you have not hesitated to endure; the long nights you have devoted to work. Luck means the appointments you have never failed to keep, the trains you have never failed to catch.—Max O'Rell.

Flowers have an expression of countenance as much as men or animals. Some seem to smile; some have a sad expression; some are pensive and diffident; others again are plain, honest and upright like the broadfaced sunflower and the hollyhock.—Henry Ward Beecher.

All truth is safe and nothing else is safe; and he who keeps back the truth, or withholds it from men from motives of expediency, is either a coward or a criminal, or both.—Max Miller.

I owe all my success in life to having been always a quarter of an hour beforehand.—Lord Nelson.

The cynic is one who knows the price of everything and the value of nothing.—Oscar Wilde.

Snobbery is the pride of those who are not sure of their position.—Berton Braley.

Cracks Along The Boardwalk

SPEEDY WANTS TO KNOW

Just a little bit of scandal from the campus.

We would like to know the names of the two girls who went in wading in the river Friday.

They looked like big large North Side girls to me.

If anyone happens to know their names please let me know for I have a set of mud pie dishes for them.

"SPEEDY."

TWO LOVESICK NORTH SIDERS

Did you ever think that North Side had two love sick boys? Well, ask Eddie Neuroth and Bill Barley about Helen and Carolyn at LaGrange.

He always miss Ed and Bill every Saturday and Sunday. So last week they wanted the president of "We" Incorporated to go with them.

Well, I sure found out a lot about love sick boys. I think that Bill has got it worse than Eddie.

When a boy has a far off look in his eye he is either in love or he is sick and I happen to know that he wasn't sick.

I will have to say this about these two girls they are very good looking.

Steve Marshall: "You say you know just how old that chicken was we had for dinner yesterday at the Summit City? Just how can you tell?"

Bob McVey: "By the teeth."

Steve Marshall: "But chickens have no teeth."

Bob McVey: "No, but I have."

Lucille Titus: "How is your car running?"

Joe Miskell: "That's what puzzles me."

Some Juniors use their heads only to keep their ears from rubbing together.

Mr. Richard: "I want to tell you when I was your age, Son, I didn't tell any lies."

Art Richard: "How old were you when you started, Pop?"

"I've lost my pocketbook."

"Have you looked in all your pockets?"

"All but the left-hand hip pocket?"

"Well, why don't you look there?"

"Because, if it ain't there I'll drop dead."

Bob McVey: "Say, Pop, did you go to Sunday School when you were a boy?"

Mr. McVey: "Yes, Son, regularly. Never missed a Sunday."

Bob: "Well, I'll bet it won't do me any good, either."

Nina Lewis: "My father's an electrician."

Charles P. (She'll tell you who he is): "Oh, I see you're his first shock."

Mr. Risk: "There is only one kind of plant in existence that takes nitrogen from the air. What is it, Bill?"

Bill Barley: "Muscle Shoals."

Mr. Ivy: "Give what you consider the most memorable date in history."

Maggie B.: "The one Anthony had with Cleopatra."

Ed: "What is an octopus?"

Pearl: "An eight-sided cat."

Mr. Risk (in botany): "Lucille, tell us about the composition of rabbit." L. Titus: "Sorry, Mr. Risk, but I don't have time to read this modern literature."

Herb. V.: "I've had an idea milling around in my head for some time." Ray A.: "Huh! Aged in wood, as it were."

Charlie: "George, what are these holes in the floor?"

George: "Those are knot holes."

Charlie: "Why they are too holes, I guess I can see."

Mildred K.: "I guess I know a few things."

Proud Freshman: "I guess I know about as few things as anyone."

Art R.: "What is a three letter word meaning radio fan?"

Norman R. (sarcastically): "G'wan, I'm trying to concentrate on a hard problem."

Art: "You must be thinkin' about your head."

"They used to have spoon holders when I was a girl."

"They do now, grandma, but they call them coupes."—Exchange.

Miss Miller: "Why were you absent yesterday?"

Norbert S.: "My grandmother died."

Miss Miller: "What, this is the third time your grandmother has died."

Norbert: "Yes, ma'am, my grandfather was a Mormon."

"Yes, dad, I'm a big gun at college."

"Well, then, why don't I hear better reports?"

Harriet D.: "What is the motive in that composition of Trychinosky's I just played."

Voice in rear: "Sounds like revenge."

John Robinson: "The desert stretched out on all sides of me. I raised my rifle; it went off with a crack; there ahead of me lay a dead lion."

Joe Bowen (innocently): "How long had it been dead?"

Landlady: "Isn't this a good chicken?"

Boarder: "It may have bene morally, but physically it's a wreck."

There was a young fellow from Me.

Who invariably carried a Ce.

He said, "When I'm dead,

If you'll look in my head

You'll find I haven't a ? ? ? ? ?

Mrs. Winslow: "Correct this sentence, 'It was me that spilt the ink.'"

Mark Nelson: "It wasn't me that spilt the ink."

Aunt Prudence: "Keep away from the loud speaker, Denny. The announcer sounds as if he had a cold."

Phil Bowen: "What is the best way to prevent diseases caused by biting insects?"

Tenderfoot: "Stop biting the insects."

Miss Cromer: "Who wrote Gray's Elegy in a Country Church yard?"

John McMeen: "Emerson."

Miss Miller: "What's the most common impediment in the speech of American people?"

Thelma J.: "Chewing-gum."

Joe Miskell: "Pa, can I have a penny? I want to make a down payment on a ice-cream cone."

Conversation between two Junior sheiks.

"She asked me to kiss her on either cheek."

"Which one did you kiss her on?"

"I hesitated a long time between them."

Profiles

The first year of North Side's history is drawing to a close. Before long all the dignified seniors whom we all love so much will be scattered to the four corners of Allen county. While talking to Clue Ferguson about current politics I asked him which way he was going to vote. He immediately informed me that he was not going to vote because he was too young (being only seven).

"Oh," I said, "so you're a minor." Well, did that boy get mad? Not much!

He said, "I should say not, I wouldn't stoop to do such dirty work. Imagine me, Clue Ferguson, of Ferguson and Ferguson, being a minor."

I guess politics is going to be pretty close this year, from what I hear. They say government is going to control everything. Well, if they do all I've got to say is that it's going to have an awful time with all those freshies. Speaking of politics, I guess Ed Ford has the office clinched for General Nulance and it looks like it's a tie between Maggie Berghoff and Bob Brosius for Notoriety Public. Haberly will probably land that Treasurer job, while it looks pretty bright for Art Penrod for that Sewer Inspector position, to say nothing of his sweet young assistant. The job of chief street cleaner with all of its honors and applause goes to Bill Scheiman. The head of the labor party is Ted McNelly. He originated those famous words, "More party and less labor."

There are also many women in politics. There is the "anti-vamp" society led by Frances Cook. The "better cranks for our crank-cases" service led by Helen Gebhart. Then there is a club called "Presidents' Wives" by Glorvina Young. Say, by the way, I heard the other day that Red Dunton bought himself a swell hunting outfit down at Beverfoden's drug store. Coat, boots, gun and everything. He said he heard the best place to hunt was at Cooney's Island, so he's leaving in the morning. He's going to shoot the chutes.

The reason that Lee Roy Blough's eyes have been so red the last few days is because he wants to go barefooted and his mother won't let him. He cries so pitifully, I just hate to hear him sob like that, but I guess he'll just have to wait till mamma says yes. Along about this time of the year when the children are all crying to go barefooted, us big folks have the big debate. Should we, or should we shouldn't? I'm just like the rest of you, I have the same question to answer. But if you want my advice I'd say to leave 'em on yet for a few more days. You can never tell when it will turn cold. Yes, mine are red flannel, too. What if they itch? Why, scratch 'em.

Worse than that yet,

L. OTTO SLUSH.

(Ed. Note:—In a few weeks the mysterious identity of Mr. Slush will be disclosed.)

My Creed

I believe in the joy of study, the delight of acquaintances with books, the discipline of diligent learning, and the rediscovery of the world of nature and of men through an open mind.

I believe in character as essential to the highest type of scholarship. I hold that no intellectual achievement, however keen or clever, is worthy of deep respect unless it goes hand in hand with accuracy, reliability, honor, humility, tolerance and truth.

I believe in service, that it is the privilege and responsibility of the enlightened member of any society to minister with kindness and understanding to the needs of the less fortunate in talent or in opportunity.

I rejoice in the burden of leadership which scholarship, character, and service lay upon me, for I believe that my torch should light others to lives of greater, richer joy and fuller service.

Girl Reserves of the three high schools are uniting in an entertainment for their mothers and fathers at the Y. W. C. A. gymnasium Sunday, May 13, at 2:30.

Gertrude McClellan, president of the Inter-Club Council, will preside over the program, which will consist of musical numbers by club members.

Helen Trempe will pay a tribute to mothers and fathers, and the response for mothers will be given by Mrs. C. B. Croxall, and for fathers by Rev. K. A. Hawkins.

The program will be concluded by the ring ceremonial at which time the following girls will become "wearers" of the Girl Reserve ring: Dalma Anderson, Mildred Beyerlein, Margaret Connert, Esther David, Jeanette Duryes, Ruth Egan, Clara Mae Guy, Marjorie Hawkins, Bertha Belle Johnston, Gertrude McClellan, Mary Jane Morris, Dorothy Oren, Afton Packer, Dorothy Payne, Mildred Roll, Dorothy Schmitt, Helen Trempe, and Sadie May Woods.

Advisers and committee members who will receive rings are Misses Hilda Auman, Leah Austin, Elizabeth Kelley, Mary Paxton, and Mrs. H. A. Ray.

The setting for the ceremonial will be in the form of a large Girl Reserve ring surrounded by the Christian flag, Girl Reserve flag, American flag, ferns and candelabra. As the girls present themselves, they will receive their rings from the Keeper of the Seal and will take their places within the large Girl Reserve ring.

When all have received the rings they will be led from the ring into the wider circle of life by the virtues: Faith, Courage, Love and Truth.

The committee in charge of plans are the following: Gertrude McClellan, Lucille Gollmer, Mary Steiner, Marjorie Hawkins, Afton Packer, and Dorothy Schmitt.

Miss Bernice Sinclair has returned from Indianapolis, Indiana, where she spent the week-end the guest of relatives.

SCHOOLMASTERS CLUB MEET AT NORTH SIDE

L. C. Ward and South Side Faculty in Program.

The "Schoolmasters Club" of the Fort Wayne schools will have its final party of the season Wednesday evening at the North Side high school.

Programs for these meetings, the initiations, etc., are always more or less secretive, yet the entire program for this meeting has been disclosed.

L. C. Ward, superintendent of the public schools, will give a talk and later the South Side faculty will have charge of a stunt called "Perfect Bliss."

"It promises to be good," is what they say of the program, for the Kellys have ordered special lighting effects, the auditorium and numerous things to make their stunts "go over big." Maybe like their golf, they've been taking dancing lessons with professionals, anyway what that program will be, no one knows but the Schoolmasters' Club, believe it or not.

ALICE LEE WARD HEADS GIRL TENNIS

Out of Town Teams to Be on Schedule.

Tryouts for the girls' tennis team were held Tuesday, May 1. Alice Lee Ward was elected captain, and she is scheduling games with out-of-town schools. Some good material was discovered, while some girls have demonstrated their prowess before. Miss Schwehn is planning on a first-class tennis team this year. The following girls reported: Alice Lee Ward, Esther Nobles, Jane Korn, Marie Reiber, Maxine Salzer, Louise Shreve, Catherine Zwick, Kathryn Suter, Ruby Van Skork, and Alta McNelly. Practices are being held in the girls' gym.

Central Junior Prom May 11 Dance At Moose Hall

Great preparations are being made for Central's Junior Prom, to be given Friday evening, May eleventh, in the Moose Hall. The committee and class have been hard at work for some time, with the result that the arrangements are all complete. They have decided upon attractive spring flowers and novel scenery for decorations.

The dancers will be able to stroll and rest in the capacious lounge of the Moose clubrooms, and on the balcony of the ballroom. Cozy corners and additional furnishings are being provided on the balcony.

Central juniors have been very fortunate in securing the Sunset Ambassadors for music. This group has won general favor among the dancers of the city, also among the radio listeners. They may be heard most any Thursday evening from WOWO.

BE CONSISTENT

Some students do a day's work and then spend four lolling around admiring it. They rush at a thing with a whoop and use up all their wind in that. When they have rested and have got it back, they whoop again and start off again in another direction.

Give us not young folks like the weather cocks that change with every wind, but like the mountains, who change the winds themselves.

Central High School Cops Honors In North Eastern Indiana Conference Meet

Keen Rivalry Is Shown in Participation of Events; Central Trackmen Come Through in Fine Form.

North Side's sister school, Central, was the winner of the first Northeastern Indiana conference meet. The blue and white men came through in fine form to win over the entire field of nine other high schools from this section of Indiana. South Side was Central's closest rival, piling up a score of 21 points, being surpassed by Central's 34½. Others who won points were: Auburn, 17½; Bluffton, 11 1-3; Decatur, 11; Kendallville, 6 2-3; Angola, 5; Huntington, 1.

The rivalry in some of the events between South Side and Central came almost up to par with that which is registered in their football and basketball games.

Central's colored entries were the mainstays of her victory. Buggs took first place in the 100-yard and the 220, and second place in the broad jump, totaling 13 points in all for his team. Babb took the broad jump and tied with Bodie of Decatur for second place in the high jump. Dick Bell of South Side was next to Buggs in the individual scoring.

A Combination of Nature's Best Foods

SOCIETY AND FEATURES

The old saying, April showers bring May flowers, may be true, but it also brought something more than flowers to North Side—it brought in a whole new shipment of the world's worst, imported, collegiate Fords!

We have them in all shapes, colors, and any type you desire, some have been transformed into very luxurious limousine types, with only half tops, others look like the covered wagons themselves.

One speaker was heard to say that the scenery is all complete again around our campus. Is it trees? No, guess again. Flowers? No. Teachers? No. Give up? Well, it's Effie!

Things all seem the same again with Effie sitting around.

The Misses Frances Cook and Margaret Smenner are spending the week end at Bloomington, Indiana, where they will be guests at the Kappa Alpha Theta House and will also attend the Kappa Alpha Theta formal dance.

Miss Marjorie Reeves, of Home avenue, entertained recently with a delightful bridge party at her home. At the conclusion of the bridge game a lovely luncheon was served to the guests, who were the Misses Florence Hendricks, Helen Dills, Mary Hughes, Louisa Fredricks, Margaret Smenner, Kathleen Grier, and the hostess.

Miss Betty Van Arnam entertained with a very lovely buffet dinner party at her home on West Wayne street Saturday evening. The guests included the Misses Frances Cook, Esther Lowery, Mary Granger, Betty Granger, Harriett Heister, Madeline Cromwell, Betty Rahe, Jeanette Popp, Phyllis Lines, Charlotte Latker, Mary Margaret Vesey, Betty Rose, Margaret Amy Thomas, Mary Louise Rose, Helen Dessauer, Virginia Holden, Virginia Blosser, Luella Rogge, Helen Green, Dorothy Smith, Kathryn Yaple, Evelyn Moore, Marjorie Nay, Amy Lou Bowser, Mary Alice Jones, Mary Jane McMullen, Betty Carlson, Virginia Seemeyer, Martha Lee, and the hostess.

Miss Janet Egly, of Illsley Place, entertained with a delightful dinner party Saturday evening at the Catholic Community Center. Those present were the Misses Mary Hughes, Mary Brothers, Marthaena Brothers, Louisa Fredricks, Betty Hoffman, Mary Helen Putman, Margaret Smenner, Hillis Miles, Betty Moyer, Virginia Wagner, Greta Astrom, Isabelle Wilkinson, Marjorie Reeves, Phyllis Toothill, Marjorie Horstmeier, Hazel Warning, Betty Hutchens, Mary Jane Scott, Dorothy Troendel, and the hostess.

You Alone Know

You can fool most everybody else, but YOURSELF—NEVER!

You know whether you are any nearer your goal this minute than you were six months ago or six years ago.

You know exactly how doggedly, day in and day out, you have studied and worked to perfect yourself.

You know whether you have spent more time in hoping and dreaming than in multiplying effort.

You know how easy a mark you have been for alibis of seventy different kinds.

You know exactly how much spare hours have meant to you.

You know whether you have thought there was "plenty of time" or whether you were insistent upon arriving.

You know whether that glorious vision of your goal, which gripped you last year and made everything else seem secondary has been dimmed because you have ceased to care.

You know whether your ideals have often been traded for passing pleasure.

You know the sacrifices you have made to lift yourself onto a higher level.

You know with what determination you have refused to be disheartened when results were slow in coming.

You know—and you only—the price you have paid, or have refused to pay, to make good on your promise to "arrive."

And knowing these things, as no one else can know them, can you honestly say that you are making real progress—that you are actually getting somewhere?

You may keep the secret to yourself, but YOU know!

Instead of being with the classes we are almost without the classes. Last Friday five teachers were absent: Miss Hurst, Miss Schwehn, Miss Storr, Miss Huffmap, and Miss Sinclair. But nevertheless the tadpoles are progressing rapidly in Miss Alexander's biology class. She said that they can be seen wiggling in their shells.

C. H. S. Seniors To Present Popular Play

You'll learn something about her past.

Thursday

Everyone is invited to attend the Senior Play.

No one will be rejected the seventh day of May.

Friday

Bring your girl or sweetheart to a good old thrilling show. For it will be the day of the Seniors on the 18th day of May.

The first act that is shown takes place in a New York apartment of Clay Collum and Harry Richardson, where Polly Shannon of East Gilead, Ohio, a minister's daughter whose ambition is to become a great singer, is keeping house and cooking. Rex Van Zile, is deeply in love with Myrtle Davis, who is interested in "Life Savers." In order to obtain the love of Myrtle "Polly" concocts a conspiracy in which she appears as an "International Siren" and infatuate Rex. Myrtle is then to try and save Rex from the clutches of Mademoiselle Poulette Bady, as Polly is called. After Henry produces an overamount of scandal the play ends with Myrtle failing to get Rex, who really finds out that he loves "Polly."

William Rhamy impersonates the character of Prentice Van Zile, a charming, well-bred, middle-aged man of the world, who is quite sure of himself. Mrs. Clementina Davis, a kitchish type of woman, will be portrayed by Helen Preace. Helen Davies, an honor student, will be Mrs. Martin Van Zile, Rex's mother, a sweet, amiable, highly bred lady of nearly sixty. Thoburn Wiant takes the part of Commodore "Bob" Parker, a genial, sportive gentleman of fifty-odd.

Life Saving Examinations Given Demonstration Friday, May 18th

Red Cross Representative From Washington, D. C., May Attend Demonstrations.

The boys' life-saving exams began yesterday and will be continued today at 3:10. On Thursday and Friday the girls' examinations will be held at 3:10. Mr. Ivy, swimming instructor, will conduct the examinations.

Central High School girls will be examined by Mr. Ivy May 16th and 17th. May 18th, as part of the school program, will be given over to a free life-saving demonstration. This demonstration will be open to the public. Mr. Ivy hopes to have a Red Cross representative from Washington here for the demonstration.

Mr. Ivy said he expects to have between twenty and thirty boys and girls pass the life-saving examinations.

15 Girls Ready For Life Savings Exam

Girls' life-saving examinations will be given May 10 and 11 in the North Side pool. About 15 girls are ready to take the exams, and it is hoped that at least 12 will pass them. The tests will be made by Mr. Ivy. To pass the test the aspirant must be able to swim 100 yards, float, surface dive, disrobe in the water, and must know four approaches, the different holds, the proper carry, and artificial respiration. The girls have been working hard all winter and it is believed that most of them will pass the requirements.

Pharaoh's daughter stood on the bank, The bull frog in the pool, Pharaoh's daughter stood on the bank, The bull frog in the pool, Pharaoh's daughter stood on the bank, The bull frog in the pool, Pharaoh's daughter stood on the bank, The bull frog in the pool, She fished him out with a telegraph pole

And sent him off to school. Only Pharaoh's daughter didn't fish him out, but George Shaefer did.

He's a nice big fellow (the frog), residing at present in the exclusive biology tank. For the benefit of anyone interested the above rhyme is a song, and there is also a chorus which Mr. Matthews can no doubt produce.

PLANS GO ON FOR GALA JUNIOR PROM

Class of '29 Also Sponsors Tea Dance on May 11.

Remember when the '29s were timid little freshmen at Central? And it was predicted that they'd "do things" because they were such unusual, greenish color. However, the verdant hue faded considerably and turned just a trifle blue when the junior class was divided last fall and a good many came to North Side. Throughout its career this class has made a name for itself in more ways than one. Socially, they have excelled and it is entirely fitting that the sponsor of the next to last matinee dance should be this very class. A grand finale for a delightful series of dances!

Being juniors it falls to their lot to present the first Junior Prom given at North Side. An honor in itself and the juniors are conscientiously working to make it a success.

SENIOR FROLIC IS PLANNED FOR MONDAY JUNE 4

Affairs To Be Held At North Side.

OLD CLASSMATES TO FROLIC TOGETHER

Committees Plan Big Party for Teachers, Students and Patrons.

The whole class together once again, will be the idea when North Side and Central schools join in the Senior Frolic at the North Side High School on Monday evening, June 4, at 8 o'clock.

The Senior Frolic has so long been celebrated in the city schools that it has become a tradition. Now the committees in charge of this affair have planned it so that all the Seniors of the two schools who entered the same Freshman class can have one grand "get-together" before they pass into the ranks of the Alumni.

Stunts by students and stunts by the patrons besides a lot of games have been planned for the Frolic.

General committees making plans include, North Side: Mr. Northrop, Miss Reynard, Mrs. Cook and Mrs. Richard; Central, Mr. Croninger, Miss Lewis, Mrs. Stouder and Mrs. Link.

GIRL RESERVES HAVE MOTHERS AT PARTY

Interesting Program Is Given by Girls.

The Girl Reserves of North Side entertained their mothers at a lovely mother-daughter tea held in the apartment recently. An interesting program was given which held the attention of everyone present. It was as follows:

Helen Ballou read the devotionals, which opened the meeting. A note was read from the Day Nursery thanking the club for entertaining the children there recently. The girls' sextette of North Side sang their beautiful numbers. Miss Medsker, attendance officer for Fort Wayne schools, gave an interesting talk about attendance of children, illustrating it with stories of real incidents.

Following her talk, Wilma Kimball gave a reading. Marie Reiber gave a violin solo, accompanied at the piano by Dorothy Helling.

Tea and wafers were served to the mothers and other guests, and the meeting was adjourned.

Citizen's Military Training Camps

The first camp period open June 19, and lasts for 30 days. The second camp period opens July 2 and lasts for 30 days. The Fort Wayne district is still behind in its quota for this summer. We will be glad to enroll any boy who is 17 years old or over. All expenses are paid and if you care to spend a month in the out-of-doors and enjoy real camp life you will find the Citizens Military Training Camp a worth while thing. Come to room 210 for detailed information.

Doris Hutchinson To Work For Gen. Elec.

Doris Hutchinson, a member of the class of '28, has received a position with the General Electric company. Although she is now working part of the time she will begin her duties on full time at the close of school. She received her position through Mr. Eyster.

"A Night In Spain" Planned By Juniors for Saturday, May 26th

Most Elaborate Plans Made for Dance; Gardner's Orchestra to Play; Spanish Effect to Be Realized.

"A Night In Spain" or "In a Little Spanish Town" might well be the subtitle tacked on to the Junior Prom, which is the big social event just ahead on the calendar that is bubbling over with all sorts of activities for the last few weeks of school.

Most elaborate plans are being devised by the Prom committee and the advisors, Miss Gross and Mr. Pring, who both seem to be brimful of ideas for the Spanish setting. A bit of Spain right at North Side for the affair will be held in the large gymnasium.

There will be Spanish patio, Spanish skies and maybe Spanish shawls, in fact even down to the castanets it will be Spanish. Already the decorating

TRACK SEASON TO CLOSE THIS WEEK

Bill Scheiman To Represent N. H. S. At State.

This week officially marks the end of major sports at North Side. Spring football closed a few weeks ago and this is the last week for track. All of the boys are reporting to Coach R. P. Chambers until Friday. Bill Scheiman, '28, proved himself "speedy" last Saturday at the Sectional Meet when he ran away from his opponents, and made them watch his heels during the entire run. Bill enters the state meet this week.

We're for you, Bill.

PLANS GO ON FOR SENIOR EDITION OF NORTHERNER

Poetic Genius of Class Is Busy These Days.

EXTRA FEATURES TO BE ADDED

First Material To Be Handed in This Week.

All Seniors aren't poetic, but just the same there is bound to be some poetry to fit each member of the class. Maybe it will be a surprise to some to find out how they are rated by the poetic scavengers of the class. Personally we could think of a lot of people who would fit the lines.

"O sleep, it is a gentle thing— Beloved from pole to pole—"

Especially are those persons evident since spring fever happens to be one of the most outstanding as well as one of the most "depressive" fads at North Side high school.

But poems are one small part of the Senior edition of the Northerner, which will be circulated on Friday, June 1. There will be jokes, activities, a class will and history. In fact the Seniors have been given full swing of the publication and can have in it what they please.

Margaret Umbach, valedictorian of the class, and regular editor of the publication, will have charge of the issue.

All students who are working on material for that paper are expected to consult Miss Hurst in Room 110 this week, and they are expected to have in advanced assignments by Friday night.

Seniors desiring more than one issue of the paper are asked to place his order with Miss Hurst or Melvin Koenig, president of the class.

MATH-SCIENCE CLUB TO PICNIC TUESDAY

Final Meeting of Group Plan Grand Finale.

Everyone out for the final meeting of the year for the Math-Science Club. The "grand finale" will be a picnic on Tuesday, May 22. All members who have paid their dues are eligible to go.

All who plan to go must sign up with some Mathematics or Science teacher before Friday, May 18. If you can furnish a car please state that you can when you sign up to go. Arrangements will be made to transport all who desire to go, to and from the picnic.

Put the "date" on your calendar and be at the main entrance of the school building on Tuesday immediately after school.

RECORD OF ATTENDANCE ON HOME ROOM

Room 211 Has Highest Average of Week

NINETEEN ROOMS HAVE OVER NINETY PER CENT

Attendance Chart To Be Kept Each Week.

In order to create interest among the different Home Rooms to have fewer absences, Principal M. H. Northrop is making a chart to show the percentage of attendance in each. This week Room 211 had the highest average, that being 98 percent. The lowest average was 81.5 in Room 336. In all the rooms nineteen had an average of 90 or over.

The chart will be filled out each week, and it is hoped that every student will take an active interest in making his room hit the top notch in the percentage column. Following is a list of the Home Rooms and the percentage of attendance:

P. T. A. TO MEET MAY 24 AT 3:15

Officers For Next Year To Be Elected

A very important meeting of the North Side Parent-Teacher Association has been scheduled for May 24 at 3:15 by Mrs. A. C. Richards, president of the organization.

At that time an election of officers will be held. Mrs. Richards said. The slate for election is now being made by a committee including Dean Florence Reynard, chairman, Mr. Kimes, Mrs. Ballou, Mrs. Erwin and Mrs. Stevens.

A special music program has been arranged by Mr. Mathews for the meeting.

CITY WRANGLERS TO HAVE DINNER MEET

Central Planning Program at C. of C.

The North Side Public Speaking classes received an invitation to join Central and South Side at an interschool dinner meet. Three of Central's Public Speaking members, Sol Rothberg, Ruth Godwin, and Bob Gardner, visited our classes last week to invite us to the banquet which is to be held at the Chamber of Commerce, Wednesday evening, May 23. Central is sponsoring and planning the program. The program will consist of one short speech from a representative member of each public speaking class of each school, and an address will be given by some prominent speaker of Fort Wayne. Each person will pay $1.00 for his dinner and have a good time too. There are no restrictions as to who shall attend and everyone who is interested must hand in reservations to Miss Cromer by Friday, May 18.

GIRL RESERVES TO HAVE 'MELTING POT'

Election of Officers at Next Meeting.

The Girl Reserves will have their regular meeting this afternoon in room 312. An interesting program has been planned, which will carry out the idea of a melting pot. Every girl is urged to attend.

At the next meeting an election of officers will be held. The nominations will be made by the cabinet members, who will select two slates for each office.

SENIOR PLAY TO BE GIVEN AT THE NORTH SIDE HI

Central Seniors Work Hard on Production

CLEVER PLOT MAKES PLAY INTERESTING

C. H. S. Musician To Play Popular and Classic Music.

Tomorrow and Friday evenings at 8:15 o'clock, "Polly With a Past" will be produced on the stage by the seniors of Central high school at the North Side auditorium. No little time and efforts are being spent by Miss Marjorie Suter, director, to make this one of the most enjoyable and ingenious plays ever presented by high school students. The rehearsals have been going off smoothly and all indications point to two superb performances.

According to the ticket sales a record crowd is expected for both nights. All reserve seats or 75-cent tickets were put on reserve at Koerber's, jeweler, commencing Monday, May 14. Those who have not secured their tickets are requested to do so at once for only a few of the select seats remain to be had. Melvin Koenig, president of the senior class, has had a group of boys assisting him in the past week soliciting all the students and faculty. The pedagogues of Central and North Side, especially, have shown unusual interest in this year's production.

"Polly With a Past" is a modern drama interspersed with enjoyable atmospheres and lovely and clever lines. Taking the part of Polly Shannon, Mary Shields, the leading lady, devises a plan in which she attempts to get the love of Rex Van Zile, who is still in love with Myrtle Davis. "Polly" succeeds and Myrtle makes an effort to save him from the grasp of Mademoiselle Paulette Bady, as "Polly" is called. In the latter part of the play Rex finds out that he really loves "Polly" when the curtain goes down.

Under the direction of Mr. Stanley Teel, popular and classic music will be played before the show starts and between acts. The band includes piano, Jean Forsythe; violins, Edith Brittenham, Wilda Woer, Maurice Lohmeyer, Conrad Monroe, and Marcille Worgum; horn, Donald Wilson; clarinet, Harold Tucker; and flute, Jane Johnston.

Following is the cast giving the play:

Mary Shields	Polly Shannon
Maurice Glock	Harry Richardson
Mary Thayer	Myrtle Davis
Jack Kitch	Clay Collum
William Crane	Rex Van Zile
Helen Preece	Mrs. Van Zile
Helen Davies	Mrs. Davis
Wayne Link	Stiles
William Rhamy	Prentice Van Zile

BOTANY STUDENTS STUDY FLOWERS

Class Takes Journey Over Week End.

The Botany classes have been studying spring flowers for the past six weeks. They have just completed the study of them. All classes are making a collection of wild spring flowers which will be mounted in herbariums and handed to instructor by the end of the semester. They are required to give both the common name and scientific name for each specimen of the collection.

A delightful and interesting field trip was taken to Devil's Hollow, where they collected about fifteen species of wild flower for their herbarium. They found quite a large variety of plants we noticed was skunk cabbage which has a odor that very well suits its name. It grows in moist swampy places and its flowers are pollinated by flies. They are probably the only insects which would attempt to visit the flower due to the strong, disagreeable odor.

Other flowers noticed were spring beauties, hepaticas, trilliums, (both sessile and white trillium), blue bells, creeping buttercups, marsh marigolds, dog tooth violet, long spurred violet, yellow violet, white violet, leafy stem violet, Buckeye, red bud, sweet Williams, wild geraniums, common blue violet, Jack-in-the-pulpit, squirrel corn, Dutchman's breeches, blood root, wild ginger and May apple.

GIRL RESERVES PLAN FOR TEA

Last Tea Dance of Season on Friday.

"Just brimful of new features" is the plan for the last tea dance of the year to be given Friday afternoon under the auspices of the Girl Reserves.

"If you don't know how to dance but want to go to the Junior Prom and Senior dance, now's your chance to learn," Miss Aumann, one of the sponsors of the organization, said. There's going to be a section reserved for beginners, according to the present plans, and still there's one other feature. There's to be a prize given to the best dancers on the floor. Of course, there is to be a special reserved section for them.

DEBATERS HOLD THEIR FIRST ANNUAL BANQUET

Domestic Science Girls Serve Meal in Apartment

"ORDER EXTRAORDINARY" IS TITLE GIVEN SENIORS

Paul Somers Elected President of Group.

They say that the way to a man's heart is to serve him a good meal. The charter members of the National Forensic League either had their hearts won or they left their meeting with full stomachs last Thursday evening. The domestic science girls served a delicious dinner to the debaters. Roast chicken and strawberry short cake with whip cream were the appetite appeasers of the meal. Those who served this delicious meal were Ruth Close, Lorraine Langard, Marie Kunt, and Charlotte Spire under the direction of Miss DeVillbiss.

The purpose of the meeting was to organize the North Side chapter of the National Forensic League. Paul Somers was elected president, Mary E. Cromer, vice president, Philip Bowen, secretary, and Carl Jacobs, was elected treasurer. Because there are so few members in the club, the great disappointment was that there weren't enough officers for all the members. Because Durward Allen and John McMeen are graduating it was voted to give them an honorary degree of "order extraordinary." It would not do to offend illustrious seniors, so they now have the privilege of writing "order extraordinary" after their names.

It was voted also that small dues would be paid each semester and that there would be one big social event a term, and as many other business meeting as the president saw fit to call. This chapter of the National Forensic League will be both an honor and a social organization.

Girl Graduates Invited To Tea at Y. W. C. A.

All 12A girls are invited to be the guests of the Business Girls' Clubs at the Y. W. C. A. on Saturday afternoon, May 19, from three to six o'clock. The affair is a traditional one and in honor of the graduating girls of Fort Wayne. "Benu-Marsufi, The Wonderful Cat" will be put on by the Business Girls; musical numbers will be given; and each Girl Reserve Club will put on a three-minute stunt. Mrs. Harry Fletcher will pour and will be assisted by Genevieve Hudson, and other members of clubs in the department. There will be informal dancing.

Life Saving Demonstration is Scheduled for Friday May 18

Six Girls and Eleven Boys Pass Examination; All to Take Part in Demonstrations at N. S. Pool.

Friday night, May 18, at 7:30 those who have passed the life-saving exams, and who have become life-guardians will give a life-saving demonstration in the North Side pool. Mr. Ivy, swimming instructor has announced that a Red Cross representative from Washington will be in attendance and give a talk pertaining to life saving. This demonstration is free and open to the public. At this time rewards will be given.

Six girls from North Side have passed the test and several more have not yet taken it. Those who have

NORTHERNER STAFF TO PICNIC AT LAKE RESORT

Scribes Set June 2 as Date For Frolic.

MEMBERS URGED TO SIGN FOR PARTY IMMEDIATELY

"A Whirl" Planned For All Who Go.

Final plans are being completed for the Northerner staff picnic which has been scheduled for Potawatomi Inn for June 12.

Everybody who has worked on the paper during the year is eligible for the picnic, Ed Ford, chairman of the affair, said. In order to insure ways of getting to and from the place students will have to sign up by May 28. "It's going to take a real bus to get the staff up there," Ed said, but the business manager is hoping to get enough volunteer cars to take care of any crowd that will go. At present we are planning on a fee of one dollar for any person who attends the picnic, but that must be paid before the picnic date. Chaperons will be provided for each car.

The scribes who join the party will "have a whirl" if the present plans go through. Everyone is urged to take along a bathing suit and cap and tennis racket or golf clubs. Everybody is going for a good time, Ed explained and we don't want any lounge lizards along with a Ladies Home Journal to read. In fact there will be something to do for everyone all the time—a marble tournament can be arranged or even, "Authors" can be played by some. There won't need be any worries because the last paper will have been published.

It's the end of a most successful year, Ford said, and the entire staff has reasons enough to have a peppy party.

Everyone sign up immediately. Let's make it 100 percent.

RIVER BANKS LURE BIOLOGY STUDENTS

Miss Alexander Recommends Exploring River Banks.

Spend more time on the river banks and less, just wasting time for want of something to do. You will profit by it in more ways than one. Health and happiness result and numerous facts about nature are picked up here and there. Miss Alexander states that some of her pupils spend most of their spare time in this manner and have found it a delightful way of combining learning and leisure. The river can hardly be recommended for swimming but there is no doubt that with the rollers down and some clearing and dragging there could be made some of the most inviting bathing beaches imaginable. But these things will not just happen. They must be called for, promoted, and helped to develop. umping grounds and swimming pools don't combine successfully. Why not abide by the law, improve our city and have the swimming pools?

Correction!

The Art exhibit to be given in room 312 by the Art club will be made up of work done by Miss Zooks students only. It will probably include some work done last semester, but will as a whole be composed of this semester's work. Anyone interested in Art, whether student or parent, will be welcome. Further announcements will be made through posters.

Dr. Graves gave an interesting lecture on India yesterday during the sixth period.

VALUE OF TRACK WORK

To many people track is a sport in which boys merely play by themselves.

It is true that track has never held the interest of the public that such sports as basketball and football hold. The reasons are probably because there is not quite the thrill which comes when a foul or a field goal made in the last moments of the game spells victory or defeat. In other words there is not the element of luck. It is rather a sport whereby the boy who has ability in a particular event can train and develop himself and prove through contest that he can train and develop himself and prove through contest that he can out run or out jump the other fellow. Track is a sport of the individual and the contestant may be awarded accordingly. No other sport may call for such perfect control or rigid care and training of the individual.

Sports where team work is essential are fine, for the element of team work is one of the fine things of all games. But there is the possibility of the weak relying on the strong or profiting by the other fellow's effort—even hindering him. Or the boy who is not taking proper care of himself and does not put forth the effort he could, may be allowing those who are, to make a winner of him.

In track this is hardly possible, the contestant gets what he earns, reaps as he sows. He learns individuality and clean habits, for he can do his best only when he is in the best of condition and no other sports call for such perfect condition. It develops courage, determination and the never dying spirit—to rely on one's own resources and to give to the limit.

As an outdoor sport at the time of year when the fresh air and sunshine is so beneficial, and as a substitute for the loafing dens, pool rooms, soft drink parlors and machine rides that are so common in the spring, it can not be replaced.

As a builder for the future the qualities required for a winner in the business world certainly are developed in track, where he must compete as an individual and live on his merits.

Lastly, it is good training for the other sports and gives the boys an edge on those who are not doing anything to develop themselves and may be doing things that are detrimental to them before time for other sports arrives.—The Rushlite.

BE DEPENDABLE

No matter how much natural ability or genius a person has, he will not be considered one of the world's most worthy men unless he is consistent and dependable.

People do not look for a man who can do a great good if he tries but cannot be depended upon to even try. A common man who can do only some ordinary good, but of whom everyone knows that he will surely do it, is sought for and respected much more.

The characteristic of dependability is needed in every walk of life. In school, in an office, in a home, it is indispensable.

A fruit grower does not want trees which bear fine fruit once every five years or so and merely stand as ornaments the rest of the time. He much prefers trees which bear regularly, even though the fruit is not quite so good.

Few of our country's great men are remembered for one thing only. They were men who were always on the job.

Last year Lindbergh made his famous flight across the ocean. He would not be so greatly honored and revered were this the only thing he had done. After he returned to America he immediately continued working and studying.

BIRD SONGS

Having our school situated on the banks of a river gives us a wonderful opportunity to study nature. Many wild bushes and trees grow on the water's edge. These serve as fine "gathering and gossiping places" for birds.

Time between periods or extra minutes before or after school would be well spent if one watched some of these feathered beauties and became acquainted with them.

It is extremely pleasant to hear their cheery songs while we are at our studies. When we hear them in after years they will undoubtedly bring back to us thoughts of our happy school days at North Side.

Being in school every day may not seem important to some folks. However, when one is absent he misses things that he can never really make up. A day missed is usually a day lost. There are so many little topics discussed in class that one does not find in books. These are always worth remembering.

Every day has its own work. It is not easy to find time to make up yesterday's work.

There are times when absence is unavoidable, but if one is absent when absence is not necessary he will soon regret that loss of valuable time.

North has won more fame! Have you kept track of the many times this statement has been made in the last year? No one gets tired of hearing it either.

The latest occasion for such rejoicing was at the track-meet last Saturday, when William Scheiman came in first in the hundred-yard dash. Because of William's feat North Side will be represented in the state track meet. Congratulations are due.

If a man had to count out a hundred pennies every time he spent a dollar, he would have more cents.

It's all right to begin at the bottom, except when you're swimming.

We admire the truthfulness of the music teacher who advertised "Special pains given to beginners."

WHY WE FAIL

I think I'll study in the fall,
Get my lessons and get them all,
But I gotta play football.

I think I'll study in the winter
Study till I start to mold,
But I gotta play basket ball.

I think I'll study in the spring
I think I'll work like everything,
But 'm going out for track.

I think I'll study in the summer
At grades say, I'll be some hummer,
But I gotta girl.

This old world that we're livin' in,
Is mighty hard to beat.
You get a thorn with every rose
But—ain't the roses sweet?

Profiles

Judging from the number of candid photos there must have been a lot of disappointments in the last election. I, personally, know of scores who cried all night yesterday afternoon. Now, for instance, there was John McMeen. Do you think he got that dog-catcher's job? No. He was beaten by a little Charlie Pierce. Charley says, "Now I can put some more dogs on Effie." Gee, but John was tough. He ran out of school yelling and tearing his hair. Ten minutes later he came back smiling at the top of his voice.

And guess who was behind John—Jim. Jim is an African mouse hound with a pedigree longer than your left finger nail. Speaking of the dog's parents, do you know Rin-Tin-Tin? Yea? Well, he's no relation to Jim. We wish Jim all kinds of luck in North Side high school (mostly bad), and hope that he will prosper at least as fast as his illustrious brother—or I mean master. In a final comment John was heard to say that he had as much dog as Charley could ever get. Not meaning, of course, hot dog.

There were also others who were very much disappointed with the baseball—I mean election returns. Bob Brosius told Delores Spahr that he was heading a society to change the alphabet. He said, "Delores, I want them to put U and I closer together." She blushed a beautiful shade of lavender (and old lace). Bob, seeing the girl's distress, rushed up to her and with his strong, manly voice ringing down the halls, said, "Cleaning time is here, clean up and paint up."

I'm giving you the 'cold dops', remarked the nurse as she poured out the the cough medicine. That nurse was no other than our own little Norma Johnston. She was made nurse when "Doc" Beverforden was elected coroner. Now all the patients sing, "I don't want to get well." Even the doctor gets sick quite often. When Bob took his medical exam he said, "Washington crossed the Delaware -- and Home!

More election returns, Ralph beat John by a majority of 3% which gives Ralph a three day monopoly.

Racing returns, "Effie" beats "It". Wins by a radiator cap. "It" was given a handicap of two fenders, a tall light and three spark plugs (slightly used). Pilots Miskell and Pierce are to be commended on their bravery and foolishness. If Fords had brains they would both be up the street a few blocks. Baseball returns—The North Side "Knock-em-downs" beat the South Side "Pick-em-Ups" by a score of too much to how much. It was a very exciting game. In the last half, Penrod dribbled down the grid to Marshall who quickly grabbed a bat and knocked a touch down for a three-bagger. Our boys then opened up with a bang up defensive and made a hole in one (of the players). This made the other team sore so Bob Kaade, our bouncer, licked the team into submission, making three more points for North Side.

The last Profile will appear next week. Misfortunatly,

Yours to the last,
L. OTTO SLUSH.

To North Side

When I was a freshman small, School seemed a solid stone wall, With no means of ascension, Four years without pension; Force-governed strictly by rule, To tasks unendurably cruel!

As swiftly the years rolled on, Gradually my fears were gone; And in my school days' past, I finally discovered at last— My happiness was founded, And I—rather astounded, Sadly left dear old North Side, To be swept out on life's tide!

Bill Scheiman to Represent North Side High School At State Meet

Central High Cops Most Honors of the Day; Larwill Trackmen Take Third Place.

North Side took part in its first annual track meet last Saturday afternoon at the South Side stadium. The Redskins did not enter in all the events but they made a good showing in most of the events they entered.

Scheiman gave the Redmen most of their points by taking first in the hundred yard dash.

The Central Tigers took the meet by placing in first, second and third in a majority of the events. Central finished first in the 220-yard dash, low hurdles and the broad jump. Hire won the slow hurdles. The advantage gained by winning these events gave the Tigers the lead which they held to the end.

Dick Bell, South Side, 440 and 880-man starred for the Kelly Klads taking both events. He did not have any competition in the 880 but found it hard going in the 440.

Just a Nickel, Only a Nickel

Is the status of the nickel, half-brother of the dime, menaced by changing economic conditions in the United States? Once upon a time the nickel was indispensable as a means of paying tribute to the street car lines, but one by one the trolley lines have increased their demands until five-cent fares have become as scarce as Henry Ford's new models.

The nickel, too, used to be necessary for the purchase of a wide variety of articles. To be sure, many commodities still may be bought by this coin, but even the popular five-and-ten-cent stores, established when the nickel was at the height of its popularity, appear to be gradually lessening the number of articles to be bought for half a dime.

The nickel built up and maintained a great circulation in those days when it could be exchanged for a quarter-section of mince pie or a front seat for the motion pictures at the local "opry-house." It bought a pint of peanuts at the circus. It purchased a yard of calico and many other things needed in the home. It was the basis of a day's outing for a country boy. It is still with us and continues to be a handy coin, but its nearest competitor, the pretty little silver dime, appears to be making substantial gains over its coworker in the field of purchase.

Silver

Slowly, silently, now the moon walks the night in her silver shoon; This way, and that, she peers and sees Silver fruit upon silver trees; One by one the casements catch Her beams beneath the silvery thatch; Couched in his kennel, like a log, With paws of silver sleeps the dog; From their shadowy cote the white-breasts peep

Of doves in a silver-feathered sleep; A harvest mouse goes scampering by, With silver claws and a silver eye; And moveless fish in the water gleam, By silver reeds in a silver stream.

—Walter de la Mare.

What Is Success?

It's doing your job the best you can And being just to your fellow-man; It's making money, but holding friends, And staying true to your aims and ends;

It's figuring how and learning why And looking forward and thinking high; And dreaming a little and doing much;

It's keeping always in closest touch With what is finest in word and deed; It's being thorough, yet making speed; It's struggling on with will to win, But taking loss with a cheerful grin.

Fare thee well, and if forever Still forever fare thee well, Be thou downward, student, never But be gay as wedding bell.

Plus Fours and Dark Horses Excite Golf Contestants

Be Nonchalant—Light a Murad," Advice Given to Players; Low Scores Cause of Much Comment.

If the truth were only known may be the scores from the coming Saturday's golf match between the South Side pedagogues and the North Side faculty wouldn't be so low. But certainly the honesty of the George Washingtons can't be doubted, and so the topic of interest enters a different channel.

Style on the golf course is one of the outstanding topics of discussion—and just at this particular season the men are wondering what Lucien Le-long and Worth would be saying about Plus 4's, but then they'll just have to revert to Hart, Schaffner and Marx to see whether the large or small check is better, maybe the light solid color will be best.

But leave it to the men—there will be sixteen properly dressed men on the Clear Lake course Saturday when the two teams meet. However, if someone's golf socks don't match the sweater and tie, there's no need of worry—"Just be nonchalant, and light a Murad."

The fate of the contest seems to be dubious, in fact not much is being said by either team about the outcome. The Kellys have been going up to Clear Lake to try out the course, but so have the Redskins. Two dark horses, Pennington and Ivy have entered the ranks of the Northsiders, and their entry seems to have caused a great amount of confusion in camp. It's golf (isn't it?) where they're always speaking of beginners' luck?

Drawings will be made the day of the tournament.

SOCIETY AND FEATURES

If an artist were to paint a picture that was to express the feeling of students at this time of year, when school is almost out, what better picture could he paint of a collegiate lord with a tent strapped on the back, fishing pole hanging out the back, golf clubs sticking out the door, frying pan hanging on the radiator; suitcase on the running board with a red, white and blue bathing suit hanging out, road map pasted on the wind shield, plenty bumpy roads and last but not least two fellows in shirt sleeves, one fallen asleep, the driver singing to himself, batting the flies off his sleeping partner, and old man Sol, beating his rams more and more in the already sun-burned arms.

Miss Janet Egly entertained recently with a dinner party of lovely appointments at the Catholic Community Center. Those present were the Misses Phyllis Toothill, Marjorie Horst-meyer, Mary Hughes, Mary Hillis Miles, Mary Jane Scott, Alice Miller, Dorothy Troendel, Mary and Martha Brothers, Louisa Fredricks, Betty Moyer, Mary Helen Putman, and the hostess.

Miss Jean Hayden entertained with a delightful buffet dinner party at her home on Nelson street. Those present were the Misses Ruth Bittler, Margaret Jones, Anne Barrett, Martha Anne Burket, Mary Shields, Mary Thayer, Suzanne Ivins, Nancy McKay, Dorothea Wilkins, Alice Elder, and the hostess.

Herb Vigran has returned to the city after spending the week-end at Ann Arbor, Michigan, the guest of Byron Novitsky at the Sigma Nu house, of the University of Michigan.

Miss Stores niece, Mary Elizabeth Reynolds, is visiting here all week. She is from Olivette, Michigan, a graduate from that high school and will enter Olivette College this fall.

Miss Virginia Frederick entertained with a dinner party of lovely appointments Saturday evening in honor of the Misses Ethel Marie and Marguerite Frederick. The guests formed two tables of bridge, who were the Misses Mary Margaret Elliott, Mary Louise Spose, Mary Fitch, June Booley, Doris Smith, Alice Flack, and honored guests and hostesses. Later the guests enjoyed a slumber party.

History Club Holds Interesting Meeting

A well-attended and enjoyable meeting of the History club was held last Friday.

Philip Bowen explained the conditions in China. He gave some arguments for and against the present policies used there by western nations. A fine talk on primary elections was given by Thelma Henderson. She traced the development of the primaries and gave some of their merits and defects.

Between the talks Mary Steiner entertained the club with two beautiful piano solos, Grieg's "To Spring" and Torjussen's "To the Rising Sun." Several games, resembling tests in subject matter, but not in the enjoyment derived from them were led by Mr. Mosher. They dealt with nicknames of Presidents and sayings of famous men.

STUDENT CLUB GO ON ANNUAL LAKE FROLIC

North Side and Central Clubs Combine

NEW MEMBERS TO BE INITIATED

Group Planning To Keep Up Reputation For Fun.

Just another uproaring time-planned for June 6. Perhaps there's not another bunch in school that has the thrilling times the Student Players club has when it's members start out to have a good time. Reports from such parties always come back that more soap has been eaten and more faces blackened than at any other meeting. But what of it? After you've been initiated it isn't so bad, but think of the new ones who have to go through the "goat riding" stage.

Anyway, back to the story, if there is one, the actors and actresses planned to have their party at Tom Snook's cottage at Lake Wawasee on June 6, and the students of both Central and North Side will attend the affair.

Those who will be initiated are:

"Cut" and your friends "cut" with you,

"Cram" and you "cram" alone.

Promise Yourself—

To be so strong that nothing can disturb your peace of mind.

To talk health, happiness and prosperity to every person you meet.

To make all your friends feel that there is something in them.

To look at the sunny side of everything and make your optimism come true.

To think only of the best, to work only for the best and expect only the best.

To be just as enthusiastic about the success of others as you are about yourself.

To forget the mistakes of the past and press on to the greater achievements of the future.

To wear a cheerful countenance at all times and give every living creature you meet a smile.

To give so much time to the improvement of yourself that you have no time to criticize others.

To be too large for worry, too noble for anger, too strong for fear, and too happy to permit the presence of trouble.

Camp Potawotami To Open For Summer On June 23rd For Boys

Loads of "Fun That's Worth While" Promised To Campers; Camp to Be Held During July and August

Now how could a boy (or even a girl) keep his mind on Latin and equations during such beautiful days, especially when posters of Camp Potawotami are seen around in the corridors?

In fact it's enough to wish to live the life of Odysseus, and be shipwrecked and washed upon some strange island.

The dates for Camp Potawotami have been announced. There will be four periods, the first beginning June 23 and closing July 7; the second from July 7 to July 21, the third from July 21 to August 4; and the last from August 4 until August 18.

The camp is located on the shore of Blackman Lake, which is a beautiful secluded body of water in Lagrange county. It is thoroughly equipped both for comfort, safety and fun. There are athletic fields, tennis and volleyball courts, a garden, good buildings and cabins.

"Fun That's Worth While", is the motto of the camp which has an organized program which includes plenty of rest, the best of food, plenty of play and good companions.

The boys live in cabins with wooden frames, canvas sidewalls, which have all the advantages of tents, but none of the discomforts. Seven boys and a leader are in each cabin. A tribe is composed of two cabins with an adult leader as chief.

Boys who are interested in rates and further information are asked to call the camp director at the local Y. M. C. A.

HOME ROOMS HIT HIGH MARK IN ATTENDANCE

Room 335 Has Honors With 99.2.

22 ROOMS OVER
NINETY PER CENT

Spring Fever Makes Attendance Low.

The following is the result of some hard work—namely, an Attendance Chart, figured by Mr. Eyster, which shows each home room's standing. Study this carefully and admit that you wish you hadn't succumbed to this spring fever epidemic by playing truant. Others of you will undoubtedly "puff up" with righteous pride but—beware! You never know when the "skipping bug" will bite you.

The chart was first compiled last week by Mr. Northrop, and it is rather interesting to note which classes head the list. Last week only 19 classes were above the 90 percent mark, but this week 22 have gone over. Room 211 held the high record last week with an average of 98, but now 335 has reached the 99.2 mark.

Following is a complete list of the averages of attendance:

Auditorium To Be Held This Morning

Mr. Mathews' musicians have planned a program to be given this morning at auditorium. Another feature of the program will be a talk by Mr. Stanley Hamilton of the Y. M. C. A. on Camp Potawatomi.

Boys to Meet

All boys who are taking gymnasium are to meet with Coach Mark Bills this afternoon in the gymnasium at 3:15.

Twenty-Five North Side Students Decorated With Red Cross Awards

Demonstration on Friday Night Shows High Standard of Work; Life Savers Defy Anyone to Try Drowning.

Just try drowning now!

With twenty-five North Side Red Cross life savers just having finished their examinations it would be next to impossible for any person to drown when the staff of recruits was near the pool.

The demonstration given by the class Friday night was truly a fine exhibition of skill, and the students need a lot of commendation for the clever work they did. And back of all of it at the head of the class, a lot of credit must go to yrlie Ivy, swimming coach at North Side high school.

It takes a lot of time and patience besides a lot of knowledge and skill to train a class of twenty-five to pass the rigid examination of the Red Cross. During the program of the evening, a Rescue Bar was given to Mr. Ivy by Dr. Charles Morgan, of Toledo, who was the speaker of the evening

ONLY ONE MORE NORTHERNER TO BE PUBLISHED

Senior Edition Will Be Final Issue.

STAFF TO END
SEASON WITH PARTY

Staff Members Are Urged To Sign Up Immediately.

Only one more edition of the Northerner!

And since next Wednesday is a vacation day, the paper will be published on Friday, June 1. The Seniors will have charge of the paper, which will be an eight-page edition.

Copies will be sold for ten cents, however regular subscribers will receive their copies as usual.

After the last paper is off the press, the staff will go on its picnic at Potawatomi on June 2.

So far several reservations have been made for the day, and it will be necessary for every student who expects to go to sign up with Ed Ford in the publications office by Monday evening. A charge of one dollar will be made for the day.

Everything has been planned for a grand picnic, and everyone who can is urged to sign up, join the gang and have a good time.

Junior Prom Scheduled for Saturday Lures North Side Hi School Students

One Big Social Event of Season to Attract Everyone; Spanish Effect To Be Carried Out in Detail.

Imagine dancing to the strains of "Ramona" in an atmosphere that breathes of romantic Spain. A gorgeous Spanish patio under Spanish skies—Earl Gardner's orchestra furnishing the music. Those are only a few of the enticing features that give promise that the North Side Junior Prom will be one of the most enjoyable and unique dances of the school year. The event will be held in the North Side gym.

The Junior Prom and commencement dance are the only program dances of the school year. The exercise rooms around the gym will be converted into lounge rooms. Pupils of Miss Jean Ward will entertain with several feature dances. What more in the way of features could one want?

N. S. STUDENTS SIGN UP FOR SUMMER WORK

Mr. Ralph Virts, of Central, To Be Principal.

MIS SHOWARD TO BE IN CHARGE OF LATIN

Tuition Charge of $12.50 To Be Made.

Nearly a dozen North Side students have signed up for summer school which will be held at South Side high school.

With Ralph O. Virts as principal, courses in four subjects will be given. Miss Mary Howard of North Side will have the Latin courses; Mr. Murphy of South Side will have charge of the History work; Mr. Butler of Central will take the English classes, while Mr. Virts will have the Mathematics.

The classes will open on Monday, June 11, the first week after the commencement activities are over. Since classes will be held on Saturdays the ten weeks work will be complete in about eighty and a half weeks. A tuition charge of $12.50 for the entire course will be made. A student can enroll in only one of the courses.

At the beginning of the term, classes will be held from 8 to 10; but they may be held later from 7 to 9. The purpose of the work is to help students make up back work, and to give students who do not have sufficient credits to graduate a chance to make up some of the work. If there are enough demands for other work, other classes may be added.

Senior Girls To Attend Meeting

All girls who are to graduate this June are to attend a very important meeting this afternoon at 3:15 in the high school auditorium.

The meeting has been scheduled by Dean Reynard. Senior class roll will be called.

C. M. T. C. QUOTA NOT FILLED FOR ALLEN COUNTY

All Expenses Paid For Boys Enrolled

SCHEDULE FOR DAY
STRICTLY FOLLOWED

All Boys Participate in Organized Sports.

The C. M. T. C. camps in Indiana have two terms this year. The first camp period opens July 2 and lasts for thirty days. The second camp period opens July 2 and lasts for thirty days.

The Fort Wayne District or Allen County quota is as yet not filled and we will be glad to enroll any boy seventeen years or over.

Citizen's Military Training Camp offers a boy thirty days of free vacation at a government outpost such as Fort Benjamin Harrison. All expenses are paid. Clothing is furnished including all equipment needed in every kind of weather. Every boy is supplied with two complete uniforms and his clothes are laundered free every week.

Transportation to and from the camps is paid by the government. The only thing you are asked to give is your time.

Many ask, "What is C. M. T. C.?"

There is just one answer. It is a training camp sponsored by the U. S. government which offers junior military training to youths between the ages of 17-24, with the intention of developing strong minds, strong physiques, and strongly developed characters.

The program of the C. M. T. C. camps consists of, morning, Reveille, breakfast, inspection of quarters, calisthenics, morning drill, and dinner. This completes the program for the morning.

After dinner there is a period of about an hour and a half of rest during which mail-call as it is known is held. The boys received all of their mail and packages from home during this time.

After the period of rest athletic sports are participated in by all of the boys.

Teams are organized and every boy is given an opportunity and a place on a team.

There is swimming for those who wish it in a large pool on the campus of the fort.

Parades are held three afternoons a week and Saturdays. With written consent of his parents a boy may obtain a leave permit to go home or to Indianapolis over the week-end.

Sunday is the day of rest in camp. Chapel is held in the morning and after that every one is free to do what he wishes.

C. M. T. C. fills a part greatly needed in the development of every youth. All out let's support the camp this year. We will profit by it ourselves.

COMMITTEES ARE NAMED FOR SENIOR FROLIC

Class of '28 to Cast Aside Seriousness.

CENTRAL GROUP TO PLAY WITH N. S.

Miss Soderlund Plans Entertainment for Evening.

Monday, June 4th, is the day set aside for the august seniors to shed their mantles of seriousness and stateliness and once again become carefree and fun-loving children at the time of the Senior Frolic to be held in the North Side gymnasium at 8 o'clock.

Central will also share in the activities and thus bring the divided 28's together for a short time since their parting last June. All sorts of games and stunts have been planned for the evening.

The committee for the affair is as follows:

Invitations: Miss Reynard (N.S.); Miss Lewis (C.); decoration: Mr. Sidel (N.S.), Mr. Welbaum (C), Mr. Dickinson (NS), Mr. Pennington (NS) Mr. Veatch (C).

The decoration committee will be aided by certain members of the student body.

Program: Mr. Croninger (C), Mrs. Studer, Mr. Northrop (NS), Mrs. Richards.

Refreshments: Mrs. Cook, Mrs. Link.

Games: Miss Furst, Miss Aumann. Miss Soderlund is in sole charge of the entertainment.

BEST DANCERS ARE CHOSEN

Girl Reserves Sponsor Peppy Tea Dance.

Just one more "Tea Dance" and let's hope that it will be as peppy as the one which was sponsored by the Girl Reserves last Friday.

Tillie Cromer danced two novelty dances. From 4:30 to 5 o'clock the best girl and boy dancers were chosen. Prizes were awarded to Dorothy Bowman and Richard Niles. Dorothy received a red and white compact and Richard received a red and white handkerchief. We are sorry but as Miss Reynard said, "No prize was given to the best or maybe it should be 'prettiest' wall flower."

We want to thank the orchestra including Mrs. Richards who played the piano.

We think that the dance was a huge success.

LAST P. T. A. MEETING TO BE HELD JUNE 1ST

Miss Schwen and Mr. Mathews Plan Program.

The Parent-Teachers' Club will hold the last meeting of the year Friday, June 1. Election of officers will be conducted.

The program is in charge of Mr. Mathews and Miss Schwen.

A candy sale in interest of this club and donation of candy will be welcome.

Teachers and parents are urged to attend this final and very important meeting.

Class of '29 Claims Students Are Prominent in High School Affairs

In Every Activity Junior Class Members Are On Top; Have Taken Part in All School Events.

In the year of '25, a most industrious class entered the portals of Central High School. This class, not content to be underclassmen, soon made themselves noticed. Although they were not organized their first year, the sophomore year with Peter Certia as president was a round of activities.

There were parties and dances for everyone. In their junior year they were divided, some going North and some remaining at Central. They were not deterred by this, however, but started in with a most successful party, the Junior Masque Ball. They are now planning the biggest one of all, "The Junior Prom."

This class has not only distinguished itself in social affairs, but in athletics and school activities. The junior girls won the interscholastic basketball championship. The swimming cup is also in possession of this class. Next year promises bigger and brighter events from this group. Yes, it is the illustrious class of '29.

SENIORS SET OUT TO SEA

To stand on the pier and watch an ocean liner pull away from shore on a journey covering thousands of miles is a thrilling experience. We are assured that the vessel is securely built, that it is amply provisioned and that the captain and the crew are efficient.

The vessel proudly flies its colors in the pleasant breeze. There is music in the air as the band plays a stirring musical composition. Many travelers have with them flowers and other gifts from friends and relatives. There is laughter mingled with tears as people are parted, some for a short period of time, others possibly forever. We feel fairly positive about everything except the weather. How stormy will be the sea? Will the weather be foul or fair?

On Tuesday night, June 5, sixty-four crafts are to set sail from the harbor of North Side High School. We have no assurance as to the stability of these crafts, for each person has built his own. For twelve years each vessel has been in the process of provisioning. Each year a little more knowledge and a little more skill has been stored away.

And now is the time of launching when each captain steps into his boat and begins to steer out into the Sea of Life. There is music, flowers, friends and relatives, laughter and some tears. Each tiny vessel flies the red and gray floating under a broader banner of red and black. He has no crew but must buffet the storms alone.

As in the instance of the ocean liner, we have no knowledge of the storms to be encountered. Some crafts may be wrecked on the Shoals of Inefficiency, and never reach the Harbor of Success. Some of the vessels may drift far from the starting place. Other crafts may never be able to sail out and the name of the captain be forgotten.

But whenever each vessel sails upon the enchanted sea may its captain be able to write in his log the story of a life nobly lived and service freely given—M. G.

Although few school days are left they are valuable and every minute of them should be used to good advantage.

Assignments given now are just as important as, in many cases more so than, those given in the middle of the term. Important things are accomplished only by "sticking to them" until they are entirely completed.

No one could get great benefit from high school by working for three years and "loafing" during the fourth year. The same principle applies to a semester—loafing during the last few weeks or even during the last few days counteracts the benefit gained from working during the first part of the semester.

It is always said that in a musical selection, the beginning and the last part are exceedingly important. People are apt to judge the merits of the selection mostly upon the effect produced by the first part and by the last movement. Would you be willing to have your entire semester's work judged by that of the last few weeks?

Cracks Along The Boardwalk

Herb Vigran thinks he's the wittiest boy in school. We'll admit he's half right.

Mildred: "Why do you always have dates with Ralph on Friday nights?"
Lucille: "Well, that's the day for fish, isn't it?"

Miss Alexander: "Now this plant belongs to the begonia family."
Virginia F.: "Yes, and you're keeping it for the while they are away."

M. Cook to Ray Alter: "Take that key out of your mouth. Do you want to get lockjaw?"

Last Minute Fancies?

Onward, turn onward,
Oh, Time, in thy flight.
Make the old bell ring
Before I recite.

Teacher: "What's a skeleton?"
Stude: "Bones with the people rubbed off."

Maggie S.: "What kind of tooth paste do you use?"
Maggie B.: "Tooth paste nothing. None of my teeth are loose."

Lucille T.: "You brute, you broke my heart."
Joe M.: "Thank goodness. I thought it was a rib."

Mel K.: "Would you like to go to the Central senior class play?"
Glovinia Young: "Why, yes, I would love to."
Mel: "Well, that's fine; buy your ticket from me."

Miss DeVilbiss: "Get me a bucket of insane ice."
Lorraine S.: "Insane ice?"
Miss D.: "Yes, cracked."

Harold Walker (on phone): "Hello, is this the fire department?"
Lieutenant: "Yes, what is it?"
H. W.: "How far is it to the nearest alarm box? My house is on fire and I want to turn in an alarm."

Mother: "In my day we never thought of doing such things."
Daughter: "Well, don't you wish you had?"

Time to Laugh!

(You laugh at 'em; I can't.)

The melancholy days have come,
The saddest of our annals.
It's far too cold for B. V. D.'s,
And far too hot for flannels.

Jane E.: "Do big fish eat sardines?"
Mary G.: "Yes, darling."
J. E.: "But, Mary, how do they get the cans open?"

Pictures—Features
Special Paper

Miss Storr: "I'd be much better off if they'd put that sign on my mailbox."
Miss Gross: "What sign?"
Miss S.: "Post no bills."

Mr. Northrop (speaking of golf: "Notice any improvement since last year?"
Caddie: "'Ad your clubs shined up, haven't you?"

Junior: "Every kiss intoxicates me, darling. Would you like me to be a drunkard?"
Soph: "Well, yes, on condition you don't mix your drinks."

Election is over with, but I wish Joe Miskell would have been elected for Exalted Ruler of Puddle Hitters, and I didn't say missers either. Oh, well it's just as Socrates said, You've got to watch those one-handed drivers.

Teacher: "Who said, 'We came to bury Caesar, not to praise him'?"
Lorena Fann: "Some undertaker, I suppose."

Lela: "Does the moon affect the tide?"
Art: "No, the untied."

"Bob Kaade tried out for yell leader."
"Did he go over big?"
"No, he went over backwards."

Norbert S.: "Did you know the library was closed?"
Ralph W.: "No, why?"
N. S.: "There's measles in the dictionary."

North: "What is dust?"
Side: "Mud with the juice squeezed out of it."

Don E.: "Have you read 'Freckles'?"
Glen E.: "No, mine are brown."

Everything comes to him who orders hash.

Profiles

Jokes—er, I mean folks, it certainly makes me feel bad to think that I am writing my last for dear old North Side (by the river). For one whole semester now I have been writing things which have given you much pleasure (?) and which have made you cry with joy (or pity).

Did you ever read in the grades a story called the "Last Lesson in French"? How sad the little boy feels when he learns that tomorrow he will be studying German because they would occupy Alsace and Lorraine! Well, that's the way I feel today writing my last Profile. I have finished my nine years in high school and feel that it is now time to leave (at least). I must enter higher halls of learning. Being such a brilliant student all the colleges are fighting for me. They all send me letters like this: "Don't come here or you'll get shot." I've had my application in for three years and they all inform me that they don't need a janitor yet.

There is only one thing that I hope and that is that there will be somebody to "carry on" for me after I've left dear old N. H. S. (Everybody knows that I did my best to "carry on".)

Really I wish they'd let me have my druthers. I'd be so happy if I could have my druthers, why I'd rather stay here. But, as I have said before, "duty calls," and I'm one of those guys that puts duty above everything else. Yes, sometimes so high above everything else that I can't even see it.

Instead of interviewing any special North Sider I have decided to give for your approval a thumb nail sketch of the typical senior at the beginning of next year (the present junior). (Mr. Northrop kindly asks you not to throw bricks at me until you leave the building. This is to avoid breaking windows or hitting freshmen.)

In the first place he owns the school. It belongs to him and don't you try to take it away. He could probably show you a mortgage—I mean a deed. Anything that he says goes, see? He not only owns it but runs it. He has all the privileges he wants. If he wants to walk out of class he does (when the bell rings). If he's tired of school, he quits for a couple of days (usually Saturday and Sunday). Freshman, remember this, always take a senior's advice—they have plenty and you can't go wrong because a senior knows everything. They can sing popular songs, do the black bottom, drive red Fords, and now and then you find one that can do some algebra or English (though rare).

In making this sketch I have been careful not to use myself as a model for the typical senior. No, nothing like that.

I bet that some of you thought that here were about three people writing this column because one person could not be so dumb. Well, get those ideas out of your head, because I'll take the credit for the other two people.

Now, as I think of closing for the last time, eyes come to my tears. It is too much. My heart is full and you know it's hard to work on a full stomach.

Shall I say Goo' bye? No only au revoir. Who can tell? I might stunk yet.

Yours for ever and always, and maybe a few more days,
L. OTTO SLUSH.
(Herbert Vigran).

With the Classes

Mr. Pennington's geometry class is at present studying circles and find them very interesting though rather difficult.

Miss Alexander's biology classes are now studying the pumpkin, although it is not Hallowe'en, the class though it is not Halloween, the classes are very much interested in this product and have every reason to believe that by that far off time the cherished object of their attentions will be sufficiently developed, that they may sell him at great profit, as one, born and raised in North Side high. The pupils began by planting the seed in a flower pot and then studying the germination. Next the plant grows just above the earth, when a prop was put in for it to lean on, and then the process of twining is studied, (quite a fascinating study for the clinging vine type). Lastly the flower blooms and it is treated in the same manner as the previous developments.

Miss Catherine Smith accompanied Miss Alexander and Miss Howard on a short trip along the river banks last Wednesday after school. She reported that although it was raining a little, nevertheless they had a really enjoyable and profitable excursion.

Miss Belerlein's 10A Latin class is at present occupied with the weighty problem of deciding whether the German, Aristovistus or Caesar, the Roman, is entitled to Gaul. It is a critical moment (in more ways than one) and great pains are being taken to decide the right way.

The Art Club will have an Art exhibit in room 312, Thursday, May 24th from 3:30 until 5. It will consist of work made this year by Miss Zook's classes, the beginning classes 1 and 2. Parents, teachers, students and anyone else interested in art are cordially invited.

Froebel of Gary Captures State Track Meet Trophy Held At Indianapolis

Red Devils Lead Field With 36 1/2 Points; South Side Scores 5; Dick Bell Places First in Half-Mile.

Froebel of Gary won the state track and field meet held at Indianapolis last Saturday by garnering a total of 36 1/2 points. Kokomo, another pre-meet favorite, was second with 17 1/2 and Tech of Indianapolis was third with 12 points. South Side was the only Fort Wayne high school to place as the result of a first place in the half mile won by Dick Bell.

Three state track marks were shattered in the meet. Fowlkes, Muncie, clipped off 1/10th of a second from the 100-yard dash record when he covered the distance in 9.9 seconds. Sears of Tech of Indianapolis cut the old mark of 2:03 for the half mile run down to 2:00.2. Muncie's half-mile relay team set a new mark of 1 minute 33 sec. for that event.

Wallace, Larwill star, led his team to sixth place in the meet by accounting for 9 points as the result of a first place in the high jump and a second in the pole vault.

Scores of the meet:

Froebel of Gary	36 1/2
Kokomo	17 1/2
Tech of Indianapolis	12
Muncie	10
Anderson	9 1/2
Larwill	9

Attend the Athletic Carnival Thursday.

ATHLETIC SHOW SCHEDULED FOR THURSDAY EVE

Work on New Activities in Department To Be Shown

TUMBLING STUNTS AND WRESTLING ON PROGRAM

Events Open to Public; Patrons, Students Urged to Come.

In order to introduce the new sports at North Side high school to the students and patrons of the school, an athletic carnival has been scheduled and planned by Coach Mark Bills for Thursday evening at 8 o'clock.

All students and all patrons are urged to attend the meeting. The program will be indicative of the new work as it is given in the regular classes and it will include tumbling stunts, wrestling, mass wrestling, boxing, mass boxing and mass games.

North Side is the only school in the city to have introduced these activities.

Tennis Team Journeys To Marion Through Non-Stop Rain Storm

Inspect Town and School, But Cannot Play Because of Weather; Rain Prevents Matches to Be Played.

"h, it ain't gonna rain no more, no more. Ain't gonna rain no more," sang the tennis team as they traveled southward toward Marion, Indiana. The farther we went the more it rained, but still we hoped and prayed we would not have to turn back. In the big town of Roanoke, twenty miles distant from the beautiful City of Rain, Miss Hilda Marie Schwehn, a member of our party, decided to phone the school of our destination to see if it was worth going on.

All our crowd including six junior girls and three underclassmen held breaths from twelve-thirty to twenty minutes till one. The answer to the call was this, "Come ahead; has not rained and the courts are in fine condition." All the way there we sang and drove through "Rain." When we reached Marion it was still raining. With hopes that it would soon quit we stayed around school, listened to their band, which played here recently, and were the object of many eyes. Perhaps those people thought some people are mighty dumb if they would go fifty miles to play a tennis match in the rain.

As for their school, it has a very beautiful setting on the top of a high hill. It is made of red brick and built on the square type with three floors, much on the order of Central High of this city. We don't seem to have much over on the students of that school for they too have red fords, some with novel color schemes, but I don't believe that they have any as original as "Effie."

The rain did not cease so with bag and baggage we went down town and as a result brought back many souvenirs. And on the homeward way we looked more like a pack of gypsies than a so-called tennis team.

At Huntington we stopped to eat in a soda fountain. Of course, no one was hungry and we all obeyed the sign, "Positively no dancing," signed by the proprietor. It was still raining when we left this city by the side of Little River. Here the two cars became separated and took different roads, but both landed at the same destination, Fort Wayne. Those who took the pleasant ride of 115 miles through the rain were: Maxine Salzer, Esther E. A. Nobles, Louise Shreve, Kathryn Suter, Margaret Erwin, Margaret Titus, Jane Korn, Catherine Zwick, Alta McNelly, Miss Schwehn, and Mr. Erwin, who was acting as trouble man, but was not bothered during the course of the drive. We surely had a good time, but we hope that when we play Marion there again it won't rain.

SOCIETY AND FEATURES

Have you ever wanted to take a peek at Spain? To really feel the romance that fills the atmosphere? To see a Spanish patio with palms and cool, inviting seats; to hear a delightful love song played on the guitar; to see the adorable senorita with her fancy mantilla dancing with the tambores?

If you have wished to visit Spain, all you will have to do is to come to our gymnasium Friday night and attend the first Junior Prom ever held at North Side High School.

Spanish shawls, balconies and all the splendors that make Spain what it is will be used in the very unique decorations.

The Misses Mary and Betty Granger will entertain with a dinner party tomorrow evening at the Fort Wayne Country Club. Those invited to attend from North Side are Frances Cook, Phyllis Lines, Mary Margaret Vesey, Jane Emrick, Jeanette Popp, and Charlotte Latker.

Elgin Jordan spent the week-end in Louisville, Kentucky, where he attended the Derby.

Miss Margaret Smenner spent the week-end at Bloomington, Indiana, where she attended the Kappa Kappa Gamma sorority dance at Indiana University.

Miss Mercedes Janet Hurst spent the week-end at Peru, Indiana, where she was the guest of her parents.

Miss Norma Johnston recently entertained the members of her club at her home on Archer avenue. During the evening pinochle was played, after which prizes were awarded for the high scores. Later a dainty luncheon was served to the guests.

A member of the Prom committee.

"The Last Lap Is On" - Days and Nights Are Filled With Big Events

Activities Fill Social Calendar of Underclassmen as Well as Seniors; Busy Season Is in Full Swing.

The race is nearly over—everyone is excited, thrilled, expectant, wondering what the last lap will bring. Now the last lap is on—Only nine more days of this year at dear old North Side High. For the seniors those nine days will be filled with events in their honor.

Tonight the public speaking classes of all three schools will attend a banquet at the Woman's Club.

On Saturday night the first Junior Prom at North Side will be held in the school gym, which will be transformed into a Spanish patio.

June 2 the Northerner staff will picnic at Potawatomi Inn Lake James. Baccalaureate will be held Sunday morning at 8:15 at Trinity Lutheran church.

The Monday following the seniors of Northside and Central will hold a frolic in the North Side gymnasium. Student Players picnic, Lake Wawasee June 6 for the members of the Central and Northside clubs.

Math-Science Club Has a Real Picnic

Did we have a picnic? I'll say we did! About fifty of us. I'll not mention any names for it probably is not necessary. Everyone you saw limping around on Wednesday had probably been taking part in the strenuous games. The fun we had was worth the sore muscles, however.

The committee who had charge of the affair deserved much credit for the capable way it was handled. The sentiments of all were that three miles east of New Haven is an ideal spot for a picnic.

The ice-cream furnished by the club was much appreciated and the marshmallow roast was a fine ending to a good time.

"POLLY WITH A PAST" PROVES POPULAR

Record Crowd Witnesses Efforts of Students.

"Polly With a Past," the Central high school senior play, which was given in the North Side auditorium Thursday and Friday nights, certainly went over big. Both nights record crowds were in attendance.

The cast, under the direction of Miss Marjorie Suter, certainly deserves loads of credit. The plot in itself was very cleverly carried out, and the characters in the play were exceptionally well portrayed. Members of the cast and their roles were:

Mary Shields...	Polly Shannon
Maurice Glock...	Harry Richardson
Mary Thayer...	Myrtle Davis
Jack Kitch...	Clay Callum
William Crane...	Rex Van Zile
Helen Preen...	Mrs. Van Zile
Helen Davis...	Mrs. Davies
Wayne Link...	Stiles
William Rhamy...	Prentice Van Zile
Sol Rothburg...	Petrowski
Thoburn Wiant...

Commodore "Bob" Parker, Susange Ivins, Parker, a maid

Under the direction of Mr. Stanley Teel, popular and classical music was played before the show and between acts.

BERTHA B. JOHNSON HEADS GIRL RESERVES

At the last meeting of the Girl Reserves the semi-annual election was held. The new officers are as follows: President, Bertha Belle Johnson; vice-president, Elaine Rummel; secretary, Vivian Shondel; treasurer, Dorothy Helling.

We are sure that the club will prosper under such splendid girls and our faithful advisor, Miss Huffman and Miss Auman.

Every North Side Student Urged To Visit Sunny Spain Saturday Evening

Everything Has Been Done To Make Junior Prom Enjoyable; Gardner's Orchestra for Dancing.

"It won't be long now." Final plans have been completed by the committees in charge. Every member has been working industriously to make this the largest dance in the history of North Side. The setting is to be in Spain. There will be a moon, some stars, 'n' everything. Beautiful girls and handsome men will be in attendance. However, music will not be furnished by Spanish guitars, but by Earl Gardner's eight-piece orchestra.

This is probably the first time a trip to Spain has been offered for $1.50. While there will be no bull fights, or duels, everything has been planned to insure everyone a good time.

The dancing starts at 8:30 and lasts to 12:00. There will be intermissions, in which dancers from Jean Ward's Stage Door Studio will present several novelty dances. The exercise rooms will be converted into lounging rooms, for those who do not wish to spend all their time dancing. Every comfort is assured.

The affair is semi-formal. It is the first programme dance to be given at North Side. Students from all the city high schools are invited. Everyone should avail himself of this opportunity to see old Spain.

Margaret Umbach Wins Cup

Valedictorian of Class Is Awarded English Cup For Highest Grade

Examination Is Given—Mary Steiner's Grade Takes Second In the Contest.

Margaret Umbach is surely the deserving Senior. She has succeeded in getting the highest grade in the examination for the English contest. There were twelve students who took the examination, which lasted for one and one-half hours. This examination was similar to that of a college entrance exam, and was very difficult. The questions for the examination were made out by Miss Cromer, and Mr. Dickinson. The papers were graded by Miss Cromer, who then gave them to Mr. Null, head of English department at South Side, and also supervisor of English in the grades. Mr. Null made the final decision, which was awarded to Margaret Umbach.

Mary Steiner's paper was very close to that of Margaret's, and Rex Mounsey and Lorena Fann did very well also.

Besides winning the English award, Margaret is valedictorian of the senior class, which proves that English is not her only subject. She received her foundation for English in the grades at St. Paul's Lutheran school, and then she went to Central, where she was a student for three years, and she came to North Side for her last year, where she has made a name for herself, due to her good scholastic standing.

During her high school career she has had many different teachers, and the most outstanding are Miss Cromer, whom she had part of her senior year; Mr. Dickenson, whom she had for three semesters. Besides her school work, she was a prominent member of the Quill Club, and the editor-in-chief of the Northerner.

Margaret, you are now entering upon the road of life, and we surely hope that you will continue on with this good work, and wish you all the success in the world.

ART EXHIBIT DRAWS LARGE CROWD

Work Is Still on Exhibition in Room 312

The Art Club was very much pleased with the attendance at the art exhibit given Thursday afternoon. Over seventy-five guests made up of parents and friends were present. Music was furnished by Mary Steiner and Dorothy Helling and refreshments served by members of the club. The exhibit will be up in room 312 until the end of the week.

Schedules For Closing of School Announced By Principal Northrop

Seniors Leave Today, but Regular Classes Will Be Held for Other Students Part of Next Week

Plans for the closing week of school have been announced by Principal M. H. Northrop. Today marks the end of a four-year high school course for the graduates, but the underclassmen have to report for some classes next week. And it's then that the mighty juniors get the first feeling of reigning power in the high school realm.

Classes will be conducted Monday on the regular schedule, and the Tuesday morning classes will meet as usual; however, school will be dismissed in the afternoon for commencement. Tuesday afternoon classes will recite Wednesday morning.

So that all those rules "won't be Greek and so that no one need miss any classes the following chart of the schedule is made:

Classes as usual.
Assembly at 10 o'clock.
Seniors will secure grades at the close of periods.
Seniors may turn in locks at 3:15 (storage room).

PLANS ARE COMPLETED FOR ANNUAL FROLIC

All plans have been completed for a rollicking good time Monday night when the seniors, parents of seniors and faculty members of both Central and North Side high schools join in the annual senior frolic at the North Side high school gymnasium.

Clever invitations were issued last week and a large crowd is expected to attend the affair. The Senior Frolic is sponsored by the parent-teachers' associations of the two schools. Mrs. A. C. Richard is president of the North Side organization and Mrs. Frank Stouder is president of the Central group.

A most interesting program has been scheduled for the frolic. During the first part of the evening games will be played to get the students, patrons and teachers together. There may be dancing later in the evening. Mrs. Richard said. Refreshments will be served and favors will be given to everyone.

Speakers For Graduates

Reverend Paul Kraus

Dr. Howard E. Jensen of Butler University has been selected to give the address for the North Side high school commencement on Tuesday, June 5.

The Reverend Paul Kraus will give the Baccalaureate sermon at the Trinity English Lutheran Church on Sunday morning at 10:45. The Rev. Mr. Kraus needs no introduction to the students of the school, as he is picked as a general favorite of the entire student body.

The subject of Mr. Kraus' address to the graduating class will be: Special music has been planned for the services.

TRI KAPPAS OFFER SCHOLARSHIP TO SENIOR

Fund of $300 Available to Girl Graduate

ONE GIRL OF SCHOOLS TO RECEIVE OTHER AWARD

Local Chapter of Sorority Sponsors Award

The local chapter of the Kappa Kappa Sorority is offering the graduating girls of the three high schools of the city a scholarship fund. This fund is of any amount up to $300, and no interest is to be charged. Mrs. Wilson, who is president of the local chapter, stressed the point that the loan is for as long a time as is needed.

Any girl of North Side who is interested in this scholarship fund should see Miss Reynard about it immediately.

The sorority is also offering a $300 scholarship to one girl to be selected from the three high schools. The deans of the three schools will very likely form the committee that will choose the lucky girl. Naturally we hope a North Side girl will be the lucky one.

ATHLETIC CARNIVAL GOES OVER BIG

Nearly 300 Attend the Exhibition in Gym

Nearly 300 people attended the athletic show which was held Thursday evening in the North Side gym. The program was indicative of the new work as it is given in the regular classes under Coach Mark Bills. The work included tumbling stunts, wrestling, mass wrestling, boxing, mass boxing and mass games. North Side is the only school in the city to have introduced these activities. Although this work was done by amateurs it was very interesting and interested a great many people who attended.

Mr. Hewitt Plays Over Station WOWO

Last Thursday night, "Woody" Shriver's orchestra, of which Mr. Hewitt is a member, was on the air over WOWO from 9 to 10:30. This was the premier appearance of this orchestra over the radio, and before their time was up they had received seventy-nine telephone calls, either of congratulation or asking for request numbers.

FULL WEEK OF ACTIVITIES FOR LAST DAYS

Seniors To Leave High School Today.

BACCALAUREATE ON SUNDAY MORNING

Commencement Tuesday; Frolic on Monday.

The last week of school will be full of activities for the seniors. It will be their last and probably the happiest week in high school. It will be the week when all the treasured snaps will be taken of loved friends who will each have his road to take when leaving school. Let us hope that each and every senior will never forget this last week of school, and it will be held in their memories as a treasure, as it will be to the coming classes, who will remember "Our Class," as the beginning of North Side's History and as the first graduating class.

June 1 is the final attendance day for the seniors, and on that day they will receive their final grades, and also their caps and gowns. On June 3 the baccalaureate services will be held at the Trinity English Lutheran church at 10:45 a. m. June 4 school will again be in session for the underclassmen, and at 8:00 in the evening the Senior Frolic will be held for North Side and Central seniors. June 5 at 2:30 in the afternoon the commencement exercises will be held in our auditorium. June 6 will be the commencement dance, the last scholastic, social affair for the seniors.

There are many other activities that the seniors will have. The great majority of seniors will attend South Side and Central senior dances to be held on Tuesday and Thursday, respectively. Besides these are the countless private social affairs. Seniors, make this your big week before you step out into the world to take your part in life acting as men and women of today!

Girls' Athletic Assn. To Put On Program

The Girls' Athletic Association is going to put on a very clever and interesting program for the Parent Teachers Club on Friday evening at 8:00 o'clock.

The program is to consist of a resume of athletic work done in the girls' department throughout the year. Those who are taking special parts in the dancing are Velma Mason, Jean Pitts, Mary Jane Scott, Mary Margaret Vesey, and Jane Nelson.

Social Season To Close With Big Commencement Dance

Jack Ferris Southern Indiana Orchestra To Play; Plenty of Pep To Be in Evidence.

The most important social affair of the entire school year is to be held Wednesday, June 6, in the gym. This is North Side's farewell to its first graduating class and a record breaking crowd is expected.

The committees have been working extremely hard for a long time making this final dance a very unusual and extremely beautiful affair.

Jack Ferris' Southern Indiana orchestra of eight pieces has been secured for the big event. This orchestra has proved highly popular among the younger social sets of the city.

The unique favors and programs have been selected to correspond with the general plan of decoration.

The chaperones will be Mr. and Mrs. Northrop, Miss Reynard, Miss Cromer, Miss Schwehn, Mr. and Mrs. Pennington, Mr. Kimes, Mr. Dickenson, Mr. and Mrs. Koenig, Mr. and Mrs. Smenner.

The general plan of the dance is being kept a secret, but everyone is as-

Birdseye View of the Class of '28 in Year 1935

- This is the last and most interesting chapter of our high school career. We have become dignified (?) senior now and have realized the importance of our high school education. Although we are all looking forward to commencement with great anticipation, we hate to think of leaving this school, that has sheltered us during our last and most interesting year.
- All seniors have a future, and I shall try to give you a picture of the future occupation of the first graduates of your new North Side High School.
- At New Haven—On Broadway—Durward Allen, noted evangelist, accompanied by his accomplished song bird, Donald Elder, is meeting with great success. Margaret Smenner holds down the court house corner with a soap box as a woman socialistic political orator. Robert Brosius was appointed, by the Honorable Mayor Glen Hoenig to wind the court house clock every twenty-four hours. Alma King is a very noted dressmaker in this prominent city, having her "Shoppe" on the 12th story of the $10,000 Woolworth Building.
- Chicago—Main Street—Edward Ford has recently been appointed care-taker of the Orphan's Home for all stray dogs and cats. Doris Hutchinson—human fly—climbs the new Kresge Building for her morning exercise. By the way she is attaining unusual heights. The Barnum & Bailey Circus is just passing down the street, featuring Thelma Henderson as fat lady, and Paul Haberly is carrying elephants' trunks. Clue Ferguson is the funniest of all the clowns and Helene Grummons is making stump speeches trying to sell the new book entitled "The Disadvantages of Being Modern."
- with LaVerne Fritz as her able assistant sales manager.
- ODE TO THE GUM-CHEWER
- Chew — Chew — Chew.
From dawn till late at night,
A sort of perpetual motion—
It surely is a fright.
A chew — a look
A chew — a word
A chew — a book
Two chews — a third.
- It's a habit no more
It's a joke not at all,—
You get to expect it—
(A cat with its ball).
They're a class by themselves
A great many—nto few—
Who seem actually void
If they don't have a chew.
Round innocent eyes—
Mild, passive expression—
Not the sort of a face
To create an impression.
- Yet there's something
Attracting attention,
And we force our gaze
On her stead of declension.
- A flexible jaw
Is it beautiful that make her seem,
Just like a Greek?
What is it? What is it?
That catches our glance?
It isn't her spectacles
Is it—by chance.
- I have it! I have it! Eureka—say I—
It's a movement an action wherein the charmers lie—
A slight upward motion—
A row of white teeth—
A click, a clump and down again,
A pause now—to breathe.

COMMENCEMENT

Graduation from high school signifies the commencement of many things. With it comes the commencement of a new relation with the world—commencement of responsibilities, privileges, and duties of fending for oneself in this great world.

It is a time for joy and for regret, in which joy should have the greater part. It is hard to break old ties and a sad occasion when something which has been a vital part of one's life is discontinued forever. However, graduation from high school means the completion of long years of hard though pleasant study. It should be a happy occasion as it marks the time when boys and girls are considered fitted to face the world for themselves and mould their own lives.

We think of graduation as a time when friends who have spent many years of their lives together set out upon different roads to find out what life holds for them. It makes one feel lonely to think that he must work for himself. However, these people who have been working, studying, playing together, do not really cease doing so after graduation. They are only in a wider field. Each may be doing a different sort of work, but all are striving toward the same end—to make a living, to solve the problems of the world.

The world is not really such a large place, after all. We see people going about their work every day and it seems as though their lives are very different from ours. When we come to know them more intimately, however, we find that they have the same joys and sorrows, the same difficulties to overcome as we have, though they may occur in different forms. Everyone is working for the same thing after all. Life has two purposes—one to get as much cheerful work and play as possible, the other to help others have a pleasant life.

ATHLETIC SHOW

Strong bodies are important in the struggle for success in this life. Anything which will encourage the development of health is to be highly commended.

In the ordinary school sports only those who show great ability can participate. The athletic shows given by the boys and girls gym classes prove that there is a way in which a great number, if not all, of the students in school may take part in sports which have been made so attractive that everyone will want to take part in them.

These new activities train one to control his muscles and to make them coordinate with his mind. This accomplishment has often proved a valuable asset in crises.

You may kill time, but that won't prevent tomorrow from bobbing up as usual.

North Siders "Hang One On The Kellys" In Golf Game At Lake

Clear Lake Match Is Victorious for the Redskins with a Score of 14-3 over the South Side School

It was a great game, and the faculty golfers did hang one on the Kellys at the golf meet at Clear Lake Saturday by winning 14-3.

Much excitement had been aroused about the game ever since the South Side pedagogues challenged the Redskins faculty members. And although the Northerner players tried to appear nonchalant about the whole affair, they let slip a phrase once in a while that went to prove they were a bit restless about the whole affair. For example, one day in the hall Hyrie Ivy was heard to remark to Chambers "If I can only hit those babies!"

The South Siders have been practicing, they've even taken lessons from the Pro—but well we'll not say all the Redskins did. Anyway they came home with victory and need you ask them? Not much.

It must have been a most unusual game, no "lying," no cheating, but nothing was said about the "terminology" of the game.

"More balls were lost and more sod picked up," according to reports broadcast from Clear Lake. Chambers, lost two, found none; Northrop, lost two, found two—broke even. Those are just a few of the outstanding statistics. Then there's worse troubles. Chambers, in his great anxiety to win from Davis (one of the outstanding South Side players), struck a whale of a stroke, and alas! the club broke.

The game was scored on the basis of nine holes. Eighteen holes were played by each team. The person winning each nine scored one point, and the person with the lowest score of the eighteen scored one.

Here's the lineup and final scores:

North Side	South Side
R. P. Chambers 3	Davis 0
M. H. Northrop 2	Schaefer 0
Hyrie Ivy 3	Hull 0
Mark Bills 3	Snyder 0
Sidell 0	Gilbert 3
E. L. Pennington 2	Weiborn 1
	14

Letter Exposes Whereabouts of Classmate Otto L. Slush

Old Time Northsider Runs Into Old Classmates in Divers Parts of This Old Sphere.

Mars, Universe, September 89, 1948.

Dear Ed:

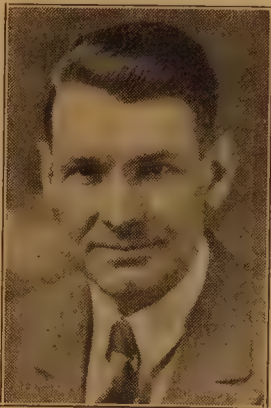

Well, here I am at last writing you a big long letter after twenty years of hard work. Remember the good old days back at North Side? Well, I want to tell you about a few of the kids I saw lately. Do you remember that job I was supposed to get in Detroit, painting whiskers on Fords and making Lincolns out of them? Well, I was just flying home from there the other day with my pilot, Sam Landin, and my attendants, Carl Buecker and George Patterson, when I saw about three miles down a red lizzie-plane. Yep, it was Paul Haberly, and, of course, Bill Schelman was with him. By radio he said he had been visiting Betty Moyer and Jean Pitta. They are now living in Naples with Lella Smith (I suppose you remember Art Penrod), Helen Woodruff, Norma Johnston and Lucile Beber.

After I got home I went to the new show that was just opened up by Harry Snoke (the can-opener king). Who do you think was driving the taxi that took me to the show? Frankie Nicklas. I saw the most beautifully uniformed doorman and when he turned around it was Donald Elder. I recognized quite a few of the ushers. Among them were Lee Roy Blough, Glenn Hoemig, and Gale Long. The picture was good. I was surprised to see John McMeen. He ran the projection machine. The feature players were "Honey-face" Oral Padonna Delaney and that "Schoolboy Sheik", Clyde Wilkinson. Afterwards came the vodvil. It was written by Imogene Brooks and it certainly did sound like it. It consisted of a spring dance and a Bowery dance by that famous team, Bob Brosius and Deloras Spahr (those high school chums). They were accompanied by Helen Gebhart, who sang the piano and played a few songs. This was so good that I had to leave. I went in Chris Eby's Drug Store and guess who was at the soda fountain, jerkin' sodas? None other than Frances Cook, for whom we all had such high hopes. I received the shock of my life when I saw Margaret Smenner scrubbing the floors with some of Margaret Umbach's "soap-less" soap powder. In the window of the drug store was a man demonstrating Elizabeth Rippel's pretzel varnish. The man was Bob Walsh, well-known pretzel varnisher and toreador. As I was walking around town I noticed in the church that Mel Koenig and Glorvina Young were being married by the Rev. Rex Mounsey. The bridesmaids were Lois Evans, William Harold Walker, and Mary Miller. On the court house steps was a woman evangelist giving a very vehement and heated soap-box oration. On second glance I saw that it was Alma King. Walking toward the dock, I saw an old sailor with a stuffed canary in his hand. Do you remember the sailor in the play, Durward Allen? That was him. He said he was working on Thelma Henderson's ship (a rowboat). We were interrupted in our conversation by a big policeman who proved to be Bill Schellenbach. He was arresting a bum in the street. They took him to a barber shop to be identified, and when he was shaved we saw Bob Beverforden, who said he was running a basketball errand for Lois Duesler. I received the surprise of my life when I bumped into Maggie Berghoff. She's married now and she invited me out to see the double XX's. I got tired of staying in town so I went to the park and bought a hot dog from Helen, Davis, who was yelling her line about dogs. There was the hottest piano player out there. They told me that was the famous Harriett Derek. I talked with her a little while and she said that Evelyn Juergens was still studying Civics and was going into the movies disguised as Lon Chaney or the Civics Shark. She said Ruth Beckman went to Saturn and saw stars.

By this time I was pretty tired, so I jumped in my plane and told Sam to take me back to Detroit. While flying back I saw Mary Steiner, who was playing like an angel hanging on wires. I almost got upset three times

Faculty Advisors

E. L. Pennington

"Fore!"

And E. L. Pennington, faculty advisor for the Senior Class of 1928, scored about 300 yards, but that drive is only indicative of the way Mr. Pennington has "gone across" at North Side high school during his first year in Fort Wayne.

But before we get clear away from golf we just must tell a story that Mrs. Pennington tells on her husband. Here it is: Before coming to Fort Wayne the Penningtons were informed that they would have to learn to play golf as this was a "golf crazy" city. But E. L. scoffed at the idea, claiming he wanted a "real game." Now the joke of the whole situation is in the fact that Mr. Pennington is an ardent golf fan—and a real citizen of Fort Wayne.

As a class advisor Mr. Pennington has been willing to help in any activity in the interests of the class, and his work has been greatly appreciated by the class. As a teacher he has been most heartily praised. He has a most genial personality that is bound to win the friendship of students, and his sincerity and worth-while attitude keep his friends. He is well qualified for the position he holds. He was graduated from Earlham college with a major in mathematics, and he has taken his postgraduate work at Indiana University.

Football is his favorite sport, but he enjoys most any kind of good athletic contest. He made his letter in baseball while in college. He likes to read, and likes good music, but most of all, he likes good food—pies, strawberry shortcake.

by Sadie May Woods and once when I was in a ditch I had to call a garage man. When I saw that it was Ted McNeley we had a good chat.

My stenographer, Alice Lee Ward, says she is getting tired, so I think I'll have to quit. I just want to say, though, that I say Helen Trempe and Evelyn Beerman flying home from a ride. Doris Blasing told me the next day that Wealtha Carrel said that she heard that Lorena Fann knew a lady that saw that great inventor, Clue Ferguson, invented an invention for inventing inventions. He lives down next to Helene Grummos's and once he blew the place up so high that it fell down on Doris Hutchinson's house and hurt Laverne Fritz, who is the housemaid. Glad to hear you got that job splitting peas in a split-pea factory. Let me hear from you soon if not sooner.

Yours for the old class of '28,
Herb.

Miss Schwehn

Miss Schwehn, as one of the advisors of the senior class, has proved her worth to the school.

She was a graduate of Central High and later attended the Battle Creek Physical Education School. After completing her course there, she attended Olivet College, from which she graduated in June, 1922.

She was advisor for the '27 class throughout their four years of high school.

C. M. T. C. DRAWS ELEVEN NORTH SIDE STUDENTS

Indiana's Quota for Summer Almost Filled

NOTED ATHLETES VOICE OPINIONS OF WORK

Students Who Want to Sign up to See Mr. Risk

The quota for the state of Indiana is almost filled. Last Friday, May 25, only 200 more were needed in the state, and as soon as those 200 are enrolled then no other applications will be considered for this year. Better hurry, if you are anticipating going to the C. M. T. Camp at Fort Benjamin Harrison.

The following boys from North Side high school have signed up to go: Jack Deeley, Arthur Hofer, Paul Stout, Alvah Squires, Richard Gallimore, Bernard Smith, Carl Jacobs, Alvey Henning, Arthur King, and Charles Pierce.

Following is what a few noted athletes have to say about C. M. T. Camps:

Babe Ruth says: "The rst essential to success in any activity is good health. The C. M. T. C. with their supervised athletic exercises in the open air are health builders. Besides, they teach our young men the fundamen-als of real American citizenship and therefore strongly appeal to me."

Gene Tunney says, "The C. M. T. C. incalculably benefits young men mentally, morally and physically. The 30 days in the open relieve the indoor man from his cares and worries of business and keep the athlete on his toes for his future contests."

Wm. T. Hilden, Jr., says, "I take great pleasure in indorsing the C. M. T. C. Those who enroll will derive material benefits physically and mentally. They prepare a young man to serve his country not only in an emergency but to perform his everyday life of business and sport with greater vigor."

Any student who wants to sign up now is asked to see Mr. Risk.

Vacation in the Study Hall

In the study hall
My thoughts would creep and crawl
Over lessons, large and small.
But that was in the fall
When I studied
In the study hall.

In the study hall
My thoughts now stay and wander
As on vacation times I ponder.
Happy thoughts grow fonder
For now I never study
In the study hall.

In the study hall.
In the back seat by the wall,
I won't be there at all
To hear the old roll call;
Vacation in the two weeks more,
In the study hall.

Destinies of Seniors Foretold

Columbus, Ohio—On the roof gardens of Marshall Fields stands Helen Gebhart demurely singing "Charlie, My Boy." Evelyn Juergens and Norma Johnston are soliciting from house to house selling the latest "Modern Youth Book." Gale Long is broadcasting over Station WHT on "Why One Should Stay Awake in English Classes." Melvin Koenig is very successful as a movie hero. His last picture was "How He Made Dill Pickles Sweet."

Gary—The great costume designer for all the '28s' trousseaus is the Miss Doris Blaising. The great scientists of this state are the Miss Mary E. Erwin and Lois Duesler, who have just discovered why dandelions grow wild and why ducks have water-proof feathers. Chris Eby and Samuel Landin have opened a New Hot Dog Stand.

Kalamazoo—Lucile Beber is charming her audiences in this wide-awake town with her wonderful music, which she wrings from her dish-rag. Mary Miller is advertising "Golden Glint," in the D. & N. Drugstore. Elizabeth Moyer is acting as a lawyer for the defendant, Arthur Penrod, in a breach of promise suit brought against him by Lela Smith.

Michigan City—Frank Nicklas is appearing in the Great Drama of the day, "The Killer of the Mosquitoes," and the leading lady of course is the red-headed gal, Helen Woodruff. George Patterson is mayor of the city. (You know it is all wet.) Robert Walsh is the most efficient of salesmen for the "Great Dog Biscuits" factory. Herbert Vigran took first prize, for being the cleverest of Flea Trainers.

St. Augustine, Florida — Elizabeth Rippel is singing at the wedding of Alice Lee Ward. We are not quite sure whether we recognize the groom or not (_____). Harry Snoke has just painted a portrait of the renowned social leader, Helen Trempe. Miss Margaret Umbach is one of the better-known members of the famous class of '28 who is heading the drive against "Better Schools."

Boston, Massachusetts—Miss Jeanette Pitts is singing in the opera, "Nero My Dog Has Fleas." Harold Walker is the leader of a rebellion for "English Tests" (especially in a certain English teacher's room (we wonder who?) Dolores Spahr is a living example of "How to Keep That Girlish Figure" (and how?)

Richmond—Mary Steiner is the head of the State Insane Asylum for her former schoolmates. LeRoy Blough is leading a very busy but boring life preserving that "school girl complexion." Imogene Brooks conducts a gymnasium for mental paralytics and some of the patrons are William Scheiman and Helen Davis.

New York City—Frances Cook is seen on the board walk posing for advertisements for "Holey Hosiery." Carl Buecker is stage manager of the "Theater." Ruth Beckman is champion writer of the Dorothy Dix column in the New York Daily. Evelyn Beerman slings hash in a chop suey shop run by Robert Beverforden.

Phoenix—Margaret Berghoff is the greatest of dancers of the present time. She is so feminine in her entire make-up. Wealtha Carrel is running a school which proffers its graduates a degree of D. W. (domesticated woman). Oral DeLancey is chief cook and bottle washer in the above institution. Harriet Derck is engaged in writing

ED FORD, '28, GETS AWARD OF GOLD KEY FOR PRIZE

Business Manager of the Paper Gets Pin

DEPENDABILITY BIG FACTOR IN THE AWARD

Manager Has Placed Publication on Sound Basis

Ed Ford, '28, has been given the Journalism award for the year 1928. The award is a small gold key, with the name of the publication on one a very thoughtful book on "How to Make Lemons Sweet."

Kansas City—Louis is employed as secretary to Senator Clyde Wilkinson. John McMeen, Jr., and Ted McNeiley are engaged in carrying signs down the main streets of Kansas. (This is a very worth-while advertising scheme due to their six-foot height.) (Rex Mounsey is chief proprietor of an asparagus farm. William Schellenbach is running for deputy sheriff. (We hope he gets it, for he is running, and he might get all tired.)

Glorvina Young is the wife of a prominent lawyer of this city. (We wonder WHO?) Sadie May Woods is the head of the swimming department of N. S. H. S. Lorena Fann is editor of the Literary Digest.

side and the name of the recipient and the date on the back of it.

Ed took over the business manager's position at the beginning of the second semester, and since that time has made the publication a complete financial success. In every way his work has been most satisfactory. Anyone who knows Ed knows that he is dependable, accurate and has executive ability. Those are just a few of his outstanding good points.

Ed Ford

Ed attended Howe Military Academy last year. He has been most active in high school affairs. He is a member of Boosters Club, Student Players, Press Club and was manager of the debating teams, besides his work on the Northerner.

A Bit of History

In September, 1924, we, as Freshmen, cautiously opened the doors of Central High School, and timidly walked in, looking for that awful Room 1 or Session Room, of which we had heard so much about. After having settled ourselves in those desks of beautiful carvings we waited to hear what Mrs. Clark had to say. She told us how to act and what to do now that we belonged to that illustrious Central High School. Then Miss Lewis was introduced as a new member of the faculty and as Dean of the school. When we heard the word Dean we looked at her in awe and thought how big we were that we had a DEAN. Thus began our Freshman year.

Soon after the beginning of the semester we elected Park Drayer president, etc.

Since the Freshmen were not allowed to have dances we had a wonderful picnic. Mr. Sur guided us through our troubles. We chose King's Blue and Gray for our colors.

During our Sophomore year we were a pretty quiet bunch, but we made quite a bit of money and gave a party which was a huge success. This party put us on the map and everyone realized there was a '28 class.

We were beginning to feel a little superior over the Freshmen by now and our class was growing in spirit and ambition. As our Sophomore officers we elected Wayne Link president, Mary Thayer vice-president, Mary Erwin secretary-treasurer, and Madeline Cromwell, Jack Kitch, and Sol Rothberg as the Social Council. This year Miss Storr and Mark Billis piloted our class. A Soph is a Wise Fool and our class surely had some Wise Ones.

Next came our Junior year, which was the greatest of all years for the class of 1928 of Central HI, for no one thought the '28 class would be divided. With Thoburn Wiant as president, Madeline Cromwell as vice-president, Bill Rhamy as secretary-treasurer, and Janet Egly, Paul Aumann, and Mary Thayer as the social council, and last but not least Miss Storr and Mr. Mathews as our advisors, we were some PEPPY crowd. (How could it be otherwise with such officers!)

The Junior Prom was the big affair of our year. It was held at the Moose ball room and went over big. Our class was so prosperous that we gave an entertainment and dance combined for the Seniors. This ended our never-to-be-forgotten Junior year and now we were ready to take one more step to the goal for which we had waited so long.

At this point was the great divide in the class of '28. The new North Side High was completed and our class was to be divided in its Senior year. This was looked upon as an advantage for those who went to N. S., but it also had its disadvantages. We gained much but paid for a great deal. The '28s at N. S. still love dear old Central and always will put her down along with N. S. We had great tasks to perform in this school. Clubs were formed, athletics were started, a weekly publication was put out, and the Seniors worked hard to make these the best in the city. Although we Seniors were told how much more we could have done, we certainly tried to do our best under our handicap. We named our weekly paper the Northerner and put into it all that was possible. Our purpose was to bring to the students and faculty such school news as they are not likely to get except through the school paper, to create

Furnace Coils are Wasteful

Heating engineers have proved beyond question that the hot water coil in your furnace eats up at least 20 per cent of your coal. In other words, with such a coil, heating your home is 20 per cent more expensive.

Now that you have let the furnace go out for the season and obtaining hot water is something of a problem, resolve to let a HOTZONE SELF-ACTING GAS WATER HEATER save you that extra fifth in your fuel bill. It will give you a year 'round, reliable supply of hot water for dish washing, cleaning, the bath room and your many other daily needs. Hot water, thus provided, is instantaneous—there's no waiting—and it costs only a few cents a day.

Who I Would Like to Be If I Weren't Who I Am, and Why!

Look out folks! Don't get your tongue twisted when you repeat this headline. Many of us can remember when we were but wee tots (we're grown-ups now—ahem!) and envied various prominent people. (At least we considered them prominent). We can distinctly recall when we visited the circus. Many of us longed to be an acrobat, lion-tamer, bare-back rider or a tight rope walker. There are very few people on this earth who are satisfied with who they are. So I have interviewed some of the high-minded, brilliant and prominent seniors of '28. If you want a good laugh—just read some of their high ideals and "would be's."

GALE LONG said: "I would like to be a street car conductor." I asked him why and he said, "Then I could sit down all day long. My secret ambition has always been that, so please don't tell it." Don't forget folks, in a few years we'll be buying our passes from Gale.

ALICE LEE WARD said: "Gee! I'd like to be Marion Davies. She's a great actress and usually plays opposite Richard Barthelmess." Who would have thought that of Alice? But we'll have to admit they would make a good looking couple.

DON ELDER said: "My greatest ambition is to be Cicero. Then I wouldn't have to translate my own Latin." We know that Don is rather lazy, but never thought he was that bad. After all, who can show their love for Cicero any plainer? We all understand why Don has to sleep in every class—Cicero.

LORENA FANN said: "I'd love to be Miss Suter. I would love to be her type of person. I like Dramatics." This is surprising from Lorena. Who ever thought of her as being dramatic? You can never tell what some people will do. They say that still water runs deep.

HELEN WOODRUFF wants to be a married woman. She says "Well, just so I can loaf all day and spend money." Listen folks, I'm going to let you in on a big secret. She hasn't told the half of it. We know a certain ideal around this school who is at the back of this. Don't be surprised—his initials are F. N.

TED MCNELLEY said: "I would like to be Santa Claus. I know I could grow big whiskers like his. I could use Geraldine (my Ford) and since she will make 15, easily cover the whole U. S. in one night and surprise all the little kiddies." Of course, we all know Ted would make a darling, fat, chubby Santa.

JOHN MCMEEN said: "I would like to be Ralph Ehrman and take myself out in the St. Joe and drown myself. Then I could have my own property to myself and not be bothered by other poor fish." Too bad that competition is so keen.

MAGGIE BERGHOFF said: "I can't imagine wanting to be anything but myself, but if you insist—I would like to be Anita Loos who wrote 'Gentlemen Prefer Blondes.' Then I know that I could be popular without doing such graceful dances." Most likely Orfus would agree with her.

LOIS DUESLER said: "I would like to be a queen of some large country. It would be fun to have someone wait on me all day—to give orders and take none." This gives us an idea of what Lois expects from her husband. Watch your step boys! Especially Paul.

BOB WALSH said: "I would like to be Mr. Northrop. Why? Because, then I could regulate the classes of these Freshmen who do so little work and get so fresh in the corridor. Also, none of the teachers could insult me for coming to class unprepared and I ask you would that not be nice?" We can all feature Bob a speaker—but what about a principal?

CLUE FERGUSON said: "I would like to be Napoleon. Then I could ride horses and climb mountains all day." We all know Clue pretty well—but who would have thought noisy Clue would acquire such marvelous ambitions?

FRANCES COOK said: "I would like to be the first woman President. If I couldn't be that—well, I might fly across the Atlantic—just to be different." Now we've got the side-line on Frances. Some day we'll say "President Cook."

ARTHUR PENROD said: "I want to be as good looking as John Robinson so that I can go with other fellows girls." That sounds bad—could it possibly be that Art is jealous? Johnny had better look out for his "good looks."

HARRIET DERCK said: "I would like to be Helen of Troy. Because I'd like to have a lot of fuss made over me." We realize from this that Harriet has always wanted to do big things in a big way. She is a self-starter.

MEL KOENIG said: "I would like to be Lincoln." I asked him why and he said, "Because he'd dead." Poor Mel, does he feel that badly over his love affairs? He'll never know how close he came to his wish a few weeks ago when he set the pater back a couple of bucks. Mel later added, "I want my picture on all the pennies."

HERBERT VIGRAN said: "I want to be Rip Van Winkle so I can sleep for twenty years." Maybe if Herbie wouldn't stay out so late he wouldn't need so much sleep.

LELLA SMITH said: "Ever since my two girl friends nearly died after eating a meal I cooked, I have wanted to become a REAL cook. It may come in handy some day." Come in handy? Well, I should say. We don't want Arthur to die as yet. Perhaps it would be wise to give them both lessons—in cooking.

ED FORD said: "I want to be a policeman so I can ride the street cars and not have to pay." Of course Ed isn't going to be stingy. He's just trying to save money for his future.

Most likely by now you are all wondering who I would like to be. As a matter of fact, I am quite particular. Prince Paul thinks I might make a second Marion Talley.

Office work seems to be the most popular with those who aren't going away to school. Those who have chosen stenography or office work are: Ruth Beckman, Dolores Spahr, Lois Evans, Evelyn Juergens, Lorena Fann, Doris Hutchinson, Evelyn Bearman, Lois Duesler, Mary Miller, Oral Delancy, and Lella Smith. Helen Trempe is going to take nurses' training. Glenn Hoemig has chosen work at the Tri-State. Clue Ferguson is going to take a radio course at the General Electric. Chris Eby is taking up banking. Clyde Wilkenson will take up electricity at the General Electric. Harold Walker is going to put his time on dancing. Others are undecided as to what they'll do. Ed Ford will finish his course in sociology and then write a book on etiquette.

Why couldn't you do this too?

LAST summer, before school was over, a group of high school boys made a resolution to turn every penny they earned during the summer months into a "college fund." When school was out, each boy found a job and it became a race to see which one would have the most money by the time their vacation was at an end.

When the summer was over, most of the boys had earned enough to pay for their tuition and books and have a little left over. The rest at least had a splendid start toward their education.

These boys are going to make their dream of a college education a reality. Why couldn't you do this too? The "College Fund" is an excellent means of attaining this goal and it teaches a lesson as valuable as any that you could learn in later years—the lesson of true thrift. Start your educational fund this summer.

Vacation spells rest and home to Miss Alexander. She says she will go spend the summer in Wabash, Ind., "her old home town."

Miss Auman hopes to spend the summer in Camp Yarnelle.

Miss Gertrude Beierlein and her sister expect to visit Bayview, Michigan, where they will "absorb the sunshine."

Mr. Bills and Mr. Cleaver are going to be really industrious this vacation. Each will work at his profession, no doubt "for the good of the community," or something of the sort."

Mr. Chambers expects to attend Indiana University this summer.

Hurrah! Mrs. Clark will take a trip—"points north"—in her Ford, providing "some fellow don't just run right into her."

Miss Cromer's "gonna stay home and rest." Good idea.

Miss Lucase is returning to her home at Kalamazoo and later hopes to visit Harvard.

Mr. Mathews is "goin' home to ole Kentucky," or to be precise, Lexington, Kentucky. Later he will take a trip east.

Miss Miller is planning to make some short trips out of Fort Wayne.

Miss Sinclair and Mr. Mosher are going to spend some time at Winona Lake "taking it all in." I suppose they mean knowledge.

Miss Pate will spend her vacation at her home in Loogootee, Indiana.

Mr. Pennington, Miss Huffman and Miss Furst "haven't any idea" what they're going to do.

Mr. Pring will be employed at the First National Bank for the summer.

Miss Reynard will go to her home in Union City, Indiana, as soon as school is out.

Mr. Schellschmidt, Mr. Hewitt, and Miss DeVilbiss are going to attend Madison (Wisconsin) University.

Miss Nelson will stay in Fort Wayne and "rest."

JUNIOR PROM IS BIG SUCCESS AT NORTH SIDE HI

Decorations Transform Gym to "a Bit of Spain"

STUDENTS FROM OTHER SCHOOL ATTEND

Jean Ward's Pupils Entertain the Crowd

Oh! look at that darling fountain!—"Aren't the decorations clever?"—"I just adore dancing in this Spanish patio!"—"Isn't the orchestra peppy?" These are only a very few of the remarks heard among the dancers at the first North Side Junior Prom. Not enough could be said about the prom—the gymnasium was transformed into a gorgeous Spanish patio. Blue skies—varied colored lights playing among the dancers, a merry fountain in the center of the spacious garden—trellises hung with dainty flowers in the pastel shades—oh, just everything that reminds one of beautiful, romantic Spain.

Earl Gardner's complete orchestra seemed to respond to the Spanish atmosphere and certainly played as they never had before—beautiful waltzes, peppy fox trots.

Pupils from Jean Ward's dancing school delighted the crowd with their Spanish and Gypsy dances.

Beautiful señoritas and handsome seniors all had a glorious time, and at the midnight hour when the affair was over everyone hated to leave, but all fun and pleasure must end and now the Junior prom is only a pleasant memory.

Many attended from other schools. Chaperons for the affair were Miss Reynard, Miss Gross, Mr. and Mrs. Eyster, and Mr. Pring.

PARENTS!

A Dissertation by Maggie Berghoff

Parents! What does the word bring to my mind? Guns! Great big guns! Nolsy guns, and lots of ammunition. Is that surprising? Well, maybe it is, but I would wager that more than one person would agree with me. The gentleman (I presume he was) who remarked "there is no place like home" said much more than he ever intended. Home is the battlefield; mother is the general; father is the cavalry; and little brother is the Scout. The battle is a case of perpetual motion. The dinner table is Flanders Field, and the radio is No Man's Land. The stage is set for action and plenty of action is guaranteed and usually supplied. Why go into detail about the horrible experiences? We all know them so well. Anyway, I started to write this theme, not about war, but about parents. The topics are so closely associated that it is excusable to get them mixed up.

Parents are the most complex apparatus on earth. They do and they don't; you can and you can't. A little boy is told he cannot go some place. He asks why. He is promptly slapped. I ask you, why?

Mr. and Mrs. Jones have a daughter, Mary. In a conversation between Mrs. Jones and a neighbor, we find Mary to be God's gift to suffering humanity. Mrs. Jones could not get along without her; she is a wonderful help, always so pleasant and so dependable. Has Mary any faults or bad habits?

Not a one! That is not any noticeable ones. She doesn't stay out late at night, etc., etc. In fact she's perfect. But wait a while. Stay for dinner. Listen to Mrs. Jones now. You won't recognize Mary. She is Mrs. Jones's curse and burden. Why, sometimes Mrs. Jones almost regrets Mary is her child. She isn't a bit of help; she's lazy. And such a disposition! There never was a child so pert and sassy. And the hours she keeps! She is never at home. She is continually running around to shows and dances. In fact, Mary is the original Peck's bad girl. Is Mrs. Jones a Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde? No, she is just a parent.

A Bit of History

ate wholesome school spirit and to entertain to a limited extent.

The Senior play, No. 17, was the crowning glory of our illustrious career in the school that none of us will ever forget. With Melvin Koenig as president, Mary Erwin as vice-president, Frank Nicklas as secretary-treasurer, and a social council composed of Frances Cook, Margaret Smenner,

Now as we look back and praise ourselves for the wonderful things we did, a peculiar feeling creeps over us and the thought flashes to our minds—now what? We will soon have our diplomas and bid our school farewell. Let us all hope that within our ranks are famous men and women in embryo and that the name of North Side High School will everlastingly be cherished by every one of the First Senior Class of N. S., who now takes to himself the title—Alumnus of the North Side High School of Fort Wayne.

Worthy deeds are here recorded Of the year that has departed. May future classes strive to exceed What you have read to be great deeds!
